AND in witness thereof has caused its seal and the signatures of its President and Secretary to be affixed hereto at Swampscott on the Thirteenth day of October, nineteen hundred and sixty-one.

Vincent P. O'Brien PRESIDENT

Charles A. Bisbee SECRETARY

Norma McKillop

When Norma (Carlton), Mrs. Walter F. McKillop passed away, on Monday, December 11, 1961, the town suffered, in truest sense, a great community loss.

Through nearly fifty years of residence here, Norma McKillop devoted a boundless energy and sincerity to a lifelong mission of helpfulness and service to her fellowman.

In every task she undertook, Norma's interest was personal and complete. As a member of the School Committee for nine years, beginning in 1933, she was a factual pioneer in the emergence of the present modern school system. Long before any form of recreation was provided for the youth of the town, Mrs. McKillop sponsored and conducted a Boys' Club. This project became the first seeding of the summer recreation and playground program of the local school system.

Coming to Lynnfield from Dorchester in 1914, she purchased the cottage near Pillings Pond which was remodeled as a permanent home after her marriage to Walter McKillop in 1919. In the two years prior to her marriage Norma Carlton had been in military service as a yeoman (F) United States Navy, stationed in Boston during World War I. In the founding days of the American Legion she joined the Bessie Edwards all women's Post in Boston and shortly thereafter affiliated with Lynnfield Post 131 where for many years she was the only woman member of the Post.

In the Legion, Norma found the means to amplify her interest in the welfare of all young people. First as Child Welfare chairman for Post 131, then Essex County, and finally Massachusetts. She moved into ever-expanding fields of service. Her thousands of hours of visitation and work in veterans' hospitals became a veritable legend of service to humanity.

In recognition of her devotion and service she was honored by life membership in the Legion, conferred by Post 131. To literally thousands of veterans throughout the nation she was "Norma."

But the town, the Legion was not the whole horizon for Norma McKillop. She was also an officer in the Auxiliary of the Legion and founder and director of the Peabody Memorial, which is maintained as a room in the Town Hall for storage of all manner of sickroom equipment which is loaned to residents of Lynnfield, free of charge. The memorial was Norma McKillop's personal tribute to the late Harold P. Peabody, and his long service to the town as a member of the School Committee.

Several years ago she organized a resident group to seek betterments for the Pillings Pond area and in some degree was able to interest community support of safety and protective improvements for the section.

There is no way of recounting fully the good works of Norma McKillop, for much that she did, she shielded in anonymity. Perhaps she best summed up her doctrine of life when in answer to tributes at a public testimonial, Norma replied: "I do what I can."

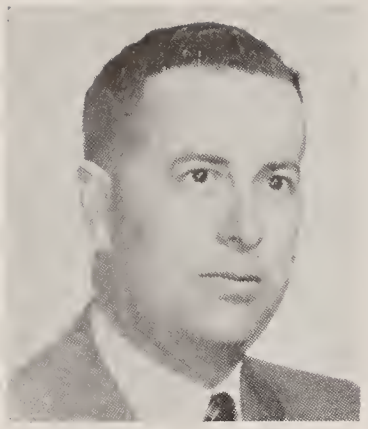
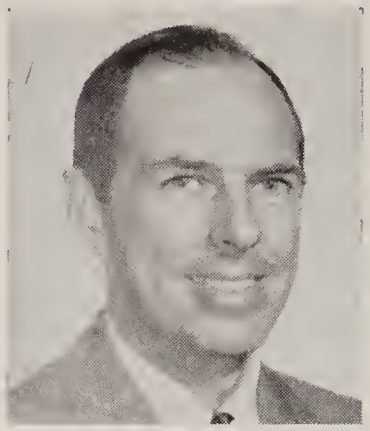
The Rev. William C. Whitcomb, pastor of the first Church of Lynnfield, attended the inaugural of President Lincoln who was a distant relative.

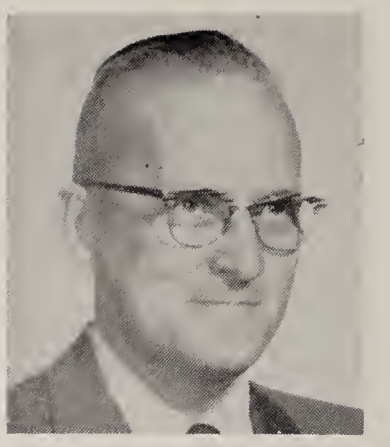
Board of Selectmen



Richard L. Hobbs



Mason J. Condon



Ralph E. Dwight

During the past year Lynnfield has continued its population growth, although at a proportionately slower rate than over the past number of years. However, building of homes continues unslackened in the King James Grant, Candlewood, Apple Hill and Sherwood Forest areas and two new areas have opened up on Walnut Street and South Main Street, known as Pine Knoll and Ridgefield, respectively.

The requirements of our expanding town have been met with foresight and efficiency over the past twelve years, a period in which the town increased in population about 5,000, i.e. from 3,500 to 8,500. We have added five new school buildings, a combined fire and police station, a combined fire station and recreation hall, a library addition, to say nothing of the numerous improvements in our highways, sidewalks, cemeteries, playgrounds, etc. Obviously our taxes have increased over this period also, but, thanks to the able guidance and direction of our Finance Committee, our expenses have been kept in hand. Unfortunately, we have not yet reached the point where capital expenditures are no longer required. What we have provided are in excellent condition and should continue to serve the town for many years. However, we have already commissioned a new high school building committee to prepare plans and specifications, and your Board of Selectmen is going to recommend at the next annual meeting that a building committee also be activated to study and prepare plans for a new Town Hall. The cost of maintenance and the inefficient operation of the present Town Hall dictates that steps be taken to obtain improved quarters in the near future. It is suggested that a Town Hall building committee be authorized at the annual meeting in March, 1962 to report back to the town with completed plans and cost estimates so that actual construction can start in 1963. It is proposed that the Town Hall would be an addition to the present combined fire and police station which could be completely constructed prior to razing the present Town Hall.

Not only do we, the Selectmen, look forward to improvement of the physical administrative offices of the town but also we believe the time has come when we should be giving careful consideration to the personnel side of the picture. With considerable foresight the Selectmen approximately two years ago established a Town Government Survey Committee. One of the principal objectives of this committee of fifteen citizens was to consider the present administrative methods and procedures used in our town and to recommend changes and improvements as deemed expedient. We expect to receive the first report of this committee in January or February, 1962 and look forward to having some concrete suggestions for administrative improvements.

Lynnfield has now reached the point where we are spending more than three million dollars a year. This is a sizeable operation to be directed by part-time officials. The Board of Selectmen currently has a part-time clerk and it becomes an ever-increasing task for the Board and its clerk to keep on top of all the details which fall within its bailiwick. The responsibilities and duties of the other town offices are also becoming greater all the time. We are well aware of our expanding school system but many fail to recognize that the burdens and work load of those officials responsible for general town administration are also growing. The offices of the Town Clerk, Town Treasurer, Town Accountant, Tax Collector, and Assessors need additional personnel and office equipment to carry out their assigned duties in an efficient manner. Reappraisal of the work carried on by these offices is important. The personnel, office space, and proper business machines must be provided to enable the town administrative offices and departments to carry on in an efficient manner.

A review of the activities of the Board of Selectmen for the past year are numerous and varied. Certainly one of the more time-consuming problems was the consideration of numerous applications for liquor licenses occasioned by the official announcement of the increase of Lynnfield's population as a result of the 1960 census. Numerous hearings and rehearings of applications were held and your Board endeavored to analyze carefully each and every application. As the result of thorough investigation the number of liquor licenses granted by the town were increased by two. An all-alcoholic package store license was granted to Peter Romano on Broadway (Route No. 1) and an all-alcoholic restaurant license was granted to George Page Golf, Inc. for the professional shop at the Colonial Country Club.

Another problem which required an inordinate amount of time of your Board of Selectmen, as well as the time and efforts of many other town boards and committees, was the need to locate and acquire land for a new senior high school. After consideration of a number of sites and meticulous investigation of the pros and cons of all sites, this problem was culminated successfully in the acquisition of a thirty-five acre parcel of land on Essex Street, known as the Laubner site. The School Site Acquisition Committee and the Secondary School Plant Planning Committee are to be congratulated for carrying through this project to a successful conclusion.

Two special town meetings were held during the year; the first was called to straighten out a zoning conflict between the zoning map and written description of the zoning by-law in the area between Summer Street and Walnut Street, and the second authorized the land acquisition covered in the previous paragraph and the appointment of a Senior High School Building Committee.

After many years of service to the town, Mr. James Y. Lake resigned as a Library Trustee effective April 30, 1961, and on May 4, 1961 your Board, sitting jointly with the Library Trustees, unanimously appointed Mr. Charles E. Herlihy to fill out the remainder of Mr. Lake's term. We wish Mr. Lake well in his retirement to Florida and with him go our best wishes and thanks for a job well done. We are certain Mr. Herlihy will carry on in the fine tradition of all of our Library Trustees and seek to improve our library services and coverage.

On July 14, 1961, your Board unanimously appointed Captain Thomas F. Ganley as Chief of the Police Department culminating a long and honorable career in the department. We are confident that he will be a credit to the town and that we can look forward to a police force second to none. The large testimonial dinner tendered the new chief after his appointment evidences his wide circle of friends and the high respect in which he is held.

Ralph G. Howland
Town Counsel

Robert W. Peabody
Clerk, Bd. of Selectmen

During the year your Board appointed a large number of citizens to special committees and cannot thank enough those who have come forward to assist in the orderly operation of our town. With regret the Board accepted the resignations of Mr. Edward I. Buckley from the Capital Outlay Committee and Mrs. Ruth Rudowski from the Town Report Committee. The appointments made to various committees are listed previously in this report but it is worthy of comment to note that we have appointed a Conservation Commission for the first time, a Library Facilities Committee, a new Playground Site Committee, a Senior High School Building Committee, and enlarged Capital Outlay and Wage Study Committees. Practically all appointments were made from applications made by interested residents on the form at the end of the Town Report or as a result of requests made by other town boards or committees. In spite of the many appointments made we still have a large number of applications made by citizens which we have not been able to use. We think that it is commendable that so many citizens offer their services to the town and hope that this continues in the future. Certainly Lynnfield has nothing to fear with regard to good government so long as so many citizens continue to volunteer their time and energies to the betterment of the town without thought of any reward other than the satisfaction of a job well done.

The Routes No. 1 and No. 128 intersection continued to give the Board much with which to be concerned. Many telephone calls, letters, hearings and investigations have been entailed and your Board is still not satisfied with the results. We hope that we have been able to effect some improvements although the Department of Public Works has given us no satisfaction with regard to the Lake Street cross-over and we still find the Suntaug Lake area and the Newhall Park isolated from other parts of South Lynnfield. Your Board has petitioned the Legislature through our State Representatives Bly and Craig to have a pedestrian overpass built over Route 128 near Grove St. to help alleviate the latter problem.

Another problem that has been constantly before your Board this year has been the street lighting situation in both ends of town. We have authorized improved lighting on Walnut, Summer, Main and Chestnut Streets, and intend to extend this improvement in the next few years. Also we intend to request the town, at the annual meeting in March, to authorize the Board to appoint a committee of five members to investigate the possibility of Lynnfield establishing its own Municipal Light Board. We think we could possibly obtain better service as well as save money for the homeowner if we had our own electric light department.

During the year the town put into service a new FWD fire engine at the Center fire station and contracted for another new Mack fire engine to be garaged at the South fire station. This will give us two brand new pieces of fire apparatus, one at each end of town and will greatly increase the fire protection available. We do not intend to ask for another piece of equipment this year although in the near future we must replace at least one, if not both, of the remaining fire engines.

The Department of Public Works approved the new speed limits for Main, Summer and Walnut Streets and the Highway Department has installed the speed signs as authorized. These speed limits were established only after considerable work and Mrs. Gloria Erickson and her committee and Police Chief Ganley and Road Commissioner Fletcher, deserve a lot of credit and our appreciation for this accomplishment.

The religious climate of Lynnfield continues to grow along with the other aspects of the town. During the year St. Maria Goretti Church was dedicated, a new Baptist church was constructed, and land was acquired by the Mormon Church on Essex Street and by the Lutheran Church at the corner of Chestnut and Lowell Streets. Also we welcomed a new member of the clergy to our town in the Reverend Robert W. Etzel of the St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The Board of Selectmen appointed a three member Transportation Committee to consult with the State Mass Transportation Commission. The members of this committee are the Chairman of the Board of Selectmen and the Planning Board, and the Road Commissioner. The first meeting of the Commission has been attended and it is expected that a regional meeting will be held in the near future which will also be attended by your committee. It is not known at the present what will be the recommendations of the State Commission but it is believed we must keep carefully abreast of the proceedings to make certain that Lynnfield's desires and requirements are taken into consideration.

Our Police, Civil Defense, and Fire Departments have continued to serve the town well and loyally, and our thanks are extended to all of the personnel of these departments. The other town departments and offices have carried out their responsibilities with efficiency and dispatch and many times have served us beyond the call of duty.

Again we congratulate the Town Report Committee whose 1960 Report was awarded second prize for towns in our population class. This Committee has consistently over the years produced reports excellent in form and content.

Yes, it has been a busy year. We have accomplished much, but there is still much to do. With the assistance of the many conscientious, capable committees, and the interested citizens of the Town of Lynnfield we look forward to an ever-improving environment in which to live.

Board of Selectmen

Joseph F. Smith

By Gertrude Hatch

In its town report this year, the people of Lynnfield pay tribute to Joseph F. Smith of Lowell st, one of its oldest citizens and a life-long resident, a man who has contributed much to the community over the past eight decades.

He was born on April 9, 1881 to Henry E. and Mary L. (Bassett) Smith in the family homestead built by his grandfather, Jonathan Smith, who fought in the Revolutionary War. He is perhaps the only Lynnfield native who can trace his family ancestry to 1640 when King Charles I of England granted 640 acres of land to his great-grandfather, John Smith. The original grant comprised what is now the Sagamore Spring Golf Club, Willis Meadow, part of South Middleton and the less than 100 acres which now remain in the family.

"Joe" attended the Center School when classes were held in the original part of the present library building. After completing his early education, he attended Wakefield High School graduating in the Class of 1900. Following graduation, he worked for a short time at Salem Commercial School, but his interests lay in dairy farming, and most of his adult life has been spent in operating his own dairy farm and raising prize Holstein cattle, a business which he gave up last year because of ill health. At that time, he sold 135 head of cows and 12 horses.

Looking over the family's extensive holdings in 1902 when he was 21 years of age, "Joe" re-discovered the boiling or bubbling spring which had caused his great-aunt, Lucy Smith, to be jailed as a witch. (She escaped hanging only when orders from the King of England forbade any more killings.) The crystal clear spring water had the capacity to produce 100 gallons a minute, and after gaining official approval of its purity, "Joe" wisely established the Pocahontas Spring Water Company, which is today operated by one of his six sons.

He recalls with amusement his first day in the spring water business when he filled several jugs of water, and with horse and wagon traveled to Salem to sell the water. His prospective customers regarded him with skepticism for they felt water and air were gifts from "above" and not to be sold. Only the Mayor of Salem was willing to part with thirty cents for one of the jugs of marvelous water. On his way back to Lynnfield despondent "Joe" dumped the remaining jugs, one by one, to lighten the load.

In the great Salem fire of 1913, the People of Salem were only too glad to have "Joe" supply them with pure drinking water, and when marshal law was declared, he was one of the few people allowed into the area of Lafayette and Lee Streets to help fight the fire. When it was over, it was "Joe" Smith who drove the first team of horses through the streets, and he remembers how his horses lifted their feet very high because the pavement was so hot.

In the same year, "Joe" cut down many trees on his land and hauled them by horse and wagon to North Reading where they were sawed and cut into boards for the construction of the 20-room house at 154 Lowell Street, which has been his home for nearly 50 years.

In the year 1928, "Joe" built Pocahontas Tavern for use as a tea room, but the depression years and the gasoline rationing during World War II put an end to what promised to be a successful business. Since then the building has been used for private parties, and more recently as a recreation area for barbecues and organizational outings during the summer months. The same location was also used for a miniature golf course and the clubhouse is still standing.

Not many Lynnfield residents can remember, as "Joe" does, attending town meetings when they were held in the Old Meeting House on the Common, nor can they recall the building of the town hall in 1898 and remember how a portion of it was used to house Lynnfield's first library with Elizabeth Warren Green its first librarian.

Always a busy man, Joseph Smith found time to serve the town in many capacities. He was elected a selectman in 1924 and served that board in the posts of chairman and secretary. He also served on the finance board, and for nearly 20 years he was the town moderator, retiring from that post in the late 1940's. He is a past chief of the call fire department, a former special policeman, chairman of the Republican Town Committee for 20 years, a former delegate to the Massachusetts Republican Convention, town pound keeper, wood measurer and field driver, a post which he still holds. As an agriculturalist, he served on many Essex County agricultural committees for both state and federal governments. It was not unusual during these years for a town official to hold more than one job, and he held several.

His interest in sports was evidenced in 1908 when he organized a town baseball, football and hockey team. He joined the Wakefield Elks in the early 1930's and became its exalted ruler in 1936. He also holds an honorary membership in the Lynnfield Historical Society.

His children by his first wife, Marion (Preston) Smith, who died in 1921 are: Henry F. Smith, an attorney of Harwich; J. Warren of Lowell Street, operator of the Pocahontas Spring Water Company; Leonard P. of Middleton, Wendell W. of West Peabody; Sumner T. of Main Street, Lynnfield and Mrs. Eleanor S. Samuels, Saugus. Children by his second wife, Della (Rich) Smith, a former principal and teacher of the Center School are: John Calvin of Saunders Road and Mrs. Marie Vazanna of Lynn. Joe also has 19 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Here is the story of a man of four-score years who could well enliven and bring up to date the history of Lynnfield with his keen Yankee sense of humor and his broad knowledge of town events which have taken place during his lifetime.

ACCOUNTANT'S CERTIFICATE

I have examined the cash receipts and securities in the various Trust Funds in the hands of the Treasurer and find them to be as stated in the Treasurer's Report. The income from Trust Funds in the hands of others have been received for the year 1961 and credited to the proper accounts. The receipts as reported by the Treasurer agree with the books, and that payments of the town correctly present the financial status as of December 31, 1961.

Once again I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Honorable Board of Selectmen, all Town Officers, all Town Employees, and especially the Town Report Committee who have contributed so generously of their time and talents in compiling this report.

1961 was a busy year for the Park and Cemetery Commissioners and their workers. First of all, following the Annual Town Meeting it was necessary to prepare specifications for two Little League Ball Parks. One of these was to relocate the backstop at Newhall Park and install a new backstop for the small fry team directly opposite the regulation field. The Commissioners were advised by Little League officials to the rules and regulations of laying out Little League field and this was carried out to their specifications. Our biggest problem in the installation of these fields is not to have them damaged before they are completed. Luckily the damage incurred was small and from all reports was done by out-of-town boys.

This year saw the long-awaited start of recreation at Glen Meadows with the installation of a combination Little League field and softball field. Bids were issued and awarded for approx. 700 yds. of loam, which was spread in this area. Backstop and sideline fences were installed. The entire playing area of the backfield was seeded and rolled. It is hoped that with a good Spring in 1962 this field will be ready to be utilized. The only trouble encountered by the Commissioners after completion of the project was due to children walking on this newly-seeded area but this problem was resolved. This is a project that took a lot of time and thought on the part of the Commissioners and they are very pleased with the outcome.

Future plans are for two tennis courts to be added to Glen Meadow Park. We hope to obtain funds for this project at the 1962 Town Meeting.

Cemeteries

Much work was done in all cemeteries this year including trimming of a number of trees and minor repairs. The commissioners report that cemeteries are in good condition.

The following is a breakdown of monies turned in to the town for 1961:

Cemetery Lots sold (4)	$ 305.00
Amount added to P-C Fund	1,000.00
18 Interments	600.00

Committee Reports

LIBRARY FACILITIES COMMITTEE

I. Background

A. WHAT IS A LIBRARY?

No single factor has contributed more to man's onward march in civilization than the development of written language. The ability to set down in permanent form the discoveries, experiences, and thoughts of a people, so that they could be transmitted to others removed by distance and time, has enabled mankind to accumulate a great fund of knowledge upon which each succeeding generation may draw. It is in the collecting, organizing, and disseminating of this recorded knowledge that the libraries of the world perform their essential and irreplaceable task.

B. WHAT SERVICES SHOULD A LIBRARY PROVIDE?

Of special importance is public library service to children. Provision in this vital area should be made for an adequate book collection to foster good reading habits and a love of books on the part of the young, to augment the school curriculum and to provide reading enrichment, and to supply books of reference to help them in the pursuit of their school work and hobbies. Space for a variety of activities should also be made available; story hours, movies, summer reading programs and recorded concerts are examples of the activities carried on in modern children's rooms.

Work with teen-agers continues to grow increasingly important. Provision of a specific area of their own will help the young people bridge the gap between books written for them and the adult world of books. Adequate preparation of study assignments under an accelerated school program makes it mandatory for the library to supply good, up-to-date reference and research materials. Books for their recreational reading, their hobbies, their problems and their school assignments should be made available.

For its Adult Public, the library should provide opportunity for continuing education and recreation. This is accomplished not only through books; but also through pamphlets, documents, films, and recordings.

C. WHAT IS REQUIRED?

1. Adequate space to serve children, young people and adults.
2. A trained staff of both professional and technically skilled personnel.
3. A selective collection of materials with both depth and distribution, tailored to the community.
4. Adequate facilities for precision and efficiency of operation.
5. A dynamic and imaginative program including such activities as storytelling for children and discussion groups for both young people and adults.

II. Lynnfield and its Library System

A. EARLY HISTORY

As early as 1795, there was a library established in Lynnfield. A group of interested "share holders" assessed themselves annually for this purpose. Private hands kept library service alive in the town until 1892 when, with the gift of $100 worth of books from the state, the Lynnfield Public Library was opened in a room in the Town Hall. The seeds of good modern library service were sown in those early days. In 1895, it is recorded, books were carried back and forth by the grocer — perhaps the first bookmobile service in the state. In 1910 a reading room was established in the library with the hope it would prove "a definite benefit to the community". Soon afterward the reading room was made available for literary meetings, making the library a center of cultural activities.

B. RECENT HISTORY

During the last decade, the town has grown at an accelerated pace. Schools and added police and fire protection facilities were needed immediately. During this period of great expansion, the library lagged seriously behind; therefore, in 1957, the trustees requested Miss Marie Sullivan, the Public Library Consultant of the Massachusetts Division of Library Extension, to study the Lynnfield Library System. Her report stated in part, "there is need for drastic action if Lynnfield's library program is to reach even minimum state library standards".

As a result of her report, and the Trustees' own awareness of the seriousness of the situation, it was decided to recommend an addition to the main library to be built as rapidly as possible. This addition, approved by the town in March, 1959, was in operation by August, 1959.

There has been an increase in the number of hours the library is open, from 6 hours weekly in 1950 to 33 hours in 1961. The book collection, selected by a trained librarian, has been significantly increased in quantity and quality. Better liaison between schools and the public library has broadened the services of the library for the student. Great progress has been made in the establishment of a card catalog, enabling both borrowers and librarians to make better use of the books. Files of periodicals and of pamphlets have been started. Programs for children have been initiated.

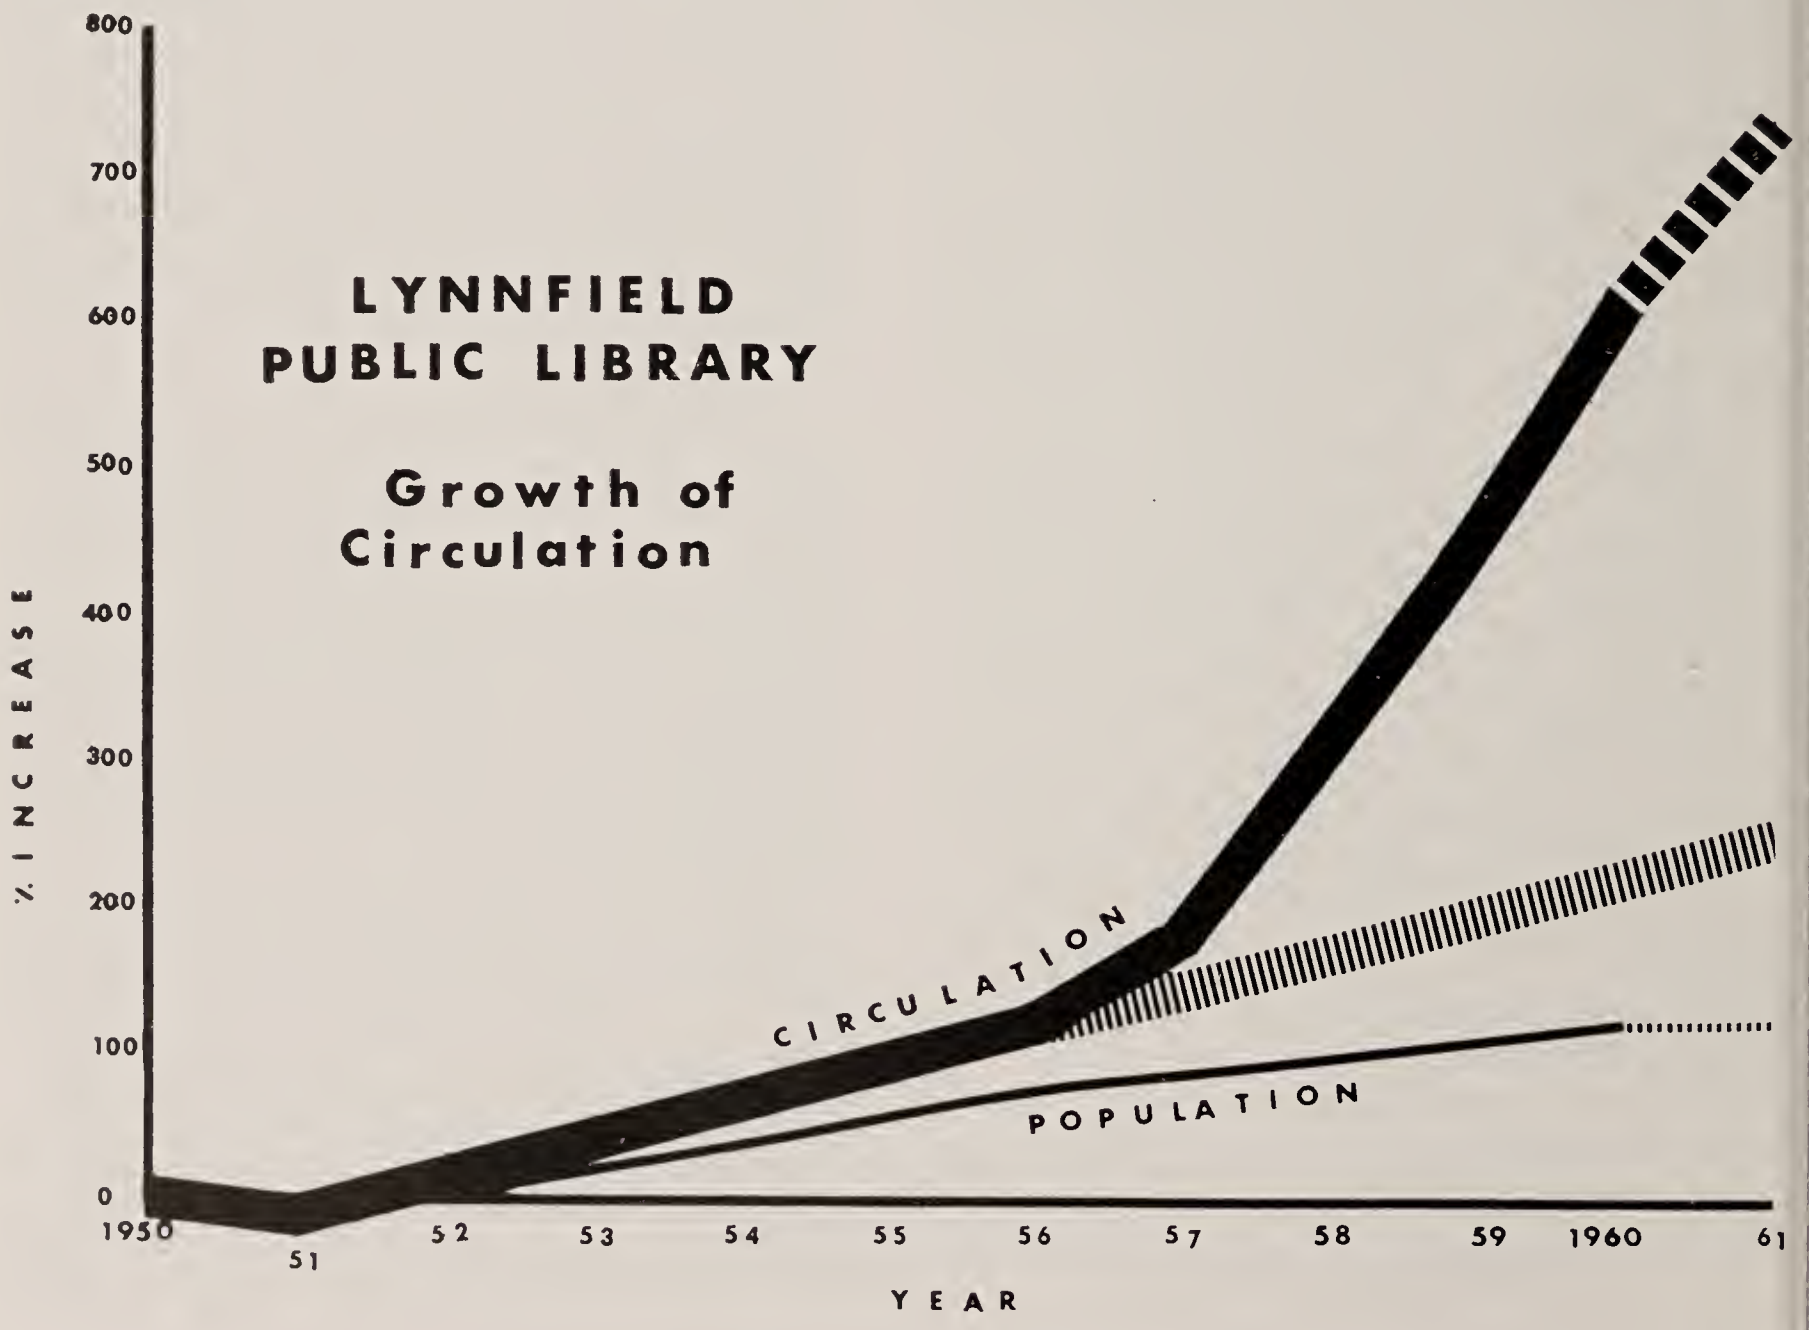
Although it had been estimated that the additional space and the added services thus made possible would satisfy library needs adequately for up to 10 years, this has not been the case. The tremendous demands placed upon the Lynnfield Library today were not foreseen. In Lynnfield, circulation of books has risen from 23,883 in 1957 to an estimated 71,600 in 1961, from 3.4 books per capita in 1957 to *7.9 books per capita in 1961.

One of the chief reasons for this explosion in book circulation is centered around Lynnfield now having its own high school, particularly a high school demanding high scholastic performance from its students. Lynnfield is an above average town in respect to the number of college-bound high school students.

There have been new and increased demands by college students. The library must serve these students attending colleges within commuting distance.

But school demands do not tell the whole story. Other factors contributed to the increased use of the Lynnfield Library. In 1956, the Wakefield Library began charging fees to out-of-town borrowers. New demands of the "space age" increased the area usage of non-fiction books. Today, education is not terminated with a degree, but is a continuing process. The library, as the major free source of educational materials, has attracted more serious use by both old and new patrons. Services to children such as story hours and summer reading programs have brought more juvenile readers to the library. Although the Library Staff has become better able to supply rising demands, the enthusiastic use of Library services by the Townspeople has again made the need for space a critical problem. The attached graph clearly illustrates the problem.

* American Library Standards - 10 books per capita



III. Recommendations of the Library Facilities Committee

A. PLANT

Having considered most carefully all of the foregoing facts, keeping in mind what a modern library ought to be doing for all the citizens of its community, and looking ahead as to what may reasonably be expected of the Lynnfield Library system in the years that lie immediately ahead, this committee recommends that the present library space of approximately 3,500 square feet be increased to 12,300 square feet. Lacking professional advice, such as an architect might give, this committee does not know if such demands require an entirely new building or whether they can be achieved by alteration of, and addition to, the present building. In either event, the committee unanimously agrees that the proposed space is needed, as the following specific area recommendations indicate.

B. AREAS

1. Children's area

   The library needs a larger book collection for its juvenile patrons, better display facilities, and study and reading areas.

   Present area: 250 sq. ft.
   Required area: 990 sq. ft.

2. Youth area

   Young people need a definite space reserved for study and reference with an adequate book collection geared to their needs and interests.

   Present area: 550 sq. ft.
   Required area: 780 sq. ft.

3. Adult areas

   An adult reference collection helps a library to perform one of its most needed services to the community. Adults should also be provided with their own browsing and reading areas.

   Present area: 850 sq. ft.
   Required area: 1,140 sq. ft.

4. Stack and Storage space

   Present library capacity is already taxed with a collection of 17,000 books. Based upon projected growth of Lynnfield, space must be provided for about 75,000 books and periodicals. Magazines, pamphlets, and other media form an integral part of every well-equipped library. Such publications, especially magazines, should be kept on file from two to fifteen years as basic reference material.

   Present area: 1,000 sq. ft.
   basement area currently not usable
   Required area: 4,000 sq. ft.

5. Lobby and Charging Desk

   Present area: 400 sq. ft.
   Required area: 650 sq. ft.

6. Phonorecordings

   Records are now an integral part of modern library collections.

   Present area: None
   Required area: 200 sq. ft.

7. Work area

   Adequate space for ordering, cataloging, classifying and processing book acquisitions, mending and repairing books, and preparing exhibits, is absolutely essential.

   Present area: 80 sq. ft.
   Required area: 500 sq. ft.

8. Office and Staff Room areas

   A trained library staff requires a professionally equipped office and a staff room if it is to do the work expected of it.

   Present area: 270 sq. ft.
   Required area: 550 sq. ft.

9. Meeting Room

   A room is desirable for meetings held by such groups as the Friends of the Library, the Great Books, and for discussions, storytelling, film presentations and other library programs.

   Present area: None
   Required area: 1,250 sq. ft.

10. Other areas

    Garage, janitorial space, public rest rooms and space for utilities are essential.

    Present area: 100 sq. ft.
    Required area: 1,200 sq. ft.

11. Add approximately 10% for corridors, partitions, etc.

    1,040 sq. ft.

*Total Area Required 12,300 sq. ft.

* American Library Association Standards - 1 sq. ft. per person up to 10,000 population and .7 sq. ft. after 10,000.

C. SITE

This committee recommends that the present site be used. The land is already town owned and is large enough for the proposed expansion. Further, it is near other municipal and public buildings, as well as one of the main shopping centers in town, and, in short, forms part of a central focal point for many of the town's activities.

D. TIMING

Because of projected plans for other municipal buildings, this committee recommends the following time schedule.

1. Presentation of this report to the Town Meeting, March, 1962, with the added recommendation that a building committee be created, and appropriation made for securing preliminary plans.
2. This building committee to make its report, and to request the necessary appropriation at the Town Meeting in March, 1963.
3. The new facilities to be ready for occupancy by late 1964.

E. BRANCH LIBRARY

The Branch Library has received careful and detailed study. With the increased population, its circulation and use have increased, and today its space and facilities are taxed almost to capacity. One feature, however, stands out. The great majority of its users are children, and this committee has wondered if perhaps it should not become a children's library exclusively. But the recent construction at Routes 1 and 128; the possible effect of the new shopping center at Post Office Square; these and other factors make it difficult at this time to determine just what will be the function and place of the Branch Library in the future.

The committee recommends, therefore, that the Branch Library be left unchanged for the present.

CONSERVATION COMMISSION

The Commission was appointed by the Board of Selectmen last spring after favorable action taken on Article 22 of the warrant for the annual Town Meeting of 1961.

Lynnfield established the Commission for the promotion, development and protection of the natural and watershed resources of the Town. In accordance with these purposes, the Commission has conducted researches into various areas, including inspection of lands, examination of records, study of maps, work on an index of open lands and acquisition of information as to their proper utilization.

The Commission is sponsoring a talk on conservation at the Junior High School in March, 1962.

Pursuant to one of the Commission's recommendations, the Selectmen on October 11, 1961, turned over to the Commission the management and control of several acres of woodland located off Main Street and Mirabeau Lane, which woodland is to be maintained as a public area providing opportunity for play in the woods by children and walks in the woods by adults, for nature study by groups or individuals, and generally for the enjoyment of the woodland in its natural state.

The Commission may receive gifts of property, both real and personal, in the name of the Town, subject to the approval of the Selectmen, and may manage and control the property for the purposes of conservation.

The co-operation of the Selectmen and other officials of the Town is gratefully acknowledged by the Commission.

CAPITAL OUTLAY COMMITTEE

The Capital Outlay Committee is a continuing five-member committee consisting of four residents of the Town appointed by the Selectmen, plus one member appointed yearly from the Finance Committee.

The purpose of the Capital Outlay Committee is generally to set forth the financial consequences of carrying out a given program of capital improvement. It follows from this that, as a planning tool, a Capital Outlay Budget is only as sound and realistic as the program of improvement on which it is based.

Each Town Board and Department will prepare an annual review of its future objectives and expected needs for plant and equipment for the succeeding five-year period. The Capital Outlay Budget is based on these estimates for capital needs for the years ahead. These estimates are carefully studied by the Committee and, as published by this Committee, will reflect variations from the requested estimates in accordance with this Committee's recommendations.

Regular capital outlay forecasting of this type not only makes for better financial planning for the entire community, but will also be reflected in more efficient and effective departmental operation.

The end result of this yearly analysis of the estimated outlay program will be:

(1) An estimate of the financial consequences, in terms of tax rate, interest charges, per capita debt, etc., implicit in the program.

(2) A considered opinion of the financial feasibility of the program as scheduled.

(3) A suggested combination of financing methods which would be financially sound and practical.

Since its organization in May, 1961, the Capital Outlay Committee has utilized its time in studying and preparing recommendations regarding the capital spending program of the various Boards and Departments to be presented to the Annual Town Meeting in March, 1962. The report of this Committee's recommendations regarding current capital outlay programs has been furnished to the Selectmen and the Finance Committee for their information.

In addition to the above, members of this Committee have served as representatives of the Capital Outlay Committee on the School Plant Needs Committee and the Library Facilities Committee.

Prior to the Town Meeting of March, 1963, and each year thereafter, this Committee will submit its five-year report covering necessary capital expenditures, when they will be needed, their probable effect on the tax rate, and how these expenditures may best be financed.

The Capital Outlay Committee wishes to take this opportunity to acknowledge the time and assistance given by all Boards and Departments in the Town. As pointed out above, it is only with their enthusiastic support and the systematic programming of their legitimate needs that this Committee can furnish the voters of Lynnfield with dependable and constructive information.

Tree and Moth Department

Gustav H. Koch

As your Tree Warden and Moth Superintendent it gives me much pleasure to report to you that the year 1961 was one of much progress. Favored by good weather we have been able to carry out the recommended "Dutch Elm Control" program of spraying and sanitation. All diseased trees have with one exception been removed and burned, the lone remainder to be taken down before March. Much study has been made of this problem nation wide, but to date no sure cure has been found. The Arborist and Entomologist from Waltham were consulted several times on a new problem affecting Maples and White Pines, but it is still unresolved. Dr. McKenzie of Shade Tree Laboratories at the University was also consulted but again a negative response.

Street plantings of approximately 175 trees were made. These were varied, consisting of oak, maple, linden and sycamore. In new developments trees were planted by various contractors, insuring a tree shaded town for the future. Rental of special equipment allowed the removal of many unsightly "stumps" in various sections of the town. This I hope will be continued next year. Brush was cut along many roads and the areas sprayed to inhibit further growth. The battle with Poison Ivy is being won as far as the public ways are concerned but there is much to be done on private property.

Mosquito Control is a real problem. Meadow lands used for haying or grazing cannot be sprayed. Lynn and Peabody have water rights to large areas of our town. These cannot be sprayed. With new insecticide developed and if funds are voted a more comprehensive program will be evolved. D.D.T. would be used only for Dutch Elm Control and other Non Toxic Non Cumulative materials substituted on other spray programs. Co-operation between all Town Departments has been real and for mutual benefit of all.

Sealer of Weights & Measures

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts pioneered a law in 1960 requiring that all pre-packaged meats have the weight, price per pound and net price indicated on each package. Units that had been 8 or 16 ounces now were smaller and were not recognized as such by the consumer and were being exploited by some processors. Also some stores have been careless in proper marking of items packaged by themselves. All units should be clearly marked as to weight, price per pound and net cost.

Co-operation has been generally excellent and where omissions have been noted corrective measures taken. All measuring devices have been periodically examined and corrected where necessary. Again may I say that I find a sincere desire of our merchants to give full values at all times.

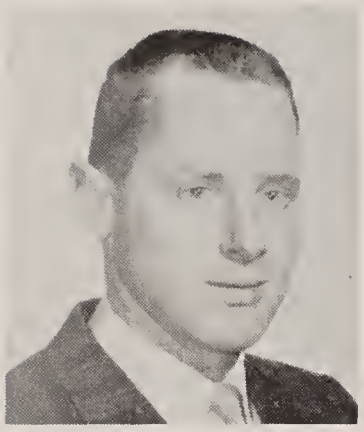
Total cost of Town Government for the year 1861 $1080.50

Building Inspector



Roger Harris

The year of 1961, as indicated by the issuance of Building Permits, has been comparatively slow, with only sixty-one new dwelling permits having been issued. While the number of these permits decreased by twelve, as compared with 1960, the average construction cost per dwelling rose from $19,000 to $20,600. This increase is largely due to two factors; higher costs of labor and material and the fact that the majority of these homes were built in the larger residential zones.

A total of seventy-two general repair and remodeling permits marked a threefold increase, although the total construction value was only one-third of the 1960 costs. A substantial decrease in additions took place and comparatively speaking, accounted for the equivalent construction costs of only three dwellings.

This year noted a general increase of construction starts in business areas and permitted uses in residential areas. Among those most noteworthy were:

The Lynn Institution for Savings, cor. Salem Street and Broadway.

The erection of a new modern bowling alley on Broadway.

The Roman Catholic Convent on Grove St. and the completion of their 16 classroom school.

The erection of a new Pro-Shop and the completion of the addition to the Colonial Country Club.

The new Baptist Church on Summer Street, their first step in an expansion program.

The start of a retail store on lower Broadway.

A storage building for American Publishers Supply on Salem Street.

A natural gas "Take" station on Salem St.

The start of a completely modern gasoline service station, corner of Salem Street and Broadway.

The completion of an office and retail store building and the start of another office building in Post Office Square.

Swimming pool permits issued remained steady at eight, while garages, porches and tool sheds numbered seven, eleven and seven, respectively.

Seven barns and-or sheds, one gasoline station, one bowling alley, one storage building and three dwellings were demolished.

Only two permits for "Fallout Shelters" were issued.

Ten legal sign permits were issued—no building permits were revoked. Twenty-three building permit applications were refused and referred to the Board of Appeals. One Zoning By-Law violation required court action.

Two new "custom type" subdivision developments were started this year. They are known as "Ridgefield" and "Westknoll." The roadwork for the fourth section of "King James Grants" has been completed, though the construction of dwellings has been virtually nil. The subdivision previously known as "Candlewood Park" is now known as "The Village Crossing." The forthcoming year should see much construction activity in these four residential areas.

A total of 800 inspections indicates that all necessary building inspections have been made, all minor building code violations have been corrected and the general policing of construction areas has been vigil.

The co-operation of all local department heads, Town officials, townspeople, builders, the Town Fire Inspector and the Assistant Building Inspector has been greatly appreciated by this department.

ROGER HARRIS
Inspector of Buildings

On October 6, 1861 an American Eagle was seen perched upon one of the little spires on the Central Church Steeple.

Board of Public Assistance

Wesley W. Munroe

In recent years Welfare Dept. activities have come in for a great deal more attention and emphasis than at any time in the past. In view of this condition and in consideration of the substantial appropriations necessary to support this program, it is my desire to utilize this report to explain, in a general way, how the Town's Assistance Program is financed.

The entire Assistance Program, which includes General Relief, Old Age Assistance, Medical Aid for the Aged, Disability Assistance and Aid to Dependent Children, is governed by rules and regulations established by the State and Federal Governments.

The liability of towns to assist those in need is founded upon and limited to statute, and is not to be enlarged or modified by any supposed moral obligation of personal prejudice.

Fundamentally, Public Assistance is a local responsibility. However, it should be understood that in order to have equitable treatment, for all, not only within our community, but throughout the Commonwealth, it was necessary to develop a sound and adequate program as a guide for local administrators.

To share in State and Federal distribution of funds all local Welfare Departments must comply with this program in its entirety.

The Town recovers practically nothing on its expenditures for General Relief for needy persons who cannot obtain assistance under other categories.

On Old Age Assistance a substantial portion of our disbursements are returned. These refunds vary considerably, but we receive roughly 55% of the total grant from Federal and approximately 25% from the State.

Disability Assistance to Persons who are disabled. This new mandatory category was created by State Department of Public Welfare as of January 1, 1952. Returns on this category average about one-third from Federal and slightly higher from the State.

On Aid to Dependent Children the State reimburses us for one-third of our total grant and the Federal Government returns a slightly higher percentage.

The program of Medical Aid for the Aged became effective October 1960. An Act to give immediate medical assistance for the low income aged. At the present writing the Federal returns are approximately 50% with the State contributing about 33%.

All reimbursements from the Federal Grants are returned directly to the accounts to which they apply and can be re-used.

All State reimbursements must go into the Town's Excess and Deficiency account and cannot be used again until they are transferred by vote of the Town.

The laws concerning the privacy of the entire assistance program are very strict. From the moment a person applies, all records relating to the applicant are confidential, and are protected by law against disclosure to anyone except for purposes directly connected with the administration of Public Assistance.

Proper administration of Public Assistance today is as vital to a modern community as its banks, its schools, its system of communications and distributions.

All social work aims to solve four familiar problems: economic need, human behavior and adjustment to living, health, leisure and its use.

WESLEY W. MUNROE
Director

Sanitarian Inspector

I have the honor to present the report of the Sanitarian for the year ending December 31, 1961.

There were 960 examinations made of milk and cream samples obtained at random for conformance of state standards.

I made 266 inspections of food handling establishments and examined 176 bacterial swabs obtained from eating and drinking utensils in use at those establishments serving food or drink.

Warnings or time limits were given those establishments that failed or made little effort to rectify violations noted on inspection reports.

Samples of water were obtained from various locations on Pillings Pond and were examined for swimming standards.

In conclusion, I wish to thank the Board of Health and those in the town with whom I have had the pleasure of serving for their assistance and cooperation.

Police Department

Police Chief Thomas Ganley conducting class in Traffic Control.

The year 1961 was an eventful and busy one. Many advancements in the field of education for police personnel have been realized, thereby increasing the overall efficiency of the department.

Chief William E. Foley passed away on January 9, 1961 and Captain Thomas F. Ganley was appointed Acting Chief of Police. On January 10, 1961 Patrolman William Delamater was appointed Acting Sergeant. On July 14, 1961, Acting Chief Ganley was appointed Chief of Police.

In-Service Training School was conducted for a period of twenty-six weeks by Sgt. Martin and Chief Ganley. In June Acting Sergeant William Delamater attended the F.B.I. Firearms Training School at Camp Curtis Guild in Wakefield. In October Patrolman Casimiro Navas began three months training at the State Police Headquarters, Identification Division of Fingerprinting and Photography. As a result of this valuable training, our own Bureau of Identification will be established early in 1962. On November 10, 1961 Patrolman Paul Jensen graduated from the State Police Academy at Framingham after a month of intensive training.

Our parking problems which can be resolved by co-operation, are acute in some areas. The Traffic Safety Program has been accelerated; the fruits of which will be a valuable aid to the community. In addition, many worthwhile hours have been spent among our young people in the field of crime prevention to insure that our sons and daughters do not become a police statistic.

As Chief of Police, I am deeply indebted to our Auxiliary Police for its assistance and contribution of 1025 man-hours this past year. May I express my appreciation to the various Town Departments and to the residents of Lynnfield for their splendid co-operation.

The Department has investigated a total of 2044 complaints which required police action. Arrests for the year totaled 90 and are classified as follows:

In Memoriam

By Norman Grady

Chief William E. Foley

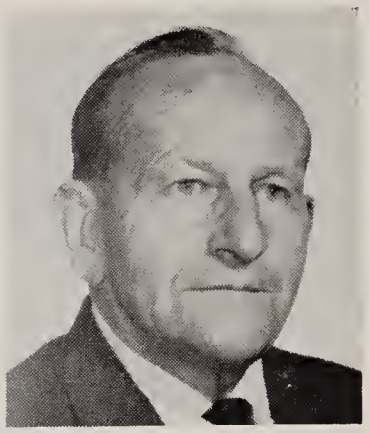
We pause in our recollection of the events of the past year to pay brief homage to the memory of one of the foremost officials of our Town who passed to his reward on January 9, 1961. On this fateful day the citizens of Lynnfield suffered the loss of an able, honest and efficient administrator, a man dedicated to his job, Chief of Police William E. Foley.

Bill Foley was born in Fall River in 1904 where he spent most of his young life. In 1926 he stated his police career as a member of the Massachusetts State Police. In 1938 he was appointed a patrolman in the ranks of the Lynnfield Police Department, and on January 19, 1953 he was promoted to the rank of Chief of Police. His eight year tenure as Chief witnessed a building boom unparalleled in the history of the Town, with its population better than doubling and under his command the Police Department tripling in strength. This growth obviously brought increased work and responsibility to his office, and with it a challenge which the Chief with the full co-operation of his men, was able to meet effectively and efficiently.

His 35 years experience in both State and local law enforcement has paid rich dividends to the residents of our Town in the type of police protection they have enjoyed and the comparative freedom from the more serious crimes. He was a man with absolute integrity. What more could any Town demand of its Police Chief.

Civil Defense

Lawrence E. Austin



Sanborn A. Caldwell

Frank A. Pagano

During the year 1961 two characteristics have marked Civil Defense in the town of Lynnfield; increased activity on the part of some, and much confusion on the part of others. Those well-informed enough and wise enough to recognize the need for preparing to survive an atomic attack have increased their activity in making those preparations which should give them and their families the greatest chance of surviving. Those people who are not so well informed have shown much confusion in and towards their own personal civil defense planning and towards support of the town's organization for civil defense.

Those people who are well-informed have recognized the fact that the interest and knowledge regarding Civil Defense which each family should have been accumulating for its own safety during the past several years have now become vitally necessary to have. The president of the United States, who has available the opinions of experts in this field, has quite definitely stated to all the people that civil defense is a vital part of our lives. In the event of an atomic attack survival will be achieved only through the knowledge previously gained through the use of civil defense instruction material and teachings. This is certainly vital to all of us.

Most of those who are misinformed hold the opinion that there is no possibility of an atomic attack, or that there will be no survivors if there should be an attack. These people are, in effect, saying to the experts: "No, you are wrong"; yet these very people would be the first to admit, in all honesty, that they have not had a hundredth part of the training the experts have had in this field. Therefore they simply have not the means of forming a correct judgment on this. Those people who want to do nothing about civil defense are doing nothing but "fooling themselves"; if an actual attack should occur they would find themselves, just like everyone else, following their natural instincts for self-preservation, for survival; but for them there would be the awful realization that they did not have the means of surviving, the know-how which would mean the difference between confusion and calm, between panic and preservation, between death and life. Neither, had their wills prevailed, could any rescue teams be expected, nor could contamination be minimized, nor could any of the functions civil defense sets up be found in use. The tragically late realization that an attack, or subsequent survival would have been possible after all would not help them then. The preparedness they rejected would have been their key to survival, but their lack of support of the town's Civil Defense program would have made that preparedness die in the making.

The town of Lynnfield is second to none in having some of the Civil Defense components well-trained and equipped. Its Auxiliary Police, its Fire, and its Communications organization have through your support been brought to an ideal of efficiency. There are other very necessary components of the Civil Defense organization, however, which also need your support. The radiological teams and the rescue teams, to name but two, need personnel and equipment, and there are others. They can be brought up to the necessary efficiency only by your supporting the Civil Defense budget. In no other way can we assure the greatest chance of survival for the greatest number of people in case of an atomic attack. Our Civil Defense budget will give us the means to give you the means to survive.

We shall not be alone in our preparations. The year 1962 will produce definite Federal and State legislation and planning for Civil Defense operation and shelter protection. The Federal and State governments, however, cannot do everything. We, on the local level, must do the work where the greatest number of our people would be affected by an atomic attack, right here at home. This is what needs your support.

I should like to take this opportunity to thank the department heads who have co-operated with Civil Defense functions. To Chief Tom Ganley, whose co-operation has been so extensive, a special debt of gratitude is owed.

LAWRENCE E. AUSTIN
Civil Defense Director

On Route #1 there formerly was a Civil War Army Camp called Camp Stanton (located a few feet from what is now the Towne Lyne House). Col. Devereaux was in charge of the 19th Regulars, an Essex County regiment raised and recruited here.

Health Officer

During the past year your Board of Health has had many problems with which to deal. As agent for the Lynnfield Board of Health, I have met with the other members of the board twice a month in order to attend to health matters. Many decisions concerning new and old building, sanitation, plumbing, and other health conditions have been made for the best interests of the town.

The regular clinics for the immunization of school children were held in the spring of 1961, but were not attended as well as usual,—this fact seeming to indicate that our school children are well taken care of by private means. The clinics were held at the Summer Street School where school personnel were most co-operative. Mrs. Lucy Lindquist, RN, was again the nurse in charge. The clinics will be continued in the spring of 1962,—the dates of the clinics will be announced in the local papers as usual.

Nursery Schools and Kindergartens were inspected as usual as to proper facilities, floor space, safety factors and sanitation. The required licenses were issued to the following Nursery Schools and Kindergartens:—

Bethlehem Nursery School
Busy Bee Nursery and Kindergarten
The Music Box
Pine View Kindergarten
Suntaug Kindergarten
Tower Kindergarten

The list of Communicable Diseases consists only of those reported to the Board of Health. Many remain unlisted contrary to State law. Without the co-operation of the school nurse, the State would have a very incomplete record of the communicable diseases in Lynnfield. This is the only way the State Department of Health has of determining the number of diseases and possible epidemics throughout the State. Either the doctor in charge or the family itself must report any such disease to the Board of Health.

The list of Communicable Diseases reported during 1961 is as follows:

Diseases	No. of Cases
Chicken Pox	24
Conjunctivitis	5
Measles	38
Scarlet Fever	14
Mumps	48
German Measles	64
Dog Bites	29

Your Health Officer wishes to thank the members of the Board, the Sanitarian, and all Town Officials, and other residents who have helped in so many ways to protect the health interests of the town this past year.

GEORGE S. ROBINSON, M.D.
Health Officer

On March 13, 1861 it was reported to be 20 degrees below zero.

Wire Inspector and Fire Alarm Supervisor

James V. Thompson

During 1961, 265 wire permits were issued involving approximately 600 inspections including re-inspections for faulty work. Several times during the year, your Inspector has been called upon to assist local groups (PTA, Couples Clubs, etc.) to provide temporary lighting and power. This type of work increases each year and may I respectfully request that you give me ample time to better plan for your requirements.

This year saw the near completion of the fire alarm work on Route 1 and 128 with additional work being required for 1962 in this area. All work performed on this project is being reimbursed by the State. Extra work involved for 1961, which was not anticipated, was the lowering of fire alarm lines on Walnut Street from Salem Street to the Saugus line due to the installation of new street lighting. About 30 poles were replaced around town by the telephone and light companies, necessitating crossarm changeover. We were fortunate during the year in that we had only three occasions when a fire alarm circuit was lost due to overhead utility lines dropping across fire alarm lines, thus rendering them ineffective. These outages were taken care of with a minimum of delay.

Although there were not as many new homes built in 1961 as there were in previous years, subdevelopments continued to appear. In order to meet this continual growth, only after careful planning by the fire alarm supervisor, and many hours of study and evaluation by the Fire Department, was it deemed necessary to divide the town into fire districts. This will require renumbering of some street boxes, the cost for which is requested in the 1962 budget.

An orderly program of replacing obsolete fire alarm street boxes has been in effect for the past two years, and this program should be completed during 1963, providing funds are made available as were previously. This program, along with the replacement of obsolete line wires, is classified as Capital Outlay. This is not new services or betterment to existing facilities, but just replacement of obsolete, unreliable and ineffective equipment.

Our budget for fire alarm maintenance for the ensuing year has decreased considerably from the monies appropriated during 1961 and as we continue with the replacement of obsolete boxes and overhead wires, this appropriation will also decrease.

Wire Inspector and Fire Alarm Supervisor

Animal Inspector

Lynnfield, once a prosperous rural community deriving its income from the soil with Dairy Products, Fruits, Vegetables and Poultry, is now a town of homes in a rural setting. Arthur Hudson has the lone Dairy Herd. George MacGregor the only Fruit Grower, Rudy Maga—Poultry and Henry Caproni—Vegetables. We do have a few gentlemen farmers with four legged lawn mowers and a few riding horses, but these are hobbies, not income producers. The Robinson Farm is now laid out to streets. Our Patriarch of Lowell Street—Joseph Smith—had to give in to Father Time and disposed of his large herd of cattle. Dogs are now the chief activity of your Animal Inspector.

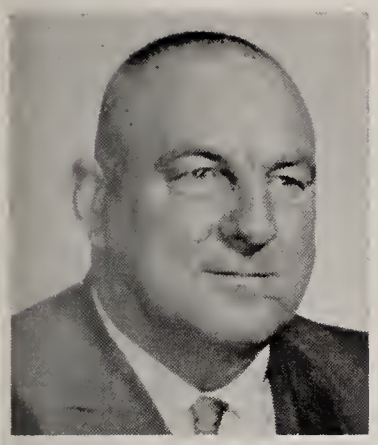
Road Commissioner



James C. Fletcher

The year 1961 was a busy one for your Highway Department. Weather again was the cause of a lot of activity, with snow arriving on December 12th, and staying until March 20th. Although we had several storms in 1961 the ground froze and stayed that way resulting in the least frost heaves of the past ten years.

Wing Road, Strout Avenue, Michaels Road, 1200 feet of Huckleberry Road and Pyburn Road were rebuilt and a Type I bituminous concrete surface installed. The Town Parking Lot was resurfaced, and Summer Street was widened from Arlington Street to Main Street. A new sidewalk was built in front of the Library and the Centre Congregational Church. Stone seals were applied to a portion of Summer St., Lowell St., and South Common Street, also to Maywood Road, Pinewood Road, Elmwood Road, Lakewood Road, Lockwood Road, Rockwood Road, Greenwood Road and Ashwood Road.

Chapter 90 Funds were used in rebuilding Summer Street from Pyburn Road to Archer Lane.

A new Dodge four wheel drive truck was purchased to replace the old 1946 Dodge.

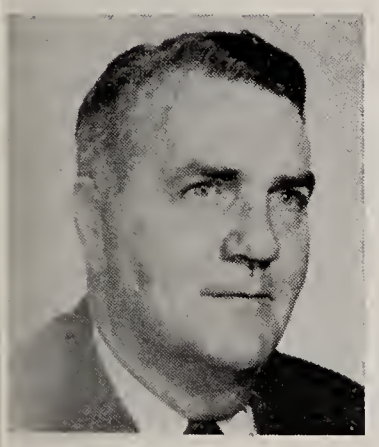
By direction of the Town the old Dalton house on Salem Street, the Dudley Evans house on Essex Street, and the old Mirabeau Camp at the end of Mirabeau Lane were demolished and the areas cleaned up.

At this time it looks that by the middle of 1962 a new conversation subject will have to be acquired by the Town, as by then the Route 1 and 128 interchange should be completed. A service road will be constructed early this year from Oak Street to Summer Street opposite Pyburn Road. Locust Street will dead-end at Route 128 and also Grove Street. Only time will prove if all the inconvenience to families and business concerns affected by this interchange were necessary.

The Road Commissioner and the personnel of the Highway Department wish to thank the citizens and administration officials of the Town for their help and cooperation throughout the year.

JAMES C. FLETCHER
Road Commissioner

Veterans' Services



Burton B. Cogswell

I herewith submit my report of the Department of Veterans' Services and Veterans' Graves Registration for the year ending December 31, 1961.

Veterans' Benefits

One permanent case was added to the rolls as of September 15, 1961 making a total of six cases to be processed each month. Five emergency cases were granted for a period of three weeks to three months, and four hospital cases were handled in a like manner. Five World War I and II widows were advised as to their rights and pensions.

Veterans' Graves Registration

All veterans' graves within the town were properly marked with a flag by Post 131 American Legion for Memorial Day, and all veterans' graves were given their annual inspection and found to be in good condition.

I wish at this time to thank all persons and town departments for their co-operation with veterans' services for the year 1961.

Respectfully submitted,
BURTON B. COGSWELL
Veterans' Service Director

The Town voted to pay $150 bounty to Civil War Soldiers.

Planning Board

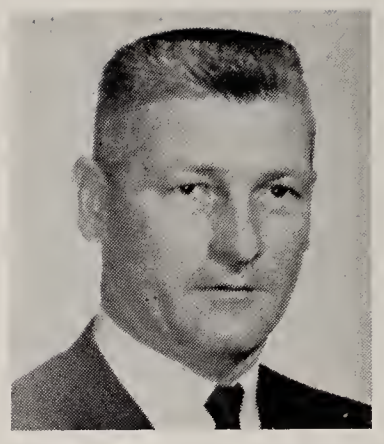
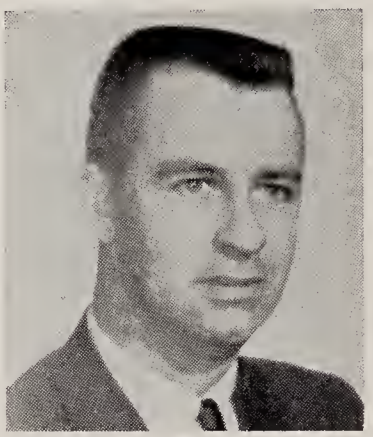
Russell E. Franck



Richard R. Wolsey

James E. Bagley, Jr.



Howard A. Bouve, Jr.

The rate of growth of our Town has continued to expand as new subdivisions have been developed. Both the number of house lots and aggregate length of new streets were substantially higher in 1961 than in previous years, as is indicated in the following table:

Year	No. of Subdivisions approved	No. of House lots approved	Aggregate Length of new streets approved
1958	6	43	3,905 ft.
1959	3	61	6,679 ft.
1960	7	74	8,687 ft.

At the 1961 Annual Town Meeting, the Planning Board recommendations were followed by the Town in five of six Articles involving amendment to the Zoning By-Laws. The sixth Article involving the resolution of a discrepancy in the present By-Law as originally adopted in 1953, was defeated by the Town. Since this action left a cloud on the legal title to a large number of homes built during the past several years in the affected area, two more Articles, differing from each other and from the original Article as to the land area covered, were brought by several citizens into the Special Town Meeting held in June. Again the Town did not follow the Planning Board recommendation, but, since the action taken corrected the situation concerning the houses already built in the area, the long-standing discrepancy has finally been satisfactorily resolved.

At both the Annual and Special Town Meetings, Playground and Green Belt sites in the Sherwood Forest, King James Grants and Ridgefield in Lynnfield areas were accepted by the Town. A special committee was also authorized to study the needs of the town and recommend additional sites for future Playground and Green Belt usage.

Partly through the efforts of the Planning Board, a Conservation Commission was authorized by the Town to acquire and preserve various land areas for conservation purposes.

Reports from Allen Benjamin Associates, Planning Consultants, were received covering studies of Non-Residential Zoning, Parks and Recreation, Probable Ultimate Number and Distribution of Homes, and Elementary and Secondary School Site Needs. These reports have been referred to the proper Town Officials and Committees, and copies have been placed in the Town Libraries and with the Town Clerk, so that any interested citizen may study them. In accordance with the recommendations made in the Non-Residential Zoning Report, several Articles amending the Zoning By-Law will be presented by the Planning Board at the 1962 Annual Town Meeting.

Mr. Calvin J. Osberg was re-elected to a second five-year term on the Board, and continues as its Chairman.

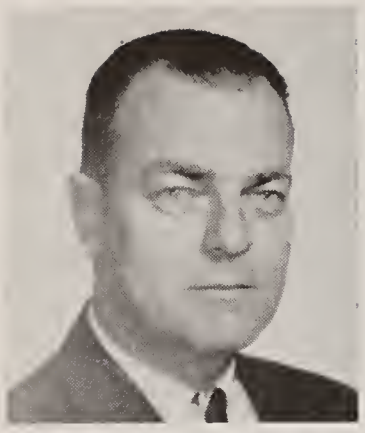
Fire Department



Carl E. Davis

The Lynnfield Fire Department is an "all call" department with no men on duty at either of the two new stations. All citizens of the town should be familiar as to how to notify the Fire Department in case of an emergency. Incorrect procedure can cause considerable confusion as well as costly delay. The most efficient way to alert the Fire Department is by sounding the alarm at the nearest fire alarm box. This sounds the audible horns, which call the firemen to their stations and directs them to the location of the emergency. A second method, is to dial the Lynnfield Emergency number, EDgewood 4-3131 (Police Department) and give the complete information to the person answering the phone. The police personnel in turn activate Box 7 of the fire alarm signal system, which calls the firemen to their stations, and the police department then verbally direct the fire department to the location of the emergency.

The department has continued to improve its operations with weekly drills and officers' meetings (both voluntary and without pay) which have been well attended and have proven to be invaluable in keeping the personnel of the department informed of improving fire-fighting and rescue techniques.

Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Natoli, Jr., crowning Miss Noreen Keleher "Miss Lynnfield Firefighter".

The 1961 Annual Town Meeting voted funds for a Deputy Chief, and on April 1, 1961 Joseph Natoli, Jr. was appointed to the rank. Private Maurice H. Day having reached the mandatory retirement age for fire fighters on December 31, 1961, retired from the department, thus completing many years of loyal faithful service to the department.

The Board of Health held 26 regular meetings and 6 special meetings in the past year.

There were 12 premature babies reported in the Town to the Board of Health in 1961. All of the three hospital cases of tuberculosis have been released from the sanatorium as of this date.

The Sanitary Inspector has made monthly reports to the Board and all of the violations of the health rules have been rectified, after inspection by members of the Board. Through the close contact by the Inspector with the establishments of the Town that dispense food, the health level has been maintained at a very high level. Through the use of swab tests of the utensils and dishes the customers have been assured of sanitary conditions.

All subdivisions have been surveyed and tested by a Certified Sanitary Engineer and their recommendations inserted on the plans, for the proper sewerage disposal plant, sill elevations, etc. of the proposed homes that are to be erected.

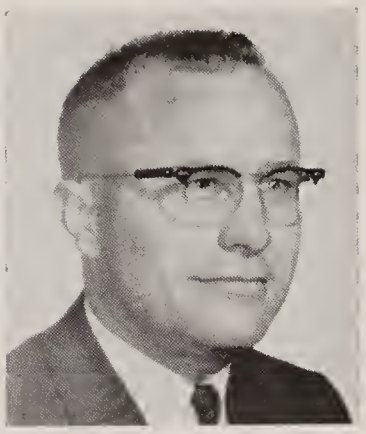
Library Trustees



Richard N. Eckert

Charles E. Herlihy, Jr.

Nancy Santeusanio

With the point of view that the Lynnfield public library belongs to you, and that your patronage has continued to stimulate its growth, your Board of Library Trustees would like to make a comparison between library service in 1956 as compared to 1961.

A Five-year Comparison

Library hours	28	48
Book purchases	723	2,587
Magazine subscriptions	24	58
Patrons	1,278	3,874
Circulation	19,633	69,073
Storytelling attendance	——	1,318
Fines	$432.22	$1,512.75

While this comparison is made over only a five-year period, the results of expanded service have brought the Lynnfield library into new focus. In 1956 the library was open half as many hours and served less than 30% as many patrons. In 1961 the library purchased over 350% more books and subscribed to twice as many magazines. Since 1956 circulation has increased over 350%, and several services have been added. These include a useable card catalog, files of pamphlets and periodicals, more extensive reference materials, children's reading programs, storytelling, and a varied selection of adult reading. The Trustees and staff feel that it is gratifying to see the public library beginning to take its place as the community's information center giving service to children and adults.

As evidence of this growth and increase in service, the Lynnfield Library System is now recognized among professional library groups as a good example of how a small library with limited means can serve its community and the potential and need for further expansion of library service in a growing community. Last summer a group of fifty librarians enrolled in a course at the University of New Hampshire visited the library to study its facilities.

The youth of the community have been making more extensive use of the reference room. During 1961 there have been times when the seating capacity has been inadequate, and the youth who wanted to use the reference room either waited in turn or left the library unserved. This lack of floor space has left no room for the adult patron who wanted to read in the library or look up some specific information. With the accelerated reading programs in the Lynnfield schools and with the encouragement that many children receive from their parents, the Trustees have noted that the children's browsing area and seating capacity are limited.

Problems of this type prompted the Trustees to request that the Board of Selectmen appoint a Library Facilities Committee. This Committee will give its report with specific recommendations at the Town Meeting in 1962.

A close liason continues to exist between the schools and the library. During National Library Week the elementary school children participated in a quiz called "Who's Who in Books"; and in November during Book Week the children used various media for sharing their favorite stories. Attractive displays of children's work were arranged in both libraries under the direction of Mrs. Flewelling and Miss Mary Silke, art supervisor in the elementary schools. The sixth graders have visited the main library for a talk on how to locate the books they need. Many of the reference books that junior-senior high school students need have been made available in the library, and a section has been reserved for books on the junior-senior high school reading lists.

During 1961 over one thousand children have attended the Saturday morning story hours, and one hundred and eighty-two children received Tom Sawyer Reading Club diplomas. This was the summer reading club sponsored by the Friends and conducted by the library staff. Last spring all of the kindergartens, including one hundred and twenty-seven children, visited the library for a get-acquainted tour.

The head librarian has been trying to serve the adult readers through careful book selection tailored to the literary interests of the adult readers, their recreational choices, and their hobbies. Many books have been purchased on a gamut of subjects including photography, golf, art appreciation, and investment.

The Board of Trustees are particularly pleased with the professional growth of its staff members. Mrs. Lois Flewelling, head librarian, received her certificate in library science from the University of New Hampshire. Mrs. Virginia Goring and Mrs. Hester Cronburg, members of the cataloging department, are completing a highly technical course in cataloging. Mrs. Marjorie Potter and Mrs. Ruth Wiley have been enrolled in a course on library work with children and young adults. Mrs. Mildred Cooper has completed courses given by the Massachusetts Department of Education, Division of Library Extension.

The Friends of the Library have continued their activities on behalf of the library. They initiated a highly successful Friends of the Library Lecture Series, sponsored an open house and program during National Library Week, and last fall conducted the first used-book sale on the Common. The Trustees are grateful for the diligent work of the Friends both in the library and for the library.

The annual silver tea and art exhibit was held at the main library in April sponsored by the Center Club, and seasonal flower arrangements have been provided on a monthly basis by the Center Garden Club, the Village Garden Club, and the Lynnfield Garden Club.

The Trustees wish to acknowledge their appreciation for gifts received by the library from organizations and individuals. Not only has the library profited by these gifts, but the Trustees feel that through gifts and endowments the individual's civic interest is being perpetuated before the community.

Heartfelt appreciation is expressed to Mr. James Y. Lake who retired as library trustee after ten years of faithful service. Mr. Charles Herlihy was appointed to serve as trustee.

The Trustees believe that the library has an unlimited opportunity for public service. The work that has been done in Lynnfield is noteworthy. However, the community, the staff, and the trustees must continue to be alert to the specific needs of our own community, Lynnfield, if the public library is going to assume its true role as the greatest agency for free education.

Annual Report

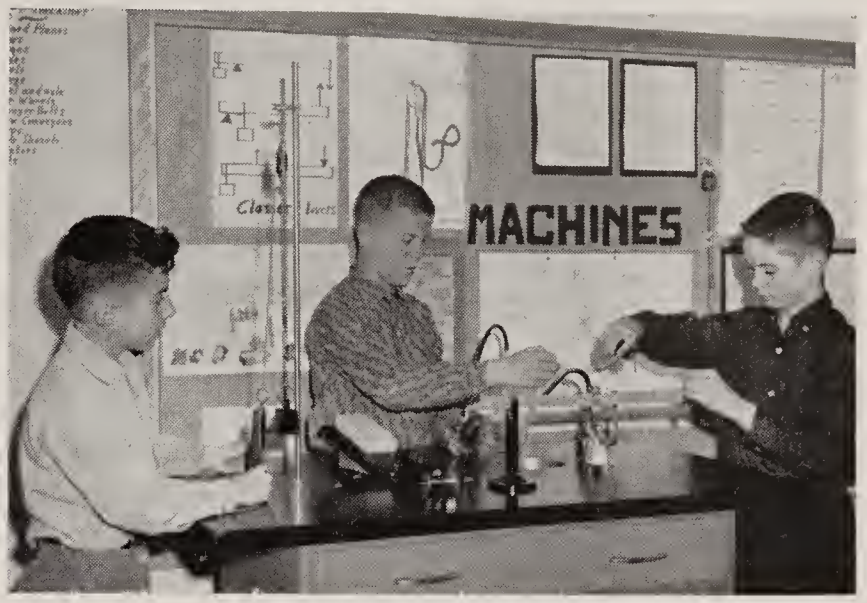
The schools of today are faced with many challenges. Each year since the advent of the space age, more and better education has been expected of the schools. At a time when more is expected the school population is growing, the supply of good teachers is not keeping pace, and the costs of education are rising. There is an increasing public awareness of the importance of education to the future of our nation, and the press is flooded with articles urging more science education, more stress on a speaking knowledge of foreign languages, greater emphasis on physical fitness, and more attention to the academically talented students. When the schools plan programs to meet the needs of the more able, they are often confronted with the criticism that the average student is being forgotten.

In this report are indicated some of the ways in which your school department is endeavoring to give adequate science preparation to those qualified, to offer increased opportunities in languages, to stress physical fitness, and at the same time to give each child, whether he is talented, average, or a slow learner, the opportunity to develop to his highest potential.

Personnel

We necessarily are concerned with such problems as transportation, housing, equipment, and the cost of all of these items, but fundamentally, the most important factor in the entire educational process is the teacher. Your superintendent and principals spend a considerable amount of time in the selection of new teachers.

Superintendent and principals in conference



Elementary Science Class

This starts with a study of the records and recommendations of many applicants. From these are selected a small group of the most promising to be interviewed for each position. Travel, both in and out of the state, is involved because whenever possible an applicant being considered is observed at work in the classroom.

Newly-appointed teachers meet with the superintendent and principals for orientation before assuming definite teaching duties. They have an opportunity to become familiar with the philosophy and policies of the school system and with their individual assignments. They are introduced to our methods of grouping, subject-matter outlines, and grading practices. The new teachers learn what specialists will be available to assist them, and this year were taken on a tour of the town to acquaint them in general with the community in which their pupils live.

In-service training of personnel has not been neglected. All elementary teachers participated in a science workshop this year and teachers of Grades 1 through 6 had a map and globe workshop which, in this era of changing world geography, was extremely helpful.

In the high school, the department heads hold regular meetings to coordinate the work of the department, to share information on new materials and techniques, and to discuss ideas for strengthening the department. The department heads also visit teachers in the classroom, and work with them individually to recognize their problems and to develop effective procedures.

The Rev. Ariel Chute while in Lynnfield kept a select school, in 1850, which was greatly appreciated.

There is a very high interest on the part of our teachers in acquiring further training. During 1961, approximately 50% of our teaching staff took courses, either during the school year or in summer sessions. Several high school teachers studied new developments in science and mathematics in courses sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Conventions and conferences are also important in keeping teaching and administrative personnel abreast of new developments in education. Your superintendent attended the annual convention of the National Association of School Administrators, and two principals attended the National Principals' Conventions. Lynnfield also had representatives at various regional and state conferences.

Our schools have continued the practice of accepting student teachers from several of the accredited colleges in the area. More and more attention is being focused on this important part of a teacher's training. Most of these students spend a period of six weeks in our system under the guidance of experienced teachers. They first observe, assist in planning, and later take over the actual teaching. During this period the colleges send faculty members to observe the student teachers at work in the classroom. From these practice teachers, Lynnfield has acquired some excellent, regular staff members, young men and women who are already familiar with our school system.

In September, 1961, the teaching staff was enlarged. One of the additions was a third guidance counselor to provide the recommended minimum of one counselor for every three hundred high school pupils.

The part-time speech therapist is now a full-time member of the staff, working with children at all grade levels, including the high school. One hundred two children are at present receiving therapy, and classroom teachers and many parents are working closely with the therapist in helping the boys and girls overcome their difficulties. The Director of the Boston University Speech and Hearing Department has thought highly enough of our work in this field to observe it several times and ask us to permit a student teacher to observe and assist our therapist.

Part-time assistants were added in music and art, and provision was made for increased time to be given to remedial reading work at the elementary level.

At the end of the 1959-60 school year, both the principal and assistant principal of the high school resigned to take positions elsewhere. From a considerable number of applicants, Mr. Linwood Clarke was elected principal and Mr. Leonard Nihan as assistant principal. Both men came highly recommended and both have had experience in high school administration.

Curriculum

The elementary course of study outlines prepared last year has proven very helpful and has been especially valuable to teachers new to the system. Emphasis has been placed on the basic arithmetic, reading and spelling, and the achievement tests indicate good results. In these fundamental tools of learning, sixth graders as a group entering high school were achieving well above the national norms, and their test scores compared favorably with similar groups in highly-rated New England school systems.

By grouping within the classroom for certain subjects, by team learning, and by various other methods, provision has been made to encourage each child to progress according to his ability. Opportunities for the more able students to do individual research have been increased, while the slower learners have more time to spend mastering the fundamentals.

Science at the elementary level is being emphasized. A number of teachers of the intermediate grades have taken courses to increase their understanding of the new phases of science. With National Defense Funds a portable scientific laboratory together with a cabinet for science materials was purchased. This has made possible many simple laboratory demonstrations and experiments for the intermediate grades.

The elementary program was enriched early in 1961 when for five weeks Lynnfield had as a guest observer, Miss Carmen Ochoa, an elementary teacher from Mexico City. Miss Ochoa was one of a large group of foreign teachers spending several months studying in the United States under a Federal grant. The pupils in many of the elementary classes heard first-hand information about our southern neighbor and the life of the people there. Teachers and administrators also profited by discussing with Miss Ochoa the educational methods in use in Mexico's largest city school system.

An excellent source of curriculum aid in both the elementary grades and the high school was the Community Resources File prepared by the Parent Teacher Association Council. Many residents listed in this File have contributed to the school program by coming to the schools at appropriate times to talk to classes on their work, hobbies, or travel experiences.

In the high school the curriculum has undergone some changes to bring it into line with present-day thinking. The Grade 9 Civics course has been replaced by a more intensive one called American Government, which stresses the operation of our government at local, state, and national levels.

The high-ability groups in mathematics and some of the sciences are using college-level textbooks, and in several areas specific preparation for advanced placement in colleges is being given.

Lynnfield High School has entered the Massachusetts Mathematics League, and in competition with North Shore schools its team of ten members has compiled a fine record.

Beginnings in large-group teaching were made in the social studies and science departments. In these groups, new material is presented in lecture form, often illustrated through the use of such audio-visual aids such as television, slides, and the overhead projector. The lecture work is supplemented by textbook assignments, problems, research and map or laboratory work done either as individual projects or in small groups.

Public speaking was added to the course offerings. This gives training not for competitive speaking, but for the kind needed in situations which arise in college or business life.

The language laboratory purchased with National Defense funds is in almost constant use. It has aroused greater interest in foreign languages and is proving very advantageous. A "French Team" is being formed for oral competition with similar teams already in existence in other schools. We are evaluating the results of our conversational French classes in Grades 7 and 8 and stabilizing the language program.

Senior High boys' gym class

Plans are being made to offer a second modern language in the high school next year.

The music program has continued to grow with large numbers of elementary and junior high pupils taking instruction on instruments. All elementary pupils are receiving instruction in note-reading and in the sixth grades three-part choral music is part of the program.

To meet a need for better study habits a course in this is offered to all students in Grades 9 through 12. Students in Grades 9 and 10 may also elect a six week's course in Reading Improvement. This is not remedial work, but developmental reading for those who recognize their need to improve either their comprehension or their speed.

In the physical education program, training for physical fitness has been the major objective. In all elementary schools a daily, ten-minute exercise program has been introduced. In the high school a comprehensive fitness course is carried on, weaknesses determined by tests, and the exercise periods planned to correct these weaknesses.

Health

Two forward steps have been taken in the health program. A two-year dental survey in cooperation with the State Department of Public Health was begun early in 1961. A dental hygienist examined the teeth of all children in Grades 1, 3, and 5. Reexaminations of these same children are scheduled for early in 1962, and from the results of this survey, it will be determined whether or not there is need for any dental program in the Lynnfield schools.

A simple diabetes test was conducted for two groups of students. This was a voluntary test and was carried on by the seventh grade science and tenth grade biology classes in cooperation with the Health Office.

Guidance

With the addition of a third counselor, the Guidance Department is now able to keep in closer touch with individual students. The record on college admissions is good, and in the future

Mrs. Minnigh and her first grade students climbing the "spelling ladder" should be even better as many of our graduates, by their scholastic achievement in college, are reflecting credit on their high school. The comprehensive testing program has been continued and results interpreted to parents to aid them in advising their young people.

Our school system has been selected to participate in two programs of national interest. The Educational Testing Service, the national organization which administers College Board Examinations, is currently making a study of Academic Prediction and Growth, hoping to obtain information on how early predictions can be made of (a) academic strength of Grade 12 pupils, and (b) characteristics of high school drop-outs. Several types of schools are being used in this study and Lynnfield is in the group with few drop-outs and a high percentage of pupils going on to further education. For this study special tests were administered to students in Grades 5, 7, 9, and 11. In return for our assistance in this study, students in Grade 12 are being permitted to take College Board Examinations without paying the usual fee.

A second program in which Lynnfield is to participate soon is one designed to increase the supply of trained guidance counselors. To this end the National Defense Education Act provides certain colleges and universities with funds to give counselor-trainees actual experience in field work in public school systems. Because it has a good program in operation, our high school has been selected as one of the pilot schools where some of these counselors-in-training may do their field work.

Extracurricular Activities

It is difficult to define some of the so-called extra-curricular activities as such for many are tied very closely to the academic work in various areas.

The High School has become a member of the National Forensic League. Many students are learning techniques of research as well as receiving training in speaking as part of their preparation for participation in the League's debating tournaments.

Students from our school took part in the New England Chemical Society's TV Science Quiz. Photography Club, Physics Club, and other science groups are strictly extra-curricular in that they meet in after-school hours, but they are still related very closely to the courses in the curriculum.

Bands, at all levels, have grown in proficiency and in numbers. A highlight of 1961 was the High School Band's participation in the Cherry Blossom Festival Parade in Washington, D.C. This trip was made possible by the financial support of the Band Boosters and other interested citizens, and gave many students their first opportunity to see our nation's capital city.

1961 was a banner year in the athletic program, not merely because of successful seasons in all sports, but because of the number of students involved. The usual sports attracted greater numbers than ever before and golf and tennis teams were added. Plans were made for an ice-hockey team, and 1962 should see this group ready for interscholastic competition. The true value in offering a large variety of sports is in the increased number of boys and girls who take part, thus building themselves physically, and developing valuable character traits by working as members of a team.

Looking Ahead

In looking ahead we consider first the housing facilities. Elementary classroom space is not an immediate problem. The average size of our elementary groups on November 1, 1961 was 26. Because there will be some intermediate grade pupils transferring to the parochial school during the next few years, it seems likely that for a short time we can continue to house our elementary pupils in the present classrooms.

When the new high school is ready for use, there should be temporarily some free rooms in the present high school building. These can then be used for upper elementary grades until such time as they are needed by the Junior High School.

The secondary school is the place where our vital space problem exists. During 1961 two additional rooms were made available for high school use by the transfer of the general administrative offices to the Griffin House. In September, 1962, based on present enrollments, we expect approximately 1,014 students in Grades 7 through 12, and this will necessarily place some limitations on our program at a time when we should be expanding our offerings. It is hoped that by continued use of the auditorium for large groups, possible lengthening of the school day, and other devices to utilize to the fullest all available space, we can operate for one more school year without resorting to double sessions. However, some such plan seems inevitable by September, 1963.

The citizens of Lynnfield have wisely recognized this problem and voted the purchase of a site for a new senior high school. The Building Committee has been appointed and has begun its work. The teachers and administrators have been visiting new schools throughout the state, and are developing the educational specifications without which an architect cannot effectively plan a school building.

In determining our educational needs we are faced with many problems. Many changes in both curriculum and instructional techniques are being publicized. We cannot ignore the need for our students to learn more, for example, about Africa and Latin America than they have in the past, nor can we disregard the excellent results obtained by some of the new teaching techniques. Our problem is to weigh values and adopt for our use those changes and new methods which seem to fit our particular needs. We should proceed with moderation following perhaps the familiar words of Alexander Pope,

"Be not the first by whom the new is tried Nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

There will always be problems and challenges in education, and in spite of the limitations which space will impose on our high school program in 1962, we should look forward with confidence to steady improvement in the quality of our schools.

It has been a pleasure to work with a School Committee which has been vitally interested in constantly upgrading our educational program. What we have accomplished is in no small measure due to the able administrators, dedicated teachers, and loyal cooperation of the non-professional members of the staff. We have been aided by the Parent Teacher Associations and other citizen groups actively interested in the welfare of the young people. The assistance of all of these groups has been greatly appreciated.

Health Program

We make every attempt to comply with the requirements of the State law in regard to physical examination of pupils. Parents should be aware, however, that they are free to have the requisite examinations made by their family physician if they do desire, and it is hoped that as many as possible will avail themselves of this allowance under the law. Forms for this purpose may be obtained from the school nurse.

No-School Policy

School will ordinarily be in session if the buses can travel safely. However, parents may decide to keep children at home if, in their opinion, their health would be endangered by weather conditions. Under such circumstances, the judgment of the parents would be honored by school authorities. State law requires 180 days of school each year at the High School level, and therefore cancellations will be made only under extreme conditions.

No-school announcements will be made over radio stations WBZ, WHDH and WLYN when such are necessary. Ten blows on the local fire alarm system will indicate school cancellation for the applicable grade levels as follows:

7:00 a.m. High School
7:30 a.m. Elementary Schools

School Entrance Age

A child entering first grade in September must be 6 on or before December 31 following that September.

No child will be accepted in Grade 2 by transfer from a private school, or from a public school where the child has been sent on a tuition basis while his family is resident in Lynnfield, unless that child has met the above entrance age requirements for admission to Grade 1 the previous year.

A child of a family moving to Lynnfield who has already attended a public school will be accepted as assigned from that school.

Regular School Committee meetings are normally held on the first and third Mondays of each month, in the library of the High School building. Citizens are welcome at all regular meetings.

School Committee Report

Each year, the work of any committee has certain dominant characteristics. The year 1960 with the first class graduating from the High School was marked by many "firsts." During the year 1961, the School Committee had to solve problems generated by nature or forces beyond its control; however, in their solution, there was an unusually high degree of co-operation and participation by the whole community.

An interruption in the schedule of the high school building program came early in the year when the constantly challenging forces of nature prevented the percolation and boring tests at the site first proposed for the new high school. It was hoped by all that the necessary physical requirements for the site would have been met and that actual plans for the new building would develop soon after the Town Meeting in March. The tests had to be postponed until after the meeting, and then the unsatisfactory results created a whole new problem in locating another site which would prove suitable. Since time was of the essence and since individual summer vacations interfere with the effective functioning of a small committee, members of the Board of Selectmen, Finance Committee, School Committee, Planning Board, and Planning Committee helped the Site Committee expedite the complicated procedures in selecting and preparing a site for purchase. This immediate problem of providing adequate space for the high school students in the future took precedence over other considerations.

When a Special Town Meeting was called on November 20 to ask the voters to purchase the proposed site, nature again intervened with the first snow storm. The meeting was delayed by a bomb scare necessitating a re-registering of all the voters present. The willingness of the townspeople to come out in force in the inclement weather and then to remain patiently until the civil authorities had declared that all was safe was marked evidence of an awareness of the seriousness of the matter under consideration and of a willingness to co-operate in solving it by voting for the purchase of the Laubner Property on Essex Street for a school site and for the appointment of a Senior High School Building Committee. The work of the Secondary School Planning Committee with Mr. Frank M. Thomas as chairman and the Site Committee with Mr. Arthur E. Bodge as chairman was instrumental in bringing about the progress made to date.

Often during the years, the School Committee has had to adapt its programs and its actions to meet the requirements of new legislation in matters beyond the control of the committee, but this year, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts inadvertantly created a particularly complicated and ever-changing problem for Lynnfield during the course of its work on the interchange of Route 1 and Route 128. The agenda of the first meeting of 1961 presented the problem which had developed for the bus turn around that had to be made at Route 1 and Lake Street. Since one of the primary concerns of the School Committee is the safety of the children at all times, this problem was a serious one. Thanks to the cooperation of the Police Department and the Road Commissioner, a temporary solution was found by utilizing an unused ramp from Locust Street. The problem returned in April when the work had progressed so that Locust Street was blocked. A new plan which was in effect until the close of the schools in June minimized the "U turn hazard" by obtaining permission to use a rough area cleared by the State off Lake Street. By September, further growth of the Interchange had eliminated this area, and the buses had to depend upon a policeman to control the traffic while making the turn. The cost of this police duty was borne by the State. As the year closes and the completion of the Interchange is in sight, a new and more permanent solution to the situation is being sought through the co-operation of the Board of Selectmen, the State District Highway Engineer, the Commissioner of Public Works, the Police Department and the Road Commissioner.

The precarious world situation is another major force which has made unusual demands on the School Committee. The problem of providing safe shelter in the event of an attack is of great concern to the committee just as it is to all the citizens. The committee has kept informed through Civilian Defense Authorities and all professional personnel available for consultation. However, in the absence of any definite recommendations by national authorities for adequate structures or procedures to follow in such an emergency, the Committee has not made any recommendation for a building program for fall-out shelters, but plans have been made to utilize the best possible area in each existing school building. The Community has again evidenced its understanding in appreciating the complexity of this problem which will be studied continuously in the ensuing year.

The use of the school buildings by townspeople is another physical problem which is under the jurisdiction of the School Committee. On several occasions this year, confusion arose concerning the policy governing the use of the facilities. To clarify this situation, a committee was formed with Mr. Myron S. Wilson as chairman, composed of one member each from the School Committee, Board of Selectmen, Finance Committee, and 3 members at large. These citizens analyzed the existing policy and fees charged, then submitted their report to the School Committee for study. The revised policy adopted by the School Committee provides, as it has done in the past, for the use of the buildings by groups of Lynnfield citizens when the facilities are not being use for a school function with charges set that approximate the "out of pocket" cost incurred by the group renting the facilities.

The School Committee, the entire staff, and the Town were saddened by the death of Mrs. Mildreth Rourke, third grade teacher at the Center School on November 26, 1961. Those who knew her personally, felt that it indeed had been a privilege. In her steady teaching methods and quiet classroom control, she gave the students the kind of basic education that both the students and parents appreciated and understood, and yet she included any new methods of presentation which had proven to be most effective. Her demonstration of a typical classroom at a P.T.A. meeting in 1960 held the audience spellbound as the parents watched the ease and sympathy with which she encouraged each child to contribute to the discussion. Her patience, mature wisdom, and quiet sense of humor have left a rich heritage and memory in the hearts of her many students and associates. They have known a real teacher.

Nature has also at times acted in a favorable manner, and the sun shone on the second Sunday in June making possible the first outdoor graduation exercises. The School Committee joined with the many townspeople who were in attendance at the Varsity Field in a special pride in the accomplishments of this second graduating class in scholarship and in the achievement of its members in the extra-curricula activities, such as the unusually high records of the athletic teams, the success of the new debating team, and the recognition of the band in its invitation to play in the Cherry Blossom Festival.

This report has stressed the physical aspects of the school system rather than the academic, but these pressing problems have to be met. The Committee, however, is always aware that the teachers and their teaching is the most important facet of its many responsibilities. In the course of discussing the building program this year, the Committee has had widespread contact with the parents and from this, a reaffirmation of their educational desires. There have been special meetings with the Citizens Advisory Committee, and good attendance at the regular meetings by the P.T.A. representatives. Close contact is maintained with the teachers so that they are always aware of what the Town wants in education.

This recognition of the importance of the role of the teacher makes the adoption of an equitable teachers' salary schedule one of the major considerations of the School Committee. After meeting with the Teachers' Salary Committee and studying the schedules of all other cities and towns in the Commonwealth, a new proposal was made this year for a schedule which will provide a satisfactory incentive for all teachers to remain in the Lynnfield System and to attract good new teachers. The salary of a teacher is not the only consideration in creating a good teaching environment; adequate space, the number of students in a class, and the willingness of the community to provide the necessary materials to make quality teaching possible all combine to make a teacher most able to be productive in his work.

The research and work on all problems by Dr. John A. Redmond, Superintendent of Schools, and his staff expedite the business at the regular meetings. The professional leadership of Dr. Redmond has elevated and stabilized the standards of the school system so that it is receiving outside recognition and is attracting families to the community. His annual report discusses the academic progress of the system.

The regular meetings are held the first and third Monday of each month at 8:00 p.m. in the High School Library, and any citizen of the community is welcome to attend.

Richard L. Hobbs

The year 1962 has been an extremely active year for the Board of Selectmen. Although it has been a period wherein the Town has continued to grow at a moderate pace, the year has nonetheless been one of important events and of crises that will effect community affairs in the years to come.

The Board of Selectmen usually meets every Thursday evening. The meetings are open to the public who are always welcome. In addition to regular meetings, special meetings and hearings on subjects of special interest are often scheduled. The board of Selectmen also frequently attends the meetings of other boards or committees in an attempt to coordinate overall town policy.

Space limitation does not permit a detailed report on all of the meetings or subjects that have been acted upon by your Selectmen; however, the following is a brief summary of some of the more interesting items that have received the Board's attention during the year.

The Board has appointed a committee to study the ultimate possibility of merging the Lynnfield and Lynnfield Center water districts and has requested a report prior to the 1963 Town Meeting.

A local Transportation Committee has been appointed to represent the town in all matters concerning the field of public transportation. The Committee will work with the State Transportation Committee and regional groups relative to the formation of all policies that may be proposed or enacted in this field insofar as they concern Lynnfield.

Patrolman Casimiro Navas graduated from the Identification and Photographic School of the Massachusetts State Police and the Board was congratulated by State Police officials on the excellence of his work while a student. As a result of this training, Lynnfield now has its own Identification Division and during the short period of time that it has been in existence it has proved to be of tremendous value.

Patrolmen Paul Jensen and Paul Madden have also graduated from the State Police Academy at Framingham. Sergeant Norman Grady was appointed a Captain in the Department and Sergeant Frank Martin a Detective-Sergeant. A separate report on the activities of the Police Department, as prepared by the Chief of Police, is found elsewhere in this Annual Report.

The Board adjusted the rental rates of the South Meeting Hall so that they would approximate those charged for similar facilities by the School Department. In line with its policy of encouraging the development of youth activities, no charges will be made for the use of the basement area in this building by youth organizations.

The Selectmen continued their policy of prohibiting the use of pinball machines in the town by its refusal to issue any further licenses for this type of activity during the current year.

The New England Telephone & Telegraph Company conducted a survey of telephone service for the entire town at the Board of Selectmen's request in an effort to achieve a uniform and greater service range for the entire community as well as a more favorable rate structure. A new telephone exchange building is to be built in Lynnfield and it is expected that telephone users will receive improved service and greater range for local calls as well as an optional service at a nominal additional cost to the Metropolitan Boston area.

It is regrettable that the Department of Public Works and the Massachusetts Legislature did not see fit to honor our request for a pedestrian overpass over Route 128 at Grove Street leading to Newhall Park. It is considered extremely dangerous for children to cross 128 at this point in order to gain access to the park which is the only recreational area in this section of town.

The Board of Selectmen has spent a considerable amount of time in attempting to acquire the island in Suntaug Lake for the Town of Lynnfield to be held in trust as a green area by the Conservation Commission. Up to this point their efforts have not proved very successful.

Early in 1962 reports of varying voltage to Lynnfield users by the Peabody Electric System were brought to the Board's attention. This matter was discussed with officials of the utility company and later in 1962 the Town of Lynnfield conveyed a parcel of tax title property to the City of Peabody for the sum of $1000.00 in order that its electric company might construct an additional sub-station to serve the needs of Lynnfield users in the southerly section of town. It is gratifying to report that this sub-station is now in operation and that uniform voltage is being distributed throughout the system.

On March 8, 1962 Mason J. Condon was elected to his third consecutive three year term on the Board of Selectmen.

This year the Board, in accordance with the vote of the Annual Town Meeting, instituted wage adjustments for the Lynnfield Police Department. This action received favorable editorial comment by a local newspaper. The Board feels that a living wage is essential to the maintenance of high employment standards; basically, they feel you get what you pay for. In spite of the favorable wage structure that we now have however, we still continue to face difficulties in attracting candidates to fill vacancies in our Police Organization.

In accordance with the vote of the Annual Town Meeting, the Board has appointed an Industrial Commission to investigate the possibility of attracting desirable commercial enterprises to Lynnfield in order to provide a more realistically balanced tax base. Presently, residential property owners carry better than 97% of the tax load. This Commission has explored several attractive possibilities.

The Board has also appointed a committee to study the possibility of obtaining from the City of Peabody limited recreational rights for the use of the ice surface during the winter months on Suntaug Lake. They have not received the whole-hearted cooperation of responsible officials of our neighboring community. Nonetheless, they are continuing in their efforts.

During the year the Conservation Commission has acquired several parcels of land to be held as green areas. Some have been acquired by direct grants from private parties, others by order of the Board of Selectmen transferring tax title property to the Commission.

In accordance with the vote of the Annual Town Meeting the Board adopted, at its April 5, 1962 meeting, an order of taking of the Laubner property on Essex Street for the construction of a new high school. A Building Committee was appointed to secure preliminary plans and specifications and cost estimates for this purpose. The preliminary plans have received the approval of the Board of Selectmen, the Planning Board, the Finance Committee and the School Committee, and a Town Meeting is scheduled for January 28, 1963 to take action on this matter.

As a result of Town Meeting action the Board appointed a Municipal Building Committee to secure preliminary plans, specifications and cost estimates for a new municipal building to replace the existing Town Hall. The committee engaged Mr. John Guarino, a local resident, as the Architect for this project, and the preliminary plans have been approved by the Board of Selectmen, the Planning Board and the Finance Committee, and an article has been inserted in the 1963 Annual Warrant in order that the voters may take action on this project.

For some time the Board of Selectmen has had varying opinions on the feasibility of establishing a Municipal Electric Light Board. Utility companies of this sort operating in many towns throughout the Commonwealth have contributed greatly toward the reduction of electric rates and also in a very real manner toward the reduction of local tax rates by direct grants from their surplus funds to the treasury of the town. The Board appointed a Citizens Committee to study this problem and determine whether or not, in fact, such a venture was feasible or practical. The Committee has reported back to the Board that it appears from the initial investigations such a move would be advantageous for the town. However, prior to instituting any legislative action along these lines, the Committee felt the Selectmen should insert an Article in the 1963 warrant requesting funds in order that a professional engineering study by competent utility engineers might be made to determine the feasibility of this venture with absolute certainty.

The temporary electric sub-station of the Reading Municipal Light Board on Summer Street near the B & M Railroad tracks has been removed.

The Board of Selectmen voted to award a contract for a new sign for the Lynnfield Police Station. The sign is now in operation and it is felt to be a distinct improvement.

At the annual town election the voters of the town voted in favor of a referendum question which provided group health insurance for town employees. A contract was advertised for this type of insurance and in June of this year awarded to the lowest bidder to be effective on July 1, 1962 for all employees who desire to participate. This type of insurance is similar to that provided by many private industries, the Commonwealth, the County, and other cities and towns for their employees, whereby the individual pays fifty percent and the town fifty percent.

Mrs. Ann Cox, Postmaster of Lynnfield for many years retired, and the President of the United States appointed John P. Callahan of Main Street, a career employee in the postal service, to succeed her.

Many residents of the Sherwood Forest area of Lynnfield were aggravated by smoke and fumes from the Peabody dump. After the Board had taken routine steps to alleviate the condition by requesting a cessation of this activity on the part of Peabody officials and no results were forthcoming, the Selectmen supported legislation to terminate the condition of burning at this dump. This legislation was adopted by the 1962 Legislature as Chapter 724 of the Acts of 1962.

In July of this year Mr. Robert Peabody, who had served for several years with distinction as Clerk of the Board of Selectmen, tendered his resignation due to the pressure of personal business. Subsequently, on August 2, 1962 the Board appointed Mrs. Ruth Hall as Clerk of the Board to succeed Mr. Peabody. During the same period of the time Selectmen Ralph Dwight, who had acted as Chairman of the Board since March, tendered his resignation as Chairman due to the pressure of his personal business, and Selectman Mason J. Condon was elected his successor.

In September of 1962 the League of Women Voters held a pre-primary meeting of United States Senatorial candidates in the high school auditorium. It probably was the first time in many years when candidates for so high an office presented themselves before the Lynnfield electorate. The League of Women Voters is to be congratulated for their civic activities in this regard.

An open house was held at both Fire Stations and the Police Station in order that interested residents of the town might view these facilities. Also on display was the new fire engine which was accepted this year by the Board of Selectmen upon the written recommendation of the Fire Chief.

A survey of the weed condition in Pillings Pond has been conducted by a qualified biological control organization. While it is realized that this is a private body of water not owned by the town, the value of property along its shoreline is nonetheless of direct interest to the town government, for if the property values of this real estate are lowered due to an accelerated weed growth condition in the body of water thereby making it little more than a swamp, the town would suffer an indirect financial setback in the amount of taxable revenue collected from this source. An article is being prepared for submission to the people at the 1963 Annual Town Meeting asking for an appropriation of money to provide a chemical treatment which will eliminate this aquatic growth. A treatment of this sort has proved very successful in the neighboring Town of Wakefield and we have every reason to feel that it will be equally successful in Pillings Pond.

A hearing was held by the Board relative to the straightening out of "dead-man's curve" on Salem Street due to the frequency of fatal and near-fatal accidents at this location. As a result of the hearing the Board has requested the County of Essex to make a layout for this work for the 1963 fiscal year.

We are happy to report that Lynnfield once again was awarded a plaque for second place in towns throughout the Commonwealth for the excellence of its Town Report for the year 1961. We have been indeed fortunate that in recent years this has been the rule rather than the exception. The Town Report Committee is to be congratulated.

The weekend of October 5, 1962 produced near chaos in several areas of the town due to torrential rains which virtually inundated several sections and caused severe flood damage in many others. The Fire Department and various Civil Defense components responded to several hundred requests by the citizenry for pumping out water in cellars. While this was an extreme condition and is not likely to reoccur in the near future, the Board nonetheless recognized the weakness of its overall drainage system throughout the town and took immediate steps to cause an engineering survey to be made of the entire town. An immediate request was made for the transfer of $2500.00 to survey areas which were most adversely affected during the flood period and which, it was felt, might be corrected prior to the setting in of winter weather. As the result of this initial survey a Town Meeting was held on November 19, 1962 at which time it was voted to appropriate a sum of money for the immediate construction of dainage conduits and the widening of streams in critical areas. An additional sum was also appropriated for the continuation of the engineering survey toward the development of a master drainage plan for the Town of Lynnfield. It is expected that this report will be in the hands of the Board of Selectmen in sufficient time that we may request such funds as may be necessary for the 1963 budget. The drainage study is administered by a committee comprising of a member of the Board of Selectmen, a member of the Finance Committee, and a member of the Planning Board, with the Road Commissioner serving in an ex-officio capacity. Upon the completion of the engineering study Lynnfield will, for the first time, have a consolidated picture of drainage from outside as well as within the town insofar as the community interest is concerned.

It is regrettable that a near disaster was required to properly accentuate the critical nature of the problem. It can be said, however, that once the situation was recognized, proper steps and implementing action was taken forthwith to prevent a re-occurrence in the future. In fact, Lynnfield is one of the few communities who have done more than talk, we have acted.

The 1962 state-wide election created great interest throughout the Commonwealth and in the Town of Lynnfield when for sometime it was doubtful as to who was to be the newly elected governor. When this condition became obvious to the Board of Selectmen the Chief of Police was ordered to place the ballot box under constant surveillance. As a result the ballot boxes were moved to the Police Station where a twenty-four hour guard was maintained pending the recount. It is heartening to observe that hardly any change of vote in Lynnfield was noted as the result of this recount.

In early December a sub-committee charged with preparing implementing legislation for the Town Government Study Committee, which reported earlier in the year, presented proposed legislation for the formation and adoption of an Executive Secretary form of government. A hearing was scheduled in the high school auditorium in order that citizens of the town might have a first hand opportunity to discuss this matter with both the full Municipal Study Committee and the sub-committee. As a result of this hearing the Selectmen have taken the report under advisement and will explore the aspects that were brought out at the hearing with the Committee and other town bodies.

As we approach the year of 1963 it appears that the town will be called upon to make a decision on the possible reorganization of its form of government. The construction of a new and badly needed town office building, the providing of educational housing to satisfy the demands upon the school system, the possible establishment of a Municipal Electric Company, and the merging of the two water districts within the town.

Any of these items itself would be of great significance in any year. The fact that we will face some action on them all in one year is a positive indication of the town's growth and the demands that must be satisfied to maintain an efficient operation of town government.

The Board expresses its thanks to the many dedicated employees and other elected and appointed officials who have so generously given of their time and ability for the furtherance of good government. Their cooperation has been greatly appreciated with the knowledge that without this type of participation in town affairs our form of government could not long endure.

The proposed amendment would add a new Article to the Constitution of the Commonwealth by which full power and authority is granted to the General Court, in the alternative to the power and authority to tax incomes in the manner provided in Article XLIV of the Amendments to the Constitution, to impose a tax on incomes at rates which are proportioned or graduated according to the amount of income received, irrespective of the source from which it may be derived, and to grant reasonable exemptions, deductions and abatements. It further provides that any property the income of which is taxes under the provisions of the proposed Article may be exempted from the imposition and levying of proportional and reasonable assessments, rates and taxes as at present authorized by the Constitution, and that the Article shall not be construed to limit the power of the General Court to impose and levy reasonable duties and excises.

ACCOUNTANT'S CERTIFICATE

I have examined the cash receipts and securities in the various Trust Funds in the hands of the Treasurer and find them to be as stated in the Treasurer's report. The income from Trust Funds in the hands of others have been received for the year 1962 and credited to the proper accounts. The receipts as reported by the Treasurer agree with the books, and that payments of the town correctly present the financial status as of December 31, 1962.

I take this opportunity to thank the Honorable Board of Selectmen, all Town Officers, all Town Employees, and the Town Report Committee who have contributed so much of their time and talent in compiling this report.

THEODORE C. PALIZZOLO
Town Accountant

Report Of State Auditor

Mr. Arthur H. MacKinnon
Director of Accounts
Department of Corporations and Taxation
Boston, Massachusetts

As directed by you, I have made an audit of the books and accounts of the town of Lynnfield for the period from May 22, 1960, the date of the previous examination, to July 28, 1962, the following report being submitted thereon:

The records of financial transactions of the several departments receiving or disbursing money for the town or committing bills for collection were examined and checked with the records of the Town accountant and town treasurer.

The books and accounts in the town accountant's office were examined and checked in detail. The receipts, as recorded, were compared with the treasurer's books and with the records in the several departments collecting money for the town, while the recorded payments were checked with the treasurer's cash book and with the treasury warrants. The appropriations and transfers, as entered, were checked with the town clerk's records of town meeting votes and with the finance committee's records of transfers authorized from the reserve fund.

An analysis was made of the ledger accounts, a trial balance was taken off, the necessary adjustments resulting from the audit were made, and a balance sheet, a copy of which is appended to this report, was prepared showing the financial condition of the town as of July 28, 1962.

The books and records of the town treasurer were examined and checked in detail. The cash book additions were verified, and the recorded receipts were compared with the town accountant's books, with the records of the several departments collecting money for the town, and with other sources from which money is paid into the town treasury. The recorded payments were checked with the selectmen's warrants authorizing the treasurer to disburse town funds and with the accountant's records.

The cash balance on July 28, 1962 was proved by reconciliation of the bank balances with statements furnished by the banks of deposit, and by actual count of the cash in the office.

The payments on account of maturing debt and interest were verified by comparison with the amounts falling due and were checked with the cancelled securities and coupons on file. The outstanding coupons were listed and reconciled with the amounts on deposit for their payment, as shown by statements furnished by the depositories.

The records of payroll deductions on account of Federal and State taxes, the county and teachers' retirement systems, and group insurance were examined and checked with the treasurer's books, while the balances in the general treasury on July 28, 1962 were proved.

The records of tax titles and tax possessions held by the town were examined and checked, and all transactions pertaining thereto were verified. The tax titles and tax possessions on hand were listed and checked with the records at the Registry of Deeds.

The savings bank books and securities representing the investment of the trust and investment funds in the custody of the town treasurer and the trustees were examined and listed. The income was proved, and all transactions and balances were verified and checked with the books of the town accountant.

The books of the tax collector were examined and checked. The town and water district taxes and excise outstanding at the time of the previous examination, together with all subsequent commitment lists, were audited and checked with the assessors' warrants issued for their collection. The recorded collections were compared with the payments to the town and district treasurers, the abatements, as recorded, were proved with the assessors' records of abatements granted, the transfers to the tax title account were proved, and the outstanding accounts were listed and reconciled with the respective controlling accounts in the accountant's ledger.

The cash on hand July 28, 1962 was proved by reconciliation of the bank balance with a statement furnished by the bank of deposit, by verification of the deposit in transit, and by actual count of the cash in the office.

Further verification of the outstanding town and district taxes and excise was made by mailing notices to a number of persons whose names appeared on the books as owing money to the town and the districts, the replies received thereto indicating that the outstanding accounts, as listed, are correct.

The financial records of the town clerk were examined and checked in detail. The records of receipts on account of dog and sporting licenses, as well as from miscellaneous charges, were examined, checked, and compared with the payments to the treasurer and the Division of Fisheries and Game.

The records of departmental collections by the selectmen, the sealer of weights and measures, and the inspectors of buildings, plumbing, and wiring, as well as by the police, fire, health, school, library, and cemetery departments, and by all other departments in which money was collected for the town, were examined and checked. The recorded collections were compared with the payments to the treasurer as shown by the treasurer's and the accountant's records, and the cash on hand in the several departments, including petty cash advances, was proved by actual count.

The surety bonds on file for the several town officials required by law to furnish them for the faithful performance of their duties were examined and found to be in proper form.

Appended to this report, in addition to the balance sheet, are tables showing reconciliations of the treasurer's and tax collector's cash, summaries of the tax, excise, tax title, tax possession, and departmental accounts, together with schedules showing the condition and transactions of the several trust and investment funds.

During the progress of the audit cooperation was received from all town officials, for which, on behalf of my assistants and for myself, I wish to express appreciation.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM SCHWARTZ
Assistant Director of Accounts

Robert W. Peabody was appointed temporary clerk in April. The new Mack (Engine 1) was received in August and placed in service at Company 2 in September. A new radio was purchased and installed in Deputy Chief Natoli's private vehicle in June, and in December, Engine 3 was repaired and upgraded costing $1195.00.

Deputy Chief Joseph Natoli, Jr., drillmaster, conducted 39 weekly drills which allowed Department personnel to maintain and increase their knowledge and efficiency. Seventeen officer meetings were held, allowing discussion of Department operations and problems. The Fire Prevention Bureau, under Private Stephen L. Koch, spent 466 manhours on the following:

48 - Oil Burner Inspections
6 - L. P. Gas Inspections
25 - Public School Inspections
13 - Kindergarten Inspections
76 - Business Inspections
14 - Church Inspections
4 - Nursing Home Inspections
18 - Town Building Inspections

The Fire Alarm Maintenance operation, under Supervisor James V. Thompson, continued to improve the municipal alarm system. A study and report by the New England Fire Insurance Rating Association in July was of much value in providing information to allow us to program an orderly improvement of the system.

Captain Richard B. Tyacke and Lieutenant Donald R. Ross, of Company 1, Captain Melvin E. Goodwin and Lieutenant Joseph S. Valkevich, of Company 2, in charge of their respective companies, together with all personnel under their command, and personnel of the Civil Defense Auxiliary Fire Department, under Chief Sanborn Caldwell, not only carried out their responsibilities with efficiency, but devoted hundreds of extra hours serving the Department and Town without renumeration.

The following indicates the alarms for the year 1962:

65	Still Alarms
128	Box 7 Alarms (11 false)
37	Street Box Alarms (7 false)
230	Total alarms as detailed below

Police Department

As was indicated in last year's report to the Town, our own Bureau of Identification was established with the appointment of Patrolman Casimiro Navas as Identification Specialist on January 1, 1962. On this same date Paul A. Madden and Franklin B. Tozier were added to the roster of regular patrolmen. On March 4, 1962, Sergeant Norman Grady was appointed Captain; and on April 15, 1962, Patrolman William Delamater was promoted to the rank of Sergeant. Sergeant Frank Martin, on June 23, 1962, was elevated to Sergeant-Detective.

In-Service Training School was conducted for a period of fourteen weeks. During the week of May 18, 1962, personnel attended F.B.I. Firearms Training School at Camp Curtis Guild in Wakefield. On March 23, 1962, and August 17, 1962, Patrolmen Franklin Livermore and Albert Korkatti respectfully graduated from State Police Academy at Framingham.

The Police ambulance is ten years old and should be replaced by a new one. This valuable service, although not strictly a function of law enforcement, has been successfully carried on by your Police Department for many years.

Communications Officer Leon Cobb.

May I take this opportunity to express my deep appreciation to the Auxiliary Police, Traffic Supervisors, various Town Departments and the residents of Lynnfield for their cooperation throughout the year. Without this close cooperation, the Department would be less successful.

The Department has investigated a total of 2423 complaints which required police action. Arrests for the year totaled 96 and are classified as follows:

Planning Board

After recent year by year increase in development of new residential areas in the Town of Lynnfield, 1962 reversed this trend by showing a significant drop in the number and size of subdivisions approved by the Planning Board. This may be visualized from the following table comparing the extent of subdivisions approved during the past several years:

Year	No. of Subdivision approved	No. of House lots approved	Aggregate Length of new streets approved
1959	1	61	6679 ft.
1960	7	74	8687 ft.
1961	6	120	12165 ft.

Although a trend cannot be construed from one year's activity alone, this may possibly be the start of a leveling off in the recent rapid rate of growth of Lynnfield.

At the 1962 Annual Town Meeting, the Planning Board introduced several Articles designed to improve the Zoning By-Laws of the Town. These proposed amendments followed recommendations made by Allen Benjamin Associates, Planning Consultants, who had studied and reported on several aspects of Town Zoning at the request of the Planning Board and with the authorization of the 1960 Annual Town Meeting.

Article 11 defining a Limited Industrial District and Article 12 changing the then existing Commercial District on Route 1 to the new Limited Industrial District uses were adopted by the Town. However, Article 13, enlarging the Limited Industrial District adopted in Article 12, and Article 15, establishing a Limited Industrial District on the opposite side of Route 1, were defeated. In addition, Article 10, enlarging the present Commercial District adjacent to the Wakefield and Saugus Town lines, was also defeated. It was apparent that the Town was willing to modify the use of areas already zoned for Commercial usage, but would not approve extending Commercial or Industrial zoning to areas not currently committed to non-residential purposes.

Article 14, amending the Sign Regulations for the Town, was also introduced by the Planning Board and approved by the Town Meeting.

Members of the Planning Board continued their participation in special committees and related activities. Mr. George Burnett represented the Board on the Conservation Commission. Mr. Calvin Osberg served with the Future School Plant Planning Committee, and Mr. Howard Bouve represented the Board on the School Site Acquisition Committee. Mr. George Burnett also served on the Special Drainage Committee. Mr. Burnett was elected to the Board for a five-year term at the annual election held in March.

LYNNFIELD PLANNING BOARD

Board of Public Assistance

Wesley W. Munroe

In submitting the Annual Report for the Board of Public Assistance for 1962, I am going to deviate from the usual procedure of directing my Report to the Official family and instead I have addressed it to Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer.

The local Assistance Board is your Agent, delegated by you to do this work. There are five categories under which we operate. General Relief, Old Age Assistance, Medical Aid for the Aged, Aid to Dependent children and Disability Assistance.

GENERAL RELIEF: of the number of persons on General Relief throughout the year not all of them are unemployed. Some are the Aged who do not meet the eligibility requirement for other categories of Assistance, because they are not citizens, lack proof of age or lack of the necessary residence requirements.

Your department does not treat people as "Cases" but as individuals. It performs some service for them and encourages them to participate in the solution of their own problem. Many people come to us who need no financial help at all. They seek advice and service. Some of your neighbors and friends are helped greatly by talking over their family or personal problems with some one who understands. These family problems seem to be on the increase in this Atomic Age.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE: Recipients of Old Age Assistance are cared for in their own homes, in the homes of relatives, boarding homes and in the hospital.

Some recipients of Old Age Assistance have resources which are deducted from their budget which is based on Standards set up by the State Department of Public Welfare as provided for by law. These resources are varied, they are from Old Age and Survivors Insurance, private pensions, income from children who are legally required to contribute because their yearly salary is in excess of the exemptions granted by law. Persons with no private income must be fully aided.

MEDICAL AID FOR the AGED: This program of Medical Aid for the Aged became effective October 1960 and has increased year by year. This Act gives immediate medical assistance to the low income aged. At the present writing the Federal returns to the Town approximately 50% with the State contributing about 33% of remaining cost.

AID TO DEPENDENT CHILDREN: Most of the cases receiving Aid to Dependent Children grants are from homes where the father is deceased, where parents are separated by divorce or by desertion, or the bread winner is physically handicapped because of illness.

DISABILITY ASSISTANCE:

Persons who are Disabled.

This category of Disability Assistance was created in 1952 and every year has shown a marked increase. Rigid rules and regulations are set forth by both the State and Federal Government in administering this program. Both the Federal and State participate in the returns to the Town.

Your Director of Public Assistance wants to thank all those who have helped to administer these programs.

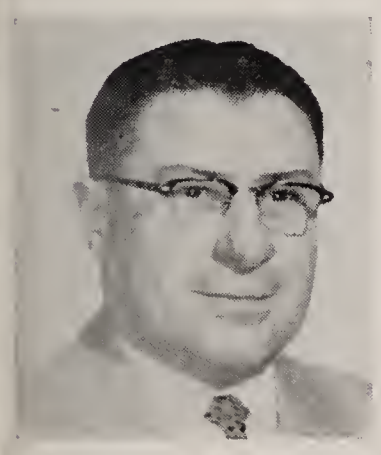
Dog Officer



Antonio I. Procurot

I herewith submit my annual report of the duties performed by me as Dog Officer during 1962. I received and answered eighty-five (85) telephone calls. Three times canvassed the town for unlicensed dogs. Fifty-four (54) dogs were picked up. Forty (40) dogs were returned to their rightful owners. Fourteen (14) dogs were humanely disposed of. Twenty-six (26) dead animals were picked up on the street.

All dogs three (3) months or older must be licensed on or before April 1st of each year.

Respectfully submitted,

TONY PROCUROT

Park and Cemetery Department

Raymond Pearson, James Thompson and Donald Ross.

On May 24, 1962, the Park and Cemetery Commission accepted with regret the resignation of Minot H. Carter as a Member of the Board. It was unanimously agreed by the Board that Mr. Raymond Pearson, a well-known and long-time resident of Lynnfield, with approximately 15 years of service as a former Cemetery Commissioner, be appointed to fill the position left vacant by Mr. Carter. The Commissioners feel that with Mr. Pearson's excellent background and experience, his choice as a Member of the Board will prove to be an excellent one.

Glen Meadow

Early in the summer of 1962, the Park & Cemetery Department engaged Dana Perkins, a registered civil engineer, to survey the area in Glen Meadow Park and to establish bounds as this land was given to the town for the sum of $1.00 and had never been properly laid out. Upon completion of the survey, the Commissioners studied the area to determine the best location for the construction of two tennis courts. After a careful study, the Commissioners chose an area in the southwest corner parallel to Trickett Road and Putney Lane so as to utilize the remainder of this area to best advantage.

Upon release of this information, the Commissioners received objections from some of the abutters relative to some necessary tree removal. A meeting was held with the abutters and an amicable decision reached that a barrier be left protecting some of the existing trees and which would allow for future tree planting. Specifications covering the construction of the double tennis courts were then drawn up and advertised.

In the interim, the town witnessed a severe rainstorm causing the Glen Meadow area at the intersection of Trickett Road and Putney Lane to become flooded to such an extent that water backed up onto the proposed site. The Commissioners received numerous complaints and objections from the abutters requesting that they hold off on awarding of the contract for the tennis court construction. Because of the situation, the Selectmen engaged consulting engineers to study the area—as well as other flooded areas in the town. Because of this, the Cemetery Commission decided it would be wise to wait for their report before proceeding further with the project.

On November 15, 1962, the Park and Cemetery Department received a letter from Bratoitis & MacConnell, Inc., of Boston, informing us that any construction or filling done in this area would "cause a greater hazard than now exists to the Putney Lane - Trickett Road area". It was therefore decided by the Commissioners that the drainage problem should be corrected prior to any tennis court construction and they voted unanimously to reject all bids received. The unexpended sum was turned back to the Town with the anticipation that the Commissioners would request monies for this item in their 1963 Budget.

Suntaug Park

Due to construction at Route 1 and Route 128, accessibility to the Park on the easterly side of Route 1 was eliminated. The Commissioners decided it was not wise to expend any further money at Suntaug Park until this situation was alleviated. At the request of the Town Departments, a service road was installed from Summer Street to Lake Street crossing the entrance of Suntaug Park. This road was completed in the Fall and the Commissioners now feel that further development in this area can go forward.

The following is a breakdown of monies turned in to the Town for 1962:

Cemetery Lots Sold (10)	$ 735.00
Amount added to P-C fund	950.00
23 Interments	780.00
Foundations	122.50
11 Liners	286.00

Twenty four regular, plus six special meetings, were held by the Board of Health in 1962. The members of the Board have attended meetings of the Northeastern District of Boards of Health Assoc.

All establishments that prepare and dispense food, and all schools in the town have been inspected each month by the Sanitary Inspector. His reports have been checked by the Board. From these reports, infractions of health standards have been corrected, resulting in high sanitary conditions in the twenty food establishments and the five schools.

The Board of Health has passed on six subdevelopments in 1962. All the developments have been surveyed and tested by a qualified sanitary engineering company, and its recommendations have been followed in the construction of sewerage disposal systems.

All nursery schools and kindergartens that operate in the Town of Lynnfield are licensed. They are inspected by the Health Agent and are licensed under the code and regulations recommended by the State Dept. of Health.

The Board is pleased to report that for the year 1962 there has not been any residing resident of the Town of Lynnfield confined to the sanitorium for Tuberculosis.

The Sabin oral vaccine program was made available by the Board of Health to all preschool and school children. It was administered by the Health Agent and local Registered Nurses.

The Pre-school Clinic was sponsored by the Lynnfield Board of Health, under the direction of the Health Agent.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Health Officer

This past year has been an interesting one for the Lynnfield Board of Health. As usual, many problems concerning public health have been brought to our attention. These we have dealt with in the best interests of the town.

We have had excellent cooperation from the Planning Board and the Building Inspector in our attempts to maintain proper conditions for drainage and sewage disposal. We have required that satisfactory percolation tests be done on land about to be opened up for development. This is a necessity in a town of this type where there is no public sewage disposal. Building and plumbing permits are not granted until these requirements have been met.

Our Sanitarian, Robert Rimbach, has been very valuable in helping us maintain proper standards of cleanliness and sanitation in food handling. He has made regular inspections of all places serving or handling food or food products, and has made monthly reports and recommendations to the Board of Health. He has tested milk from all dealers delivering or selling milk in the town. Mr. Rimbach has been very conscientious in inspecting companies which supply food for our school children, and has therefore been an important factor in helping us maintain high health standards.

Regular clinics were again held in the spring for the immunization of pre-school children against diptheria, whopping cough, and tetanus. Vaccinations were also given as well as Salk polio vaccine wherever indicated. Mrs. Lucy Lindquist, R. N., was the nurse in charge of these clinics for her twenty-fifth year, and as usual kept things running smoothly. She has also followed through on any cases of Tuberculosis which have been reported in the town.

Oral Vaccine Clinic: Priscilla Burnham, School Nurse and Dr. Charles A. Worthen.

In addition to these clinics pre-school children and all school children from the first through the twelfth grades were given Sabin polic vaccine types I and III. These clinics were made possible by several agencies including the State Board of Health, the United Fund, and the Town of Lynnfield. In continuation of this program of polio immunization type II Sabin vaccine will be given early in 1963. Dates for these clinics will be announced in the near future.

Nursery schools and kindergartens were again inspected, and were found to be observing proper health rules and regulations. Those inspected were:—

Bethlehem Nursery School
Busy Bee Nursery and Kindergarten
The Music Box
Pine View Kindergarten
Suntaug Kindergarten
Tower Kindergarten

The Hidden Valley Day School located off Salem Street was also inspected and given a license to operate.

I am again including the usual list of communicable diseases which have been reported to the Board of Health this past year. This is not a complete list as a large number of cases which have never been reported. Of this list also many were reported to the Board of Health by the school nurse. Please be advised that it is up to the patient himself or the doctor in charge to report all communicable diseases.

The following diseases were reported in 1962:

Diseases	No. of Cases
Chicken Pox	19
Conjunctivitis	6
German Measles	7
Measles	166
Mumps	21
Scarlet Fever	12
Dog Bite	18
Monkey Bite	2

I wish to thank the members of the Board of Selectmen and all other town officials who have been so cooperative in assisting us with the health of the town.

Many new families have again chosen Lynnfield as their home for suburban living. The number of new dwelling permits issued for 1962 remained steady at sixty-seven (two of which were withdrawn). Construction costs for one family dwellings averaged $23,-200 per unit, an increase of $2,600 as compared to last year. Again, these costs may be attributed to ever mounting labor, material and development costs, coupled with the fact that the majority of the dwellings were built as "quality, custom-built" homes in the larger residential zones.

The majority of new dwelling construction took place in the sub-divisions known as "King James Grants", "Ridgefield", "The Village Crossing", and "Westknoll."

The real estate values of our property owners increased by some $125,000 as indicated by the number of addition and remodel permits issued. This again indicates that the Townspeople are improving their community by repairing, maintaining and/or enlargening their properties.

There were very few larger type construction projects this year. Those most noteworthy were:

The Church of the Latter Day Saints, Essex Street; The Roman Catholic Church Rectory, Grove Street; The Peabody Municipal Light Substation, end of Pyburn Road.

It is interesting to note that all these projects took place in residential zones.

Commercial building was at a standstill with one exception — a retail store in Post Office Square.

The following is a breakdown of the permits issued for 1962:

New Dwellings (two withdrawn)	67
Addition, remodel or repair	111
Signs	11
Reissue	6
Demolish (dwelling)	5
Demolish (sheds)	3
Swimming Pools	4
Fallout Shelter	2
Retail Store	1
Substation (Municipal)	1
Church	1
Total	213

Fifteen permit applications were referred to the Board of Appeals for further disposition. No permits were revoked, no major violations of building laws encountered, no major Zoning violation, with the exception of one which required litigation.

Respectfully submitted
ROGER HARRIS
Building Inspector

Sanitarian Inspector

I have the honor to present the report of the Sanitarian for the year ending December 31, 1962.

Bacterial swabs were again taken bi-monthly of eating and drinking utensils at those establishments preparing or serving food or drink to determine the degree of sanitation. There were only eleven of the 181 swabs taken that were found to be in excess of the standards.

A total of 271 inspections were made of food handling establishments and delivery trucks. Inspections were also made at bakeries delivering merchandise to the school lunch program.

Approximately three hundred pounds of foods were disposed of due to decomposition or water damage.

Milk and cream samples were taken from delivery trucks and stores and examined for butterfat, total solids, coliform, bacteria count and phosphatase.

Samples of water were again taken at various locations on Pillings Pond and examined for swimming standards.

In conclusion, I wish to thank the Board of Health and those with whom I have had the pleasure of serving for their assistance and cooperation.

Tree and Moth Department

Gustav H. Koch

In reviewing the activities of your Tree and Moth Department for the year 1962 it can be reported as one of continued progress. The continued use of the Capital Outlay Plan will and is keeping all equipment up to date and the use of man power at maximum with minimum budget fluctuations. An outmoded Roto Mist Sprayer was replaced in 1962 by a John Bean Hydraulic Sprayer, the capacity of which enables us to reach the tallest of trees and under windy conditions that prohibited spray operations previously. Also a 600 gallon tank saves on operating time.

Our 1963 budget requests a pick up truck for general department use and a Fog Generator for Mosquito Control. Purchase of this equipment has been previously requested and is a must for more effective mosquito control. Aerial spraying may be curtailed by recent legislation and rental equipment has not always been available when needed in the past. Much unfavorable publicity has been given to the use of Pesticides and Herbicides in the past few years and much of this is biased. All products must be thoroughly tested by the manufacturer and the findings checked and approved by the U. S. Department of Agriculture before they can be marketed. More of these materials are sold over the counter to the Home Gardener for lawn and garden pest control than are used by Commercial and Municipal operators, yet they have little or no knowledge of their application or hazards.

Almost 200 saplings averaging 10 to 15 feet in height were planted along town ways, either as replacements or new plantings. In new developments, initial plantings have been or will be made by the developer at no cost to the town. Roadside trees have almost ceased to be a cause of power outage. A continuing program of trimming by your Tree Department with the cooperation of the Reading and Peabody Electric Companies has affected this safety condition. Cooperation was given with the Highway Department in snow removal and trimming and removal of trees for new street construction. This department also worked with the Park and Cemetery Department on care of public trees where some reenforcing and cableing was done.

Experimental leaf feeding and growth control of roadside grass and weeds indicated worthwhile results and an expanded program will be carried on in 1963. Dutch Elm still defies the efforts of our research Scientists, while a degree of control has been achieved, the complete answer has not been found.

Our thanks to the cooperation of all Town Departments in 1962. May next year be as fruitful and congenial.

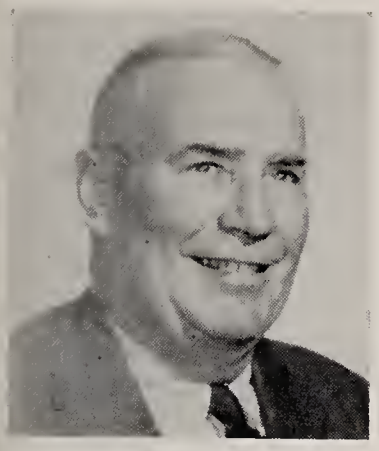
Sealer of Weights & Measures

All weighing and measuring devices used in the Town of Lynnfield were checked for accuracy and corrected if necessary before sealing. Minimum visits to spot check were made before the annual check. Packaged goods were checked for proper labeling, that is, price per unit, unit weight or volume, and total cost per package. There seemed to be a lessening of the trend to add weight or size units, which were very confusing as to value being given. Cooperation was excellent and errors minimal.

GUSTAV H. KOCH
Sealer of Weights & Measures

Wire Inspector



James V. Thompson

During the year 1962, 238 wiring permits were issued involving approximately 550 inspections. Over this period your Inspector was called upon by many local residents, who planned additional electrical installations in their homes, for advice and counsel in this regard.

During 1962, two fires occurred which were found to be caused by faulty wiring. The most serious was in the old Smith House at the Center. Wiring had been installed over a period of years and no permits had been applied for or issued to cover such installation. Your Inspector, therefore, had no knowledge of such work being done. Fortunately, however, no one was seriously injured. The Smith House is now in the process of being rebuilt and the new wiring system which will be installed will correct this condition and eliminate any possible fire hazards occurring from faulty wiring installation.

JAMES V. THOMPSON

Fire Alarm Supervisor

At the March 1962 Town Meeting, your Fire Alarm Supervisor submitted a budget for maintenance and capital outlay for the fire alarm system. It was voted and approved at that meeting to give the Selectmen the sum of $500 to be used in making a survey for the future expansion of the fire alarm system. This survey was made by the New England Fire Insurance Rating Association in July and the results of that survey was transmitted in a letter to the Selectmen on July 25, 1962. This letter contained their recommendations of what needed to be done and the procedure which should be followed by the Fire Alarm Department. This was a 3-page report covering 24 articles. Many of the recommendations submitted in this report had been advocated earlier by your fire alarm supervisor, but his recommendations had been turned down. Due to lack of funds, it was not possible to follow the Association's recommendations and we were merely able to do emergency repairs and make a daily board check of the fire alarm switchboard.

The present fire alarm system in the town of Lynnfield is one of the most modern that it is possible to install, but it follows that it must be adequately maintained and periodic tests must be made to insure it is always in a state of readiness (recommended by the National Fire Protection Association, Bulletin No. 73). In addition, a certain amount of outside line renewal and unforseen pole changeovers and installation must be done each year.

It is hoped that when the Fire Alarm Budget is submitted at the 1963 Town Meeting that it will be given very careful consideration by the townspeople; that they will keep in mind that this is a $50,000 investment and that as such it warrants every effort to see that it is properly maintained.

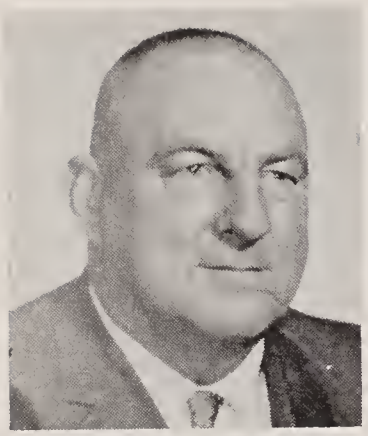
JAMES V. THOMPSON

Animal Inspector

With the passing of Arthur Hudson, Senior in the spring of 1962, his herd of milk cattle soon passed to other pastures and entered the final chapter of what had been the "Cash Crop" of many of the older inhabitants of Lynnfield. Our "Gentlemen Farmers" may have a few sheep grazing in the old orchard or a riding horse or two may show up here and there for a year or two, but "Country Atmosphere" is now a nostalgic expression. Our duties now are mainly the quarantining of dogs and cats that have nipped the little "nippers" that tease them. While the canines were better behaved in 1962 than in previous years we must be ever watchful and report all bites to prevent any possible return of Rabies to this State.

GUSTAV H. KOCH
Inspector of Animals

Road Commissioner



James C. Fletcher

As the year 1962 comes to a close and we review the activities of the Highway Department for this year, the rains of October 5th and 6th caused us the most trouble. The rainfall for the entire year was 43.06 inches, which is only .41 inches above normal. However, about 25 per cent of this came on the previously mentioned dates and flooded many sections of the Town. A master plan of the Town drains and waterways is now being prepared. Action was taken at a special Town meeting in November, to remedy the Essex Street - Pillings Pond area, and at our annual meeting in March of 1963, money will be requested to improve other areas.

One new dump truck chassis and one new snow plow were purchased. Grove Street, Fairview Avenue and Forest Hill Avenue were rebuilt. Essex Street was rebuilt from Main Street to Forest Hill Avenue, with Chapter 90 funds. The only new streets constructed this year by developers were at Westhall, off Walnut Street. Locust Street was resurfaced by the State, as it was used as a haul road for the rebuilding of Route 1 and Route 128. The new service road built by the State between Route 1 and Summer Street has made the Lake Street and Locksley Road area much safer.

Plans have been made and a contract will be let early in 1963, to correct the bad curve on Route 1 north of Ships Haven. This is a State project.

New street lights were installed on Summer Street from Main to Walnut Streets and on Walnut Street to the Saugus line.

Center line painting of our main roads needs attention. This was done by the State prior to 1962, at which time they discontinued that service. Town funds have been requested to repaint them in 1963.

The first patent for a street sweeper was made on December 8, 1903, and to this date the Town of Lynnfield has not purchased one. Again funds will be asked for that purpose in our 1963 budget, with the hope that it will be approved.

Plans are in the making, to straighten the section of Salem Street from Dewing Road to Mansfield Corner. The curves at Ramsdell's and beyond Tally Ho have been the scene of many bad accidents. Pinehill Road, Arlington Street and Hutchins Circle will be rebuilt this year.

The Road Commissioner and the personnel of the Highway Department, wish to thank the citizens and administration officials of the Town for their help and cooperation throughout the year.

JAMES C. FLETCHER
Road Commissioner

Veteran's Services

Burton B. Cogswell

During the year 1962 six permanent cases receiving benefits have been reduced to four due to deaths. Eleven emergency cases were processed and aid given to the applicants; along with the usual amount of requests for information and help with the Veterans Administration Office, Boston, Mass.

Four hospital contracts were made and accepted.

All veterans graves were given close inspection and found to be in good condition.

The usual activity of a peacetime Civil Defense organization has kept the Lynnfield Civil Defense units actively trained in the year 1962.

The communications unit, under the leadership of the assistant Civil Defense Director Richard Doremus, has been activated on several occasions to meet emergencies, working in conjunction with the Auxiliary Police. They have also operated the public address system, located in the High School, for the several Town meeting functions. This has resulted in considerable savings to the Town.

The Auxiliary Police unit has performed their duties as required on several occasions, to meet emergencies which have arisen. In listing a few of the emergencies, the flood, Halloween, the fire on Main St. and several other minor emergencies.

Under the able leadership of the Auxiliary Chief Frank Pagano, the membership has been increased to 25 men. This number is far short of the required minimum of 45 volunteers.

The Auxiliary Fire unit, under the leadership of Auxiliary Chief Sanborn Caldwell, train regularly each week with the regular department. They also answer all alarms on a standby call basis.

The Cuban crisis once again brought to our attention the need for individual home preparedness. With the onset of the crisis, all emergency Civil Defense equipment was checked for operation. A complete list of any equipment owned by the Town or private citizens, which could be utilized in an emergency, was listed.

Your Civil Defense Director attended several meetings on a State level, to determine the Federal and State emergency co-ordination with the local Governments. A representative of the Selectmen also attended the Governors conference with the Civil Defense representatives. It is my firm belief that with the lack of funds and co-ordination on the Federal and State level, each community must formulate its own disaster plans to cope with the possibilities of an atomic attack. To survive an actual attack, each family will be required to have available to them, their own form of shelter. Community shelters in the Town of Lynnfield are not available and far too costly to warrant their construction. Construction of the existing public buildings in Lynnfield do not meet the criterion of the Federal standards for a protection factor of 4. with a protection factor of 3, which we do have in the majority of the buildings, the Federal Gov't. will eventually mark and stock with emergency rations.

I want to thank all of the department heads, townspeople and the personnel of the Civil Defense organization for the excellent co-operation which they have extended to me. To officer Pat Navas, who willingly gives of his time to train the Auxiliary Police and to Deputy Chief Joseph Natoli of the Fire Department, I extend my gratitude.

Richard N. Eckert

"The progress of a library depends more on the lay citizen than on the librarian." Your Board of Library Trustees is very happy to report steady progress during the past year in all areas of the work of our library. This can best be shown by comparison with figures for 1961.

Patrons	3,874	4,179
Story-hour Attendance	1,318	1,479
Fines	$1,512.75	$1,829.55
Book Purchases	2,587	3,242
Circulation	69,073	82,752

These figures, however, gratifying, do not tell the whole story. The cataloging of both libraries, which was started two years ago, has progressed so far under the direction of Mrs. Natalie Brooks, that there are now very usable files, which are proving of great convenience both to the patrons and the staff. Reference work, both at the libraries and over the telephone has increased steadily. The reading and study room has become inadequate for the number of students using it both afternoons and evenings. It has been found necessary to open the Green Library on Saturday mornings, for book circulation and study use. Story hours are held the second and third Saturday mornings of each month and have proven very successful. This necessitates closing the study room during these hours, because of inadequate areas, which is an inconvenience both to the staff and the patrons.

The summer reading program, sponsored by Friends of the Lynnfield Library, attracted five hundred children, and of these over three hundred won certificates for reading twelve or more books. The party climaxing the program was attended by two hundred seventy-five children.

It has been necessary to make some physical changes to provide for the expanding use. At the Green Library, two new waist-high stacks give privacy to the little folks' corner. Four ranges of steel stacks have been purchased for the basement, where a file of back-numbers of magazines, books of historical value, and less-used books have been placed. To meet the minimum American Library Association standards, Lynnfield Library must increase its collection from 18,000 to 25,000 books within the next few years, and necessary shelving must be provided. New stairs to the basement have been built and a dehumidifier installed. Additional catalog files have been purchased for both libraries. The Green Library building has been painted. Because the study and reading area is used by students for reference work, an adult browsing area has been arranged by moving stacks in the main room. Two lounging chairs and a magazine table have been given by the Friends of the Library for this section. At the Branch Library, a new librarian's desk and a display case have been purchased, and new doors installed.

The Friends of the Lynnfield Library have continued helping in many capacities. A highly successful lecture series in the late winter, a used book sale on the Common, and a tea for the new teachers in the school system were among their many activities. Volunteers for typing, filing, pamphlet classification, art work, etc., have come from this group. $50.00 for art books was given. Other gifts and services of the Friends are noted in this report.

The three Garden Clubs, the Center Garden Club, the Lynnfield Garden Club and the Village Garden Club, have made invaluable contributions, beautifying the libraries both inside and out with window boxes, displays and arrangements.

Lynnfield artists have been very generous in lending their paintings for exhibit. Mr. Fred Klodner presented an original painting of the Green Library. Other gifts from interested friends and patrons include magazine subscriptions, many books, and $90.00 for new books provided by the Klapes Fund.

National Library Week in April was noted by displays, gifts of bookmarks for the children, the final lecture of the series and an open house and annual meeting of the Friends of the Library. During this week, the kindergartens of the town visited the Green Library. In Book

Mrs. Lois Flewelling receiving book presentation from Letter Carriers.

Lynnfield Branch Library

Week in November, Friends of the Library visited the elementary schools telling stories in each room. The sixth grades visited the Green Library for instruction in library history and use.

The Board of Trustees are pleased to report the continuing advancement in the professional status of the library. The Division of Library Extension is announcing plans for a decided increase in in-service training courses. Members of our library staff will enroll in these as they are available. In November, Mrs. Flewelling, head librarian, passed the state examination in librarianship and is now a duly qualified professional librarian from the Massachusetts Board of Education, Board of Library Commissioners.

The continuing progress of the library is a source of great satisfaction to your Board of Trustees. By meeting the standards set by the American Library Association and the State of Massachusetts, for towns of less than ten thousand population, Lynnfield received a grant of $2,099.50 towards library service. However, as soon as the population reaches 10,000, new standards must be reached. This will be impossible without expanded areas; and desired further services cannot be offered. With a growing school system, the establishment of community colleges, with the expansion of knowledge in all fields of science, our library must progress in every area, — physical, professional, and cultral to serve adequately the town of Lynnfield.

Committee Reports

MUNICIPAL BUILDING STUDY COMMITTEE

According to the provisions of Article No. 17 of the 1962 Town Meeting Warrant, which was approved by the voters, the Selectmen appointed this Committee shortly after the end of the Town Meeting.

After interviewing candidates, the Study Committee was fortunate in being able to secure the services of John Guarino, Locksley Road, Lynnfield, as architect for the proposed Municipal Building.

Together with Mr. Guarino, the Committee reviewed the plans of the previous Building Committee for the Police and Fire Department Building and proposed Municipal Building Wing, and met with all of the users of the present Town Hall. Present requirements as well as future needs were discussed and considered by all concerned. Full time employees of the Town, such as Town Clerk, Assessors Dept., Tax Collector, Etc., as well as part time employees and committees such as Selectmen, Planning Board, Veterans Agent etc. were consulted as to their requirements for space and equipment in the proposed new building.

It was the desire of this Committee to conserve space wherever possible, but to allow proper area for future growth of certain departments. Credit must be given to all interested parties for their cooperation; especially for not requesting excessive floor areas or unnecessary "extras" for their offices.

The proposed building will house all of the full time staff on the main floor, together with the Selectmen's office, Planning Board office, and Town Counsel's office. Adjoining these offices will be incorporated a public hearing room, to accommodate approximately one hundred persons. At the present time there is a woeful lack of such a facility in the Town Hall.

The first floor will contain rooms for various committees, boards, agents, and commissions as well as storage area for preserving permanent Town records. At the rear of the building, additional garage area will be made available for the proper storage of Police and other Town vehicles.

Incorporated in the plan is an area for development in the future, so that no additions or major alterations should be required for an extensive period of time.

After meeting with this Committee, the Finance Committee, the Board of Selectmen, and the Planning Board have approved the preliminary plans and specifications for the proposed Municipal Building. It is therefore planned to insert an Article in the Warrant for the 1963 Town Meeting requesting monies to secure final plans and specifications, and to construct the proposed Municipal Building Wing.

The Committee wishes to take this opportunity to thank all of the Town employees and committeemen who cooperated so fully and willingly with Mr. John Guarino and the Building Committee in the preparation of the plans and specifications for the proposed building.

MUNICIPAL POWER SYSTEM STUDY COMMITTEE

OBJECTIVE:

Pursuant to the request of the Town under Article 20 of the 1962 Annual Town Meeting, the Lynnfield Municipal Power System Study Committee was appointed by the Board of Selectmen "to study all aspects of the creation of a municipal electric light plant or department within the Town of Lynnfield, to serve the Town."

SUMMARY:

On the basis of the preliminary study by the Committee, it appears that it will be profitable for the Town of Lynnfield to purchase and operate its own power distribution system using power purchased from a utility. In considering such a step, the Town should recognize that this is no small operation, representing as it does, about a half million dollar business which will soon grow to three-quarters of a million. It will require about an $850,000 initial investment and the setting up of a separate Electric Light Department employing approximately ten people with an annual payroll of $50,000. It will require in addition, approximately $50,000 of working capital. This will be a self-liquidating operation, which preliminary figures indicate will net the Town an estimated $700,000 over a ten year period.

It must be recognized that these figures are preliminary. They are sufficiently attractive, however, to lead this Committee to recommend that the Town engage the services of a consulting engineering firm to make a comprehensive study to more accurately evaluate the potential profits of this half million dollar business and appraise the value of the existing distribution systems in the Town. The cost of such a study is estimated at $10,000.

ALTERNATIVES:

The following alternatives were considered by the Committee with results as indicated:

1. Town build and operate its own power plant, and purchase and operate its own distribution system.
   The power demand is not sufficient to make this alternative economically attractive.
2. Town purchase and operate the existing Lynnfield distribution system and purchase power from a utility (not a municipality). A review of the General Laws by the Town Counsel indicates that a decision to operate our own electric power system must be approved by 2/3 vote at two town meetings held within a 13-month period. If the vote is unfavorable, the matter cannot be reconsidered until after a period of two years. Expansion of the system can be made only by a similar vote.
   Under the legislative acts permitting the two municipalities to serve the Town with electricity, Reading and Peabody can be forced to sell the portions of their systems here to Lynnfield at their fair value provided that Lynnfield will operate same; in which case, Lynnfield will be free to purchase power from any source available. Negotiations to determine the fair selling price of the distribution systems may take from 12 to 18 months.
   Alternative No. 2 was evaluated to determine if it would be profitable for the Town to purchase and operate its own distribution system by purchasing power from a utility.

CONSIDERATIONS:

The following items were considered in the evaluation.

1. Initial Investment, including book value of property, S. Lynnfield Sub-Station, office, warehouse, trucks, etc. Tie Line-Center and South Sub-Stations, Engineering and Acquisition.
   Approx. $850,000
2. Working Capital
   Approx. $50,000
3. Sales and Income based on Actual Demand for 1959, 60, and 61 projected at 6% increase per year to 1970. Revenue estimated on basis of .03/kwh average return.
   Approx. $480,000 in 1963
4. Fixed Charges, including Interest on initial investment, Depreciation, Sinking fund for bond retirement requirements in excess of depreciation, Payment to Town in lieu of taxes now paid. Fixed charges assumed to increase 2½% per year to cover system growth.
   Approx. $77,800 in 1963
5. Operating Costs excluding Purchased Power
   Salaries - assumed to increase 4% per year with a $12,000 jump in 1965 for added personnel.
   Materials and Supplies Automobile Expense
   Bad Accounts Insurance
   Retirement and Pensions
   Miscellaneous
   Approx. $85,900 in 1963

6. Purchased Power Costs based on B. E. Co. "M" rate and 6% annual growth, with an allowance of 9% for distribution system losses.

Approx. $226,600 in 1963

POTENTIAL:

The following profits to the Town were estimated based on the above considerations and assumptions.

Year	Est. Sales KWH	Est. Revenues	Est. Costs	Est. Net Profit
1963	16,100,000	$ 483,000	$ 430,300	$ 52,700
1964	17,100,000	513,000	452,900	60,100
1965	18,000,000	543,000	487,100	55,900
1966	19,200,000	576,000	515,000	61,000
1967	20,300,000	609,000	539,400	69,600
1968	21,500,000	645,000	565,600	79,400
1969	22,900,000	687,000	596,300	90,700
1970	24,200,000	726,000	626,400	99,600
8 Yr. Totals	159,400,000	$4,782,000	$4,213,000	$569,000
8 Yr. Annual Avg.	19,925,000	597,750	526,625	71,125

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATION:

On the basis of this analysis, it appears that it will be profitable for the Town to purchase and operate its own power distribution system by purchasing power from a utility. The average annual net profit on sales for the eight year period is estimated at 11.9%. Provided that the present distribution system can be purchased at the estimated fair value, the average annual return on the initial investment is estimated at approximately 8.4%. This estimate would be reduced to about 3.5% if the actual negotiated purchase price becomes 50% higher than the estimated book value.

Since the profitability of this proposed venture will very strongly depend upon the purchase price of the existing distribution system, and since the venture represents about a half million dollar business, it is recommended that the Town engage the services of a consulting engineering firm to make a comprehensive study to more accurately evaluate the anticipated revenue, costs and potential profits. Such a study must include a thorough appraisal of the present distribution system in the Town.

INSURANCE COMMITTEE

The Insurance Committee serves in an advisory capacity to the Selectmen. It is the function of the Committee to suggest methods of handling the town's insurance program, markets available to optain proper insurance at minimum cost and to review, with competent insurance men, the adequacy of the program.

In 1962, the Committee worked with representatives of the town employees and the Selectmen during the selection of insurance companies to provide Medical, Surgical and Life insurance for town employees. This program was authorized by the 1962 Town Meeting. Specifications were drawn and competitive bids were solicited from some 25 insurance companies with the policies ultimately being purchased from Blue Cross, Blue Shield and Savings Bank Life Insurance effective July 1.

CONSERVATION COMMISSION

This year's work of the Commission was highlighted by the receipt of its first gift of land in the name of the Town. Mr. Ernest G. Willard, of Main Street, gave to the Town for conservation purposes slightly over three acres of woodland Northwesterly of Carter Road. This land extends to Beaver Dam Brook and abuts fifty acres of well-field and watershed land held by the Lynnfield Center Water District. Already under the Commission's care is a twenty acre lot near the Water District land and extending to Apple Hill so Mr. Willard's gift is most appropriate to the continuity of this area. We are sure that our thanks are spoken on behalf of the Town.

Much effort has been directed towards the preservation of Reedy Meadow. However, because of the nature of this land it has proven extremely difficult to determine the situs and ownership of many sections. Our work has been greatly assisted by the voluntary services of Mr. F. H. Speed, of Munroe Street, who has acted as cartographer. Many hours of Mr. Speed's time have gone into making an accurate composite plan of the meadow from available data. Vague descriptions in old deeds leave large areas still to be worked out.

The Commission has adopted a definite educational program. In March, we were pleased to sponsor a Junior High School Assembly, and a conservation exhibit at the South Lynnfield Garden Club Flower Show during the summer. Also, through the very generous cooperation of the Lynnfield Lions Club and the Lynnfield Center Garden Club, two Lynnfield boys were able to attend the two week summer camp conducted in Spencer by the Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources.

At the present time, the Commission is working with the elementary school principals on a conservation unit with particular reference to Lynnfield.

The cooperation of the Selectmen, the Water Commissioners, and other officials of the Town is gratefully acknowledged by the Commission.

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING COMMITTEE

The Senior High School Building Committee which was appointed by the Board of Selectmen under authority of Article I of the Special Town Meeting of November 20, 1961 held its organizational meeting on December 27, 1961 and commenced its work on January 2, 1962.

During the first two months the committee's efforts were divided into three phases which were carried on simultaneously.

(1) The committee held a series of meetings with members of the High School staff to become cognizant of teaching methods and the curriculum in Lynnfield.

(2) Field trips were made to a number of recently completed high schools within reasonable travelling distance so that the committee could view modern trends in high school design.

(3) Representatives of eight architectural firms were interviewed as a preliminary step in the selection of an architect for the project.

On March 6 the committee had a preliminary meeting with the Massachusetts School Building Commission. Educational specifications were then developed to determine the size and type of facilities required. The firm of Harold C. Knight Associates was selected to do the architectural work, and H. Kingman Abbott of Readwas engaged to make a topographical survey of the school site on Essex Street.

After April 1 the activities of the committee centered on the selection of a suitable building design. The committee studied carefully several arrangements presented by the architect. During the succeeding months the plan selected was revised continually and developed in detail. In mid October this work was concluded with preliminary plans ready for presentation.

In accordance with Article I of the Special Town Meeting of November 20, 1961, these preliminary plans and estimated costs were presented on October 22 to the Board of Selectmen, the School Committee, the Finance Committee, and the Planning Board for their approval. Certain aspects of the proposal were unacceptable to the Finance Committee and approval was withheld by that group.

On October 30 a meeting of the Senior High School Building Committee, the School Committee, and the Finance Committee was held to reconcile the various points of disagreement. This resulted in a revision of the total square foot area and a proportionate reduction in the estimated cost. The revised proposal was presented to the four boards and committees at a joint meeting on November 28. Approval of the revised plan was subsequently received from all four boards and committees.

As the year ends, the committee is engaged in preparing a formal proposal to be presented to the voters of the Town at a Special Town Meeting on January 28, 1963. Several public meetings have been scheduled, and an informational brochure has been prepared for distribution to the Townspeople.

In conclusion it should be stated that a great amount of effort has been expended by the architect, by individual members of the committee, and by Dr. John A. Redmond who acted as the committee's educational advisor. We believe we have produced a set of preliminary plans for a senior high school that adequately answers Lynnfield's future education needs at the secondary school level and is in keeping with other school buildings in the Town.

During the year the committee held 57 meetings and attended 4 conferences with the Massachusetts School Building Assistance Commission.

SUNTAUG LAKE COMMITTEE

The first committee meeting was held at Lynnfield Town Hall on Thursday, October 11, 1962, with the Board of Selectmen and Town Council present.

Objectives were defined as obtaining limited use of surface of Suntaug Lake for winter sports and raising level of lake in summer months.

At committee's request, Town Council has determined status of agreement between Lynnfield and the City of Peabody, Policy of State Board of Health regarding use of public water supply, and legal precedent for recreational use of other public water supplies in the commonwealth.

A meeting was held in Peabody City Hall Friday, January 11th, between the Peabody Commissioner of Public Works, the Peabody City Solicitor, and this committee. Mr. Condon, Selectman, Town of Lynnfield, was present. Mr. Abraham Ankeles, Attorney, presented our requests which have been under advisement. A reply is expected by January 18, 1963.

If the reply is not favorable, it is our intent to propose legislation to obtain the desired results.

School Committee Report

INTRODUCTION

The responsibility for the education of its young people is the most important and significant of all community activities. Lynnfield, like most other residential suburban towns, must carry a larger share of this responsibility because of the higher caliber of its students.

Each ensuing year the material that the young mind must assimilate increases in complexity and volume. This ever-expanding body of knowledge creates the urgent need for improvement in our educational processes. If we are to prepare the children and young adults of today for the world of tomorrow, we must provide better and more efficient methods in our educational system.

The modern teacher needs many things in order to function effectively and efficiently: A building conducive to learning, equipment and materials to demonstrate and practice the subject material, an organization and plan to coordinate his efforts and most important an atmosphere to stimulate and inspire the teacher to perform.

The function of our school staff is to operate the school plant and achieve the highest standards of education obtainable with the manpower and materials at hand. The leadership and guidance provided by the superintendent, principals and department heads to a great measure determine the effectiveness of our teachers and the proper development of our children.

Superintendent's Annual Report

To the School Committee and Citizens of Lynnfield:

Steadily increasing enrollments and changing educational standards continue to make demands on our school system. The improvements reported last year are being continued and constant study and evaluation lead on to other changes. This report presents a summary of some of the major developments and problems, a report from the high school principal, and significant excerpts from the reports of elementary principals and directors of special areas.

STAFF

One major change this year was the creation of separate principalships for each of the elementary schools. Under this plan, the principal has more time to supervise his staff, assist new teachers, plan improvements, hold parent conferences, and to maintain close contact with the progress of all the children in his building.

The two additional principalships created by this change were filled by qualified teachers from our own system.

We lost two valuable members of our staff this year through retirement. Mrs. Bernice Monroe had worked with the young people of Lynnfield for 38 years, Mrs. Retta Lovejoy for 20 years. We reflect gratefully on their devoted service and wish them both many happy years of retirement.

There is an ever-increasing problem in obtaining well-qualified teachers for our staff. This is not a purely local problem. Throughout the nation, the appeal of highly-paid positions in industry, particularly to those trained in science and mathematics, is drastically reducing the number of capable college graduates who are entering the teaching profession.

Eighth Grade English Class.

There is also a problem of procuring qualified substitutes, particularly at the high school level. This year, in an effort to meet this need in all grades, a series of workshop meetings were held in the early fall. These were open to college graduates, with or without teaching experience, who were interested in substituting. These people were briefed on school organization and routines, basic methods in the regular academic subjects, and principles of classroom management. They then visited the schools and observed the regular teachers at work. Following these periods of observation, some took over classes for a short period of time and actually taught under the supervision of the experienced teacher.

A number of these substitutes have already been used, and their familiarity with our methods and routines has been of great value. While the problem of substitutes may seem to some to be a minor one, during the course of the year much valuable learning time is lost to children if we do not have substitutes available who can competently carry on the classes.

A considerable number of our regular staff members have been continuing their own education either in summer school or in extension courses during the school year. Twenty-eight summer or extension courses have already been recorded as completed and many others are now being taken. The completed courses were at such institutions as Northeastern, Harvard, Stanford University, Arizona State University, University of New Hampshire, Tufts, and Salem State College.

Two senior high science teachers were awarded scholarships for summer study under the National Science Foundation, one elementary principal is now studying under a similar grant, and one member of the high school staff is taking a special course in "Programmed Instruction and Teaching Machines".

CURRICULUM

Our basic curriculum remains much the same as last year. Some additional courses and new developments are referred to in the high school report. In the elementary schools, each of the four principals has assumed the responsibility of making a continuing study of one particular curriculum area with a view to keeping our present courses up to date.

The mathematics course now being held for teachers here in Lynnfield is part of the plan to revise our elementary mathematics program and provide better articulation with the high school.

This year we extended the services of a special physical education teacher downward through the first grade. Previously, the physical education teachers had worked only with grades 4 through 12.

A new and detailed course of study in Art has been drawn up and introduced into the elementary grades.

In September an intensified study of our American Heritage was introduced in all schools, not as a separate course, but as a program to be correlated with other subjects and with the daily school routine. This program is designed to stress good citizenship in all its aspects, pride in our country's traditions, and true patriotism.

COSTS

Enrollment increases are always reflected in the cost of operating a school system. More children require more teachers; more children and more teachers require more space, supplies, equipment and transportation. This is inevitable, but an effort has been made to keep costs as low as possible, consistent with good instruction and good facilities.

We have been able to take advantage of funds available under the National Defense Education Act of 1958. Under Title III of this Act, entitled "Enriching and Strengthening Mathematics, Science and Foreign Languages", and Title V which is "Improving School Guidance Programs", we have obtained considerable equipment and material for these areas. These amounts and other aid from the Federal and State governments is indicated in the tables at the end of this report. These tables also show the net cost of the schools to the town and the way in which the school dollar was spent in 1962.

The cost of maintenance and repairs has not been excessive because with the exception of the Junior High Science - Mrs. Lena M. Waite.

Center School all of our buildings are relatively new. The major project in 1962 was the reshingling of the front of the original part of the Center School building.

Excellent custodial service is a major factor in keeping maintenance costs down. The custodians help in saving many hundreds of dollars by keeping down heating and electrical costs, making minor repairs and in many other ways.

Another economy has been effected through the cooperation of the Industrial Arts Department. Many practical projects have been used as instructional material for the boys. A number of needed classroom items have been made by these students. Permanent book shelves, bookcases, bulletin boards, and lecture stands have been made for the various schools.

ENROLLMENT

Our enrollment figures continue to grow. A chart comparing these figures over the last seven years appears at the end of this report. One interesting point to note is that in spite of the withdrawal to the parochial school of approximately 165 pupils in Grades 1-5, over the past two and a half years, our total enrollment has not decreased, but rather has increased by 162.

In October, 1962, because of an unanticipated number of move-ins in Grade 2 at the Center School, it was necessary to establish an additional second grade classroom. This was done by utilizing the reading room at Huckleberry Hill School for the small special class, and assigning the new second grade to the room formerly used by the special group.

The high school will experience a great increase in September, 1963. The June graduating class will be about 100, and the present sixth grade numbers 226. This means, without allowing for any move-ins, a net gain of approximately 126 in the already crowded high school building.

LOOKING AHEAD

Our most urgent need, obviously, is the space which a new Senior High School can provide. The secondary school program has not functioned as effectively as it should this year because of the crowded conditions existing there. For example, a situation where two hundred students are studying at the same time in the cafeteria is not conducive to concentration. The seventh and eighth grade science program has been limited due to lack of adequate facilities.

As indicated above the space problem will be much more acute next year. Approximately 1150 pupils are expected to be enrolled in Grades 7-12. It will therefore be impossible to operate on a single session schedule. Various plans were studied in an effort to find a solution which would (a) limit the program of as few pupils as possible, (b) keep increased costs at a minimum, (c) disrupt family schedules as little as possible, and (d) be adaptable for at least two years in the event that additional secondary school space is not available by September, 1964.

After a thorough study of several plans it was decided to adopt a partial double session plan whereby Grades 7 and 8 will be on double session, and Grades 9 through 12, barring unforeseen problems, will attend school for the same hours as at present.

This plan utilizes the building practically to capacity from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. and a small group only will be required to attend late afternoon sessions.

High School Physics - Robert C. Cutter.

As we study the housing needs for the future, it appears that when we have a new Senior High School, there will for a few years be some available space in the present high school building which can be used for the upper elementary grades. This will postpone for a time the need for additional elementary school space.

CONCLUSION

We cannot record our progress over the past year in terms of goods produced or profits on the ledger. Our product is growth and learning and although we do have various means of determining pupil achievement, it is difficult to measure our total results. The lives of the boys and girls who attend Lynnfield schools will over the years reflect how well we have fulfilled our obligations. It is our hope that their contributions in both their family and community lives and in their chosen occupations will to some extent, be due to the education provided by you, the citizens of Lynnfield.

I acknowledge gratefully the continued support of the School Committee and the cooperation received from the school department staff. I thank all of those in the community who have helped me serve our young people.

REPORT OF THE HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

Linwood E. Clarke, Jr.

Although this year's progress has been affected by space limitations, Lynnfield High School has moved forward. Since a large proportion (85% in 1962) of our students go on to higher education, it is imperative that we provide intensive preparation for this group, but at the same time meet the needs of that smaller percentage who wish to enter directly into business or industry.

Our curriculum includes a basic minimum of required subjects and a wide variety of electives so that each student may draw up an individual pattern of studies to meet his particular needs. The experience of past years has shown that some twelfth grade students can do work at college freshman level, and to enable them to move ahead as rapidly as possible, Advanced Placement courses are offered in several major subject areas.

Several courses were added to our offerings in September. There is a great demand for more students trained in foreign languages, and to give greater opportunity in this field we added Spanish to our curriculum.

A new approach to language learning, endorsed by the United States Department of Education, was begun in Grade 7 this year. It is an audio-lingual program, taught entirely in the foreign language and using audio-lingual taped material. This will eventually be carried through the senior high school.

A survey of French Literature is the basis of the work for the French IV seniors. This course is taught entirely in French and is similar to the first year college survey course. Various members of the French department lecture to this group.

A course called Foundations for Algebra was also added. This was planned primarily for those college preparatory students in Grade 9 not quite ready for Algebra I, and is also used as a basic mathematics course for students who do not expect to continue their education beyond high school.

A course in Note-taking is offered three times a week. This is designed to prepare college preparatory students to take lecture notes more easily and effectively.

The problems of college admission are placing an increasingly heavy burden on our Guidance Department. This department has had excellent success in placing students in four-year colleges and other institutions of higher learning. Further details of this work are included in the Guidance Director's report.

As a comparatively young high school, Lynnfield is in the process of seeking accreditation by the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Under the rules of this group every member high school must be evaluated for purposes of accreditation at least once every ten years. The evaluation takes place over a two-year period and in 1962 we completed the first step of the Self Evaluation. During this process, the staff, working with the administration, developed in written form a definite school philosophy, studied and evaluated the school's physical facilities, the instructional equipment and materials, and the Town's financial support of the school. Each teacher rated himself as to personal qualities, educational background, teaching methods, relations with other staff members, and continuing professional advancement.

The second step which will take place in 1963 is the evaluation by a team of visiting educators. This team, including specialists in various areas, will spend three days in Lynnfield, visiting and observing all aspects of the High School. They will prepare written reports commending the school and its staff for what they find being done well, and make recommendations as to areas in which they feel the school could be improved. Their vote determines whether or not a school is accredited by the New England Association.

The High School sponsors a wide range of extra-curricular activities, designed to meet the needs of pupils with varying interests.

The athletic program has been successful with a large number of students participating in both interscholastic and intramural sports. Football, basketball, ice hockey, baseball, track, golf, and tennis are offered for boys; the girls may take part in field hockey, basketball, softball and tennis.

Our debating program has grown rapidly and is becoming known throughout New England for its achievements in interscholastic tournaments.

The Mathematics League offers competition to those able students in this area, while the scientifically-minded boys and girls vie at the local Science Fair for an opportunity to compete in state and college sponsored Science Fairs.

The Student Council has been very active and worked with the administration in determining many school policies. Lynnfield was host this year to the New England Association of Student Councils, and our students gained much from this experience.

Typing Class - Dorothy J. Thompson.

Among our other extra-curricular programs are the musical organizations, Dramatic Club, the Future Teachers of America, the Future Homemakers of America, French Club, school newspaper and yearbook.

In an effort to integrate more quickly the new staff members when school opened, we conducted an orientation program. This familiarized the new teachers with the special services available and the established policies and practices of the school.

Our greatest handicap this year has been lack of space. We have utilized every available corner of the building, having classes in such areas as the stage, the auditorium, and the library annex. The study hall situation has been difficult because the groups in many instances are too large to work satisfactorily in the cafeteria. The space limitations have made many of the classes, especially in Grades 7 and 8 larger than they should be. With the adoption of the partial double session plan for next year, there will be some alleviation of these problems, but others will be created.

It will be a real challenge to the entire staff to provide the best possible learning conditions for the boys and girls until such time as a new building is available.

In conclusion, without the leadership of Dr. Redmond, and the cooperation and encouragement of the School Committee, none of the aforementioned could have been accomplished.

Also, plaudits must go to you, the Townspeople, for your confidence and backing.

EXCERPTS FROM REPORTS OF PRINCIPALS AND DIRECTORS OF SPECIAL AREAS

Summer Street School — George E. Caswell

Attending Summer Street School are the intermediate grade children residing in the center part of town. Twelve teachers, a principal, a secretary, a custodian, and three cafeteria workers are the permanent staff. These staff members are assisted by other specialists in art, music, health, speech therapy, remedial reading, and physical education.

Children are assigned to classes under a planned heterogeneous grouping arrangement whereby each teacher has a proportionate number of pupils in fast, medium, and slower learning ranges.

The learning needs of children are met in varying ways in each classroom. The skill subjects of reading and arithmetic are taught to small groups of children having similar needs. This small group work enables the classroom teachers to differentiate instruction according to the level of the ability of a pupil in a particular subject matter area and encourages an individualized learning approach for the group members. Other areas of the curriculum, such as language, social studies, and science, may be taught to teams of from two to five pupils, to small groups formed on the basis of aptitudes and interests, to the whole class, and in some instances, to individuals. Flexibility is a fundamental feature of this means of instructing pupils.

In reading, children of differing ability groups work from basic books that contain controlled vocabularies during the early part of the year. Later, use is made of the Science Research Associates Reading laboratories, Tach-X and Controlled Reader machines. An individualized reading program using trade books is possible in many classrooms through the cooperation of the Public Library personnel.

Summer Street School Fifth Grade George Currie.

The arithmetic program makes use of manipulative devices and concrete objects to help children better understand the meaning of the mathematical principles they are learning. Children in fast learning groups are accelerated, accomplishing approximately four years of arithmetic in three years. The teachers are attending a modern mathematics course provided by the Town and under the direction of Dr. Fred Weaver of Boston University. This will result in a revised mathematics curriculum in the near future.

In language, social studies, and science, research and specialty assignments are used and these are supplemented by films, filmstrips, records, and community resource people. Our objective is to offer a learning program that is focused on helping children learn the technique of living in this challenging age.

Huckleberry Hill School — Gilbert F. Bulley

The Huckleberry Hill School was fortunate this year in having only one new teacher when school opened in September. The school now has thirteen regular classrooms and one Special Class, and since September a full-time principal.

The November Parent Teacher Conferences were highly successful this year. Every conference was completed and this was unusual and most rewarding. This close contact between pupil, parent, and teacher has proved very beneficial.

A new Student Study Center is providing an important learning opportunity. All grades are permitted to use this room, but as is to be expected, grades 4, 5 and 6 are using it more than the lower grades. Grades 5 and 6 have been introduced to the Study Skills Library Material. The Study Center is open approximately four hours each day and after school for three quarters of an hour. In the Center, the pupils can, with permission from their teachers, use the group filmstrip projector, opaque projector, the record player with four sets of head phones, plus the resource material. Small groups use this room in preparing special class reports and other classroom projects.

A new program this year is the weekly library period for all grade levels on Wednesday afternoons from 1:55 to 2:40 p.m. At this time students visit other rooms to take out Library books. Two student librarians are on duty in each room. During a recent check it was gratifying to note that only 12 out of 337 were not reading a library book at that time.

Test results for the entire school continue to show very satisfactory results. The composite grade equivalent scores show the fourth grade at fourth year sixth month; the fifth grade at sixth year first month; the sixth grade at sixth year seventh month. The class which left the elementary schools in June and was tested as the seventh grade in September registered a composite score of 8.5 or one year and four months above grade level. This seems to indicate that our elementary program is showing results.

Center School — Dr. Nancy C. Santeusanio

The Center School is dedicated to a philosophy of continuous growth, provision for individual differences, and teaching adjusted to the individual growth pattern of each child.

Through a diagnostic testing program in Grade I, the rate of learning of each child is studied, and he is given instruction according to his own needs with an opportunity for regrouping in any subject area whenever he is ready.

All children progress from one level of reading to another with over fifty per cent reading well above grade level. Partner reading as well as independent reading is encouraged within the classroom, and each student at Center School has a card at the public library.

Another vital part of the school year has been the American Heritage curriculum created by members of the school staff to help children acquire desirable social ethics and to foster competent citizenship.

Center School children reading in Mildreth Parkhurst Rourke Library.

One of the highlights of this year has been the opening of the Mildreth Parkhurst Rourke Memorial Library dedicated in memory of a devoted teacher who served on Center School staff for many years. The library is housed on the lower level of the school in a well-lighted attractive room with bookshelves built for a children's room and a collection of four hundred eighty-eight volumes. The library is open every morning and on Monday afternoon for reference work. It is staffed by volunteers, and each classroom is scheduled weekly for use of the library.

South School — Charles A. Wolski

At the South School we have two grades each, one through five. The class size averages twenty-five pupils and this is excellent.

Since our school is small enough for full faculty participation, we all work together in the selection of books and materials. A new language series has been introduced into the intermediate grades; we have selected new materials for high achievers in mathematics; we are now investigating better ways of teaching science.

The scores on the Science Research Associates tests given to the fourth and fifth grades were well above average.

A number of physical improvements to our school were made during the summer. Better storage facilities were provided, baseboard tiling replaced, part of the foyer converted into a secretary's office, and the walk leading to the upper playground has been hard-topped.

GUIDANCE

William J. Coughlin

The percentage of Lynnfield students going on to four-year colleges, and to other types of higher education is very high in comparison to other high schools in Massachusetts and the country. These percentage figures — 54% to four-year colleges, and 85% to some form of education beyond high school — are a credit to the students, the parents and the teachers.

In January, Mr. William Stimson, Regional Manager of Science Research Associates, spoke to parents and explained the pupil progress charts prepared by the teaching staff. Mr. Stimson pointed out that on the basis of the Science Research Tests, Lynnfield, as a system, ranks in the 99th percentile.

The Guidance Department distributed to parents a guide to scholarships. This proved extremely helpful in view of the ever-rising costs of a college education.

During the spring and summer, much time was devoted to counseling students on their choice of subjects for the following school year. Parents were asked to indicate approval. Each student was then assigned to sections in which he should be able to make continued progress.

During the counseling interviews, participation in extra-curricular activities is also discussed in an effort to have the students choose wisely in this part of their total school program.

The work of the Guidance Department has included the placement of students in both full-time and part-time jobs. Contact is maintained with personnel directors of banks, insurance companies, and various industrial firms to keep us aware of employment opportunities.

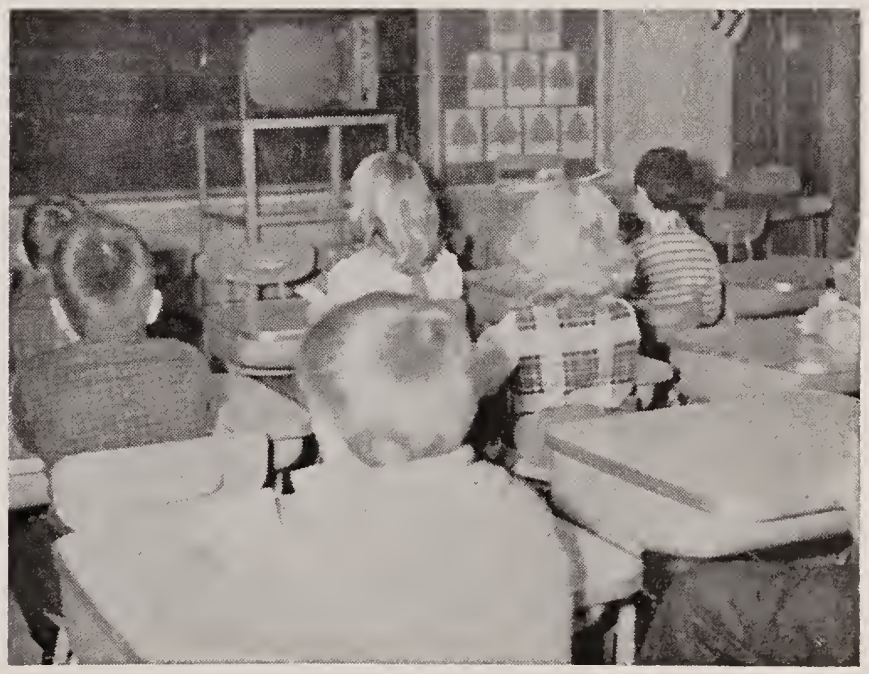
AUDIO VISUAL AIDS

Robert A. Cox

The items of audio visual equipment are dispersed throughout the system so as to make maximum use of each with a minimum of moving projectors from building to building. A complete system of recording usage of equipment and materials is now in operation.

Programmed learning courses produced by various manufacturers have been under consideration for some time. We have incorporated no such courses to date because most have not been adequately evaluated as to results achieved. Only within the last few months have manufacturers begun to produce courses with necessary testings to indicate their success. Very soon we hope to introduce some programmed learning on a very limited scope with accelerated students. This will supplement the accepted curriculum, not replace it.

Guidance - Kathleen Ann Corcoran talking to Nicholas V. Albondy as William J. Coughlin, Director, looks on.



Visual Aid in Elementary School.

Practice Session of Senior High Band - Michael E. Cooney, Jr., Director.

MUSIC

Michael E. Cooney, Jr.

In our vocal program, a continued drive on the note reading program has been maintained, and more and more correlation with basic school subjects has been effected. In the fall of this year, a new correlation was executed, that being a musical portion of "Our American Heritage". We have choruses and smaller vocal groups at all levels.

The beginning instrumental program was the largest to date with 114 fifth and sixth graders undertaking the study of a musical instrument. Our organized groups at present consist of an elementary band, an elementary woodwind group, a junior high band, and a senior high band as well as a dance band.

Lynnfield High School was well represented in the Massachusetts and New England Festivals in 1962. Eight students from our chorus, band, and orchestra have already been chosen to appear in the 1963 New England Festival Concert. One student from our music department has been accepted as a permanent member of the Greater Boston Youth Symphony.

During 1962, the Music Department put on seven programs open to the public. In addition to these there were approximately 60 in-school programs which required music of some type. Music was furnished for eleven athletic events, one talent show and for graduation. We also cooperated with the community in providing music for Memorial Day, an April 19th Dedication Service, and two military funerals.

for addition to the Lynnfield Curriculum Guide. This has up-graded our Art program.

Experiences in many types of media have been provided in order that a feeling of success can be attained in varying degrees according to the growth taking place. Some individuals can express themselves in some art media more competently than in others. Therefore, a variety of materials have been provided, such as finger paints, tempera and water colors, colored chalk, clay, charcoal and crayons.

DEBATING

Charles S. Lane

The third year of the debate team shows greater interest than ever before. At present we have a total team of fifty-three debaters, and over the three year period fifty students have represented Lynnfield in interscholastic competition.

Debating Team.

During an extra-curricular activity which they find enjoyable, debaters learn methods of research, organization, and communication.

In 1962 a two-man team from Lynnfield won the Columbia College Varsity Trophy, and a four-man team won the Connecticut Tournament. In two years, thirty-six separate awards of distinction were granted seventeen Lynnfield debaters.

The chief problem is financing the necessary travel, as only approximately three hundred schools in New England have debating. Unless we can send students to the different tournaments, the social, intellectual, and educational aspects would be lost to many.

SUMMER SCHOOL

Robert E. Chalmers

The staff consisted of the director and 7 other teachers. The enrollment was 119 secondary and 56 elementary pupils. Six teachers handled the high school classes and two teachers worked with the elementary groups in reading and arithmetic.

The courses were largely remedial in nature. Although enrichment courses in academic areas have been offered, they do not seem as popular as they should be. It might be wise to survey the parents and pupils to determine whether different dates for the summer school term would make it possible for more students to attend.

DRIVER EDUCATION

Roy E. Harbour

This program is more popular each year. We have been training 100 students per year up to 1962, but for 1963 we will instruct 150 and possibly 200 for the 1963-64 school year. We will require two cars in the near future with an overall expansion of the entire program. Driver education is an extra curricular activity and the students participating pay a fee thus sharing in the cost.

Driver Education - Mrs. Thomas Ganley and Student.

SPEECH THERAPY

Arnalee Cohen

The therapy case load is compiled as a result of testing. All first graders were tested, and second and third graders who had had some difficulty previously were retested. Children new to the system and teacher referrals were also given tests.

A total of ninety-eight pupils were helped from September to January, five of whom were high school students. Eighteen have shown sufficient improvement to require no further therapy. Conferences were held with parents and progress reports were sent home. Parents were referred to library books on the subject and given suggestions as to home help.

Because many speech, reading and behavior problems are due to emotional stress, it is felt that there should be someone on the school staff with psychiatric training. This is important at both elementary and secondary levels.

ELEMENTARY READING

Frances H. Carpenter

Pupils who are having difficulty learning to read are often given special lessons several times a week in addition to the regular daily reading lesson. During the 1961-62 school year 83 children benefited from these classes.

Elementary Reading Consultant - Mrs. Frances H. Carpenter.

There appears to be a need for another teacher so that each pupil can be given more time, additional children may be helped, and more children given special help at the beginning level so that the program can become preventive rather than corrective.

All physical examinations, the polio clinics, and the diabetes tests given to Grades 4, 7, and 10 were under the direct supervision of the school physician.

Reports of all vision and hearing test failures done were sent to parents and to the Commonwealth. A monthly list of communicable diseases was reported to the Public Health Department.

A monthly newsletter has been sent to the school staff to keep teachers informed on what is going on in the Health Department.

The Tine Tuberculin Test will be administered in the Spring of 1963 to replace the patch test.

A modern vision tester presented to the School Department by the local Lions Club has been very useful. Another vision tester, a hearing tester, and some part-time clerical assistance would improve the efficiency of the Health office.

ATHLETICS

Allan R. Perry

1962 saw the beginning of a new sport in Lynnfield High School. Our hockey started in much the same way as many of our other sports did five years ago. The team played a nine-game junior varsity schedule, and in 1963 will play a ten-game varsity schedule.

New uniforms were purchased for both the baseball and football teams. These were the first new uniforms for either team in five years. The new white football uniforms permit us to comply with the Massachusetts School Principals Association's Regulations concerning uniform color contrast.

During 1962, over 400 boys and girls in Grades 9-12 were on the teams which the high school supports. These boys and girls were coached by 14 members of the faculty.

REVEREND ANDREW C. K. RICHARDS

A resident of Lynnfield only a few short years, Reverend Richards did much for religious unity within the community. As Pastor of the Centre Church, he gave tirelessly to the service of his congregation and yet found additional time to bring his warm friendship to many groups of Lynnfield activities.

Reverend Richards served as Chaplain to the Fire Department and to the Lynnfield Lodge A.F. & A.M. He was Secretary of the Rotary Club. Always interested in youth activities, he was seen throughout the Spring and Summer months umpiring in the Lynnfield Junior Baseball program.

Born in 1922 in Atlantic City, New Jersey, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Richards, who are now serving for their 32nd year at The Second Congregational Church in Dorchester, Massachusetts, Reverend Richards was a graduate of Williams College and Bangor Seminary. Prior to his arrival at Lynnfield, Mr. Richards served at Lanesboro, Massachusetts as a Student Pastor, Peekskill Military Academy as Chaplain, teacher and football coach, and as the minister in Manchester, New Hampshire, Saco, Maine, and Lowell, Massachusetts.

While in Lowell, Reverend Richards served as President of the Greater Lowell Ministers' Association, Scribe of the Andover Association, member of the Board of Trustees of the Massachusetts Congregation Conference, Protestant Chaplain to Lowell Technological Institute and The Teachers College, and Chaplain of the Lowell Juvenile Court.

He was particularly enthusiastic about his association with Heifer Project, Inc., an organization to raise funds and deliver heifers to the farmers of underdeveloped countries around the world.

Lynnfield has lost a fine spiritual leader, a dedicated community worker, a devoted family man, and a warm and generous friend and neighbor. We will all miss him.

Board of Selectmen

Mason J. Condon

The year 1963 began with the Board calling a Special Town Meeting to authorize the construction of a new two and a half million dollar high school on Essex Street. It is expected that this school will be in use by January of 1965.

As the result of favorable action on Article 31 at the Annual Town Meeting the Board was able to institute an algae control program for Pillings Pond in an effort to contain and ultimately eliminate the rapid growth of weeds, and with the hope of eventually restoring this body of water to its original beauty.

A Special Study Committee appointed by the Board has recommended that consolidation of the Lynnfield and Lynnfield Center Water Districts be deferred to a later date, it being felt that no real improvement in efficiency or economic gains would be realized by a consolidation at this time.

The Board of Selectmen and four members of the School Committee, acting as a joint committee, elected Richard D. Morrow to fill the vacancy on the School Committee caused by the untimely resignation of Frank Thomas. Mr. Morrow will serve until the next Annual Town Election.

A Special Town Meeting authorized the establishment of a permanent Wage Study Committee to completely investigate and advise the Town in the matter of compensation and fringe benefits for Town employees. To date the Committee has completed its recommendations on the Police and Fire Departments and is currently in the midst of evaluating all other positions in the Town Government.

Ralph E. Dwight

One of the biggest problems that the Board of Selectmen has faced during the current year is in the matter of available funds from which to pay the obligations authorized by the Town Meetings. Although the fiscal year begins on January 1st and ends on December 31st, the real estate taxes, which constitute the principle source of revenue, are not due until November 1st of the fiscal year. It is therefore necessary for the Selectmen to authorize the Treasurer to borrow funds from time to time in anticipation of revenue expected to be received prior to the end of the fiscal year. This method of financing is quite costly inasmuch as interest must be paid to the various lending institutions who furnish the working capital. It is hoped that in the future another source of funds will become available so as to eliminate or at least minimize the necessity of this borrowing practice.

Harry C. Wendt

On December 1, 1963 the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company provided many Lynnfield residents with an opportunity to subscribe to an unlimited metropolitan service. This enables telephone users in the Edgewood exchange to have unlimited calls both within Lynnfield and to the Metropolitan Boston area. In addition, the telephone company has expanded its service so as to include the City of Peabody and the Town of Saugus. It may appear that this move was slow in coming about, but it was instituted by the Board of Selectmen several years ago, and one should realize that a great deal of design work and the construction of a new telephone building in Lynnfield was necessary, prior to its implementation.

A new Town Hall is now under construction and it is expected to be completed and occupied in early March of 1964. The old Meeting House on the common is being restored under the direction of the Lynnfield Historical Society, and although this promises to be a lengthy project, it is expected that ultimately it will resemble the original Meeting House.

Your Town Report was awarded second prize in the Town Report Contest held by the Massachusetts Selectmen's Association for towns in our population category. The Town Report Committee should be congratulated for their excellent work, both on this report and for prior years, since awards have been received for the excellence of the Town Report for at least the past six years.

Ruth J. Hall, Clerk

The Board of Selectmen has appointed a Committee headed by the Town Counsel to bring the by-laws of the Town up to date, and has requested an appropriation to provide for their consolidation and publishing.

The Board wishes to thank all of the dedicated town employees, elected and appointed public officials, and various townspeople who have cooperated with us during the past year and have assisted so as to make our job a little easier.

MASON J. CONDON
Chairman

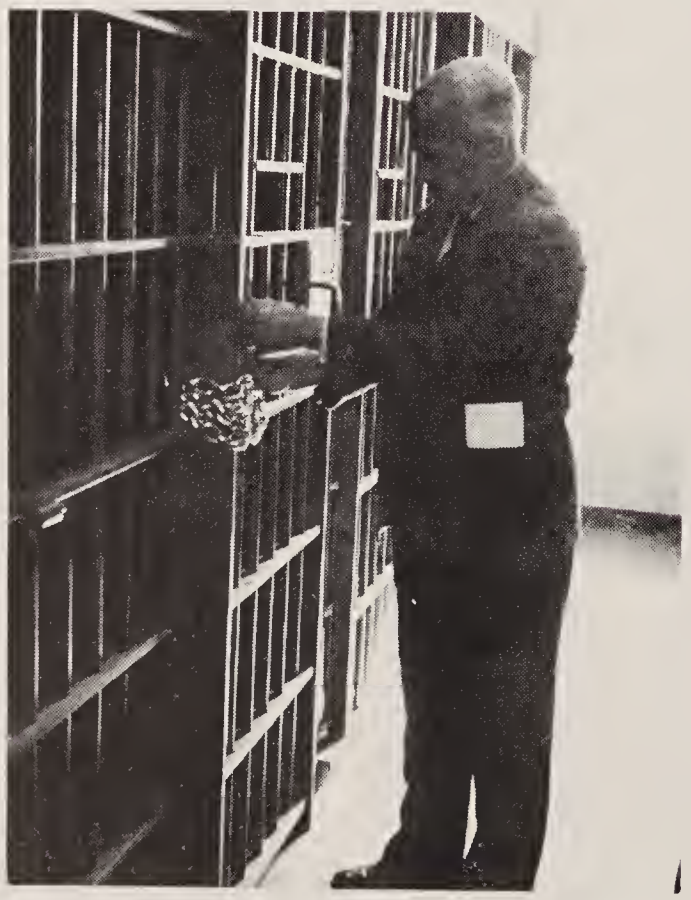
BOARD OF REGISTRARS

WILLIAM B. MURPHY
Chairman



Town Clerk Harry W. Higgins removes chain and lock from cell door where ballots were kept.

Town Counsel

Ralph G. Howland

The past year has been a very busy one, which is to be expected as the Town grows.

This department has been called upon very frequently for advice and for oral and written opinions by the Selectmen, Town Officers, Department Heads and Committee Members relative to matters concerning their duties and departments. I believe the Town now has more active committees in operation than ever before in its history, and it seems that sooner or later they need legal advice.

I have drafted many contracts for the purchases of vehicles, machinery, equipment, supplies, and work, labor and materials, together with easements, petitions for street acceptances, deeds and releases, various articles for town meeting warrants and other necessary legal documents. I have also kept abreast of the passage of new laws affecting municipalities and furnished copies thereof to the departments concerned.

All meetings of the Board of Selectmen were attended as were town meetings and also board and committee meetings when requested.

During the past year the following litigation was handled, most of which has been succesfully disposed of but with some still pending in courts:

Laubner v. Lynnfield — Land Damage & Taking — Essex Superior Court.

Melch Bros. v. Lynnfield — Land Damage & Taking — Essex Superior Court.

Caruso v. Lynnfield — Tax abatement — Appellate Tax Board.

Pearson v. Lynnfield — Zoning Variance — Essex Superior Court.

Pomeroy v. Lynnfield -- House damage by electric cable in street.

Lynnfield v. Green Estate — Real Estate Taxes — Malden Court.

Lynnfield v. Diantgikis — Damage to Highway truck and plow.

Lynnfield v. Sharpe — Damage to Police cruiser.

Lynnfield v. Twin City Automobile Leasing Corp. — Excise Taxes — Peabody Court.

Lynnfield v. Lynn Rendering Corp. — Excise Taxes — Peabody Court.

Brown & Carpenter v. Lynnfield — Suit on electrical sub-bid on new High School — Decree for Town in Suffolk Superior Court — Appealed to Supreme Court.

I was asked by the Selectmen to form a new committee to revise and codify the Town By-Laws. This has been done and work will start the first of the year. This project should be done every five years or so as the by-laws change rapidly with each town meeting and they should be collected and kept up to date in one book.

At this time I wish to thank the Selectmen, Town Officers, Department Heads, Town Employees, Board and Committee members and all others who have been most considerate, cooperative and helpful to me in the performance of my duties.

RALPH G. HOWLAND
Town Counsel

Burton B. Cogswell

At the start of 1963 we had three permanent cases receiving benefits as in previous years, but in June we lost one by removal from the state; but picked up two more which fortunately were only of short duration. Four emergency cases were processed during the year, also two hospital cases handled in a like manner.

Several cases involving information for Veterans Administration regarding compensation, pensions, and veterans rights were advised and followed through.

All graves were inspected as to condition and were found to be in excellent shape thanks to our efficient Park & Cemetery workers. Each grave was marked with an American flag for Memorial Day through the efforts of Post 131 American Legion.

I would like at this time to thank all departments, veterans and friends for their most co-operative help during the year 1963.

Fire Department

Carl E. Davis, Chief

1963 produced a 53% increase in the total number of alarms compared to the year 1962. Of the 352 alarms in 1963 (230 in 1962) 93 occured in the month of April. Alarms for brush and grass fires totaled 111 more than in 1962.

The Fire Prevention Bureau under the direction of Deputy Chief Joseph Natoli Jr. made the following inspections:

26 — Oil Burner Inspections	12 — Church Inspections
5 — L. P. Gas Inspections	3 — Nursing Home Inspections
15 — Public School Inspections	7 — Town Building Inspections
20 — Kindergarten Inspections	16 — Blasting Permits Issued
58 — Business Inspections	469 — Burning Permits Issued

Deputy Chief Joseph Natoli Jr., drillmaster, organized and supervised 30 weekly drills which were held in various sections of the town. These drills allow the Department personnel to maintain their knowledge of old equipment and increase their knowledge on new equipment.

On August 29, 1963 the Board of Selectmen approved a pay raise in the fire-fighters wage rate from $1.60 to $1.80 per hour.

While battling a blaze about ¾ of a mile in the woods, Engine 4 went out of commission again, and the following day was towed, by a wrecker, back to the South Fire Station. This engine needs to be replaced, and I plan to make this request in 1965.

The Fire Alarm Maintenance operation, under Supervisor James V. Thompson, continued to improve the municipal alarm system by adding ground rods and eliminating aerial wires crossing Route I by running a cable underground in conduit. A new automatic register and tape was purchased for the South Station, to replace an outdated piece of equipment.

Personnel of Company 1 and Company 2 under the command of their respective officers, and the members of the Civil Defense Auxiliary Fire Department, under Chief Sanborn Caldwell, performed their duties to the Town of Lynnfield, and surrounding towns with devotion and effciency.

On November 29, 1963, the Department was shocked and saddened by the sudden death of their beloved chaplain, Rev. A.C.K. Richards. "Andy", who was appointed chaplain in October 1, 1960, responded to all alarms possible, and administered his duties as chaplain whenever necessary. His service as a "fireman" and his duties as chaplain was an inspiration to all members of this Department.

The following indicates the alarms for the year 1963:

89 — Still Alarms	17 — Out of Town
187 — Box 7 Alarms	9 — Rubbish
76 — Street Box Alarms	3 — Rescue
352 — Total Alarms As Detailed Below	2 — Washers and Dryers
198 — Brush and Grass	7 — Oil Burners
31 — Accidents and Vehicle	7 — Dwelling
25 — False	5 — Fireplace and Chimney
3 — Stove and Oven	15 — Investigations
7 — Electrical	8 — Miscellaneous
5 — Needless	10 — Multiple Alarms
	352 — Total

On January 1st of this year, Edward Cleary and Arthur Munroe became permanent patrolmen. Robert Aldenberg was appointed Temporary Intermittent Patrolman to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Patrolman Richard Murphy. On May 13, 1963, Sergeant Frank Martin was promoted to Captain. Our new Cadillac ambulance was purchased at a considerable saving in money to the Town and placed in commission on July 23, 1963.

In the field of education and training, progress continues. Patrolmen Paul Madden and Franklin Tozier graduated from the Massachusetts State Police Academy on May 24, 1963, after six weeks of intensive training. F.B.I. practical pistol training was held for one week at Camp Curtis Guild Rifle Range in Wakefield in May of 1963. During the week of November 23, 1963, Officer Madden attended Fingerprint Classification School at Salem, conducted under the auspices of the F.B.I. In-Service Training School was conducted for a period of twelve weeks for both the Regular and Auxiliary Police.

The Department has investigated a total of 2660 complaints which required police action. Arrests for the year totaled 113 and are classified as follows:

The crime rate in Suburban areas has increased 13%, while in the cities there was an increase of 11%. This increase in crime did not reflect itself in Lynnfield.

During the year 1963, your news media has poured forth sufficient evidence of increasing lawlessness throughout the land, especially among the young people. We, as parents, should pause to reflect upon this ever growing cancer with the realization that the police, church and schools cannot do it all.

As Chief of Police, may I express my appreciation to the Regular Personnel, Auxiliary Police, various Town Departments and last but not least, the people of Lynnfield for their co-operation throughout the year.

Park and Cemetery Department

During the year 1963, the Park and Cemetery Department purchased a 1963 ton-and-a-half dump body, 4-wheel drive, Ford truck. This truck will greatly facilitate the handling of fill and loam in the cemeteries. In addition, it is equipped with a snow plow attachment so that we are now in a position to take care of snow removal in all of our cemeteries. With normal useage the truck should give excellent service for a number of years.

The Department requested and received an extra appropriation from the Finance Committee for improvements on the Common. The completed work includes sidewalks, grading, and curbing in preparation for the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Town and the 250th anniversary of the Old Meeting House. The balance of this appropriation is being used for seeding, fertilizer and bricks for completion of the project in the early Spring. We hope that the Highway Department will be able to complete the curbing installation along Summer Street to the point of the Common.

GLEN MEADOW — The Department is still undecided as to the drainage situation here. Until we are assured that the condition is corrected, we do not propose to build any tennis courts or make any further improvements other than to maintain existing recreational facilities.

We are in the process of having a preliminary study in the hopes of surveying and laying bounds at Freeman Memorial Park and Newhall Memorial Park. This study is being made by John Parsons, a registered civil engineer, of Lynn.

An extension has been made to the water line into Newhall Memorial Park. This will be connected up next summer for a new concrete drinking fountain already purchased.

Essex Street Little League Field, Glen Meadow, Newhall Memorial Park and the Common were all limed and fertilized this year.

During the recent years we lost some of the elms on the Common. We intend to plant some new shade trees in the Spring.

In 1963 we received numerous requests and granted permission for the use of the Common to hold various activities. These requests were received from the Mens' Club of the Centre Congregational Church, the Rotary Club, Lynnfield Chapter No. 222 Order of Eastern Star, Lynnfield Center Garden Club, and many other local organizations.

The Park and Cemetery Commissioners wish to extend their thanks to the Highway Commissioner and his Department for their cooperation in the completion this Fall of the grading, sidewalk and curbing work on the Common.

The following is a breakdown of monies turned into the Town for 1963:

Cemetery Lots Sold	$ 830.00
Amounts added to P/C Funds	690.00
17 Internments	520.00
Foundations	122.50
8 Liners Furnished	208.00
Interest turned into Town from P/C Funds	2,576.59
Total money turned in	$4,947.09

Board of Public Assistance

Wesley W. Munroe

In Lynnfield the Selectmen serve as a Board of Public Assistance, and as such, are charged with the responsibility of administering the five following categories of Public Assistance: General Relief, Aid to Dependent Children, Medical Aid for the Aged, Old Age Assistance and Disability Assistance. Wesley W. Munroe, Assistance Director, acts as Secretary of the Board. The State supervises the Administration of all five categories, but with limited control over General Relief.

GENERAL RELIEF: Costs were about the same as last year. Medical and Hospitalization has been somewhat higher whereas cash grants and food orders are less. It has been the policy of the Director to attempt to find or assist the applicant in securing a position if un-employed and encourage him to participate in the solution of his own problem.

AID TO DEPENDENT CHILDREN: Cases receiving this aid are from homes where father is deceased, where parents are separated by divorce or by desertion, or the bread winner is physically handicapped because of illness. This category has shown signs of decreasing, due, in a large measure, to several recipients becoming more self-supporting.

MEDICAL AID FOR THE AGED: This program of Medical Aid for the Aged became effective October 1960. This Act gives immediate medical assistance to the low income aged. At the present writing, the Federal Government returns to the Town approximately 50% with the State contributing about 33% of remaining cost.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE: Due to transfers from one category to the other, the year 1963 saw many changes in Public Welfare for the Town of Lynnfield. Although it would appear that Old Age Assistance had decreased substantially, Medical Aid for the Aged showed a very appreciable increase this year. We receive roughly 55% of total grants from Federal funds and slightly over 25% from State funds.

DISABILITY ASSISTANCE: PERSONS WHO ARE DISABLED: This category has very rigid rules and regulations set forth by both the Federal and State Government in administering this program. Both the Federal and State participate in the returns to the Town.

As Director of Civilian War Aid, I have attended several meetings during the past year on mass housing, mass feeding and congregate care as set up under the Civil Defense Organization.

Another year has passed, resulting in the usual activities of Lynnfield's Civil Defense organization.

The Auxiliary Police unit met once each week participating in an intensified training program supplemented with films and simulated emergencies. This training was instituted and accomplished under the direction and guidance of Chief Ganley, Training Officer Pat Navas and Auxiliary Police Chief Frank Pagano. Their untiring efforts has resulted in one of the most completely trained group of Auxiliary Police in the State. With the beginning of the new year, a Red Cross Advanced First Aid refresher course will be initiated for the purpose of the renewal of existing certificates and the training of new personnel in emergency First Aid procedures. Captain Frank Martin, Police Pistol Instructor and Range Officer, has trained each Auxiliary Officer in the proper use of Firearms, both on the range and in self defense. The 1963 training program has secured a capable, self-sustaining Auxiliary Police Unit for the Town of Lynnfield.

Richard W. Doremus
Deputy Director

The Rescue Squad has been re-organized with additional men being recruited and trained in various phases of rescue at the Civil Defense State Training Center in Topsfield. One member has completed the five required courses and has received his diploma as a certified Rescue Training Officer. The Rescue Squad trains each week with the regular and auxiliary Fire Department in addition to their own training meetings. With additional equipment and volunteers, this unit will become a vital part of the Auxiliary Fire Department.

Under the able leadership of Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Natoli and Auxiliary Chief Sanborn Caldwell, the Auxiliary Fire Department has trained faithfully each week and assisted the regular department as required. The house and brush fires which have occurred during 1963 has necessitated the use of their services augmenting the regular Fire Department on several occasions. Eventually these Auxiliary Firemen will qualify for appointment to the regular call departments.

Sanborn A. Caldwell
C. D. Fire Chief

Our Communications unit has been actively engaged this past year assisting the Auxiliary Police as a communications link between the regular police, the Civil Defense operations Center and the mobile units. With the additional equipment purchased during 1963, Lynnfield now has full coverage on all of the communication network bands. In a natural or wartime disaster or crisis, communications are the most vital link of a Civil Defense organization. Additional appointments have been made to this unit, effecting greatly increased activity.

Your Civil Defense Director has inaugurated a disaster plan covering Lynnfield's course of action in all types of emergencies. Program papers, required by the Massachusetts Civil Defense Agency have also been submitted and have received preliminary approval. These program papers contain the 1964-65 C. D. commitments and schedule of participation in conjunction with Area, State and Federal directives. With final approval of the disaster plan, copies will be printed and distributed as requested.

One public shelter location has been approved, marked and stocked. Two additional locations will be approved and stocked during 1964. These three shelter spaces will accommodate a total of 167 people. With a total population in the vicinity of 9,000 it is obvious that provisions should be made by each family for some type of shelter protection to assure their personal survival. Current information on shelter construction and self-survival is available to you through your local Civil Defense Unit.

Frank A. Pagano

Your participation and support is urgently requested to complete the ultimate goal of your local Civil Defense Organization.

I would like to express my appreciation for the cooperation and assistance extended to my department by the Townspeople and department heads during the past year. Without this cooperation the goals of the Civil Defense Department would have been un-obtainable. To the members of Civil Defense, who have given freely of their personal time, words cannot express my appreciation of your efforts in promoting Civil Defense.

Although the number of books loaned is often taken as a prime indication of the use of a library, this is only one measure of library service. Due to the vast broadening and deepening of the school curriculum, necessitating research in many more source materials, the use of the reference room and the library staff reference service has greatly increased. In the past year, students desiring to use the library for work have been turned away a number of times because of lack of table room and seats.

Again there has been advancement in the professional status of the staff. A course in reference was given by the Division of Library Extension of the Massachusetts Board of Education at the Elizabeth Green Library for ten mornings for librarians in towns in this area of less than 10,000 population. Because the course was given at the Green Library, all eight members of the adult staff were able to take this course. For the first time in the history of the library, the head librarian attended the American Library Association Convention, held in July in Chicago, Illinois. Here, for one week, 6,000 librarians in attendance studied the student use of the library.

School-library relations continue to be most gratifying. In September, a tea was given by the Friends of the Library at the Green library for the new teachers in the school system. Dr. John Redmond, Superintendent of Schools, Mr. John Durkin, head of the English Department, Miss Nancy Cowing, high school librarian, and Mrs. Flewelling met at the Green library to discuss methods of further improving communications between the schools and the public library. During National Library Week, four Lynnfield kindergartens visited the library, where they were taught the proper handling of books and were told stories. In Book Week, in November, the sixth grades listened to a lecture and demonstration of finding source materials and using them in the library. Later, four of the sixth grades returned for an hour of research and study on individually chosen subjects under supervision of the school teacher and Mrs. Flewelling. Over three hundred children received certificates for reading twelve books or more during the summer program. This summer reading program was climaxed by a party, sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

Nancy Santeusanio

The Friends of the Lynnfield Library have proved invaluable in their assistance. Several times, they have been called up to provide hospitality for visiting groups. Plastic sit-upons for use during the story hours, an up-to-date illuminated globe, and books too expensive to be purchased from the regular book budget have been among their gifts. An eye-catching and informative brochure, setting forth the library needs of the community was prepared and distributed to every home in the town by the Friends.

The three garden clubs, the Center Garden Club, the Lynnfield Garden Club and the Village Garden Club have been most generous in beautifying both libraries, inside and out.

Lynnfield artists have loaned original paintings for display and the gift of two paintings has been received from Mr. George Clarke, of Lowell Street. Many fine books and several magazine subscriptions have been given by interested patrons.

A state grant of $2,099.50 towards library service was again received by the town treasurer, because standards set by the state had been maintained.

The Lynnfield library was chosen by the Division of Library Extension to be visited by a group of English librarians, who were studying American libraries, as an outstanding example of good library service in a small town.

The growth and progress of the past year has been very gratifying. However, we are rapidly running out of space, — space for books, for services for children, for students, for adult patrons, and for preparational work.

CHARLES E. HERLIHY, Jr.
Chairman

Roger Harris

Building Inspector

The Town of Lynnfield instituted its own largest building program in a good many years: the start of its new Municipal Office Building adjacent to the Police and Fire Station and the start of the new Senior High School located on Essex Street. While construction of the Municipal Building progresses at a steady pace construction of the High School is now at a standstill due to adverse weather conditions.

Permits for the erection of new dwellings remained steady with sixty-five new starts for the year. Dwelling construction costs continue to rise — approximately 1% over last year. Permits were issued for nineteen new dwellings in scattered locations within the Town: five for "King James Grants"; seven for "Ridgefield"; two for "Rosswood Park"; five for "Apple Hill"; eleven for "The Village Crossing"; six for "Sherwood Forest" and ten in "Westknoll". One dwelling permit expired before the start of construction.

Other than the start and completion of the New England Telephone and Telegraph building located on Carter Road there were no new commercial type buildings erected this year.

Four permits were issued for the demolition of dwellings. In anticipation of new business buildings three permits were issued for the demolition of business properties; "Kimbals" dance pavillion, the "Lynnfield Diner", and the "Garden Green".

The complete remodeling of a dwelling, located in the Limited Business Area on Salem Street, into a restaurant, the complete exterior remodeling of the restaurant on Broadway known as the "Ship" and the remodeling of the "old Catholic Church" on Broadway mark the largest investments in business building this year.

The former Catholic Church Rectory was moved from its location on Grove Street to its new location behind Post Office Square. It will accomodate the Lynnfield Knights of Columbus.

The Lynnfield Historical Society was issued a permit for major interior remodeling of the Meeting House on the "Green".

The majority of permits issued remained in the "remodel, repair and addition" group.

The following is a breakdown of the permits issued for 1963:

New Dwellings	65
Reissue	3
Demolish (dwelling)	4
Demolish (business)	3
Demolish (shed)	1
Swimming Pools	4
Fallout Shelters	none
Garages	13
Additions, repair, remodel	97
Signs	5
Sheds	11
Municipal Building (Telephone)	1
Municipal Building (Town Hall)	1
Senior High School	1
Move and Reconstruct	1
	210

Twenty-seven permit applications were referred to the Board of Appeals for further desposition. Four "Site Plan" approvals were referred to the Board of Appeals. Two permits expired prior to the onset of construction or failure to continue work for a period of six months. All minor Building Law violations have been corrected. One Zoning By-Law infraction required litigation.

ROGER HARRIS
Building Inspector

Health Officer

The year 1963 has shown increased activity in the work of your Board of Health. There have been numerous complaints and problems brought before the board. These have been dealt with in the best interests of the town.

Again the Board of Health has had excellent cooperation from the Planning Board and the Building Inspector in it's effort to maintain healthy plumbing standards and proper sewerage disposal arrangements especially in new building. Mr. Robert Rimbach,.Sanitarian, has again done his usual efficient work, and has inspected all restaurants, drug stores, schools and other places where food is served to the public. He has also inspected all milk and milk products being sold or delivered in the town. He has made monthly reports to the Board of Health concerning all inspections.

There have been problems concerning garbage and rubbish collections during the year. The parties concerned have been brought before the Board of Health, and the current situations have been straightened out. It is believed that there will be more satisfactory pick-up in 1964.

The annual spring clinics were held in February, March and April for the immunization of preschool children against diptheria, whooping cough, and tetanus. Also given were small pox vaccinations. In these clinics immunization against anterior poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, was given mostly through use of the Salk vaccine.

These clinics will be given again this year beginning at the end of February and will be carried into April. The dates of this program will be publicly announced in all papers. Oral Sabine vaccine will be given this year in conjunction with the clinics. For the twenty-sixth consecutive year Mrs. Lucy Lindquist, R. N., has been the nurse in charge of the pre-school clinics. She has also served on a part time basis in Board of Health work in the town doing especially some follow-up work of tuberculosis cases which have been reported to your Board of Health.

Sabin vaccine was given this year in Lynnfield to all age groups through a series of special clinics. A nominal charge of fifty cents was made to cover the cost of the vaccine and other attending expenses. The Board of Health is most grateful to the corps of workers who gave of their time and efforts to make these clinics the outstanding success which they were. Mrs. Florence Romanchuk, R. N., did an excellent job in setting up these Sabin clinics. The organizing of the volunteer staff and the smooth carrying through of the clinic itself took much time and planning on her part. The Board is most appreciative to both Mrs. Romanchuk and Mrs. Lindquist for their willingness to serve the town.

I will endeavor to ascertain as to whether there is any need or demand for a repeat of these clinics in 1964, and will set them up if they are wanted. It is important to note that according to the Massachusetts Department of Public Health any person who has had the three types of oral Sabin Vaccine will not need a booster.

Nursery schools and day schools have been licensed in Lynnfield during the past year are:

Bethlehem Nursery School
Busy Bee Nursery and Kindergarten
The Music Box
Pine View Kindergarten
Suntaug Kindergarten
Tower Kindergarten

Beginning with January 1, 1964, the authority for all licensing of day schools for children will be under the State Department of Public Health. The requirements will be generally the same as those required in the past by the Lynnfield Board of Health. The authority for licensing is required under a new health regulation enacted January 1, 1963 by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court under Section 59, Chapter 111 of the General Laws. The program will be carried out by the State in cooperation with the local Board of Health.

There has again been considerable laxity in the reporting of communicable diseases. The State law requires that they must be reported to the local Board of Health either by the physician in charge or by the family concerned.

Communicable diseases reported in 1963 are as follows:

Diseases	No. of Cases	Diseases	No. of Cases
Chicken Pox	118	Mumps	130

The Board of Health has held 24 regular and three special meetings in the year of 1963. We have investigated fourteen infringements of the health regulations and they have all been corrected to our satisfaction.

In April a new contractor started the collections of the rubbish. There have been complaints from the residents concerning these collections and we have tried to correct these. One of the most common complaints has been the failure to pick up their rubbish. In confering with the contractor he told us that many of these complaints came from people that did not have their rubbish out when the truck came by. The collections start at 7:00 A.M. on collection days. This may be true in some instances but others have been overlooked by the collectors. The contractor is now in the process of setting up a new system for checking the pick-ups. The Police Department has a schedule of the collections, (streets and days). We ask the cooperation of the townspeople to make sure that their rubbish is out in proper containers and on time for the collection.

The Board of Health has passed a regulation requiring that all new houses must present to the board a plot plan containing the location and size of the sewerage system, with percolation tests before the issuance of a cesspool permit. These tests and drawings must be made by a licensed sanitary engineer. This license must be granted before a building permit can be issued.

The Board of Health has passed four subdivisions in 1963.

There were 8 premature babies born in Lynnfield last year.

The monthly inspections made by the Sanitarian Inspector has resulted in a very good record of all the establishments that are dispensing food in the Town of Lynnfield. We have noticed that in 1963 there have been fewer demerits on his monthly reports to the Board of Health.

During the year 1963, a total of 233 wiring permits were issued which involved approximately 550 inspections. A number of these inspections were re-inspections of work which did not meet the National Electric Code standards.

Two fires were recorded during the year. Wiring in the homes involved was severely damaged and necessitated the disconnection of service. As of this date, service has not been restored.

This year saw the complete removal of obsolete wiring on Salem and Summer Streets. This project had been left over from 1962 as no monies were then available for the work. The Town received from the State the sum of $3200 for the relocation of fire alarm equipment and wires which were involved in the relocation of Routes 128 and 1. Some line removal work was done on Salem Street and an underground feed for the fire alarm lines on the north side of the Turnpike was installed. Line removal planned for Chestnut Street was not completed as the Reading Municipal Light Company changeover work was not completed on said street. We are in the process of re-installing lines on Main Street, from Edward Avenue to Rt. 128, which were removed due to work at that point. Monies were included in the $3200 received from the State to do this work.

The Budget submitted for this year includes the installation of new fire alarm boxes to replace obsolete boxes which are approximately 40 years old where the cost of maintenance and upkeep is not justified. Also included in the Budget is the installation of additional fire alarm protection as recommended by the New England Fire Insurance Rating Association in July 1962.

This year no major wiring damage was incurred as a result of severe storms, winds, etc. One house was moved but this did not entail any interruption of fire alarm service.

As the year 1963 comes to a close and we review the activities of the Highway Department we find that 1963 was very dry. Rainfall at the present time is 7.5 inches below normal and during July and August it was 10.3 less.

Most of our snow and ice problems occurred on weekends and the same pattern carried through with our last storm of importance which occurred on Saturday, March 2nd. This storm started as snow, then turned to sleet, making it necessary to sand every street in Town. When a condition like this happens, it takes six hours to cover our present streets with two sanders. Funds are being requested to purchase a third sander at the 1964 Annual Town Meeting to insure faster sanding, or at least as fast, if one of our present sanders breaks down as they are now eight and nine years old.

Funds are also being requested for the purchase of a new truck and dump body, a new sidewalk roller and a new snow plow.

Forest Hill Ave. was completed this year and the area between Forest Hill Avenue and the railroad tracks was widened and resurfaced. Hutchins Circle, Arlington Street, Crescent Avenue, Pleasant Avenue, Pine Hill Road and Carpenter Road were rebuilt and a bituminous surface installed.

Catch Basins were installed on Perry Avenue and Chestnut Street. Dragline work was done between Atherton Circle and Alexandra Road, also on Hawkes Brook and Pillings Brook. Much hand work was done in the clearing of brooks in areas where work done by machinery would have caused damage to property. A thirty-six inch pipe was installed at Glen Meadow Park. This is being watched at the present time to evaluate it, if it needs to be continued.

Our Chapter 90 work on Salem Street was not accomplished this year due to the length of time it took to make plans and survey the area. This work is done by the State. The County then holds a hearing on the land takings along with the new layout of the road and this was not accomplished until December 17, 1963. Our allotment will carry over however, and we will do two sections in 1964.

As a result of the Town Government Study Committee Report dated February 19, 1962, much has been said about creating a Public Works Department and an Executive Secretary for the Town. If this should happen in Lynnfield, I am sure the Highway Department would co-operate to its fullest extent. However, my observations from this corner, of like operations in other Towns, show that our present form of Government is best in every respect.

Some of the work contemplated for 1964 includes the rebuilding of Howard Avenue, Lincoln Avenue, Carter Road, Stanley Road, Grant Road, Hart Road, a portion of Locksley Road, Lynnbrook Road and the unfinished part of Underhill Road.

The Road Commissioner and the personnel of the Highway Department wish to thank the citizens and administration officials of the Town for their help and co-operation throughout the year.

Antonio I. Procurot

Dog Officer

I herewith submit my annual report of the duties performed by me as Dog Officer for the first nine months of 1963. I received and answered seventy-five telephone calls. I canvassed the town three times for unlicensed dogs. Forty dogs were picked up. Thirty dogs were returned to their rightful owners. Ten dogs were humanely disposed of, and eighteen dead animals were picked up off the streets.

All dogs three months or older must be licensed on or before April 1st of each year.

I have resigned as Dog Officer as of October 1st, 1963. I have held this post for the past twelve years. Mr. Sanborn Caldwell has been appointed the new Dog Officer.

Ninety-nine (99) plumbing permits were issued, and after installations, inspections were made.

Ninety (90) cesspool permits were issued, and upon completion, inspections were made.

Thirty-three (33) cesspool complaints were investigated and corrective measures were instituted.

Planning Board

Following a trend starting last year, the rate of establishment of new developments in Lynnfield has slackened off significantly. This two-year drop is in contrast with prior experience, which saw an increasing number of building lots established year after year, as the following table indicates:

Year	No. of Subdivisions Approved	No. of House Lots Approved	Aggregate Length of New Streets Approved
1959	3	61	6679 ft.
1960	7	74	8687 ft.
1961	6	120	12165 ft.
1962	1	19	1240 ft.
1963	1	3	190 ft.

At the 1962 Annual Town Meeting, the Planning Board introduced a number of articles establishing Limited Industrial Zoning in the Town By-Laws and designating several specific areas to be zoned as Limited Industrial Districts. These articles were in accordance with a study of Non-Residential Zoning in Lynnfield made by Allen Benjamin Associates in 1960 and 1961 as authorized by the 1960 Annual Town Meeting.

Although the Town Meeting accepted the Limited Industrial Zoning and changed a former Commercial District to the new Limited Industrial District, all other areas recommended for change from Residential to either Limited Industrial or Commercial zoning were rejected by substantial majorities.

The continued addition of new residential units, although without any proportional increase in commercial or industrial facilities, has not adversely affected the tax rate for the Town as a whole. Under the sponsorship of the Planning Board, Mr. Charles E. Downe, Planning Consultant, has conducted a study of the major new areas developed for residential purposes during the past ten years. All the costs to the town generated by each new development were balanced against the tax revenues received from the area. With only one exception, all areas studied returned as much or more each year in taxes than their cost to the town. The net effect of all developments combined was to reduce, rather than increase the tax rate. Copies of this report have been placed in the Town Libraries and with the Town Clerk, so that any interested citizen may study it in detail.

Mr. Richard R. Wolsey was re-elected to a second five-year term on the Board and continues as its Clerk.

Tree and Moth Department

Gustav H. Koch

This has been a challenging year for your Tree and Moth Department. Nature with a long cold winter and a hot dry summer has given many anxious moments to us this year, both in caring for young trees and also old established growth. This with the Rachel Carson "Silent Spring" controversy made the fulfillment of our obligations "as required by law" quite difficult to carry out. As in any field of endeavor, there are certain elements that will not observe correct and sensible methods. For these few the many capably trained and conscientious tree wardens and commercial arborists are being constantly criticized for trying to obey the will of the people and the laws they have sworn to uphold as pertains to their work. Positive help from the various state agencies whose work is to test and evaluate various insecticide and pesticides and recommend or reject them has been at best passive.

Approximately 10% of these materials are used by local moth superintendents and commercial arborists, the balance by farms, orchards, golf courses and the home owner, all of whom are unrestricted in their use. Of the deaths directly attributed to pesticides, over half were children getting the materials in their own homes, carelessly left within their reach. We are the healthiest, best fed nation in the world, so surely the indictment of the users of one tenth of the pesticides seems rather unjust.

New equipment added to the department in the past year was a fog generator for mosquito control and a pick-up truck. Both were received late in June so the full value is yet to be appreciated, especially in mosquito control. Approximately 150 young trees were planted and cared for during the season. Dutch Elm disease is an ever present menace and while a very promising control method has been developed by the University of Wisconsin, further evaluation must be made before being made generally available.

Brush and Roadside Poison Ivy Control is slowly being accomplished and will soon be complete. Constant effort has eliminated, as far as we know, all hazards from our road side trees. This is a continuing effort and enhances both the safety and beauty of our roads.

Tree Warden & Moth Superintendent

Sealer of Weights & Measures

Again it is my pleasure to report to the Citizens of Lynnfield that the dispensers of gasoline and food products in the town have had their equipment in acceptable shape and full value given.

Pre-packaged items have been checked and found correct. All scales and pumps have been checked and sealed. A constant check by both State and Local Sealers insures against mechanical failures and that correct measures are given. Cooperation has been excellent.

GUSTAV H. KOCH
Sealer of Weights and Measures

Animal Inspector

Lynnfield, once an important source of milk for the city markets, has no longer a herd of cattle within her borders. An era has passed and the price of progress has been paid. We have a few scattered flocks of sheep, and here and there, a pony and some riding horses. These change locations as children grow up or become disinterested and gradually the evidence of a rural community disappears.

Dogs continue to plague our postmen and service employees and an occasional nip causes the animal to be quarantined, but generally our animals are noisy, but friendly. We have had no rabies in Massachusetts for many years. This is the result of an animal innoculation program and quarantine regulations.

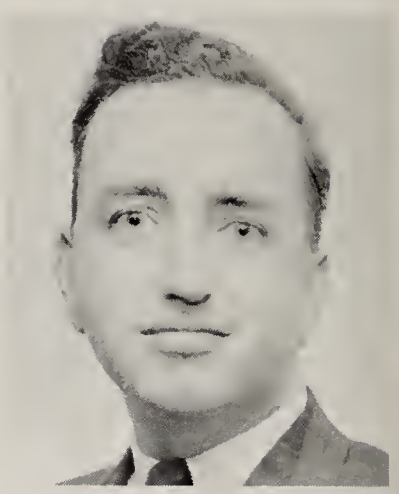
Board of Registrars

William B. Murphy, Chm.

Harry W. Higgins, Clerk

Edward A. Galvin



Albert C. White, Jr.

The annual listing of Lynnfield residents twenty years or age and over commenced on January 2nd. A group of assistant registrars obtained the information by a house-to-house canvass. The information obtained by the canvassèrs, i.e. name, address, age, occupation, residence January 1st of the previous year, and citizenship, which establishes a person's residence in the Town is of great importance to the Town as well as to the individual.

Two periods of registration preceeding the Town Meeting and election were held this past year: February 6 at the South Meeting Hall and February 12 at the Town Hall. Persons having residence in Lynnfield six months after moving from another city or town within the State can register to vote at the Town Clerk's office daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. except during such times as registration is not permitted by law.

Persons who have moved to Massachusetts from out of state must establish residence in Massachusetts for one year, and in Lynnfield for six months before registering.

We urge all young men and women reaching the age of 21 to register. Registered female voters who have married during the year should reregister after the first of the next year.

During the past year 185 new voters were registered — 89 men and 96 women — making the total number of registered voters 4,751, broken down as follows:

Precinct 1 - 2,353 Precinct 2 - 2,398

We extend our sincere thanks to the residents of Lynnfield for their help and cooperation during the year.

Sanitarian Inspector

Inspections again have been made monthly, of those establishments preparing, serving or handling food or drink. Bacterial swabs were taken of those establishments serving food or drink bi-monthly. The reports of the inspections indicate that much progress has been made to raise the standards of the various establishments by the proprietors.

Milk, cream and ice cream samples taken at random from delivery trucks and stores were examined for butterfat, coliform, total solids, bacterial count and phosphatase.

Water samples were taken from the various swimming areas and private wells for examination.

I placed much emphasis on proper rotation and handling of stock this year in the various food handling establishments to insure quality of merchandise.

In conclusion, I wish to express my appreciation to the Board of Health and town officials for their cooperation in the administration of my duties.

In Recognition

Minot H. Carter

The Town of Lynnfield wishes to take this opportunity to express its appreciation and gratitude for the devoted and loyal service rendered to the townspeople by Mr. Carter.

In October 1941 Minot joined the Fire Department and remained with the Department until 1948. He recalls that at that time the town owned a White Chemical Truck equipped with three tanks which contained a mixture of soda and acid. As the town had no pumper at this time, the tank method was the only means of fire extinguishing and in addition to being totally inadequate for fire-fighting constituted a dangerous hazard to the firefighters.

Minot became Road Commissioner associated with the Highway Department and remained with this department for a period of twenty years.

In September 1956, Minot became a member of the Park and Cemetery Department, finishing out the term of Donald Newhall. He remained with the Board until May 24, 1962, as both a Member of the Board and Chairman. At this time, Minot resigned for reasons of health.

Mr. Carter is a Past President and Honorary Member of the Lynnfield Lions and a Past Commander and Charter Member of the American Legion. He resides with his wife Gertrude on Carter Road.

Minot's invaluable store of knowledge of the town and its citizens and his whole-hearted cooperation with everyone will always be gratefully remembered by his associates.

Looking back over twenty-six years as tax collector, Clifford C. Ham reflects on the changes in Lynnfield from a small, little-known farming community of 1,896 people, with an assessed value of $3,726,955 to the now popular suburban town of 8,522 and a valuation of $23,644,300.

Clifford C. Ham

A graduate of Boston University, School of Business Administration, Mr. Ham has worked in the accounting field as travelling public auditor, office manager and purchasing agent.

As a young man, his chief hobby was in the field of athletics. While serving with the 5th Division in Paris during World War 1, by competing with runners from other companies, he earned the distinction of representing the U.S.A. in an International Race against representatives of the other Allied countries.

Having educated four children in the Lynnfield schools, all of whom finished college and went on to graduate work, Mr. Ham has always taken particular interest in all school affairs. In 1942-1943, while president of the Centre School P.T.A., he was instrumental in starting the Federal-Aided Hot Lunch Program in the Lynnfield Schools. In 1948-1949 before the Lynnfield High School was built and Lynnfield pupils attended the Wakefield High School, he was president of the Wakefield High School P.T.A.

Active in local Masonic and Eastern Star affairs, Mr. Ham is now treasurer of the Lynnfield Lodge A.F. & A.M. a past patron of Lynnfield Chapter O.E.S.

Mr. Ham is an active churchman, and in September 1952, when the Revised Standard Version of the Bible was introduced, the Ham family was chosen as an outstanding Christian family by the Lynnfield-Wakefield Council of Churches and presented a specially-bound copy of the new Bible at a public recognition service.

Wage Study Committee

The Wage Study Committee, as presently constituted, is by action of the town in June of this year. The members were appointed by the Board of Selectmen and the committee was organized in early August. A resignation occurred and the committee was at less than its full legal strength some of this time until early October when a new appointment was made and reorganization was accomplished. The law states, in effect, that the Wage Study Committee and the Finance Committee shall meet to review the recommendations of the Wage Study Committee no later than the first of November each year. This, of course, was not possible this year and indeed it is highly unlikely that this Committee could have completed its assignment within the available time and under the circumstances, although a good start has been made.

Our task was complicated by the ordering of certain rates for the lower ranks in the Police Department and the complete omission of the officers. This committee felt that the situation called for priority action to correct the inequities thus created. Recommendations for the Police Department wage structure were submitted on 8 October and 12 November, 1963.

Shortly after the organization of the committee, unanimous approval was achieved on a proposal to recommend to the Selectmen the previous recommendation of the 1962 Wage Study Committee for the Fire Department. This recommendation was submitted.

In the period from 30 October to 15 November 1963 six other major departments had submitted requests for wage and salary increases for consideration by the Committee. Therefore on 19 November, 1963, with the full membership present, it was unanimously agreed that a five percent wage increase be recommended for all town employees and that appropriate funds be provided in the 1964 budget. It was further agreed that this recommendation would not apply to the Police and Fire Departments for whom recommendations based on considerable study had already been made.

It was the considered opinion and sincere hope of the Committee that this recommendation would serve to maintain the morale of the town employees, in view of the action taken by the town in reference to the patrolmen, until this committee could properly complete its assignment.

The following program is being processed and perfected at this time:

1. A Grade/Step structure to be applied to all positions in the town organization.
2. A Point Rating system that will enable the proper and consistent placement of each job in its grade.
3. A Job Evaluation Manual containing job factors, definitions, point and weighting allotments, and instructions for their application.
4. A file of job specifications and descriptions for all town positions.

This committee has benefitted immeasurably and is most grateful for the willing assistance and cooperation of town department heads and employees and of other town committees and groups.

We are likewise most appreciative of the help we have received from knowledgeable friends and interested parties in both industry and government service whose enthusiastic guidance and counsel has proven most valuable.

Finally, it goes without saying, that we are singularly indebted to previous Wage Study Committees and their members who have contributed and are still contributing to this effort.

We are convinced that the net result of the program described above will be most beneficial to the town, its employees and taxpayers alike. It will provide a permanent equitable standard of universal and lasting benefit to all town committees and departments.

Conservation Commission

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Black generously gave to the Town, on May 9, 1963, about 8 acres of excellent meadow land in Reedy Meadow. Transferred in trust for the purposes of conservation, the land represents an important acquisition for which both the Commission and the Board of Selectmen were most grateful.

After consultation between the Commission and the Board of Water Commissioners of the Lynnfield Center Water District, title to about 47 acres of land was obtained by the District in 1963. This acquisition has significance for conservation. The tract, which the District intends to hold as a watershed and possible well-field, adjoins another 50 acres owned by the District and used as a well-field and watershed situated northwesterly of Phillips Road, Saunders Road and Carter Road. Abutting this acreage is the lot of land of about 3 acres, given to the Town by Mr. Ernest G. Willard for conservation, and known as Willard Woods, near which is another tract set aside for conservation, called the Emerson land, comprising about 20 acres and extending to Apple Hill. Thus considerable acreage serving the interests of conservation was added in 1963 to an already large expanse of land which is to be kept open and preserved in its natural condition.

About 25 acres of woodland known as the Jeffrey-Goodale Lot bordering Willis Meadow was put in the custody and control of the Commission during 1963. This land had been acquired by the Town through a foreclosure for unpaid taxes.

Again the Commission arranged for two boys to attend the Conservation Camp operated during the summer by the Department of Natural Resources of Massachusetts. The sponsors for the boys in 1963 were the Lions Club and the Rotary Club.

At a joint meeting between the Commission and the Board of Selectmen Richard L. Pratt was unanimously chosen a member of the Commission to serve for the unexpired term of Patricia R. Perkins who had resigned. Jessie M. Duston was chosen to fill the vacancy created on the Commission because of the inability of Ruth A. Hayes to serve as a member for another term.

As of December 31, 1963, approximately 66 acres of land are under the care and control of the Commission.

A unique problem exists regarding Humphrey's Island in Suntaug Lake. There is general agreement that the island should be protected, but it lies mostly in Peabody. In that City a Conservation Commission has recently been formed, and contact with it has been made in the hope that jointly this beautiful island can be preserved.

The Commission gratefully acknowledges that it has received throughout 1963 the cooperation of the Selectmen, other officials of the Town, and the Commissioners of the Water Districts.

GORDON H. MILLAR
Chairman

Town Government Study Committee

At the recent Special Town Meeting several articles were inserted dealing with proposed changes in the structure of our Town Government. These articles were inserted by the Board of Selectmen, and not by this committee. As is well known, the meeting was adjourned before any of these articles were brought to the floor. This action was taken because those in attendance felt either that no changes were needed in our government or that these articles and their content, should come before a regular Town Meeting.

The committee still feels changes are needed and refer to their report given to the Selectmen a year ago. What action will be taken by the Selectmen at the regular meeting in March is not known at this time.

Copies of the report are available and it is to be hoped that interested citizens read it, if only to get an insight into our present governmental structure and the reasons for the proposed changes.

JOHN B. RODGERS
Chairman

Capital Outlay Committee

The Capital Outlay Committee, organized in 1959 and appointed by the Board of Selectmen, is composed of five members of which one is selected from the Finance Committee. Appointment is usually for a three-year term.

In June of 1963, Mr. Clifford H. Hahn was appointed as our representative to the Future Plant Needs Committee, and Mr. Raymond D. McCoy was appointed to represent us on the Library Building Committee. It is the intent of the Capital Outlay Committee to have representation on any Committee responsible for large capital outlays.

Since it is our function to review capital outlays by all Town Departments and make our recommendations to the Finance Committee before the various departments submit their overall budgets to the Finance Committee prior to the annual Town Meeting, we requested early in September an itemized report of capital expenditures over the next five years from each of the over thirty town servicing departments or committees. In addition, a complete inventory of physical property has been requested this year. By November 1 all reports had been received or noted if no expenditure was required and twenty-six up-to-date inventories were made available to us. During November and December we met weekly with 15 Department Heads to discuss and evaluate their current and future expenditures. When all the Departments have been interviewed, a written report of all requests and our final recommendations will be submitted to the Finance Committee by mid January.

No Department request will be considered by the Finance Committee without our prior approval.

* SEE EXPLANATION IN TEXT ABOVE FOR 1964

In October 1963 the town let a bond issue of $2,150,000 for the High School construction and $150,000 for the new Town Hall. The total issue of $2,300,000 jumped our long-range debt from $1,985,000 to $4,285,000. The servicing of this additional debt will enter the tax rate in 1964 and will be amortized over a twenty-year period at a total interest cost of $717,650.00.

During 1963 at the two special Town Meetings, additional expenditures were made and have not been considered in the figures shown for 1963 or 1964. An additional $10,000 from available surplus and $110,000 by Bond Issue was appropriated for the new High School. An additional $13,000 was appropriated for the new Town Hall. State grants to be paid over the life of the several issues ranging in maturity from 1969 to 1983 will total $2,207,607.00. This in effect reduced the net debt to $2,077,393.00.

As of December 1963, the largest single Capital Outlay item to be considered at the next annual Town Meeting will be the equipping and construction of an addition to the Main Library. The approximate appropriation, we are given to understand, will be $225,000. In an effort to study this proposal, a questionnaire was sent to the head Librarians or Trustees of twenty-two towns of comparable size. Study has been made of these questionnaires and data obtained from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Division of Library Extension.

Capital Outlay appropriations have been substantial in the past several years. These have been voted only after your careful consideration at Town Meeting. It must be recognized by all of us that the impact on the tax rate will start to be felt in 1964 and 1965.

Our Committee wishes to express our sincere appreciation for the cooperation received from the Department Heads this year.

ROBERT F. PERKINS
Chairman

Senior High School Building Committee

The principal concern of the Senior High School Building Committee as the year 1963 commenced was the preparation of a brochure which outlined the proposed Senior High School project in detail and which was distributed to the Townspeople on January 19. Several public meetings were held during the month of January to give interested citizens an opportunity to discuss the proposal. This activity came to an end with the Special Town Meeting held on January 29. The Senior High School project was approved at this Town Meeting by a vote of 768 in favor and 158 opposed. The sum of $2,505,000.00 was appropriated, and the Committee was authorized to proceed with the work.

The architect commenced the preparation of working drawings and detailed specifications immediately following the Town Meeting. This phase of the work was expected to take at least six months and in fact was not completed until late August. Throughout this period, the Committee followed the progress of the drafting work, reviewed the design details frequently, and made many basic decisions.

Early in February, the Committee came to the conclusion that both time and money could be saved if site clearing and major grading work were done in advance of and independent of the general contract. The architect was instructed to prepare separate plans and specifications for this work and to arrange the bidding procedure. Bids for site clearing work were advertised in mid-March, and on March 26 the Committee awarded the contract to Richard S. Sagendorph of Brookfield, Massachusetts, the lowest of six bidders. This contract was for the sum of $7,435. and was for the removal and disposal of certain trees and an old frame dwelling on the site. This work started on April 1 and was completed satisfactorily by mid-May.

Bids were received on June 7 for grading and utilities work, and on June 11 the Committee awarded a contract in the sum of $90,674.00 to Arthur Schofield, Inc. of Wayland, Massachusetts. Work commenced forthwith, and continued through the summer and into September. This phase of the project was a sizable earth-moving enterprise and completely transformed the greater part of the site. A complete drainage system and the sanitary disposal system were installed. The Committee considers that this work was carried out satisfactorily and at reasonable cost. Colonel Franklin C. Johnson of Wakefield, Massachusetts, a former member of the U. S. Army Engineers Corps, served as Clerk of the Works for this contract and kept a close check on all operations.

On September 10, approval of final plans and specifications was received from the Massachusetts School Building Assistance Commission. On September 24 at 12 o'clock noon, bids from sub-contractors representing 17 building trades and services were publicly opened and read in the High School Library.

On October 1, the general contract bids were publicly opened and read. The three low bidders were Clemenzi Construction Company Inc. of Beverly, Massachusetts; J. T. Scully Construction Corp. of Boston, Massachusetts; and Fabrizio and Martin Inc. of Darien, Connecticut. These bids were only a few thousand dollars apart and were considerably higher than had been estimated. It was apparent that a review for possible savings and a request for additional funds were in order. The Committee met with the Board of Selectmen on October 7 to explain the situation and requested a Special Town Meeting be held as soon as possible. A meeting with the Finance Committee followed, and on October 21, a Special Town Meeting appropriated an additional sum of $120,000.00 by a vote of 358 in favor and 10 opposed. After further delay caused by legal technicalities introduced by an unsuccessful electrical sub-bidder, a contract with Clemenzi Construction Company Inc. was finally signed on November 12. Actual work on foundations commenced the following day.

In conclusion it may be said that the work of the Committee is at the half way point. Many obstacles have been overcome and much accomplished during the year. Actual construction is underway and, it is hoped, will continue at a rapid pace during the coming year so that this largest of Lynnfield's school plants will be in operation early in 1965. The Committee wishes to thank all who have assisted and supported its efforts during the year.

WALTER H. KUESTENMACHER
Chairman

School Plant Needs Committee

The School Plant Needs Committee, established in accordance with Article 20 at the 1961 Annual Town Meeting, is charged with the responsibility for continually evaluating the long range needs for school facilities in Lynnfield.

It is obvious that good predictions for the numbers of students to be accommodated in the coming years are necessary to provide a basis for sound planning. Accordingly, much of the committee effort has been devoted to the task of formulating a systematic method for making such predictions. Individual studies of the factors which affect school population were carried out with the results being used in estimating grade-by-grade totals for several years in the future. The principal items which were considered include: anticipated town growth, number of children per home (taking into account building lot size and age of housing development), birth rate statistics, stability of Lynnfield population, and public school dropout rates. Particular emphasis was given to evaluate Lynnfield data, appropriately modified to reflect the influence of nationwide statistics.

An initial forecast has been made using the system which was developed, and this forecast will be updated periodically as supplementary information becomes available. At the same time, the method of calculation can be reviewed and revised as experience dictates, so that the system will actually be self-correcting. We believe that such an approach will give sufficient advance warning of the need for new facilities.

The first committee analysis indicates that elementary and secondary school populations can be expected to increase at a moderate rate for the next several years. Copies of the committee report containing complete details on the analysis are on file at the town Library. With existing facilities already overburdened, this would create serious difficulties at every level of our educational system were it not for the fact that the new High School on Essex Street will be completed during 1965. At that time, transfer of the upper classes to the new building will not only solve the secondary housing problem, but will free space in the present Junior-Senior High School which, for a time, can accommodate the anticipated overflow from the lower grades.

Eventually, however, new elementary facilities will be essential. Despite the possibility that small additions to existing structures may be both feasible and desirable, ultimate town growth will necessitate the construction of one or two entirely new buildings. With the availability of large tracts of land decreasing every year and the cost of the remaining ones rising, it would appear prudent for the town to secure at least one new site in the near future. The School Plant Needs Committee therefore recommends that such action be taken and will sponsor an article in the 1964 Town Warrant asking for the appointment of a committee to locate a suitable elementary school site and to report its findings to the 1965 Annual Town Meeting.

Industrial Development Commission

During the 1963 Industrial Development Commission has had ten meetings. Three meetings have been held with the Planning Board.

The Commission sponsored Articles 20 and 21 at the annual Town Meeting for 1963 dealing with the rezoning of land along Route 128 for hotel use. The articles were defeated by the Town Meeting.

We have worked also with two possible industrial developers. At the time of the writing of this report the Commission is exploring with one developer the possibility of rezoning a portion of the Cox farm on Main Street and Route 128 for limited industrial use.

Library Building Committee

The appointment of a Library Building Committee, charged with obtaining preliminary plans and estimated construction costs for an addition to the Green Library, was authorized by 1963 Town Meeting action. The seven-member committee, appointed by the Selectmen in accordance with the provision of Article No. 13 of the 1963 Town Meeting Warrant included representatives of the Capital Outlay Committee, the Library Trustees and the Board of Selectmen.

The work of the committee, thus far, has been divided into four principal phases.

1. Preparation of a Building Program for the architect.
2. Selection of an architect.
3. Preparation of plans and construction cost estimates.
4. Review of plans and estimates with the Planning Board, the Finance Committee, the Board of Selectmen, the Library Trustees and the Capital Outlay Committee.

As a starting point in the preparation of a proposed building program, the recommendations of the Library Facilities Study Committee were reviewed in detail. Additional information was obtained from discussions with several library specialists and from careful study of statistical data which reflected the library needs and experiences of a large group of towns of comparable size throughout the state. Finally, visits were made to certain selected libraries to observe their good features and their shortcomings. These investigations confirmed the findings of the Facilities Study Committee and emphasized the serious extent of present facility deficiencies.

The building program which ultimately evolved, closely paralleled the recommendations of the Library Facilities Study Committee. In its final form, the proposed program makes ample provision for the future needs of the town and recognizes the constantly increasing demands being placed on the Library facilities by the growing school population and the expanding interest in adult education programs.

The choice of an architect to give form and substance to the building program was considered to be one of the most important aspects of the committee's work. After some preliminary screening, selected candidates were interviewed and the Boston firm of Richmond and Goldberg was finally selected. This firm has had considerable previous library design experience.

At the outset, two conditions were placed upon the architect by the Committee.

1. The addition must blend with and effectively utilize, the two structures which presently comprise the Main Library.
2. The design must harmonize with the existing architecture of the Town of Lynnfield and must also be of the same architectural style — Colonial.

After several reviews of preliminary sketches, a number of changes were requested; some in the interest of economy; some to improve efficiency of operation. The plans, as finally approved, provide separate functional areas for children, young adult, adult and reference use. At the same time, these different areas are subject to central control and supervision as are the stack and study areas. Provision has also been made for a badly needed book processing space — a serious deficiency in the present plant.

Construction costs are a matter of vital interest to every building committee. In this instance additional complications were introduced because the alteration and repair of existing older buildings was involved, and the Library Building Committee was therefore particularly concerned that estimates be both accurate and comprehensive. In this case all construction cost estimates were prepared by a professional estimator of established competence who has had a long association with the architect. The final figures for the main proposal, and the various alternatives, were supported by substantial detail and documentation.

While preparation of preliminary plans was underway, an extensive topographic survey of the site was completed, test borings were obtained and percolation tests were performed. This data was made available to the architect prior to completion of final plans to ensure that construction cost estimates would be based on full and complete knowledge of actual site bearing and drainage conditions.

Finally, plans and cost estimates were reviewed with the Selectmen, the Finance Committee, the Planning Board, the Library Trustees and the Capital Outlay Committee. Subsequently, the Selectmen, the Library Trustees, the Planning Board and the Finance Committee approved the plans and estimates with a stipulation in the case of the Selectmen, that one specific change be made.

Insurance Advisory Committee

The Insurance Advisory Committee serves in a purely advisory capacity to the Selectmen. The purpose of this committee is to give the Selectmen a source of impartial advice on the Town's insurance program.

Members of the committee agree to serve with the understanding that they will not personally benefit, either directly or indirectly, through placement of the Town's insurance coverages.

During 1963, all insurance policies in force on Town property were carefully examined. Changes in several of the contracts were negotiated resulting in better coverages in certain areas.

Mr. Richard Learnard and Mr. William Montgomery were appointed to the committee during 1963. Both have extensive experience in business insurance and have made important contributions to the work of the committee.

JOHN J. CAREY
Chairman

Municipal Office Building Committee

The Building Committee is pleased to report that progress on the new Town Hall building is proceeding according to schedule. A months delay was encountered at the outset, as original bids were higher than monies appropriated. Bids were re-advertised and by accepting several deduct alternates, the Committee was able to sign contracts with the Beta Construction Co. At a later date monies were voted to complete the coupola of the new Town Hall.

It is now expected that the move to the new building should take place the last of February or the first of March.

One problem remains, that of removing the old Town Hall building and replacing same with a municipal parking area. It is expected that monies will be asked for this project at the annual town meeting in March.

The committee wishes to thank Mr. John Guarino, architect of the project for his interest and complete cooperation with the members of the Committee. Also many thanks to the many Town employees who have helped in many ways to lighten the load of the Committee and the Beta Construction Co.

We feel that the Town will be very proud of its new Municipal Office Building and should receive many years of service and enjoyment from our new Town Hall.

Finance Committee

The regular Finance Committee report is published separately and distributed with this Annual Report. We urge you to digest its contents so you may come to the annual meeting a better informed voter. Our report is the only detailed information of the 1964 budget that you will receive. Your vote in town meeting sets your tax rate, plus the standards to be maintained in education, protection, and services. In the few paragraphs contained here, we hope to bring special attention to other matters of general importance.

In recent years the many citizens who have participated in town government have generally felt there was need of change. Not a change from the basic democratic principles of New England town government, not a loss of citizen participation in all aspects of Lynnfield, but a recognition that times have changed and that there may be better methods of fulfilling the dictates of the townspeople. Although our population has increased manyfold in the last decade, we still have the same basic organization as a century or more ago when the town numbered in the hundreds.

This is a two million dollar corporation. It should conduct its affairs with the same view towards efficiency as industry. A corporation of this magnitude would be expected to pool its purchasing strength, to use modern accounting methods, to provide its officials with timely and complete financial data, have delegated lines of authority, eliminate overlapping and to relieve its top officials of detailed day-to-day operations.

These are some of the things which a group of fifteen citizens recommended after a two year study of Lynnfield's government. Submitted in February, 1962, it was well received but little has been done since then to implement its recommendations. These proposals should be considered by the voters. Should they fail to be adopted it will at least clear the way for other ideas. We believe it to be a basically sound proposal. There may be details which could be amended but the principal changes are overdue.

As an example of the need for accepted modern management principles, we refer to our 1963 budget recommendations. We proposed that the town acquire an accounting machine. The Finance Committee discussed this with the appropriate departments and believed it had the cooperation of all. This proved not to be so as the department heads opposed this article and it lost. There are four departments involved: Accountant, Treasurer, Tax Collector and Assessors.

Besides the usual human weaknesses, such as unwillingness to accept change, pride, loss of authority, and fear of job obsolescence, there is no single supervisory authority. Not even the Selectmen oversee all these functions so that difficulty of agreement becomes obvious. Such arguements as "town accounting is different than business" or "the State Director of Accounts won't permit its use" are meaningless when you realize our own school system uses such equipment. It has, in general, a more modern approach than the balance of our government. (The School Committee sets policy. The School Superintendant has overall operating authority.) The continued use of the manual system of accounting cannot be justified when another area within our government can and does use machine methods successfully.

Another area of control which the Finance Committee believes warrants review is our policy on work records. Employees are not required to punch time clocks or turn in time sheets, nor generally do department heads maintain logs of the hours worked by individuals. We are not questioning the integrity of either employee or department head. We have confidence in our people. But they should not be put in a position where they can be subjected to criticism or where any doubt can be cast on their performance. Besides the obvious need for control of wage dollars, there is the value to be gained through better use of manpower. It is nearly impossible to determine work loads and need for additional assistance under the present system. A professional approach to day-to-day operations would overcome this problem.

We are concerned about the growing list of capital equipment. In 1962, the Police Department acquired an additional cruiser and in 1963, the Fire Department added a fire truck. In both cases, the Selectmen, as Commissioners of the respective departments, approved. Neither additional vehicle had been voted, only the replacement of existing vehicles. It is our opinion that the town in voting to purchase new equipment believed the old would be sold. This was not done as the budgets in the capital accounts had sufficient funds to make the purchases without selling the old equipment. It apparently is argued that the old equipment is worth more to the town than the dollars which would be derived for the sale of the second-hand equipment. This fails to recognize that it costs hundreds of dollars to register, insure, maintain, and operate these vehicles. We are not interested in the merits of owning the additional equipment. There may well be a valid need. We strongly believe it is the town meeting and not the department head which decides what services will be provided and what equipment will be needed to furnish these services. The two cases cited are extreme but to lesser degrees there have been other cases where the intent of the town meeting was ignored.

The tone of this report is negative but it presents our desire to urge you to consider a more efficient organization. While this is our goal, it would be inaccurate to leave the impression of waste, inefficiency, or neglect. The integrity, dedication, and attitude of our employees and officials, is, in general, excellent. The return on our tax investment compares well with any community in the state. Your Finance Committee believes you can well be proud of your town government. We believe this performance with thoughtful participation of all can be improved upon.

ACCOUNTANT'S CERTIFICATE

I have examined the cash receipts and securities in the various Trust Funds in the hands of the Treasurer and find them to be as stated in the Treasurer's report. The income from Trust Funds in the hands of others have been received for the year 1963 and credited to the proper accounts. The receipts as reported by the Treasurer agree with the books, and the payments of the town correctly present the financial status as of December 31, 1963.

I would like to take this opportunity to sincerely thank the Honorable Board of Selectmen, all Town Officers and Employees, and the Town Report Committee who have contributed so much of their time and talents in compiling this report.

THEODORE C. PALIZZOLO,
Town Accountant

School Committee

The year 1963, as with every year, has been one of both problems and accomplishments. However, in retrospect, both the problems and the accomplishments in terms of progress, have been far greater than what one would consider normal.

Without question, the one problem of lack of space at the secondary level looms so large in terms of its impact on so many students as to dim all other problems almost to the point of insignificance. For the past year the Junior-Senior High School has been crowded and in September the ratio of students to available space became so unmanagable in terms of quality education that double sessions, even with all its shortcoming, at the 7th and 8th grades became a desirable alternative to further crowding. Next September will necessitate a further extension of double sessions into the upper grades. The degree of this extension is under continuous active study by the superintendent, principals, staff, and School Committee, and decisions will be reached and announced well in advance of the closing of schools in June.

Great as the problem is, the end is clearly in sight. The Town voted overwhelmingly at the Annual Town Meeting and at the subsequent Special Town Meeting to proceed with the building of the new High School on Essex Street and early 1965 should see the end of double sessions. This action of the Townspeople to so greatly support its educational system in solving its most severe problems without question is the Town's accomplishment of the year.

There has been much progress made elsewhere in the educational system that is very worthy of noting. This year saw the Evaluation Committee of the New England Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges appraise our plant, staff, curriculum, and students and Lynnfield High School is now fully accredited by this organization. This three day visit by twenty-five professional teachers and administrators from all over New England culminated nearly two years of required self-evaluation by our own staff.

Three students from the Class of 1964 were semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Program while ten others received Letters of Commendation. For these young people, this usually means scholarships from the various colleges. We are very proud for them and for the school — many larger schools do not place as many students in these honored groups.

Curriculum continues to be upgraded by introduction of the more proven outputs of the revolution that is taking place across the nation in the whole area of education. Modern mathematics based on the Greater Cleveland Program has been introduced at the elementary level and an Advanced Physics course at the secondary level, to name but two areas. An improved physical program has been organized for the primary grades. Also, this is the first full year of the American Heritage Program that gives young people the basis for understanding of the wonderful inheritance they receive by being privileged to live in this country.

Lynnfield students continue to achieve distinction when in competition with other students, or when compared with any standards. This is true in science fairs, debating and mathematics tournaments, athletic contests or achievement testing. In this year's graduation class 85% planned to continue their education with 45% going on to four year degree granting colleges. This is far above the national average. At the other end of the scale less than 1% of our students dropped out of school, which is far below the national average.

This report could not be complete without recognizing the generous gifts of relatives and friends of a former teacher at the Center School, which have resulted in the establishment there of the Mildreth Parkhurst Rourke Memorial Library.

The town continues to have just cause to be proud of the interest, support, and efforts of its citizens in educational matters. This is manifested not only by the Town's monetary support, but also by the countless parents and other citizens who devote many, many hours to bettering our schools. The Committee is indeed grateful for these efforts.

It is the intent of this School Committee report to just touch on the highlights of the year. The areas mentioned in this report along with many others are discussed in greater depth in the succeeding reports of the superintendent, principals, and professional staff.

Chairman

Superintendent's Report

Education in Lynnfield as in every other community in our country is an ever-changing process. Each year we introduce new techniques, new subject content, new details of organization, and establish some new policies. These are not changes merely for the sake of change. Many of the proven methods and practices are still effective and are continued in use. Most of the changes we do make are evolutionary rather than revolutionary. They are the result of careful study, research, experimentation and testing. This is as it should be, for in education we can never be satisfied that what we are doing is good enough. Steady improvement in the light of increasing knowledge and changing needs must be our goal.

One step illustrative of our forward growth is the evaluation of our high school early in the year. This is a process carried on under the supervision of the New England Association of College and Secondary Schools. It consists of two phases: the first, a self-evaluation by the high school staff, and the second, an evaluation of the school by a committee of twenty-five visiting educators.

In the first phase, the teachers and administrative staff developed a written school philosophy, and each department rated itself according to evaluative criteria set up by a group called the National Study of Secondary School Evaluation. The ratings include organization, nature of offerings, physical facilities, instructional staff, instructional materials, activities, and the results.

The Visiting Committee who conducted the second phase consisted of a superintendent, principals, directors, department heads, teachers from other schools, and also representatives from the State Departments of Education and Health. This team of educators spent three days in Lynnfield, examining the school plant, visiting classes, interviewing staff members and students. As a culmination of their own evaluation and a study of our self-evaluation, the Committee prepared a detailed written report. They cited many areas in which they believed that Lynnfield High School deserved commendation for its school plant, its staff, the equipment and material, the instruction, and the results being obtained. Some of their comments were:

> "The Lynnfield High School, although a relatively new facility, has shown great progress in the utilization of a fine plant."
> "It is noteworthy that the staff of well-qualified teachers are adding vitality to the entire program of studies by their enthusiasm and effort."

"The location of the library provides an inspirational setting for reading and study. The facilities indicate that a good instructional materials program is considered a vital part of the educational program."

The report also included suggestions as to ways in which Lynnfield High School could be improved. Some of the minor recommendations have already been adopted and others are under study. However, the Committee recognized our space problem and realized that the major improvements suggested must necessarily be delayed until we have new high school facilities available.

As a result of this evaluation and the Committee's subsequent report to the regional authority, the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools granted Lynnfield High School recognition as a fully accredited high school.

At the elementary level a prime example of our ceaseless search for ways to improve our schools is cited in Mr. Caswell's report on the mathematics curriculum. All elementary teachers and the junior high mathematics teachers completed a training course under the able direction of Dr. Fred Weaver of the Boston University Graduate School of Education. This course brought staff members up-to-date on the latest methods and materials to be used in teaching the "new" mathematics now in use in our elementary grades. These teachers deserve much credit for their professional interest and for the time and effort they spent on this in-service task for the benefit of their pupils.

Other evidences of progress are mentioned in the reports of the high school principal and directors of special areas. In the elementary schools each principal has assumed the responsibility for one major curriculum area and their reports on these major fields have been included this year rather than separate reports on progress in the individual buildings. I commend these excellent reports for your consideration.

The rising cost of education over the years is of concern to all taxpayers. We recognize that increased enrollments are a basic factor in this rise. We understand that in an inflationary economy the cost of goods and services used by the schools has risen just as the cost of living has risen for the average family. In tracing the growth of the Lynnfield schools we find another factor not quite so apparent. In comparing the enrollments of 1953 with those of 1963 we find the following:

	September 1953	September 1963
Elementary Enrollment (Grades 1-6)	637	1209
Secondary Enrollment (Grades 7-12)	*335	1138
*Includes Lynnfield students in Wakefield High School	972	2347

These figures show that in ten years our elementary enrollment has grown 90%, while our secondary school population was growing by 240%. Whereas in 1953 the high school students made up approximately 34% of our total enrollment, they now account for slightly over 48% of our total school population. In terms of cost these figures are meaningful. The cost of educating secondary school pupils is always considerably higher than that for elementary pupils. This is due to the variety of elective courses offered at the high school level, and also to the fact that many of the specialized courses at the secondary level require much more expensive and specialized equipment and materials.

Lack of secondary school space has been our major problem in 1963, and will continue to be in 1964. The citizens have generously provided the funds for the needed facilities, and the High School Building Committee is making valiant efforts to speed the construction of the new building. However, until that facility is actually available we must cope with a difficult situation. As indicated in Mr. Macfarlane's report, every available space is being used during the regular session. The shortened day for grades 7 and 8 deprives them of their full program in some of the minor subjects and reduces the amount of time available for extra help and make-up work. Some of the groups in the senior high school grades are larger than is desirable, particularly those at the extremes of the ability scale. With another increase in enrollment expected in Grades 7-12 next year, it will probably be necessary to include more grades in the double-session program.

At this point I recognize with gratitude those high school teachers who, because of the double session schedule, are carrying unusually heavy teaching schedules or working a much longer school day. There has been no extra compensation for this. Many high school teachers have also contributed greatly to the plans for the new building. They have worked particularly on room design, especially in those areas in which there has to be built-in equipment of highly specialized nature.

It is interesting to note that Lynnfield is making extensive use of its school buildings in after-school hours. Our records show that community groups used school buildings as follows:

School Building	Number of Times Used
High	167
Center	4
Huckleberry Hill	138
Summer Street	86

These figures include after-school, evening, and Saturday programs or meetings. Typical of these community-sponsored activities were meetings and programs of Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, basketball practice and games sponsored by church groups, lectures, movies, dramatic productions, and a church fair. From the administrative point of view it is gratifying to have the school buildings so widely used. Expensive school facilities should not be idle during hours when they can satisfy community needs.

School Department employees paid tribute in February to Mr. Norman Moore, who retired after almost ten years of faithful service as custodian of the Center School.

As we look back on 1963, we are proud of our schools. Testing programs indicate that the abilities and achievements of our boys and girls compare favorably with those in other similar areas, and the success of our students in institutions of higher learning indicates that they have had good preparation.

As we look forward to 1964 we are optimistic. Our space problem is on its way to being solved and we have a fine professional staff and a community keenly aware of the importance of education.

My sincere appreciation goes to the staff, the School Committee, and all others who have supported my efforts on behalf of the young people of Lynnfield.

HIGH SCHOOL

Hugh O. Macfarlane, Principal

By this time, Lynnfield residents are fully aware of the extremely crowded conditions existing at the high school. Approximately 1,140 students are enrolled in a building which contains only 25 standard classrooms. Specialized rooms such as music, household arts, cafeteria, and library are being used for academic teaching. All facilities are taxed to the limit. Smaller classes and vital program enrichment will not be possible until the new senior high school is available for occupancy.

Seventeen new teachers have joined the faculty this year. These additions have been made for three basic reasons: to replace those teachers who have left the system, to handle increased enrollment, and to take care of the programmed double sessions. In my opinion, we have many outstanding teachers who are carrying out their duties conscientiously under most difficult conditions.

Since Lynnfield wishes to provide quality education, the academic program is of vital importance. An advanced course entitled PSSC Physics has been added in Science. Spanish II is being taught for the first time this year, and next year the sequential Spanish III will be offered. Considering the enrollment of students at the senior high school level, Lynnfield offers a wide selection of courses to meet the demands of the times. Curriculum study and revision are under constant consideration.

We shall endeavor to refine and improve our grouping and sectioning of students in the various courses. The standardized five-point letter system for grading appears on the report cards and permanent records. This letter represents achievement. Another five-point scale showing effort is also recorded. College admissions directors are most concerned about what a student knows, what effort he puts forth, and what ability he has to learn at the college level. These are the reasons why grades, courses, college board scores, standardized test results, and recommendations are all taken into account for each college admission.

Although approximately 85% of Lynnfield High School graduates pursue some form of education beyond the secondary school level, we take pride in our business and industrial arts programs. Too often these vital areas in a comprehensive high school are overlooked because of the emphasis placed on the college preparatory student. In these areas good teachers in comparatively small sections enable us to give a considerable amount of individualized help. Upon graduation every student in these curricula has been placed in a position in keeping with his capabilities.

Student activity has expanded to meet student needs. The school paper is now a monthly publication. An Art Club is aiding in all phases of the school program. Plans are under way for a National Honor Society Tutoring Service. Lynnfield will be represented in the new Dual County Hockey League. These are a few illustrations of progress in the activity area. It seems to me that many and varied programs of activity are necessary to meet the needs of individual students. As a word of caution, however, undue emphasis should not be placed on any single school activity. Proper balance is needed to insure an outstanding school. Through an excellent and complete activity program in which all students are urged to participate, good school spirit is built.

Last June 106 students graduated. Honors bestowed upon individuals in the class of 1963 are a matter of previously publicized record. Graduates of this class are attending twenty-six four-year colleges and approximately twenty other institutions of higher learning. During the past year over forty college admissions personnel have visited the high school. We are grateful to the many organizations who have generously given scholarship aid.

Approximately 160 students are in the class of 1964. Lynnfield was fortunate that three students have qualified as semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship program. In addition, ten other students received letters of commendation.

The faculty, staff, and administration worked for over a year on a complete self-evaluation of every facet of education at Lynnfield High School. Last spring an evaluation team from the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools visited Lynnfield. At this time of writing, Lynnfield High School has been accepted as a fully accredited secondary school. A complete re-evaluation must be undergone within each ten year period.

As has been written before, Lynnfield is a young school. Considerable progress has been made in the past and we are striving to make even greater progress in the future. I believe that we have have the potential to become as outstanding a secondary school as there is in existence. To realize this goal, continuing hard work will be necessary.

I wish to acknowledge the fine work of the High School Building Committee, the capable leadership of the School Committee, the conscientious efforts of Superintendent John A. Redmond, and the active support of the townspeople. The faculty, staff, and administration pledge their best efforts in behalf of the young people of Lynnfield.

Elementary Science

SCIENCE IN THE LYNNFIELD ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

Gilbert F. Bulley, Principal
Huckleberry Hill School

The phenomenal growth of science and technology in the past decade has made science teaching more important, and at the same time more difficult. An awareness of these changes has caused an unprecedented public support for sound science programs in the schools. The elementary science program in Lynnfield is being strengthened each year as teachers and administrators evaluate quality of facilities, supplies, materials, and equipment. Since these are basic to a good teaching-learning situation, they require special attention in the overall planning of a science program.

Certainly programs of science should be in harmony with the purposes of the total program of education which, in the main, helps children gain values, understandings, and skills consistent with good citizenship in a democratic society. Although each school in town may vary in instructional procedure, the general objectives for all the schools in science are:

1. Build science experiences around the solving of problems which are significant to boys and girls.
2. Provide activities which aid children to gain skill in the use of many methods of finding out things for themselves.
3. Enlarge upon children's ever-present curiosity and interest in the world around them, helping them gain an appreciation of the potential of science and technology for improving man's welfare, and alerting them to the dangers of misuse of scientific knowledge.
4. Select experiences which aid children to understand some generalizations and principles of science applicable to the solving of problems in their environment.

5. Show that advances in science require freedom of thought and inquiry.

6. Illustrate the relation of science to other areas of knowledge.

The above objectives foster a healthy science atmosphere and the students in the various elementary schools generate this feeling when you walk into a classroom. Perhaps the great appeal of science for children is activity. With the help of materials and equipment the child investigates and makes discoveries which are as exciting to him as to the original discoverer. Our schools have materials and equipment that give first hand experience which not only helps a child to see relationships and make applications, but it also helps the student to develop skills and resourcefulness. The role of the teacher is to help the child discover facts and relationships for himself, rather than to tell him the answer, and to assist him in demonstrating principles by performing simple experiments for which suitable equipment and material have been carefully selected or improvised. Originality of thought and action is always to be encouraged. The teacher also insures purpose in science activity and sees that it has lead-on value so that it opens up new "needs to know" and increases learner's confidence in his ability to find the answers.

Many outside sources help to enrich the science curriculum in our elementary schools: films, filmstrips, science kits, rolo-labs, community resource people and materials. The Channel 2 science programs, for the most part, have been excellent. Classes watch the following programs at the present time:

Grade 1 — All About You
Grade 2 — Neighborhood Explorers
Grade 3 — Land and Sea
Grade 4 — The Space Around Us
Grade 5 — Exploring Nature
Grade 6 — Physical Science

In conclusion, the science program in the elementary schools is well defined and thoroughly covered in our elementary curriculum guide. (A copy of the curriculum guide can be obtained at the Public Library). The science curriculum is constantly being revised. All of us are beneficiaries of scientific invention. All of us are at the peril of science misapplied. As teachers and as citizens we must help our pupils perceive that science must ever be the servant of man and not his master.

Secondary Guidance

GUIDANCE

William J. Coughlin - Director of Guidance

The Guidance Department has added another full-time woman counselor which will certainly be an aid to the ever-increasing demands made upon the counseling staff. We are most fortunate in having a community which is well aware of the importance of a superior education for all its children. In addition to this we have a school committee and administration which is dedicated to improving the educational offerings at Lynnfield High.

In the past we have been very successful in placing our high school graduates in the colleges of their choice and we know that in the future we will have as fine a record. The number of college applicants is increasing rapidly, and continued emphasis must be placed on preparing well-qualified graduates. The school administration and guidance counselors are aware of this and are urging parents to face the college admission problem realistically.

Because in Lynnfield we have a very low drop-out rate, our major problem is not keeping the young people in school, but rather concentrating on providing a first-class education for the 99% who remain in school. This necessitates a highly personalized curriculum, and guidance counselors alert to their responsibilities of guiding students correctly toward their vocational objectives.

To effect this individualized program, the counselor reviews the elementary and secondary record to notice any educational strengths or weaknesses. From this perspective investigation, the counselor makes effective recommendations to the teacher, student, or parent. Safe it is to state that the educational learning placements are being continually evaluated so that the student may best profit from a class most conducive to his educational progress.

The teacher acts as the instrument to implement the learning process. The counselor works with individual students, but also consults with individual teachers. All counselors have had classroom teaching experience, thus enabling them to analyze problems and situations and effectively guide students into wise decisions. To increase the understanding between pupils and counselors, our policy is to have each pupil assigned to the same counselor for a period of two to three years.

For the benefit of those students with special problems, we are continuing our relationship with the Lynn Child Guidance Center. A consultant visits Lynnfield for a school day weekly and speaks to administrators, counselors, teachers, and health officials. The information gathered from these consultations have been most helpful to school authorities and parents in effectively guiding the student. For those parents willing, there is an opportunity to have a complete evaluation done at the Lynn office.

Cooperation between the parent and the school is essential. To cooperate, parents must understand our programs and for this purpose we have invited parents to informative meetings on college information and the meaning and scope of our testing program.

A great interest and confidence in our guidance program was evidenced by the large percentage of parents attending the junior class meeting held last winter. Because of this splendid response, this program will continue.

An innovation this year was a tea held in August to welcome students new to the Lynnfield schools, to explain the school program, and to allow the boys and girls to visit their classrooms before the opening of school. Parents new to Lynnfield appreciated this program.

We are proud of the accomplishments of the Class of 1963, especially in the maturity and wisdom shown in the selection of their vocations and the institutions they are attending. In brief some of their honors are: two full Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps scholarships, Greater Lynn Scholarship winner, many early admissions, college and local scholarships, and three Letters of Commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

The follow-up study of the Class of 1962 verifies our four year percentage figures of approximately 50% attending four year colleges and 85% continuing with their formal education. We are, in addition, reasonably certain that many of our graduates will continue on to graduate schools. It is pleasing to note the fine records many of our students are making in college, and this department acknowledges gratefully the cooperation of the graduates in filling out our questionnaires. Many students indicate that their preparation compares favorably with that of students from other schools. Any interested townsman may procure at the guidance office a copy of the follow-up study of our graduates.

If we may be of assistance educationally to any town resident, please do contact us.

Elementary Mathematics

ELEMENTARY MATHEMATICS

George C. Caswell, Principal

Summer Street School

The nation-wide concern for more effective teaching and learning in mathematics has been reflected in current changes in the curriculum at the elementary school level. Through the impetus of many groups, among them the School Mathematics Study Group at Yale University, the University of Illinois Committee on School Mathematics, the University of Maryland Mathematics Project, the Madison Project at Syracuse University, and the Educational Research Council's Greater Cleveland Mathematics Program, materials in "modern" or "new" mathematics have been developed for colleges, secondary schools, and for elementary schools. Many changes have been brought about by these well-financed groups that have utilized the resources of hundreds of scholars and specialists to produce teaching materials and to establish large-scale tryouts on a pilot program basis. While no new mathematical developments are presented at the elementary school level, children are helped to learn the usual mathematics of the elementary school program through a better understanding of its structure, its laws and principles, its sequence and order.

As a part of the reformation, elementary school mathematics in Lynnfield is currently receiving considerable emphasis. Very early in the year all the elementary school teachers and the junior high school mathematics teachers completed a university level course in the "new" mathematics. Compensated for by the town, the course was conducted by a leading specialist and mathematics educator in the area, Dr. J. Fred Weaver of Boston University. The new directions in math were fascinating to read about and to discuss with colleagues. It was in the classroom, however, that teachers were further excited when they saw the enthusiastic participation of the students engendered by the new approaches to mathematics.

Teachers and pupils worked with number lines, mathematical sentences, modular or "clock" arithmetic, factors and primes, ratios, equations of equality and inequality, and number powers. These extensions and applications of familiar topics promoted better understanding of our decimal numeration system. Pupils discussed different ways to arrive at the solutions to problems with more emphasis placed on estimation and mental arithmetic to decide if solutions were reasonable. Use of a variety of practice procedures required for the maintenance of skills fostered much pupil interest and provided for new learning at the same time.

In addition to the material teachers were able to use with their pupils as a result of the new knowledge they had gained from their professional reading and the course work, a selected group of classrooms in the various schools were chosen to use some of the newer programs that had been published recently. Most companies are developing new programs in elementary school mathematics or are revising their regular textural materials to include the newer emphasis. Others have available supplementary materials on a variety of topics to enrich the math program or to provide stimulation for more able learners. Trying out such material enabled the teachers to study the content, determine the necessary mathematical background needed for successful teaching, and evaluate pupil's daily and long-term interest and learning.

Following completion of the course work with Dr. Weaver, a group of teachers met regularly in committee sessions to examine the available mathematical materials in detail. Publishing houses furnished consultants and examination copies of their programs. Monographs, professional articles on elementary mathematics, and local math experts kept the elementary teachers in contact with new developments. It was evident from the work in this committee that Lynnfield would profit from a new program for all the elementary school children. The committee decided to use the materials originally developed by the Educational Research Council of Greater Cleveland and now published by Science Research Associates, Inc.

Personnel involved in the development and field testing of the Greater Cleveland Mathematics Program materials included mathematicians, mathematics educators, consultants in mathematics, classroom teachers, elementary mathematics supervisors, and administrators. Over 100,000 pupils using these materials in experimental editions for three years made important gains over pupils using conventional methods and materials.

Lynnfield is currently using the Greater Cleveland Mathematics Program materials in grades one through four. The materials for grades five and six have been promised for 1964. Meanwhile, children in grades five and six are using supplementary materials, along with their regular texts, which are designed to teach the elements commonly included in the newer programs.

A series of films were purchased that explain the Greater Cleveland Mathematics Program materials. The films relate the need for the newer emphasis in mathematics as well as showing how the four fundamental operations are taught in an atmosphere of inquiry and discovery. These films gave teachers further insight into the program and were also used in a series of meetings to help orient parent groups and other interested citizens.

Events to come include continuous evaluation of the teaching and learning progress associated with the new mathematics program. Newer materials will be examined as they become available from the publishing firms. Continued articulation with the Junior High School will be vital to insure that children will receive a broadened mathematics background appropriate for the individual's capabilities, interests, and future educational requirements. Consensus is this is a challenging time for all those involved in the teaching and learning of mathematics.

Elementary Language Arts

ELEMENTARY LANGUAGE ARTS

Dr. Nancy C. Santeusanio, Principal
Center School

The reading program in the elementary school begins with early diagnostic testing and placement of students on the proper reading level.

In grade one diagnostic testing consists of an early check of letter names, the ability to hear beginning sounds in words, and the ability to note likenesses and differences in letters and words. Learning rate is also determined in order that the teacher may know how many words can be taught to the child at a given time. After a careful analysis of these results, children are grouped for instruction. Children who come to school knowing how to read are given advanced instruction, while those who need a complete prereading program are taught letter names and given training in listening to beginning sounds in words.

The phonics program is started as soon as knowledge of letter names is mastered. Children identify phonemes or separate sounds in spoken words and immediately relate the sound to print in whole words. Each new phoneme is applied to the solving of new words so that application is immediate and meaningful.

This year Lynnfield students in grade one have been selected to participate in the Speech-to-Print Phonics program — phonics foundation for beginning reading. The lessons combine many of the linguistic principles with techniques of high efficiency in learning. The program is reinforced through the Phonics TV—Sounds to say which follows the same sequence as Speech-to-Print Phonics.

One technique used to improve efficiency in learning at all levels is the every-pupil-response technique. "Wait-your-turn" reciting is kept to a minimum when every-pupil response cards are in operation, and the teacher is using every available opportunity to have multiple response rather than one child giving an answer while the others wait.

In an effort to provide for individual differences in reading ability, the teacher plans the kind of reading program that will enable each child to make progress. Obviously, this cannot be done through a "rubber-stamp" uniform instruction approach. Through testing in September the teacher analyzes the reading level of her pupils and then puts them into workable groups or teams. In a typical elementary classroom three or four different basic readers are being used simultaneously by different groups. Sometimes the children work with the teacher in groups, other times they work alone or in pairs.

The reading program extends far beyond the basal reader and encompasses other approaches to reading through the use of reading laboratories, individualized reading, reading machines, and newspapers. Emphasis is always placed on level, rate, and skills instruction.

The elementary reading consultant assists teachers in planning for reading instruction, in using various organizational patterns, and introducing new materials. In some buildings she works exclusively in the classroom, and in others she combines classroom help with remedial instruction. However, it is becoming more and more apparent that the most effective work is done by the reading consultant in the classroom with a smaller number of children needing remedial help. It is interesting to note that most of the true remedial work is done with children new to the system and below grade level in reading.

An outgrowth of the reading program is the pupil specialty report prepared by students in grades five and six. Not only are the reading reference skills brought to play but also the organization of materials, outlining, notetaking, preparation of display material, and the presentation of the specialty constitutes the culmination of the reading-study skills job.

To enhance this kind of activity a Study Center has been set up at Huckleberry Hill School. Study skills material is available in the content areas, and programmed material to develop vocabulary at an advanced level is also in the Center. The requisite is that a student should have a minimum of one-half hour and a maximum of one hour to spend in the Study Center. The work is largely self-directing with the principal or teacher checking periodically to note progress or give help. The Center is used primarily by intermediate grade students and is open during designated school hours and after school.

The South School has access to the South Branch Library. The faculty is in the process of organizing a centralized science library and study center for the intermediate grades.

The Summer Street and Center School have set up school libraries which are staffed and catalogued by volunteer help.

While a good central school library consists of at least 6,000 carefully-selected books, both schools have initiated the central elementary school library plan and at present house about 1,000 books in each respective library.

AFS Student Pamela French returns home

High School Science Laboratory

Children use the library both for reference work, study, and interest-centered readings. Each class has a scheduled library period at least once a week, and the entire program of instruction has been upgraded through the circulation of well-chosen books, both fiction and nonfiction.

Teachers, consultants, and administrators know that the quality of the reading program in Lynnfield will be maintained through a continual seeking for new and worthwhile techniques, a periodic re-evaluation of the program, and the availability of the best reading and resource materials.

Elementary Social Studies

ELEMENTARY SOCIAL STUDIES

Charles A. Wolski, Principal
South School

Alexander Pope stated, "The proper study of mankind is man." The social studies are primarily concerned with the study of man and his relationships with his environment, both physical and social, as he satisfies his basic needs. Science is concerned with things; mathematics with symbols; language with communication. The social studies concentrate on human beings and their inter-relationships. Since there are many kinds and varieties of human relationships, various categories have been devised for classification. The most prominent categories are: sociology, economics, civics, geography, and history. In the elementary grades our curriculum includes all of these, commensurate with the child's level of ability to learn, with emphasis on history and geography.

From the very beginning, in grade one, the social studies is a matter of inquiring about man.

Social Studies instruction in Lynnfield follows a pattern of "widening horizons." The primary grade units of instruction begin with the child's immediate environment, the home and school, and extend to the local community and then to the wider community of the city, state, and country.

The intermediate grades further expand the child's world. Fourth grade studies focus on the influence of climate and environment on the way people live in various parts of the world. Children learn that although cultures vary, the basic needs of people are similar.

In the fifth grade, the child is given the opportunity to understand and appreciate his own country — the people who have built our nation and are building it today, the great natural resources which contribute to our progress, and the ideals which have made it a refuge for millions throughout its history. The program introduces the child to our neighbors in Canada and Latin America.

The child's global concepts are completed in grade six where he surveys the cultural development of man from earliest times to the present.

Though the teaching of American Heritage has always been an important function of the social studies program, there is evidence that society expects increased emphasis. Therefore, a committee of Lynnfield teachers developed a supplementary reference guide to be used in our schools. Educators have a moral responsibility to society, and this portion of the program is expected to teach the values of good behavior, cooperation, and patriotism. Our teachers also use the study of history as a convenient vehicle for teaching these values.

It can be seen that social studies holds a key position in the elementary school program. This area of the curriculum helps the child understand his social and physical environment. It includes the past but gives emphasis to the present and the foreseeable future. At the same time, it has the responsibility of furthering the child's social development and growth toward good citizenship.

There is renewed interest in the social studies as taught in our schools which will make dramatic changes. This movement is nation-wide and has behind it sufficient funds to research, develop, and test new programs which will have great impact on elementary social studies in future years. In the meantime, the Lynnfield Social Studies Curriculum Committee has been reactivated and is evaluating the current program.

Elementary Music

MUSIC

Michael E. Cooney, Jr. - Director

Elementary vocal instruction and music appreciation is given to each elementary grade student once a week by one of the music teachers.

The music department has maintained all of its teaching activities and organizations in spite of the scheduling problems created by the double-session program. The staff has been most cooperative in working long hours in order to accomplish this.

The musical organizations, operating at the present time together with membership in each are as follows:

High School Band	65 and 10 majorettes
Junior High Band	72
Elementary Band	102
Dance Band	17
Brass Choir	14
Woodwind Choir	12
Woodwind Quintet	5
High School Chorus	75
Junior High Chorus	45
Elementary Chorus	130
Mixed Sextet	6

In the category of student participation we have the following accomplishment:

1. Two members of High School Band are now members of Greater Boston Youth Symphony.

2. Nine students elected by auditions to All New England Concert Festival.

3. Nine (out of fourteen who auditioned) were accepted for Massachusetts District All State Concert in January.

   In both the New England and the Massachusetts District All State, more than 75% of the musicians auditioning from Lynnfield were accepted and ultimately performed in the Concert.

4. Twelve out of fifteen who auditioned for All New England Solo and Ensemble Festival at Boston University were awarded either first or second ribbons.

Two members of our staff were chosen as adjudicators at the Massachusetts District All State auditions; Mr. Cooney for flutes and Mr. Schmidt for trombones. In addition Mr. Cooney and Mr. D'Amico will serve as adjudicators at the New Hampshire All State Music Festival.

Audio Visual Aid

AUDIO VISUAL AID

Robert A. Cox, Director

During this past year the Audio Visual Department was able to fill many of the equipment gaps that had existed in the various school buildings. The 1963 year saw the purchase of two opaque projectors and one tape recorder for the elementary schools and one TV set with stand, a tape recorder, two overhead projectors and two filmstrip projectors for the junior-senior building. This brings our total per building equipment to a point above the recommended state minimum.

This year has also enabled the department to correct some of the film requirements of the junior-senior high school. We have added four physics, four chemistry and three biology films to our film library. Future plans include the purchase of more 16mm training films in all subject areas and a subsequent reduction in our overall film rentals. Much of the equipment and all of the films were purchased under the provisions of the National Defense Education Act of matching funds. This has kept the cost to the town to a minimum.

The Audio Visual Department in conjunction with the building principals has done extensive investigation in the new area of programmed learning. It is our opinion that programmed learning on a large scale is a definite consideration, but it also is our judgment that extensive usage in the Lynnfield schools should be delayed. This is based on the belief that while much material is available also much of it is of questionable value. We cannot feel justified in recommending large scale changes in the existing curriculum without complete assurance that the new replacements will be an improvement.

We feel that more statistical evaluation is necessary before we make large scale use of this new method of instruction. Meanwhile we are using some, but only on a limited scale, as supplementary study work.

A student study center has been established at the Huckleberry Hill School, and it is being used extensively by the student body.

Future plans stress the equipping of a graphics art center eventually to be located at the new senior high school. Such a center will provide space and materials for the individual teacher to make her own projectuals, geared to her own class needs. With the increased costs of education such as they are, the center can provide substantial saving by being able to produce many of the needed visuals rather than purchasing them.

In summary the Audio Visual Department has again made substantial gains in equipment, supplies and teacher services, and future planning calls for additional services to be provided.

SUMMER SCHOOL

Robert E. Chalmers, Director

In 1963, there were 131 students enrolled in the elementary school classes, and 151 in the high school groups. This was a total increase in enrollment over 1962 of 107 students.

Arithematic, Reading and Typewriting were offered in elementary classes, while courses in English, Mathematics, Science and French were offered to senior high students.

High school students received mid-summer and final written progress reports. At the elementary level, both written reports and parents conferences were used for reporting achievement.

After deducting the tuition received from the total cost of operating the summer school, we find that the actual cost to taxpayers was approximately $3 per student. This is certainly not excessive as some communities make no tuition charge and underwrite the entire cost.

High School Health

HIGH SCHOOL HEALTH

Florence C. Romanchuk, R. N. - Nurse

Just as the primary function of the school is education, the function of the school nurse is Health Education. The testing programs carried on each year are to help detect any problems which may hinder the students in their school programs. If a boy or girl has a vision or hearing problem or any other health problem, it is difficult for him to achieve the maximum in his school work.

The parents are promptly notified when a child fails any of the health screening programs, and are asked to take the child to a doctor for diagnosis and treatment. The school doctor and nurses are on duty in case of illness or accidents that take place during the school day, not for anything that happens at home or away from the school. There is a nurse on duty during both sessions of the Junior-Senior High School.

The Lions Club donation of the Bausch & Lomb Vision Testor is greatly appreciated and it is sincerely hoped that another machine of this type will be supplied so that each nurse will have one for her testing program.

Student Driver Training

DRIVER TRAINING

Roy E. Harbour, Director

Driver education at Lynnfield High School has grown considerably in the past year. Last school year five separate classes were required to process the registration. For the first time it was necessary to conduct road instruction during the summer months in order to keep up with the increased registration.

In 1963 fall registration was in excess of 75 which is an increase of one class over last fall. The registration for the classes which begin after mid-year of the school year is approaching the 100 mark. This school year it seems possible that we will process seven groups against five for last year.

The Driver Training course includes:
6 hours behind wheel instruction
6 hours of driving observation
30 hours of class instruction
January 1 to December 31, 1963

Total number of students participating, including carryovers from previous year	166
Total number of new licenses obtained	112
Total number of restriction removals	11
Total number of students already having standard licenses when they started the course	16

Total number waiting to be road tested and to finish the theory course in January	44
Total number of students failing the theory course	0
Total number of students getting licenses on own car	6
Total number of applications waiting to be scheduled for theory as of 12/19/63	102

ELEMENTARY READING

Frances H. Carpenter, Consultant

The majority of pupils in Lynnfield schools read at or above grade level. A small percentage need extra help and a few pupils need remedial reading. Small classes are set up to teach specific reading skills and the groups are constantly being reorganized as the need arises. A pupil may attend such a class for a year or more or for only a few weeks, depending upon his need. During the 1962-1963 school year 68 pupils from all four elementary schools attended these classes.

The reading consultant also works in the various classrooms directly with teachers to plan for pupils needing special help. Much individual testing and analysis is done. Generally pupils show good improvement with corrective teaching. Every attempt is made to correct difficulties as early as possible making the program more preventive than corrective in nature.

ELEMENTARY ART

Mrs. Gladys H. Goodwin, Art Supervisor

During the 1963 school year it has been my pleasant opportunity to work with the entire staff of forty-seven elementary teachers and the four principals. I endeavor to suggest ideas and materials to be used in art lessons to be taught by them. Also to help in art projects in such fields as social studies, American Heritage, special holiday activities and dramas.

As I meet every grade once in two weeks I work with 605 pupils weekly.

Each week I visit one-half or one block of grades working with approximately 605 pupils. The following week the remaining group has its turn. Thus the 1209 pupils have art twice a month.

A wide variety of arts and crafts, in as many medias as possible makes worthwhile experience for all pupils of varying abilities.

Through the whole-hearted enthusiasm and cooperation of teachers and principals we provide the art experiences we hope will be most beneficial to the pupils.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL HEALTH

Mrs. Priscilla F. Burnham, R. N. - Nurse

This nurse covers four elementary schools and assists at the High School on the average of once a week.

The program in 1963 included the usual vision and hearing tests, pre-school physical examinations, Tine tests for tuberculosis, diabetes tests, and the giving of Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine.

Approximately 1230 first aid cases were handled during the year.

Health work with and for teachers included the following:

1. Films shown at staff meetings:
   "If These Were Your Children"
   "Teacher Observation of School Children"

2. Newsletter to Teachers, distributed bi-monthly or oftener. This acquaints teachers with the latest health news around the schools and serves as a means of communication between the school nurse and the teachers.

3. Health Reference Material:
   A booklet was compiled by nurse testing reference materials available for both teacher and student use. A copy of this was given to each teacher.

In May, Lynnfield's school nurses were hostesses to the Northeastern District of School Nurses. In June I attended the first week of a three-year School Nurse's Workshop at Simmons College. This was sponsored jointly by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health and the School Nurse's Branch of the Massachusetts State Nurses Association.

SPEECH THERAPY

Mrs. Louise Norton, Director

In January of 1963, there was a case load of 103 students. In June most of the 80 who remained in therapy were given practice material for the summer.

In September, mothers of pre-school children were given information about the therapy program and three pre-school conferences were held. All first grade children, children new to the system, and all grades 2-6 nurse referrals were tested.

The maximum case load in the September to December period was 113 children, and at present writing 107 are receiving help. Some are seen twice weekly, others less frequently. The periods vary from twenty to thirty minutes. One child who has progressive hearing loss is being taught lip reading.

Parents are informed as to progress and are invited to conferences. It is important that parents cooperate to prevent children from slipping back at home into faulty speech habits.

The Lynnfield Debate Team recently capped a remarkably successful year with a first place win at Columbia College Invitational Tournament.

"After carefully considering the article and after holding a public hearing thereon, it is the majority opinion of the Planning Board that Article 24 be adversely recommended. Article 24 was considered and defeated at the March Town Meeting of 1962. Since a 2/3 vote is required, the following article was defeated, the vote being 64 in favor, 191 against.

The selectmen, by a majority vote of the full membership of the Board, may remove the Executive Secretary, in accordance with the following provisions. At least fifteen days before such proposed removal shall become effective, the selectmen shall file a preliminary resolution with the town clerk setting forth in detail the specific reasons for his proposed removal, a copy of which resolution shall be sent by registered mail to the Executive Secretary. The Executive Secretary may reply in writing to the resolution and may within said fifteen day period request a public hearing. If the Executive Secretary so requests, the Board of Selectmen shall hold a public hearing not earlier than ten days nor later than fifteen days from the filing of such request. After such public hearing, if any, otherwise at the expiration of thirty days following the filing of the preliminary resolution and after full consideration, the selectmen, by a majority vote of the full membership of the Board, may adopt a final resolution of removal. In the preliminary resolution the selectmen may suspend the Executive Secretary from duty, but in any case his salary shall continue to be paid until the expiration of one month after the date of the final resolution of removal.

Section 8. Collector of Taxes and Town Treasurer

The existing office of Town Treasurer and the existing office of Collector of Taxes shall be merged into a single office and one person shall serve as Town Treasurer and Collector of Taxes. This person shall be appointed by the Board of Selectmen upon the recommendation of the Executive Secretary, and shall have the powers, perform the duties, and be subject to the liabilities and penalties now or hereafter imposed by law upon town treasurers and town collectors of taxes. The separate existing offices of Town Treasurer and Tax Collector shall be continued until such time as the person appointed to both offices shall have qualified under the provision.

Section 9. Appointment of Board of Assessors

There shall be a Board of Assessors consisting of three persons to be appointed by an appointive authority consisting of (1) the town moderator, (2) a member of the Board of Selectmen, and (3) a member of the existing Board of Assessors. In addition, there shall also be employed by the Board a full time qualified assessor to perform the actual duties of assessing property. At the first annual town meeting following acceptance of this act, the said authority shall appoint one assessor for a three year term to replace the assessor whose term expires, and shall appoint each year thereafter one assessor, whose term also expires, for a three year term. If a vacancy occurs in the Board, the vacancy shall be filled forthwith by the aforesaid appointive authority. Upon the appointment and qualification of assessors as provided in this section, the terms of office of the members of the then existing Board of Assessors shall terminate. The assessors shall organize for the proper conduct of their duties and shall act primarily as a Policy and Review Board. The assessors shall possess all the powers and rights and be subject to all the duties and liabilities conferred or imposed by law upon assessors of towns.

Section 10. Town Clerk

The selectmen shall appoint, upon the recommendation of the Executive Secretary, a Town Clerk for a term of three years. The existing office of Town Clerk shall be continued until the tenure of the present incumbent terminates. The Town Clerk shall be under the supervision of the Executive Secretary and shall have the powers, perform the duties, and be subject to the liabilities and penalties now or hereafter conferred or imposed by law upon town clerks.

Section 11. Finance Committee

There shall be a Finance Committee consisting of nine members to be appointed by an appointing authority consisting of (1) the town moderator, (2) a member of the Board of Selectmen, and (3) a member of the Finance Committee. At the first annual town meeting following acceptance of this Act, the said appointive authority shall appoint three members for a three year term to replace the members whose terms then expire, and each year thereafter shall appoint three members for a three year term to replace the members whose terms then expire. The appointive authority shall forthwith fill any vacancy that shall occur on the Board.

Section 12. Department of Public Works

The existing offices of Highway Commissioner, Park and Cemetery Commissioner and Tree Warden and Moth Superintendent, shall be abolished. The highway department, the park and cemetery department, and the tree and moth department shall be merged into one department, to be known as the Department of Public Works, which shall be under the direction and supervision of the Superintendent of Public Works. The said superintendent shall be appointed by the Board of Selectmen, and shall be under the direction and supervision of the Board of Selectmen.

The Department of Public Works shall be responsible for the care, maintenance, and operation of all town buildings and grounds other than schools and school grounds. It shall assume all the duties and functions heretofore performed or required by law to be performed by the highway department, the park and cemetery department, and the tree and moth department.

The Department of Public Works, may subject to the prior approval of the Board of Selectmen, perform such duties and functions as may be requested by any other department of the Town, including, but not limited to, the following: the School Department, the Planning Board, and the Conservation Commission.

The Superintendent would be responsible to and under the supervision of the Board of Selectmen, and would be specifically responsible for the following, but not limited thereto:

1. Preparation of annual plans and budget for his department.
2. Periodic reporting to selectmen of the performance of his department with respect to any plans which the Board has approved.
3. Custody of all town owned equipment assigned to his department.
4. Supervision of all personnel in his department either directly or indirectly through his foreman.
5. Advise the selectmen of changes required in organization, work practices, town by-laws, or any other procedures affecting the performance of his functions.

Section 13. By-Laws, Rules, etc

All laws, by-laws, rules and regulations in force in the Town of Lynnfield when this Act takes effect, not inconsistent with its provisions, whether enacted by authority of the town or any other authority, shall continue in full force and effect until otherwise provided by law, by-law or vote. All other laws, by-laws, rules and regulations, so far as they refer to the Town of Lynnfield, are hereby repealed and annulled, but such repeal shall not revive any pre-existing enactment.

Section 14. Submission of Act and Time of Taking Effect

This Act shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the Town of Lynnfield for acceptance at the town election to be held in the year 19--. The vote shall be taken by ballot in answer to the following question, which shall be printed on the official ballot:

"Shall an Act passed by the general court in the year 19-- entitled 'An Act establishing a selectmen-executive secretary form of government for the Town of Lynnfield' be accepted?"

Upon acceptance by a majority of the qualified voters as herein provided, this Act shall take effect for the purposes of the annual town meeting for the year of its acceptance, and for all things that pertain to said election. Appointees of the officers and boards abolished and consolidated by this Act shall continue to draw compensation at the same rate and to exercise the same powers and authority as theretofore provided until provision otherwise is made.

SECRETARY

Louis B. Tuck, Our Man Who . . .

Louis B. Tuck

Maybe there are some left in this town, who can measure up to Louis Tuck's image. But they are few — not just because the town has changed, but because the breed of men has changed in his 81-year lifetime.

Take a little thing like survival: As the Great Fire of 1908 crested through Chelsea, Tuck led his family ahead of the flames which had flattened their home. They carried a few last belongings in a basket. But even these were lost — along with the family dog — when the blazing buildings belched fire too close to the fleeing family.

Or take a little thing like amusement: Imagine racing a heavy iron bike for 100 miles along the bumps and ruts of the old Newburyport Turnpike — for fun. Tuck and his cronies of years ago made those Century Runs routine events.

Tuck and his contemporaries here stand tallest among their townsfolk because of their deep sense of involvement, of commitment, of accomplishment.

This is shown by what they achieved in town zoning. Other towns were thinking and talking about protective zoning back in the twenties. But Tuck and another Lynnfield leader, Nelson Todd, pioneered some of the state's first restrictions on land use, to help preserve our residential atmosphere for generations after them.

Tuck's sense of town devotion put him on the School Committee for six years in 1926. (His lead here is being followed now by his daughter, School Committee Chairman Shirley Northrup.)

His good eye for the needs of Lynnfield's future led him to help found the Center Water District and serve as commissioner for nearly 25 years. In the rural thirties it was hard to believe that anything more than farmyard wells ever would be needed here. But Tuck did convince folks of this — twice. After the voters had accepted the District, the first clerk was killed in a car crash en route home from the session, and his records were lost. A second town meeting had to be called to reapprove the District.

In spite of the long service here, Tuck was a relative late-comer. He was born in 1883 in Meriden, Connecticut, a descendant of Provincetown whaling captains, and grew up in Brooklyn where he was a boy soprano in St. Marks Cathedral.

He lived in Auburndale for a time, and then in Chelsea until the Great Fire. It wasn't until 1924 that he moved here, after a Summer vacation at Pillings Pond with his wife, Harriet, and their two children.

It could be that the huge losses of that Great Fire influenced his long career as an insurance specialist. In 1963 he marked 65 years with Aetna Life and Casualty Company. He had been broker and claims adjustor, and at one time was one of the few agents who held the company's blank check: If you had a claim, Tuck not only settled it, he wrote you a check for the damages, right then. His later years in business were as a partner with Norman Northrup in the Colonial Shopping Center.

Like the man himself, Tuck's list of good works go on and on: Secretary of the first Parent-Teacher Association in Lynnfield; founder and first president of Lynnfield Historical Society; first president of Golden Age Club; founder of Lynnfield's Masonic Club, forerunner of the new Lynnfield Lodge, AF&AM.

He can look back to charmed days as president of the first Town Men's Club — charmed because the group met in McCarthy's Enchanted Barn. Some of our senior citizens can still remember the rollicking minstrel shows and holiday parties the club sponsored in old Town Hall.

By years Tuck belongs to the select company of town leaders like Nelson Todd, John Harris and Joseph Smith. By accomplishment he shares a little of the aura which surrounded the great Winston Churchill in Commons last Summer when they said of him: "The oldest amongst us can recall little to compare with him. The younger ones may never see the like again."

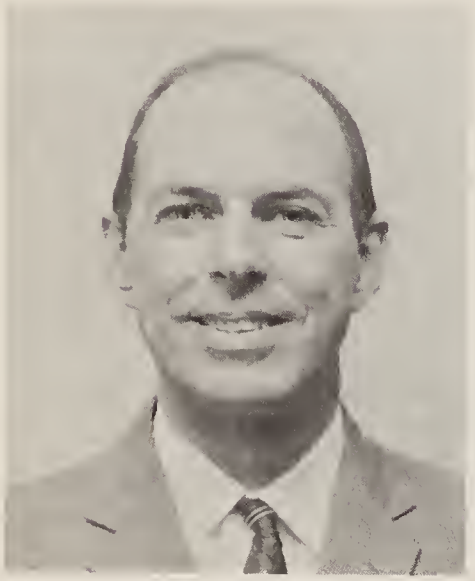
Board of Selectmen

Harry C. Wendt

This will be remembered as a year commemorating the 150th anniversary of the Town. It will also be remembered as a year of sadness brought about by the death of our beloved Welfare Director, Wesley W. Munroe. In each instance the citizens of the Town were brought closer together in a feeling of pride for those who have contributed so much to the growth and dignity of Lynnfield.

A highlight of the anniversary was the dedication of the new Town Hall at which many federal, state and local dignitaries were present. The July issue of "The Massachusetts Selectman" featured it as a cover picture. Considerable progress was also made in the construction of the new high school. Locally, the Selectmen were pleased to represent the Town at the Knights of Columbus Open House, ground breaking for the new Lynnfield-Wakefield Masonic Temple and dedication of the new Austin Preparatory School in Reading.

Once again the Town Report Committee was awarded second prize in the town report contest of the Massachusetts Selectmen's Association. The year-after-year excellence of the work of these committees is a credit to the Town.



Mason J. Condon

Selectman Dwight was reelected for another three-year term and his experience and devotion to duty will be a continuing asset to the Board.

Mr. Donald Fahey was appointed Clerk of the Board this year, replacing Mrs. Ruth Hall who resigned in February. The Board acknowledges with gratitude the faithful and dedicated service of Mrs. Hall during her term.

In anticipation of a new phase of our growth, a complete revaluation of the Town was made this year. Despite some dislocations it is expected that the wisdom and timeliness of this action will be substantiated.

Nineteen sixty-four also saw the completion of the street lighting program for our major thoroughfares, which was initiated in 1960. A new committee has been appointed to recommend a master plan for lighting our residential streets.

The year was also one of conflict with the Board being involved in a variety of areas in which the Town had changed its mind or in which opinion was divided. Most prominent of these were:

Ralph E. Dwight

1. School traffic supervision became a problem when, after increasing Police salaries in 1963, the Town voted the same budget for 1964 as 1963. This meant fewer personnel, with traffic supervision being affected. A special Town meeting, called on the petition of 200 citizens to appropriate additional funds, was not supported by the petitioners. For the 1965 Police budget, traffic supervision will be listed as a separate item to allow the Town greater freedom in expressing itself.

2. A conviction in the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors, and the resultant suspension of the dealer's license for a period longer than usual, resulted in a petition by some 500 townspeople. In response, a majority of the Board voted for a reduction in the suspension.

3. The fire alarm horns at the Center Station became a major source of objection to the immediate neighborhood. This is a problem common to most towns in which the objectionable noise of the horns must be weighed against the safety of the Town. Steps were taken to reduce the number of blows and to install new horns, with plans for trying different installations under way.

4. A special Town Meeting was also called to appropriate funds for land takings in the straightening of Salem Street. At the same time a request for appraisal funds for the remainder of Salem Street was rejected. This latter action appears of particular significance in view of other events bearing on spending, notably: The Town approved construction funds during both 1963 and 1964, and approved appraisal funds in 1964; disclosures of total construction costs were made at both an original public hearing and at a subsequent Finance Committee meeting. It appears that the concern of the townspeople is growing in regard to financial commitments which must be met in years later than those in which the initial funds are voted.

5. A number of alleged zoning violations were called to the attention of the Board this year. Most conspicuous of these was that of night golf. The Selectmen, together with the Planning Board, took steps to bring this matter before the Board of Appeals. The latter, in its decision, concurred that there was a violation of the zoning laws and has ordered a removal of the lights and supporting structures.

In the years ahead the Town must become increasingly cognizant of what is happening in surrounding communities and in the whole Commonwealth. Your Board has represented the Town at meetings of both the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Advisory Board and those of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council. An article in the annual Warrant brings up for your consideration membership in the League of Cities and Towns. The impact of the actions of the executive and legislative branches of the State government on municipal government is not recognized until it is too late. The total effect of salary and budget increases at the State level on local property taxes is still not generally appreciated. As we go into the new year with an impact of $100,000 in salary increases on our 1965 tax rate, (committed in 1964) it is well to remember Lincoln's words, "Let us make haste slowly."

Town Clerk

Harry W. Higgins
Town Clerk and Treasurer

Your Clerk and Treasurer, and all those working with him, wish to acknowledge the beautiful new office which we all find most convenient, comfortable and efficient.

With a modern vault we now have safe storage for many of the important records which increase from year to year.

The Board of Registrars, which shares our office and storage space, finds it to be a nearly perfect arrangement.

We wish to extend our thanks to the Building Committee, as well as to the architect who listened attentively to our thoughts during the planning of our office space.

Town Counsel

Ralph G. Howland

This department was very busy during the past year in routine work of drafting the many contracts for the purchase of vehicles, machines, equipment and supplies, and work, labor and materials for the Town departments. Other legal documents for necessary easements, petitions and deeds for street acceptances, and articles for Town meetings were prepared.

Many new and complex laws enacted in the past year by the State Legislature were digested and copies were furnished to the Town departments concerned.

Meetings of the Board of Selectmen and Town Meetings were attended, as were board and committee meetings when requested.

During the past year Town Counsel and the Board of Selectmen met with owners of Salem Street real estate property taken by eminent domain, in an attempt to settle claims equitably.

Of the eleven cases listed in last year's town report, all but one have been successfully disposed of, with that case, which concerns damage to a highway truck and snow plow, pending in court awaiting trial.

The committee on the revision and codification of the Town By-Laws has been meeting and is working towards its completion.

I wish to thank the Town officers, employees, boards, committees and the citizens for the help and cooperation given to me in the performance of my duties.

It is with regret that I noted the passing of Mr. Joseph Cassidy during the past year. Mr. Cassidy was my predecessor as Town Counsel and was very helpful and cooperative with me when I first started in the office.

RALPH G. HOWLAND
Town Counsel

Fire Department

Carl E. Davis

A total of 403 alarms during 1964 was 51 more than 1963 and 173 more than 1962, and it was necessary to request transfers of funds totaling $4,840.13, to supplement the $9,000 wage account.

The extended drought of 1964 taxed the Fire Department in its efforts to control and extinguish 260 grass, peat and brush fires. For months peat fires at the Salem Street traffic circle, as well as brush and woodland areas of Edgemere and Mansfield Roads re-kindled.

Engine 4, one of our brush fire trucks, continued to be most unreliable and as stated in the 1963 Town Report, is planned to be replaced in 1965, at an estimated cost of $9,700.

On March 18, 1964, two department vehicles collided, while responding to an accidental alarm, during a heavy snow storm, with visibility near zero. Fortunately there were no personal injuries.

New fire alarm horns were purchased and installed at department headquarters, replacing outdated equipment.

A group of interested citizens were responsible for the Lynnfield Firemen being accepted into the protection of the 100 Club of Massachusetts. The personnel of this department are most grateful to this group, for the monetary death benefits provided their families, in case of death in the line of duty.

The Lynnfield Fire Department was saddened by the untimely death of Private Henry R. Olsson on November 27, 1964. He served the Town well as a member of the Fire Department, for many years.

Civil Defense Auxiliary Fire Chief Sanborn A. Caldwell resigned his position after many faithful and devoted years of service. He was appointed a Private in the Lynnfield Fire Department. His outstanding performance in carrying out his responsibilities deserves the admiration af the entire town. Nelson B. Cutler, Jr., was appointed to succeed Chief Caldwell.

The following indicates the alarms for the year 1964:

135 — Still Alarms
210 — Box 4 - 7 - 8 Alarms
58 — Street Box Alarms

403 — Total Alarms as detailed below

Police Department

Thomas F. Ganley

On October 28, 1964, Patrolman Edward G. Cleary graduated from the Massachusetts State Police Academy as did Patrolman Arthur R. Munroe on December 11, 1964 after six weeks of intensive training. All regular officers have now completed this course of instruction and we may well be proud of their performance while in attendance. In-Service training was not held this year due to a curtailment in the salary account of the Police budget.

From a law enforcement point of view, our 150th Anniversary was a huge success as there were no incidents requiring police action. Extensive planning by the various committees and cooperation by the citizens of Lynnfield accounted in a large measure for the success.

The Department has investigated a total of 2400 complaints which required police action. Arrests for the year totaled 166 and are classified as shown in the table following.

Once again Lynnfield has had no increase in automobile insurance rates, which reflects favorably on the traffic enforcement program of your Police Department.

The primary function of a police department is crime prevention, which can only be accomplished by adequate personnel with education and training. When a crime is committed, the cost to the taxpayer far exceeds any monies spent on crime prevention. Civil disturbances, such as riots, "rumbles," and invasion of homes where private parties are in progress, seem to be the vogue and require sufficient personnel to prevent these incidents as well as to restore law and order.

As Chief of Police, I express my appreciation to the regular personnel, auxiliary police, various Town Departments and all citizens who have endeavored to make Lynnfield a safer place in which to live.

Civil Defense

Lawrence E. Austin

The main objective of our organization this past year has been an intensification in all phases of Civil Defense. The objective on a national and state level during the last twelve months has been primarily to increase shelter capability, radiological defense capability and a medical self-help program on the local levels. Lack of adequate public shelter space in Lynnfield necessitates that every home owner provide himself the protection necessary in the event that nuclear holocaust should erupt. In a nuclear attack, the results could be devastating to you, without a certified shelter and the knowledge to use one properly.

The function of Civil Defense in a natural disaster is unlimited. During the Alaskan earthquake, without an adequate and properly trained Civil Defense organization, the results would have been more devastating than those which occurred. Alaska's Governor William Egan stated: "No other Civil Defense organization in the United States has ever been faced with an emergency that can match the one created by the events in Alaska on Good Friday. Within ten minutes after the earthquake, the State Civil Defense organization in Anchorage was functioning. Rather than being an adjunct agency, Civil Defense was the key operational unit working directly from my office, and while coordination between state and local Civil Defense units was quickly established, the local units worked exceedingly well on their own. If this type of disaster agency had not been fully functioning at the time of the Alaskan earthquake, I personally believe the first hours following the earthquake would have been ones of tragic confusion."

The second objective on a national, state and local level is to develop an adequate radiological defense capability. Our local organization critically lacks the personnel required for this operation. Lynnfield is perhaps more fortunate than other cities and towns in the fact that the type of persons with backgrounds for this training are readily available. The training and the instruments are provided by the Federal Government at no cost to the local taxpayer. The only stipulation is that we provide the trained personnel to operate them, and for this we need volunteers.

On September 16, 1964, Sam Caldwell submitted his resignation as Auxiliary Fire Chief. We shall long remember his many years of tireless effort in the training of auxiliary firemen which has proved to be a tremendous asset to the regular Department. During the past year, a total of over 2,000 man-hours of training was accomplished. In addition to this, the firemen participated in either standby service at the stations or actually took part during the regular alarms.

The Auxiliary Police Unit was credited with over 500 hours of actual duty consisting of Town Meetings and emergencies which required their services. In addition to this, a total of 228 hours per man was donated in training. This training included renewal of advanced First Aid certificates. The training programs were under the guidance of "Pat" Navas, who has always given freely of his time for training and emergencies.

Your Civil Defense organization requires your cooperation and participation to crystallize its various programs. One night a month of your time in any phase of our operations would greatly strengthen our organization. Your local organization can only be as strong and effective as the support which you give to it.

I am deeply indebted to all of the Town department heads, employees and townspeople who have cooperated so extensively with our organization. Without their cooperation it would have been impossible to achieve our many goals.

Highway Department

James C. Fletcher

As we start the year 1965 we can with some pride say that, at least in 1964, so-called "Dead Man's Curve" on Salem Street has been eliminated. This was accomplished with Chapter 90 Funds of 1963 and 1964. The Salem Street Study Committee recommended that this project be continued as far as Dewing Road, but landtakings for the completed section were costly. I hope this will not cause the voters to abandon completion of the road, at least to Winchester Drive. Police reports will show that many accidents occur at the sharp corner by the Ramsdell property. For the safety factor alone, this corner should be straightened.

Howard Avenue, Lincoln Avenue, Carter Road, Stanley Road, Grant Road, Underhill Road, a section of Locksley Road, a section of Lynnbrook Road and Locust Street were rebuilt and a Type I bituminous surface installed. Time did not permit the completion of all the sidewalks on these roads, but they will be finished early in 1965.

A retaining wall and sidewalk were built at Pillings Pond and Summer Street. Also, in a continuing effort to relieve flooding in the low areas, Hawkes Brook and its tributaries were cleaned in many places.

Projects planned for 1965 include a sidewalk past the new high school on Essex Street, the rebuilding of a portion of Chestnut Street, Summer Street from Archer Lane to Huckleberry School, Maple Street, Pine Street and Edward Avenue South.

A three percent wage increase has been requested for the employees of the department effective March 1, 1965. Two employees left in 1964 to work for other towns where wages are higher.

The Road Commissioner and the personnel of the Highway Department wish to thank the citizens and administration officials of the Town for their help and cooperation throughout the year.

Park and Cemetery Commission

Donald R. Ross

The year 1964 proved to be very busy for the Park and Cemetery Department. The Department received an appropriation from the Finance Committee for improvements on the Common to be completed prior to the 150th Anniversary of the Town and the 250th Anniversary of the Old Meeting House. Projects completed are:

1. Sidewalk constructed along Main Street.
2. Brick walls to both entrances of the Old Meeting House and a granite stoop at the Main St. entrances. (Stoop provided by Anthony Dell Isola).
3. Reseeded portion of Common on westerly side.
4. Four new shade trees planted.
5. Old Fire Bell erected on a foundation of granite quarried in Lynnfield (this was removed from the foundation of the Old Town Hall).

The Park & Cemetery Commissioners are proud to have had the opportunity to take part in these preparations and believe the above projects enhanced the dignity and appearance so necessary for a successful celebration.

Newhall and Freeman Parks

Newhall and Freeman Memorial Parks were surveyed this past year by a registered civil engineer and bounds were marked. Maps are now on file in the assessor's office.

This past summer new lighting was installed on the two tennis courts in Newhall Park. The work was under the supervision of James V. Thompson, a member of the Commission. Through the cooperation of the Peabody Municipal Light Dept. and Sylvania Corp. a considerable sum of money was saved. This lighting proved to be a very popular feature, and received much favorable comment. These courts will be lighted nightly from early Spring until Fall.

The sum of $1000 was appropriated at last year's Town Meeting for resurfacing tennis courts at Newhall Park. In putting this out for bids, we contacted several contractors and were advised that corrective measures should be taken to alleviate the existing cracking and heaving. The money appropriated was not sufficient to do this work, and was turned back into the town. The Commissioners in turn voted to hold this project over until 1965 Town Meeting at which time they would ask approval for enough monies to complete the project.

Funds For Town

Following is a breakdown of monies turned into the Town for 1964:

Cemetery Lots Sold	$ 335.00
Amounts added to P/C Funds	660.00
16 Interments	545.00
Foundations	60.50
Liners	234.00
Interest turned into Town from P/C funds	1,118.65
Total	$2,953.15

DONALD R. ROSS
Chairman

Wire Inspector and Fire Alarm Supervisor

James V. Thompson

During nineteen sixty-four 244 wiring permits were issued. This involved approximately 500 inspections in addition to re-inspections for work which did not meet the National and State Electrical Code standards. Three house fires this year necessitated the disconnection of all electrical service. These houses have since been re-wired and have passed inspection.

During the latter part of the year a new fire alarm horn system was installed and relocated. When the horns were originally installed in the new fire station, the louvers projected the sound downward, which meant the horns did not have as great a carrying distance, and in addition were quite disturbing to neighbors in the immediate vicinity. With the relocation of the horns back of the tower on the outside these conditions were eliminated. The new horns have the advantage of a far louder tone than the 20-year old horns.

Box #7 was changed to Box #4, which reduced the number of blows from 28 to 16. Periodic inspection and testing of fire boxes has continued, lines have been maintained, and changeover of approximately fifty poles has been accomplished this year. A section of line on Salem Street was relocated due to new routing of the road. Additional fire alarm boxes were installed by the developers in Kings James Grant and Candlewood Park.

Fortunately we had no damages to overhead lines as a result of inclement weather.

Daily records of the fire alarm system have been maintained. It is hoped that requests for monies for further maintenance and line removal will be considered at the Annual Town Meeting.

Starting January 1, 1965 a State Census will be taken along with the regular street listing, and we ask that the townspeople cooperate with our listers. For those who are not home during the day, forms will be left at the homes, and we ask that they be filled out accurately and mailed or brought to our office promptly.

Eight sessions of registration were held this year — two before each of the four elections, and many persons were registered daily at the Town Hall. A new and complete voting list was compiled for the November election — a project that took many extra hours of work.

It is most important that in the future no notices of registration dates be sent out by any person or committee until after verification with the Town Clerk.

During the year 412 men and 372 women registered to vote, making a total of 5,217 registered voters.

Precinct 1	2,634	Precinct 2	2,583
Republicans	2,124
Democrats	919
Independents	2,174

Two recounts were held this year, and we are very happy to say that no material changes were made from the original figures. Much credit is due the election workers, particularly those who worked at the November election and put in many long hours.

We urge all young men and women reaching the age of 21 to register. Registered female voters who have married during the year should reregister after January 1st of the following year.

We extend our sincere thanks to the residents of Lynnfield for their help and cooperation throughout the year.

WILLIAM B. MURPHY

Board of Health

The Board of Health has held 24 regular and 4 special meetings in the year of 1964.

Much of the past year has been spent in revising the regulations of the Board of Health. The State Department of Public Health has published a new State Code of Sanitation and we have used this as our guide. Most of the changes have been made in the regulations dealing with sewerage disposal systems. With the increase in the development of marginal land, we have been concerned with the problems of sewerage disposal. With the help of the State Department of Public Health officials, our regulations have been set up to protect the homeowner and to ensure, to the best of our knowledge, a satisfactorily designed sewerage disposal system.

The Board of Health has approved six subdivisions in 1964, after all the requirements of the regulations were carried out.

GEORGE S. ROBINSON, M.D., D.O., Chairman
MANTON P. SPEAR
HAROLD D. ALDRICH

Health Officer

The Lynnfield Board of Health has had a most satisfactory and successful year as far as its varied activities are concerned. There have been many problems which have been considered and resolved for the best interest of the Town. A number of various types of complaints have been received, inspections have been made of same, and proper steps have been taken to solve them.

Clinics

The annual spring clinics were held in February, March, and April for the immunization of pre-school children against diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus. Smallpox vaccinations were also given. Immunization against anterior poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, was given through the use of Sabin polio vaccine to the pre-school children whose parents requested it.

These clinics will be given again in 1965, beginning at the end of February, and will be carried into April. The dates of this program will be announced in the newspapers. Oral Sabin vaccine will be given again this year in conjunction with these clinics. Mrs. Lucy Lindquist, R. N., will be the nurse in charge of the pre-school clinics. She serves on a part-time basis on the Board of Health, and also does tuberculosis follow-up work in the town.

Diseases

In connection with communicable diseases, the State law requires that they must be reported to the local Board of Health either by a physician in charge or by the family concerned.

Communicable diseases reported in 1964 are as follows:

Diseases	No. of Cases	Diseases	No. of Cases
Chickenpox	17	Salmonella	2
German Measles	137	Scarlet Fever	2
Measles	3	Ringworm	2
Mononucleosis	2	Infectious Hepatitis	1
Mumps	2

Eighteen dog bites were reported.

Sanitarian Activity

Once again I have had the unreserved support of our Sanitarian, Mr. Robert Rimbach. He has inspected our restaurants, drug stores, school cafeterias, and all other places where food may be served to the public. He has also regularly checked for purity and quality the milk and milk products sold in Lynnfield, and he has sent to us regular monthly reports on the results of these inspections.

Growth Problem

We are now confronted, and particularly concerned, with the problems of a growing town in which most of the best land has already been utilized. This situation creates the problem of attempting to reach proper and satisfactory agreements with builders who, in order to do further building in the Town, must in some cases utilize less desirable acreage. Because some of this land is poorly drained, it must be filled and graded to be usable. A town of this type, with no proper sewerage, is dependent upon individual sewerage disposal, such as septic tanks or cesspools. Consequently, suitable drainage must be planned for to prevent a difficult situation from occuring in the future. The State Engineering Department has been most cooperative in assisting us toward equitable solutions in these situations.

The problems concerning rubbish and garbage collections have been minimal this year, and we of the Board of Health are well satisfied with the work being done in both areas.

As in the past years the cooperation of the Planning Board and Building Inspector, as well as our Selectmen and other town officials, has helped your Board of Health to carry on efficiently the health work of this Town.

GEORGE S. ROBINSON, M.D.,D.O.
Health Officer

Sanitarian Inspector

Milk and cream samples were taken at random from delivery trucks and stores. They were examined for butterfat, coliform, total solids, bacterial count and phosphatase. Results of these examinations indicate that these products were all well within the state standards.

Inspections were made of those establishments preparing, serving, or handling food or drink. Bacterial swabs were taken of eating and drinking utensils bi-monthly.

Samples of water were taken from various swimming areas and private wells and examined for conformance to standards. Dye tests were made to determine faulty septic systems.

In conclusion, I wish to express my appreciation to the Board of Health and other Town officials for their cooperation in the administration of my duties.

ROBERT W. RIMBACH, R.S.
Sanitarian

Dog Officer

Sanborn Caldwell

On October 1, 1963, I assumed the duties of Dog Officer for the Town. This report covers a period of fifteen months.

I have received one hundred and thirty-seven telephone calls, and fifteen major complaints, which were investigated. During that period, I have picked up and returned 45 dogs to their owners, humanely destroyed and buried four dogs, and picked up twenty-one dead dogs from the Town and state highways. Five out-of-town dogs were returned to their owners.

For the period of March 31, 1964 to March 31, 1965, nine hundred and fifty-nine dog licenses were issued. All dogs three months, or older must be licensed on or before April 1st of each year.

We hold rabies clinics each year at the Center Fire Station. The date of the clinic is announced in the local papers.

I would like to thank the Police Department for help and assistance during the past year.

SANBORN CALDWELL
Dog Officer

Forrest W. Howard

Plumbing and Cesspool Inspector

One hundred (100) plumbing permits were issued, and after installations, inspections were made.

Ninety-five (95) cesspool permits were issued, and upon completion, inspections were made.

Thirty-five (35) cesspool complaints were investigated and corrective measures were instituted.

FORREST W. HOWARD
Plumbing & Cesspool Inspector

Tree Warden and Moth Superintendent

Gustav H. Koch

As we review the operations of the Tree and Moth Department for 1964 several questions of major importance arise. First is the future of our maples. Serious drought conditions have caused "die back" in the older trees. This is very serious and is nationwide in maple habitat. Much research has been done in the various states looking for evidence of disease but nothing new has been discovered, so we must live in hope of a normal pattern of rainfall. Dutch elm disease had a very marked drop in incidence, both locally and state-wide, and again we must wait to fully evaluate results.

I, with others from Essex County, have been working with the State Pesticide Board to set up regulations for this Board. We are now in the sixth draft and anticipate the law will be effective in 1965. We feel that until the controls are extended to other than "tree men" and a positive educational program developed, little will be accomplished by this law.

Tree planting and maintenance is a continuing program and is reflected in the improvement and beauty of our road sides.

The mosquito control program was enlarged this past season, by the use of our own equipment and at no cost increase overall. Much more could be done but State Department of Health regulations control our coverage of certain breeding areas.

No new equipment of a major category was added in 1964. A chain saw should be replaced in 1965. We hope to replace a 1941 truck to keep all equipment up to date. Cooperation with all Town Departments has been excellent. My thanks to my staff and to the townspeople for full cooperation.

GUSTAV H. KOCH
Tree Warden and Moth Superintendent

Sealer of Weights and Measures

Progress has been made by this department in the past year. With the completion of the new Town Office Building, space has been provided for valuable equipment and all is now under lock and key. Our standard weights have been checked and corrected to State Standards for the first time in many years, and working weights have been check-compared to these. Few errors in equipment were noted throughout the year and were corrected as discovered. Cooperation by all has been excellent and is greatly appreciated.

GUSTAV H. KOCH
Sealer of Weights and Measures

Inspector of Animals

The ever changing character of Lynnfield as a Town is reflected dynamically in the duties of the Animal Inspector. Within a decade the dairy herd and the pigs and hens raised to supplement the family larder have all disappeared. The pastures and meadows feel the bite of the bulldozer and soon a house replaces the grazing livestock. With the new home comes a dog and problems; most are friendly but some are over-protective and have a "nip" for themselves. These are quarantined as a precautionary measure for observation. A rabies booster shot clinic is maintained by the Board of Health, generally in October, and all dog owners are urged to avail themselves of this service.

GUSTAV H. KOCH
Inspector of Animals

Building Inspector

Roger Harris

Building permits for new dwellings "starts" remained steady at sixty-five for the third consecutive year. Increased land values, development and building costs, and high construction standards continue to contribute to the higher costs of home ownership.

Dwelling improvements, additions and remodeling, a natural sequence to the large number of dwelling units erected over the previous ten-year period, account for another eighty-two permits.

The more noteworthy commercial type projects started this year were: The remodeling of "Kimballs' Starlight" into an attractive office building, the erection of a bank and retail store in Lynnfield Center, the start of a new market (Renda's) on Main Street, the start of a cleaning establishment, and the remodeling of storage space to a retail store and office in South Lynnfield.

This year marked the completion of the new Town Municipal Office Building and the demolition of the old Town Hall. The Messiah Lutheran Church at the Chestnut and Lowell Street intersection was also started in early summer.

A few more minor interior improvements were made to the Old Meeting House, namely the placement of new hand hewn structural girders and posts.

Construction of the new Senior High School continued steadily throughout the year. An early completion of the interior is now assured, with the building completely under roof and enclosed against adverse weather conditions.

Permits issued for 1964 were as follows:

New Dwellings	65
Re-Issue	5
Demolish (dwellings)	5
Demolish (municipal)	1
Demolish (sheds, garages, etc.)	7
Swimming Pools	2
Fallout Shelters	0
Garages	3
Dwelling additions, alterations, repairs	82
Signs	4
Sheds	7
Porches	14
Commercial additions, alterations, repairs	9
Retail stores, Office buildings	3
Church	1
Unclassified structures	5
	213

Eight site plan approval applications, and thirteen permit applications were referred to the Board of Appeals for further disposition.

One Zoning By-Law violation required court action. One structure permit was revoked. The controversial "use of night golf" at the Colonial Country Club remains controversial and will possibly result in litigation.

Planning Board

The rate of growth of Lynnfield, as reflected by the establishment of new subdivisions approved by the Planning Board, has increased significantly during 1964. As the following table indicates, this experience reverses the downward trend of the past two years.

Year	No. of Subdiv. Approved	No. of House Lots Approved	Aggregate Length of New Sts. Approved
1959	3	61	6679 ft.
1960	7	74	8687 ft.
1961	6	120	12165 ft.
1962	1	19	1240 ft.
1963	1	3	190 ft.

Under the sponsorship of the Planning Board, Charles E. Downe, planning consultant, has conducted a study of possible Flood Plain Zoning for the Town. If adopted, such zoning would define specific areas of low elevation which are subject to seasonal or periodic flooding, and would restrict the use of this land to purposes consistent with the protection of the health and safety of people who might use the area. The Planning Board intends to submit an Article on Flood Plain Zoning for consideration by the Town at the 1965 Annual Town Meeting.

Members of the Planning Board attended all Board of Appeals hearings held during the year, and expressed the opinion of the Board on matters under consideration.

The Board has continued to be represented on various special committees of the town. George Burnett served on the Conservation Commission, Calvin Osberg represented the Board on the School Site Acquisition Committee, and Russell Franck served with the School Plant Needs Committee.

Mr. Franck was re-elected to the Board for a second five-year term at the 1964 annual election, and continues to serve as its Vice Chairman.

Conservation Commission

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Pyburn have given to the Town, in trust for conservation purposes, approximately three acres of woodland off Timberhill Lane, which we gratefully accept.

The Commission, with the approval of the Board of Selectmen, has acquired, by purchase, land of the Lynn Rifle and Revolver Club of the General Electric Company, and woodland including granite quarries from Gordon L. Kallenberg, located on Robin Hill in the Bow Ridge area and abutting Lynn Woods. We are pleased with these acquisitions and hope that the townspeople will find time to enjoy these wooded areas.

Application has been filed with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts under the "Self-Help" program for reimbursement of fifty percent of the cost of above land.

Two boys again attended the Conservation Camp operated by the Department of Natural Resources of Massachusetts. The sponsors for the boys were the Lions and Rotary Clubs.

Mr. Richard L. Pratt resigned from the Commission due to a conflict of interest existing because of his employment with the Federal government. Mr. Clifton E. Hodgdon, at a joint meeting of the Commission and the Board of Selectmen, was chosen unanimously as a member of the Commission to serve the unexpired term of Mr. Pratt.

Messrs. Gordon H. Millar and Donald G. Harriss were reappointed to the Commission by the Selectmen for a period of three years.

Consideration was given to acquiring, for conservation purposes, the land known as the "Town Forest" off Pillings Pond Road, but it was found that the title would revert to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts when said land ceased to be used for park and recreational purposes.

Members of the Commission have attended meetings of the Massachusetts Association of Conservation Commissions, the Essex County Conservation District, and the Essex County Greenbelt Association.

At the invitation of the Lynnfield Commission, Mr. Gerry Mansfield, chairman of the Conservation Commission of the City of Peabody, met with the commission to consider the advisability of acquiring for conservation purposes Humphrey Island in Suntaug Lake. It is hoped that favorable action will be taken by the City of Peabody in 1965.

The Commission gratefully acknowledges the cooperation that it has received from the Selectmen and other officials of the Town.

Wage Study Committee

This Committee is completing its first full year as a unit of Town Government. Early in 1964 we organized and met on an average of twice each month. In July and August each member accepted a research assignment. After Labor Day the Committee met weekly, when possible, in order to prepare for a joint meeting with the Finance Committee.

In 1963 we outlined a program that represented a goal for 1964. The results of our efforts follow:

1. A grade chart was developed covering the salary range of all regular Town employees. This chart is divided into 10% graduations, and each grade is divided into steps between its minimum and maximum rate.

2. A point rating system was established that permits us to place any job in its proper grade as it relates to any other job on the chart.

3. A manual was developed containing job factors, appropriately weighted with point values, to implement the point rating system.

4. A file cabinet was purchased which will contain job descriptions and other data needed to complete the system. This portion of the work is still in progress and will take several weeks of consultation with Town officials and department heads.

The committee received requests for changes in the current hourly rates from several department heads and presented them to the Finance Committee when we began our joint meetings. The Finance Committee took the reasonable position that, since there were possible inequities in the present wage structure, a general increase, however small, would only serve to aggravate the condition. They preferred to wait until our job evaluation is completed.

By general consent we have placed priority on the wage problems of the following Town departments: the Moth and Tree Department, the Cemetery and Park Department, the Highway Department, the Library Department, and the Clerks and Custodians in general government.

Appointed and elective positions are special problems because many of them are part time. The Fire, Police and School Departments are under other jurisdiction, but this does not preclude cooperation, if mutually desirable, in completing the system.

When the work is complete the Town should have ample opportunity to acquaint itself with any proposed changes in rate structure before being asked to act upon them. This informative period could extend over several months.

To Committee Members James Fletcher, Quentin Carpenter, James Bagley, William Vose, and Committee Clerk, Shirley Nelson, hearty thanks for loyal effort. Thanks also are due the Selectmen, the Finance Committee for their understanding attitude, and the Town Counsel for his invaluable assistance.

Insurance Advisory Committee

The Insurance Advisory Committee serves in an advisory capacity to the Selectmen. Its purpose is to provide a source of impartial advice on the Town's Insurance Program.

As of January 1, 1964, all property and liability insurance was consolidated in a comprehensive policy. This change resulted in a substantial improvement in the scope of insurance coverage and a sizeable reduction in cost. The entire insurance program is now handled by Thos. B. Knight & Co. Working exclusively with the Knight agency has contributed to the reduction in cost realized during the year.

An offer by Savings Bank Life Insurance to renew group life insurance coverage on town employees for a five-year term at favorable rates was accepted. This will have the effect of assuring both the Town and its employees that the cost of life insurance will remain uniform through July 1, 1969.

Mr. Robert Skelley and Mr. William Montgomery resigned from the Committee during the year.

Capital Outlay Committee

In this, its sixth year since organization, the Capital Outlay Committee has attempted to continue its growth as a "watchdog" over Lynnfield's capital investments. The Committee's responsibility is to review the year-to-year needs of all town departments and committees for the addition or removal of equipment having long life, and to recommend for or against these changes.

The Capital Outlay Committee consists of seven members appointed by the Board of Selectmen, usually for three years, one member being selected from the Finance Committee.

The Outlay Committee tries to be represented on other committees responsible for large capital outlays. Mr. Hahn serves on the Future Plant Needs Committee and Mr. McCoy is a member of the Library Building Committee. This year, members of the Capital Outlay Committee were asked to meet with representatives of North Reading to assist them with the formation of a similar committee.

Each fall the Capital Outlay Committee requests an estimate from each department and committee for its capital outlay needs over the next five years. With this information and a complete physical inventory, the Committee meets with the various department and committee heads to review their requests. As a result of the review, recommendations are made to the Finance Committee and to the Town Meeting.

Your Capital Outlay Committee feels that Lynnfield's capital investments must be measured in relation to several criteria which serve as aids in evaluating these investments, both to the Committee and to the Town Meeting. One of the criteria is the relationship between the Town's outstanding debt and the Town's assessed value. This is important because Lynnfield's major capital expenditures require bond issues that are reflected immediately in the outstanding debt figure. Table I and Figure I show these data for the last five years, and an estimate for 1965 which assumes the new library will be added that year. The assessment figures for the earlier years are all based on the new assessment, using the ratio of $66,000,000 to $26,000,000 for 1964. Schools are very properly Lynnfield's biggest investment and every "bump" in the curve can be attributed to the financing of a new school building.

Another measure of our financial condition with respect to capital outlay is the portion of the Town's annual budget expended (a) for outright purchase of capital goods (that is, financed from the tax levy or the Stabilization fund), (b) to reduce principal on our existing debt, and (c) to pay interest on our remaining debt.

These figures are shown in Table II; and plotted in Figure II as a percentage of the annual budget. The 1965 figure is an estimate only, based on an assumed 1965 budget.

35,000	5.30
40,000	6.00

Your Capital Outlay Committee is acutely aware that these figures can be used only as a supplement to good judgment in evaluating the worth of each proposed capital outlay. Nevertheless, the data are useful in determining the trend of Lynnfield's debt condition.

The change in the assessed value of the Town changes the significance of the term, "a dollar on the tax rate," and your Committee feels this should be well understood by the voters. For purposes of discussion, consider an appropriation of $25,000. Under the old assessment, this would have meant roughly $1.00 added to the tax rate; but today, with the new assessment, it means only $.38. This sounds like less, yet the dollars paid by any taxpayer to cover this appropriation remain exactly the same. Table III shows the appropriate tax that will be paid by a property owner for each $10,000 appropriated by the Town Meeting.

The Committee wishes to thank all department and committee heads for their cooperation this year in supplying information needed for its work.

Senior High School Building Committee

To review briefly this project prior to the year 1964, it will be remembered that the year 1962 was spent making studies and preliminary plans and in general obtaining the necessary clearances from the other boards and committees concerned with approval of this undertaking. On January 29, 1963 a special Town Meeting authorized this Committee to proceed with the work and appropriated the sum of $2,505,000 for the purpose. Site clearance work was commenced in April, 1963, and was followed by grading and installation of certain utilities. Due to many delays, and the necessity of having to hold another special Town Meeting to obtain an additional appropriation of $120,000, the general contract with Clemenzi Construction Company, Inc. was not signed until November 12, 1963. At this late date it was possible to do only a small amount of foundation work before cold weather forced a suspension of all activities.

Progress During 1964

Construction resumed in mid-March, 1964, and by mid-year foundations, floor slabs and steel fabrications were in place. As this report is written in early December, all exterior masonry work has been completed, roofs have been made tight and windows are being installed. Approximately two-thirds of the general contract has been completed with extras thus far negligible. It is hoped that with the building closed to the weather, work can continue on interior details throughout the winter with anticipated completion in mid-1965.

Activity Continues

Committee activities during the year have centered mostly in general supervision and the approval of expenditures. Bids were invited, received, and contracts awarded for built-in science equipment, and cabinetry, cafeteria kitchen installation and language laboratory equipment. It is planned to continue the work of arranging for movable furnishings and equipment during the early part of 1965.

In conclusion, the Committee feels that a good building is being constructed. Cooperation among all persons involved has been excellent, problems encountered have been of minor degree and much progress has been made.

WALTER H. KUESTENMACHER
Chairman

School Plant Needs Committee

The School Plant Needs Committee is charged with the responsibility for continually evaluating the need for school facilities in Lynnfield. In carrying out its duties, the committee has this year reviewed its previous work, gathered new data, and issued its findings in a report. A copy of this report is on file at the main library available to anyone interested.

The committee has developed two forecasts. One, a short range projection, indicates the anticipated enrollments six years from now; the other, a long range estimate, indicates the expected maximum school population.

The short range projection shows that a slow but steady growth in total school enrollment can be expected in the immediate future. Opening of the new High School in the fall of 1965 will not only relieve the secondary school overcrowding but will, for a time, make space available in the Junior High School building to accommodate an anticipated overflow from the lower grades.

Although present School Department plans call for placing grades 9 through 12 in the new building for the coming school term, it may become necessary to return the ninth grade to the Junior High building within a few years. The projections show that if the ninth grade is returned, the 1970-71 total of 2085 students for grades 1 through 9 will be essentially equal to the combined capacity of the Junior High plus the elementary schools, and there will still be more than 700 in the High School.

If these figures prove to be correct, additional space will be required by the fall of 1971. This additional space might take the form of an addition to an elementary school, expansion of the high school, or construction of a new building. Obviously the 1971 date would change one way or the other if actual enrollments differ greatly from the projected ones. The exact date is not significant now, however, since it is the intent of the committee to update its projections annually — thus correcting discrepancies before they have an important bearing on future plans.

The long range study, made for the purpose of estimating the ultimate size of the school system, consisted of an expansion of the analysis contained in last year's report. In order to encompass the different conclusions that can result from apparently reasonable but inconsistent assumptions, ranges instead of single values have been presented for the expected future maximum enrollments in both secondary and elementary schools. The calculated range for grades 7 through 12 came out to be 1600 to 2300 which is substantially in agreement with the 1700 to 2400 previously reported by the Senior High School Building Committee. The range for grades 1 through 6 was computed at 1700 to 2350. With provisions for future expansion already incorporated in the design of the new High School, the Junior-Senior High School situation seems to be well under control for the foreseeable future. Additional planning will be necessary to provide for growth of the elementary system, however.

Of the four elementary buildings in town, the Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill Schools appear to be most suitable for physical expansion. Even though these two may be increased in size to care for the maximum of 500 students recommended by our school authorities, the resultant total capacity of all four would still fall short of the need shown by the lower end of the predicted range. Closing this gap would require the more costly expansion of the South and Center Schools or the construction of a new building. Considering these facts and recognizing that the elementary enrollment could exceed the minimum forecast, the School Plant Needs Committee feels that an additional site will eventually be needed. Acquisition of this site should be seriously contemplated at such a time as is most favorable to the town — taking into account the long range plans of the School Department, availability of suitable land, overall cost and other financial considerations.

Industrial Development Commission

Since our last report this Commission has been involved in the following activities:

The owners of the land off Main Street, known as Cox Farm, met with this Commission and the Planning Board about rezoning this land for limited industrial use. No action was taken on the proposal.

The Commission has kept itself informed on the plans of the State for location of proposed Route 95, and of the plans of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority.

As of January 1, 1964 there were two permanent cases on the Veterans Benefits Program. Three cases of an emergency nature were added, two of which were of a temporary period ranging from three months to two weeks duration. Illness and unemployment were the prime factors of these additions.

In October and November two more permanent cases were added, bringing the present case load to four.

During 1964 approximately 34 veterans and dependents were advised as to their rights and benefits as administered by the Veterans Administration program.

In May all veterans graves in the town were inspected and found to be in excellent condition. Each grave was decorated with a geranium and American flag for Memorial Day, this being done as in the past years by Lynnfield Post 131 American Legion.

At this time I wish to thank all town departments, organizations and veterans for their help to Veterans Services during the year 1964.

School Site Selection Committee

This committee, established in accordance with Article 24 at the 1964 Annual Town Meeting, is charged with the responsibility of locating suitable school building sites consistent with requirements determined by the School Plant Needs Committee. Tentative school sites are to be analyzed from the standpoint of availability, size and location, land costs, sewage disposal, and other construction problems which would affect building costs.

The seven members of this committee appointed in 1964 include: Carl W. Wood, William M. Coffill, William D. Shapiro (School Plant Needs Committee Representative), Rupert B. Daniels, Jr., Calvin J. Osberg (Planning Board Representative), and Richard D. Morrow (School Committee Representative).

This committee will report its findings together with its recommendations to the 1965 Annual Town Meeting.

The number of books charged out during the year and the number of card holders are often taken as the sole measure of the use of a library. These do not indicate the student use, the reference service, the children's programs, or the public school-library curriculum cooperation. Since the high schools are on double sessions, the Green Library has opened school mornings from 9-12, with a trained reference librarian on duty to assist the students, so that the junior high students might have an opportunity to study at the library. This service will be discontinued when the new high school is opened. This situation has relieved somewhat the overcrowding of the reading room in the afternoon and evening, but with the opening of the new school year, the study areas will again be seriously insufficient, especially with more and more college students using the facilities.

The increase in the circulation of books has necessitated a change-over to machine charging. Gaylord charging machines were leased, and the patrons have been re-registered.

Two members of the staff took courses in children's literature, which were offered by the Division of Library Extension of the Massachusetts Board of Education. Monthly staff meetings have been held at which library problems and various areas of library work are studied and discussed.

Cooperation and coordination of work with the public schools has progressed. Mrs. Lewis Brooks, a member of the Board and a professional librarian has been appointed by the trustees to work as liaison between the public library and the schools. Collections of books are loaned to the schools upon request of the teachers. The sixth grades have visited the library for instruction by the librarian in the use of the catalog and reference tools. Follow-up visits were made by four classes for actual experience in directed studying.

Each class in the elementary schools, both public and parochial, was visited to explain the summer reading program. Seven hundred children registered and five hundred received certificates for completing the required reading and reporting of books. This program was sponsored by the Friends of the Library and culminated in a party which was held at the Summer Street School because of lack of space at the library. The story hour has continued to be popular as evidenced in the increased number in attendance.

Since its organization in 1959 the Friends of the Lynnfield Library has been an important factor in the progress of the library. The winter lecture series adds much to the cultural life of the town besides providing funds for special books and services beyond those permitted in the budget. The expenses of the children's summer reading program were paid by this group and a polaroid camera was purchased to take pictures of the various library activities.

The Lynnfield Garden Club, the Centre Garden Club, Village Garden Club, and the Flower Workshop have provided arrangements and displays for both the Green and Branch libraries, and have filled and cared for the window boxes.

The League of Women Voters made a study of the Lynnfield Library System and held a meeting at the Green Library to hear the history and needs of the Library with Mr. Fred Eble, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Mrs. Flewelling, Librarian, as speakers. The League also presented a beautiful American flag to the Green Library in memory of Mrs. Dorothy Cutler.

Books have been presented in memory of Mrs. Cutler and Mr. Wesley Monroe. Many books and subscriptions to several periodicals have been given by interested patrons.

A state grant of $2,099.50 towards library service was again received by the Town because standards set by the state had been maintained.

The library has run out of space. The windowsills are being used for book shelves, which is very poor library practice. Books which should be readily available have been stored in the basement stacks, resulting in a substantial loss of circulation among these books. It will be necessary in the coming year to curtail both the reading and study areas to make room for book shelves. A growing educational system in a growing community demands a library adequate in space, books, and services.

Library Building Committee

The Library Building Committee, authorized by Article 13 of the 1963 Town Meeting, was charged with obtaining preliminary plans and estimated construction costs for an addition to the Green Library. The seven-member committee appointed by the Selectmen included representatives from the Capital Outlay Committee and the Library Trustees.

As a starting point in the preparation of a proposed building program, the recommendations of the Library Facilities Study Committee were reviewed in detail. Additional information was obtained from discussions with several library consultants and from careful study of statistical data which reflected the library needs and experiences of a large group of towns of comparable size throughout the state. Visits were made to selected libraries to observe the good features and their shortcomings. These investigations confirmed the findings of the Facilities Study Committee and emphasized the serious extent of present facility deficiencies. It was apparent to the Committee that the need for expanded facilities was immediate and even more pressing than realized by the Library Facilities Study Committee.

The building program which ultimately evolved, closely paralleled the recommendations of the Facilities Study Committee. In its final form, the proposed program made provisions for the foreseeable future needs of the town and recognized the constantly increasing demands being placed on the library facilities by the growing school population, college students, and the expanding interest in adult educational programs.

The architectural firm of Richmond and Goldberg was selected, based on its considerable library design experience. The building plan as finally approved by the Committee provided separate functional areas for children, young adults, adults, and reference use, so laid out as to insure central control and supervision, yet economical to operate during off-peak periods. Construction costs were estimated by a professional estimator of established competence.

Article 15, requesting an appropriation of $232,995 to construct and equip the proposed addition, was inserted in the 1964 Town Warrant. This article was narrowly defeated in the 1964 Town Meeting with 315 in favor and 162 opposed, thus failing to reach the required ⅔ majority by four votes.

Subsequent to the Town Meeting, the Library Building Committee and the Library Trustees jointly reviewed the proposed plan to determine what changes could be made. Both were in agreement that the general plan was proper and in keeping with the needs of the town. The architect was consulted for possible economies and the proposed plan was recosted by a different estimator resulting in an estimate which was substantially the same. The Building Committee, Library Trustees and the architect jointly agreed that some items, desirable but not totally essential, could be deleted, thereby reducing the estimated cost of the construction to $200,000.

The Library Building Committee has requested that the Library Trustees introduce an article in the 1965 Town Meeting Warrant calling for an appropriation of $200,000 to construct and equip the proposed addition to the Green Library.

The Lynnfield School Committee is a board of five — elected by the town to fulfill the duty as defined by law "to have general charge of all the schools". This means that its principal responsibilities are policy determination, budget making, appointment of personnel, approval of courses and textbooks, planning of school services, and evaluation of the educational program. The School Committee members are the elected representatives of the people, and therefore should reflect the attitude of the people toward public education.

Since it is the citizens who support, maintain, and populate the schools, the schools should provide the curriculum and facilities for a program which is geared to the specific needs of the town. The educators are the experts hired by the School Committee to achieve these ends. It is the privilege of the committeemen to present their own views and to enlist public support for them, and it their duty to lead the community in the course of action which, in their judgment, is wise.

The School Committee is also the liason between the public and the superintendent, and has a responsibility to communicate with clarity to both. This year, for example, as soon as it was decided that double sessions were the best solution to overcrowding in the secondary schools, a letter was mailed to parents of each student in grades 6-11, explaining the plan and its effects. The general amiability of the parents and students in meeting and overcoming the inconveniences of double sessions was helped by accurate information and understanding created by this early communication.

Policewomen Needed

When the traffic supervisors were discharged after the requested police budget had not been voted at a session of the annual town meeting, the School Committee voiced its concern, and worked to have them reinstated.

The Committee recognizes that it has no authority over vehicular and pedestrian traffic on the highways of Lynnfield, but it has a real responsibility for the safety of all students going to and from school. The Committee thought that, after ten years of adequate supervision when traffic was much less severe, the wishes of the people had been violated. Article Two, which was voted at the special town meeting, states that "the Police Department provide traffic supervision for the protection of the school children at the principal school crossings during such hours as supervision may reasonably be required". Since this article did not allow any question as to location, only hours, the Committee expressed its continuing concern about the lack of coverage during the Spring, and asked in writing that funds be requested in the 1965 police budget designated specifically for school traffic supervisors.

This year the systematic construction of sidewalks in Lynnfield had progressed so that the three-quarter-mile walking distance to the elementary schools was increased to one mile. In some areas there was such serious concern by parents of younger children for their safety in crossing the main streets that buses were provided, and will remain until all safety factors can be controlled.

Expanding Program

Expansion of the school program often results from evidence of a special interest by students or townspeople. A new soccer program was approved in 1964 with funds to be provided in the 1965 budget to cover the cost of the sport. For more than two years, an enthusiastic group of boys have played and arranged their own games with teams from other towns. The participation and interest is genuine enough to justify adding it to the athletic program. This addition parallels the history of hockey, which grew from a nucleus of informal activity to an important sport for the school.

This Spring the League of Women Voters recognized a community desire for adult education, and in the unit meetings conducted a thorough study of all types of programs, and concluded that a modest local one was the best to inaugurate. The administration and School Committee concurred and conducted a survey to see if such a program was warranted. The results were sufficiently positive to initiate a few selected adult education courses which are tailored to the desires of Lynnfield residents.

Role of Committee

The role of the School Committee in policy and curriculum is often less obvious than its consideration of monetary matters. Actually, the general philosophy, curriculum, and cost are interwoven. Financial items appear on the agenda throughout the year, but the preparation of the budget takes place from September to December. Following is a brief summary of some of the steps involved:

The individual teacher or worker (custodian, nurse, etc.) makes requisitions which must be approved by department heads or principals, who submit their revised versions to the Superintendent, who, with his staff, analyzes, studies and adjusts the requests, submits them to the School Committee. The Committee studies, discusses and amends the requests further, then submits a proposed budget to the Town Accountant by December first.

Before presentation to the Town, the capital outlay items are discussed with the Capital Outlay Committee, and the whole budget is discussed in detail with the Finance Committee with a goal of mutual understanding and agreement. By the time it comes before the town meeting in its final form, the administrators and School Committee have studied the 114 items in depth, and have justified each, to their own satisfaction, for its value to the curriculum or to the proper maintenance and protection of the buildings.

Maturing System

Through the years Lynnfield has been a remarkable community in keeping a lively interest in its schools and providing their necessary support. The problems resulting from rapid growth were met with courage and foresight. The Town as a whole has been rewarded not only by its cultural environment, but also by its increased property values.

A responsible family coming into the area selects the community which offers the best opportunity in education for all its children. The eagerly anticipated opening of the new Senior High School in September 1965 will provide the much needed space necessary to implement the full curriculum, and will at the same time make Lynnfield more attractive to someone selecting a new community for his home.

There was evidence in June of the maturing of the school system when members of the first class of 1960 graduated from college. This approaching maturity does not mean that there can be any relaxing of support. During the discussion of taxes following the recent town-wide re-evaluation, the school budget, as the largest expenditure, was a target for the indignation of some citizens. However, this should be explained as superficial complaining, for the Committee has found no change in the attitude of the majority of citizens toward the schools, unless it is an increase in the importance of education.

The School Committee has been aware of the conflicting trends in educational philosophies and curricula in the past thirty years. Although the Committee does not often formalize its philosophy, by its decisions and actions it endorses a curriculum which provides for a systematic presentation of subject matter in a disciplined manner. With the publishing of each new study by Dr. James Conant, and the election by popular vote in California of Dr. Maxwell Rafferty as superintendent of all public schools, there is developing a long-needed communication and understanding of goals between educators and the general public. The minor differences of opinion which will always exist are healthy, but a unification of the goals may produce the most exciting advance yet in American public education.

Future Trends

The citizens of Lynnfield are deeply grateful to Dr. John A. Redmond for his wisdom, judgment, and tact in such a confusing period in sustaining the basic strengths, while incorporating the most valuable contributions of the new. The pattern of education in Lynnfield today fits the design which is developing for the future in schools across the country.

The excellent teachers, administrators, and materials for learning which are provided cannot give a student a good education; he must take advantage of these opportunities and achieve it for himself. Parents and the adult members of the community play a vital role. The community creates an intellectual climate by a good library and by consistent examples of responsible adult behavior, governed by truth and integrity.

In the home there must be intellectual compatibility. The school administration and faculty report a high correlation between the success of the student and real parental encouragement, interest, and love of learning. This is not necessarily measured by any earlier educational advantage of the parents.

Any adult who can read possesses the only requirement to become interested and informed in unlimited areas, and to discuss ideas and world affairs with his children. Such encouragement and communication within a home will help stimulate and motivate the student to want to acquire knowedge in a variety of subjects. This is not an easy task in a busy world in which the quotidian demands on a man's or woman's time are chiefly of a physical or material nature, but it is of paramount importance for the child.

If anyone has problems, questions, or suggestions concerning his educational system, he is welcome at the regular meetings of the School Committee which take place the first and third Monday of each month at 8:00 p.m. in the High School Library.

Superintendent's Report

As your Superintendent, I present this report for the year 1964 with the hope that it will stimulate your interest in your schools, your concern with their problems and your pride in their achievements. The School Department is the agent of the community in the increasingly urgent task of education, and the community must be kept informed about the progress and costs of the educational program.

The increasing tax burden makes us all mindful of the need to seek the maximum educational return for every dollar spent, and to that end we constantly review our goals, revise our methods, and evaluate the dividends on your educational investment.

Dr. John Mahoney, the founder of the Lincoln Filene Center at Tufts, once said,

> "The most important business of the American public school is that of making good American citizens. It may turn out scholars. It may produce successful men of business. It may educate for culture. It may make it possible for its graduates to make a better living. These and other things it may do and yet possibly fail. The real test of its accomplishment is the kind of citizen it furnishes the Republic. This is its excuse for being. That and that alone, primarily justifies its support from public funds."

We are trying to turn out scholars, to produce men and women who will be successful in business, and to educate for culture; but we try never to lose sight of our primary goal of training responsible citizens who will have the moral courage and integrity to rise above expediency and the hope of private gain, in both personal and public life.

There is no specific course of study, no single grade level where these essential qualifications for citizenship can be taught; but we cannot for this reason neglect consideration of them and merely hope that intellectual development will automatically bring about the moral qualities we believe urgent, even vital, for the survival of our democratic way of life. The spirit of responsibility, with honesty and consideration for others, must permeate the whole school system, and we try to develop it both in classrooms and in extracurricular activities, by setting high ideals and demanding conformity to high standards of individual and group behavior.

It is in this area of training for responsible citizenship that the schools most need the cooperation of the home. School and home must have the support of each other if our efforts are to achieve any notable degree of success.

Progress Encouraging

Academic progress during the year has been encouraging. In order to improve their professional competence, teachers participated in curriculum studies, regional and state conferences, workshops and extension courses. Several received grants for intensive summer programs in their special fields of study. In these ways, the staff has kept alert to the new instructional methods and materials.

As evidence of effective teaching, the results of the Science Research Associates Testing Program show Lynnfield pupils achieving extremely well.

The elementary principals' reports which follow explain our continuing progress in the major learning areas. Last year Dr. Santeusanio's report emphasized the reading phase of our language arts program. This year she explains the "outgo" aspect, the methods we are using to train children to speak and write effectively.

The social studies curriculum has been undergoing extensive study during this year and some revisions are noted in Mr. Wolski's report.

Mr. Caswell has reported on some of the changes brought about by the introduction of the new mathematics program. We believe that use of the new method is being justified by our test results.

A committee of twelve elementary teachers under the direction of Mr. Bulley is carrying on a study of ways to improve our elementary science program. In his report Mr. Bulley points out some of the achievements in science which we now expect our pupils to have made by the time they have completed the sixth grade.

In other reports which follow will be found information on the work of special teachers in reading, music, art, and speech therapy.

The library facilities in the elementary schools are of great concern and must be improved. Parent Teacher Associations and individual parent volunteers have assisted, but the basic problem is the need for more books. The classroom libraries serve a purpose but are not adequate for all needs. Since money for books is the most urgent need, we have increased this item in our 1965 budget.

New High School

At the secondary level our progress in 1964 has been affected by the housing situation. Double sessions for Grades VII and VIII through June, and double sessions for all grades from September through December, have created problems. Every effort has been made to minimize these and to give to students as full a schedule of classroom instruction as possible. These problems, fortunately, are temporary, and we look forward to the opening of the new high school in the fall of 1965. At that time we plan to move Grades IX through XII to the new building. Grades VII and VIII will remain in the present building, and some elementary classes will also be assigned there. This will for a time take care of the anticipated increase in enrollment in Grades I through VI.

Plans should be made, however, to provide additional elementary space by 1968, by which time it appears that the Junior High School building will no longer have space available for elementary pupils. Plans should be made immediately to acquire one or two sites for additional elementary schools. Studies have been made of possible additions to present elementary buildings, but even recognizing this possibility, further additional classroom space will eventually be required. It would be false economy to postpone action on these needs.

I call to your attention Mr. Macfarlane's report on high school program, and also that of Mr. Coughlin, the guidance director.

We have continued our program of home instruction. Through this program we serve two groups of boys and girls. Pupils who are so handicapped that they are unable to attend regular school sessions are taught four hours per week in their homes with the amount of actual study determined on an individual basis.

The home instructor also visits the homes of those pupils who because of accident or illness are forced to remain at home for extended periods of time. Through this service, these students are enabled to keep up with much of their academic work.

The six-weeks' summer session this year served 235 pupils. At the elementary level, reading and arithmetic courses were offered; and for high school group, English, typewriting, and several courses in mathematics were given.

Adult Education

An innovation this year was the initiation of an adult education program. This program is designed to be self-supporting, as fees are charged for the courses. Classes are meeting for ten two-hour sessions. The instructors are well-qualified people, most of whom are from our high school staff. There was sufficient interest this year to hold classes in the following subjects: Shakespeare as an Entertainer, Beginning Typewriting, Beginning Oil Painting, Woodworking, Furniture Refinishing, Conversational French, Elementary Clothing and Rug Braiding and Hooking.

The General Laws of Massachusetts delegate to the School Committee of each town or city the legal responsibility for public education. Acting under specific laws, the School Committee is responsible for such items as: Approval of curriculum and textbooks, selection of personnel, preparation of annual budget, maintenance and direction of use of all school property, health and safety of students, transportation, contracts, and approval of all bills.

In 1964, your School Committee was entrusted by you with responsibility for 2,374 students, 5 school buildings, a professional staff of 134, with 50 additional non-professional personnel and a total budget of approximately $1,300,000.

Progress of System

The Superintendent of Schools is the agent of the School Committee. He has no authority except that delegated to him by the School Committee, and by law certain responsibilities can not be delegated. Only the School Committee can hire or dismiss teachers. Only the School Committee can approve bills for payment.

Your Lynnfield schools are good today because capable School Committees have managed with judgment and foresight the Town's educational investment.

Those of us in school administration are constantly learning together how to do many things better than they have been done before. We recognize the importance of good teachers, and screen candidates carefully to provide at all times a well-qualified and dedicated staff. We are working always to push forward to a still higher level of educational excellence.

The addition of the new Senior High School to our physical plant will be an important instrument in the pursuit of our academic goals; and we view with confidence the challenges and problems of the years ahead.

Your Superintendent acknowledges with grateful appreciation the splendid support of the School Committee, the dedicated work of all school personnel, and the cooperation and assistance of all the other individuals, committees, and organizations in our community who have, by their personal efforts and contributions, shown their intense interest in the welfare of our boys and girls.

ELEMENTARY LANGUAGE ARTS

DR. NANCY C. SANTEUSANIO
Principal - Center School

The language program in the elementary grades is concerned with two major aspects: The outgo — or speaking and writing — as well as the intake or listening and thinking phase.

The speaking phase begins with dramatization of familiar stories, composing experience charts, making simple introductions, giving one's own name, address, and telephone number, and beginning to participate in small group discussion.

The speaking phase continues through the development of the ability to give an organized oral report often in the form of a pupil specialty in grades four, five, and six, or, in third grade, a junior pupil specialty.

The specialty program encompasses several phases of the language arts program: looking up and organizing resource material, preparing the report in outline or index card form, locating and making display materials, and then limiting the presentation of the specialty to ten minutes.

Most of the pupil specialties are curriculum-related. In the simplest sense a specialty is a report, both oral and visual, prepared over an extended period of time on a topic related to the content being studied in the classroom. The teacher, together with the pupils, sets up a block-style date calendar showing pupil specialty assignments and the date each one is to be given. This is a long-term assignment, allowing four to six weeks of preparation time. The child works on his specialty at school when his work has been completed, and at home for homework.

The teacher meets with the children who are working on the specialty program several times each week. A great deal of guidance and help is given to the pupil as he begins to work on his specialty. The teacher carefully follows the pupil's individual progress and directs the first group of specialties very closely. Most students give one specialty per year, while the more able prepare as many as two or, in a few instances, three specialties during the year.

Following the specialty or oral report, there is a five to ten minute questioning period of the reporter by the members of the class. This is a most important session, because it is here that the student is taught how to ask questions that bring out in more detail the reporter's specialized knowledge. The reporter is taught not to try to answer questions that he does not know how to answer, but rather to state that he does not know. The class secretary is responsible for compiling a list of all unanswered questions to be given to the reporter after the questioning period.

LIBRARY SESSION at Center School.

At the conclusion of the questioning period, the class is divided into groups of three, four or five pupils with one pupil acting as secretary. The groups are presented with questions by the teacher and are asked to discuss the questions while the secretary records the group findings. Questions and problems such as these tie together the pupil specialty and the curriculum.

Lynnfield teachers believe that motivation is the key to success in writing. First children are helped to think through small group brainstorming sessions, for children cannot write of things about which they have no thoughts. When each child is motivated through small-group discussion of ideas, usually he picks up his pencil and begins to write. The teachers in Lynnfield elementary schools have found that small-group discussing and sharing of ideas, prior to writing, produces the greatest motivation and enables all children in the group to express, as well as to get ideas for their composition. As one teacher remarked, "Children seem to know what to say when they plan together first." Yet each story is entirely different, because each child writes for himself.

The teachers feel that success in writing is the key. They try to cut down the red-pencil correction technique and substitute proofreading. Of-quick to find another's. Therefore, the students reread their compositions in pairs and make the necessary corrections immediately. The teacher is "on the spot," moving from one pair of students to another, giving guidance and direction in the proofreading.

The needed grammar and mechanics are taught as a result of the composition writing, for often the child whose mechanics are poor is the one whose thoughts, ideas, and vocabulary are far ahead of his writing skills. No longer does each boy and girl have to go through the language book at the same pace. Some children need to spend many weeks on correct usage, while others are ready for the more advanced skills of sentence structure. Upon completion of a job sheet, the pupil takes a qualifying test so that his teacher can determine whether the skill has been mastered.

Throughout the language program the teacher makes a conscious effort to achieve balance between the outgo and intake, between the speaking-and-writing and the listening-and-thinking phases of language. With this thought in mind, each teacher attempts to use a combination of approaches and a number of motivational techniques in the teaching of language in the elementary school.

ELEMENTARY SOCIAL STUDIES

CHARLES A. WOLSKI
Principal - South School

Progress in the realm of technology has presented numerous challenges to our schools. It is against this background of change and challenge that those who work with the children of a democratic society strive to provide the educational experiences which will most effectively prepare the children for conditions which exist today, and which are anticipated for the future.

BRANCH OF STUDY — Elementary oral report on trees.

To assure that the children derive as much benefit as possible from their organized instruction, constant vigilance must be exercised over the present curriculum and methods of instruction. Each area of the curriculum is carefully evaluated and revised when necessary. During the past year an intensive examination of the social studies curriculum has been made.

Social studies in the schools are expected to do three things. First, they are supposed to teach the student about human behavior. The student is to learn about widely varying systems of cultural organizations so that his own narrow experience will be broadened and deepened. It is indeed a shrinking world! Our adults of the future must be acquainted with all the other peoples of the world. The greater the experience gained through social studies, the better prepared the student will be to make intelligent decisions later in life.

The second goal of social studies is to give the student knowledge about the cultural history of mankind, the traditions of his country, and the present world in which he lives. Thus he should know about the American democratic tradition and the documents in which this tradition is expressed, so that he can understand the values and aims of his own society.

Thirdly, social studies should inculcate certain attitudes and skills.

With these aims in mind, the Elementary Social Studies Committee under the direction of this writer, met regularly to revise this portion of the curriculum.

For the first few months we read and discussed the current literature on social studies programs in elementary schools, including curriculum outlines from other school systems. We then evaluated our own program to determine its strengths and weaknesses. We considered areas which needed more attention, and incorporated these into ten a child who cannot find his own mistakes is our revised curriculum. A brief summary of material now covered at the different grade levels is given below:

Grade One: School Life, Home, Community Helpers, Explorers and Discoverers. Men and Women Who Loved Their Country.

AUDIO VISUALS — All right, who's got the answer?

Grade Two: Comparison of three different communities: Rural, Farming, Suburban, Lynnfield; Urban, Boston. Transportation and Communication.

Grade Three: Our State: Massachusetts. Comparative study of — Communities Within the United States. Biographies of Great Americans.

Grade Four: World geography with in-depth study of such countries as Japan, Brazil, Norway, Switzerland, and one African nation.

Grade Five: History and Geography of the United States.

Grade Six: Prehistory to the Renaissance, Geography of Europe. In-depth study of Russia — contrasting with American Democracy. Study of one other modern European country Spain, Germany, or England.

GEORGE C. CASWELL
Principal - Summer Street School

In 1963, after some pilot programs in the new mathematics had been tried at various grade levels, it was agreed that the materials developed by the Educational Research Council of Greater Cleveland would best meet our need. These materials were purchased for the first four elementary grades. In 1964, this program was extended to include the fifth and sixth grades.

As we have worked with this new mathematics program in the elementary school, four significant changes have been noted. First of all, mathematics for the elementary school child is viewed as a combination of several mathematical sciences, each contributing to the child's competency with number. Mere memorization has been replaced by reasoning and by a study of principles and logic. Geometry is also integrated into the mathematics program. Finding unknown quantities, a simple algebraic skill, is introduced as soon as simple addition is taught. The structure of the number system is an important part of modern mathematics, and the elementary school children are taught understandings of it, including the decimal system of notation through work with other number bases.

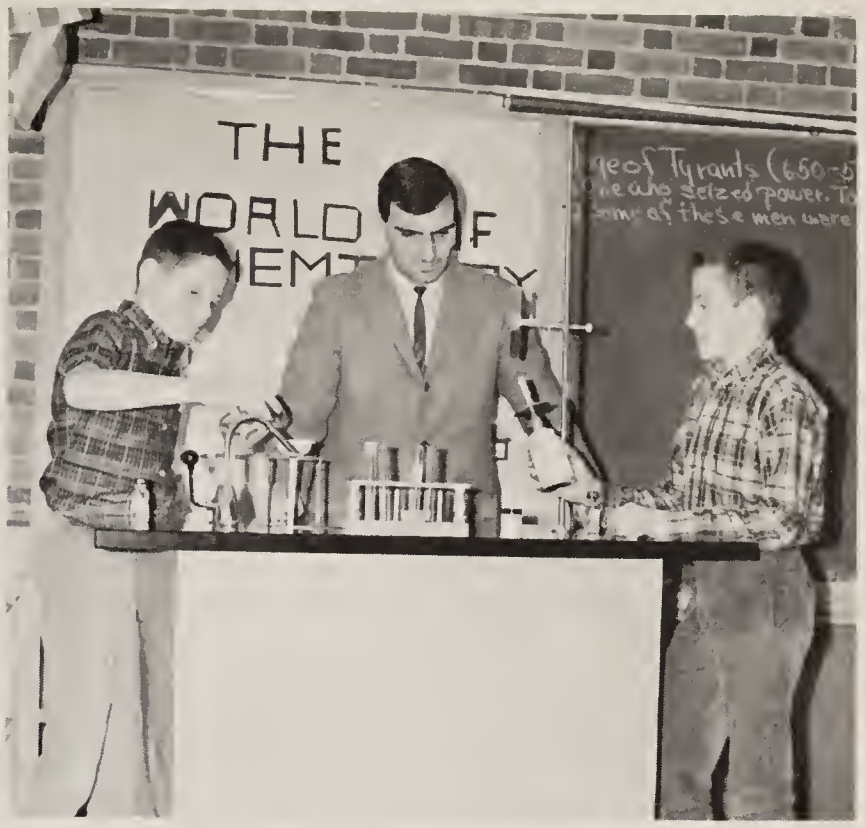
The second change which has been noted is a more careful use of quantitative vocabulary. Terms which carry definite meanings are used with greater care to replace those which have been found to be inadequate or even inaccurate. For example, consider the subtraction process. Subtraction actually performs three mathematical jobs: Finding the remainder (take away), finding the difference (comparison), and finding the missing addend. Calling subtraction simply 'take away' could prevent children from achieving a more complete understanding of the subtraction process.

The third change noted is that there is an increased emphasis on the computational operations. Computation was for a long time a process of following mechanical steps, the steps sometimes completely detached from meaning and the procedures almost totally dependent upon memorized responses. If mathematics is going to be more than a set of memorized procedures, children must be given the principles upon which these procedures have been established.

How children are given the principles upon which these procedures have been established leads us to the fourth change which has been brought about by the new mathematics program. We have given the responsibility for learning back to the children. While nobody would wish to discredit the lecture-demonstration technique of teaching, its exclusive use hardly leads to creative teaching or learning. Using the newer materials, teachers now confront pupils with ideas and the learner is allowed to explore these ideas, to express opinions about them, and to evaluate other's contributions. When children are allowed to discover, try out, and puzzle over problems, math becomes an intensely absorbing experience. Once basic understanding has been achieved, skill reinforcement by the individual pupil is essential for mastery, which means that practice in basic skills is still a very necessary part of the learning pattern.

Our new program seems to hold forth much promise. We feel the program will give the children the skills, concepts, and language necessary for mastery of the more difficult topics in the secondary school. Teachers and pupils are finding today's mathematics program more interesting, more stimulating, and more meaningful.



EXPERIMENTERS in Elementary Science.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL SCIENCE

GILBERT F. BULLEY
Principal - Huckleberry Hill School

In Lynnfield the science curriculum is being studied by twelve teachers who represent the thinking of all the elementary schools. The teachers and the science coordinator will meet throughout the year making plans to strengthen the curriculum through the science in-service course. The quality of science instruction at any level is determined largely by the capability of the classroom teacher. In-service training has been one approach to the problem of increasing teaching competence.

As teachers we are forever asking questions, and as interested citizens this might be a question that you would ask: What is science in the elementary school? One could begin by saying that the term science means the same at any level. In one sense, it is a body of information and principles that help us understand the world around us — from atoms to stars, from microscopic water life to man. In another sense, science may be regarded as methods (and there are many) of discovery, the methods by which new information is uncovered, new principles arrived at, old principles modified or discarded. It is characteristic of science that it starts with a perplexing problem, proceeds with the trying of different methods of solution, and results in a new discovery. It is also characteristic that new discoveries in science lead to new perplexing problems.

Science is everywhere in the lives of today's children, teachers and parents. It is not only children who live in a scientific age, teachers and parents do also! One difference, alas, is that some teachers and parents are not as curious as children and sometimes harder to motivate. But from the atom to the universe itself, science presents an unending number of questions to children: What is the moon made of? What makes it rain? What makes things rust? Where does the sun go at night? Any adult who lives with children knows that they are full of questions, many of a scientific nature.

How can children find the answers to their science problems? They can do so through the methods of problem-solving, — sensing the problem, hypothesizing, gathering data, drawing conclusions and testing them. This is science.

Another question that many people ask about the elementary science program is: In what ways can the study of science in elementary school be of value to a child? Through work in science, under the guidance of teachers, it may be expected that a youngster will:

— Engage in exploration of the world around him.

— Learn the answers to some of the questions aroused by his natural curiosity.

— Become more eager to look for and undertake to solve problems.

— Increase his fund of scientific knowledge.

— Increase his powers of imagination.

— Develop initiative and resourcefulness in tackling problems.

— Become more creative in his thinking.

— Learn to cope with new and unexpected situations.

— Cultivate hobbies and leisure time activities.

— Begin to grow into a scientfically literate adult.

FRONT OFFICE — Elementary Principal Gilbert F. Bulley and Mrs. Ruby K. Koch, secretary.

Given more space it would be possible to list many other reasons why science is most valuable to an elementary school student. In Lynnfield, the thinking of the pupil is of prime importance in teaching science. Piling up technological facts that tomorrow may be obsolete must take second place to the mastery of the how and why — the scientific method of thinking.

The gap between what is known and what is being taught grows with each scientific conquest. To enable our school children to live in a future we cannot yet imagine, teacher-scientist teams are searching for new ways to help them learn. It is our hope that the science program in our elementary schools will do just that.

ELEMENTARY READING

FRANCES H. CARPENTER

Each year we are able to see the results of our continued efforts to raise standards of reading instruction. Children are reading better and more than ever before. There are few pupils in Lynnfield who do not read at or above grade level, and many score well above the national average on standardized tests.

READIN' — Elementary group work.

As fewer pupils are in need of remedial help, the consultant is able to work also in classrooms with groups who may profit from special instruction. Often this is helpful to teachers who are new to Lynnfield or to the teaching profession. Much work is done, too, in the preparation of special materials and the coordinating of ideas and methods among members of the faculty.

This past year special attention has been given in the phonic-word attack area in order that this part of the reading program should become as consistent and thorough as possible. Special lesson materials were prepared and used by all elementary teachers. Emphasis is now being placed on the comprehension skills, and teachers are working toward improvement of method in the many areas involved.

Two teaching techniques which are being stressed — because we feel that they are responsible, in part, for progress made — are a multi-response method of reciting and partner reading. Through the use of answer cards a child is able to respond many more times a day than he would if he had to wait his turn to recite. This method gives much extra practice in the drill areas and stimulation to think more often in comprehension areas. Partner reading gives much opportunity to read, in addition to the teacher-guided daily lessons.

From the time a child enters first grade he is recognized and treated as an individual, and his individual needs are met as nearly as possible by separating classes into smaller groups for specific learning experiences. Methods and materials are selected which best serve each group. It is planned that each child shall progress as fast and as far as he is able. His progress is constantly observed, and his program adjusted to follow his pattern of growth.

As all areas of learning are so dependent upon reading skill, it is most important that both the school and the home work toward helping each child to read as well as he possibly can. To this we are dedicated.

ELEMENTARY ART

GLADYS H. GOODWIN

Art Supervisor

Art is an ever-changing, challenging field in education. This year the schools joined the community in studying the historical background of Lynnfield. Grades I through VI participated in arts and crafts activities for school use. Many of these were displayed in the local banks during the school year.

From February through May a fine student teacher from Massachusetts College of Art worked in the art program at the South School.

For the past two years an art exhibit has been held at one of the schools. This year the Summer Street P.T.A. had the opportunity to view the work characteristic of pupils of varying ages and abilities. One of the most impressive and important things noticed by both teachers and parents was the tremendous development and growth that takes place between Grades I and VI. To a lesser degree this may be observed in each building through the year as art work is displayed in show cases, on bulletin boards, and corridor walls.

A Christmas decoration workshop for all elementary teachers was held to explore the many uses of salvage materials. Such simple media as newspapers, paper bags, and nature's bounty of cones and seed pods, enjoy a face lifting with a bit of paint and glitter.

The art program offers opportunity to explore media, tools, and techniques, and through them to develop knowledge and skills that will encourage and further creative self-expression.

MUSIC

MICHAEL E. COONEY, Jr.

Director of Music Education

The year 1964 saw many changes in the Music Department ofthe Lynnfield public schools. Some of these were necessitated by the complex scheduling required for double sessions. Others were normal steps of progress in a rapidly expanding department.

In the elementary schools, a specialization in grades was instituted, by which each music supervisor plans for, and teaches, one primary level grade and one intermediate level grade for the whole town, thereby exposing all of the students to the approach of each of the music men over a period of three years. Our schedule was: Mr. Cagliuso — 1st - 5th; Mr. Schmidt — 2nd - 4th; Mr. D'amico — 3rd - 6th. This also makes lesson plans more consistent from school to school.

A continued program of singing, note reading, rhythm activities and some group performance is being carried out.

The Music Department curriculum meetings are being devoted almost exclusively at the present time to the problems of the early steps in music reading.

The Junior - Senior High program has continued on a curtailed basis, with the vocal groups, unfortunately, suffering more than the instrumental. The Junior High groups rehearse in the morning before their school sessions, and the High School groups rehearse in segments, partly after school and partly in what is known as an "activity period". The handicaps have been almost crippling, but the groups have remained together.

Organized this year was the Greater Lynn Band Festival, in which Lynnfield was asked to participate. It includes the bands of Marblehead, Swampscott, Lynn, and Lynnfield. The concert features a few selections from each band; then an 80-piece selected group from the four towns performs.

To the year 1964 also saw our new ensemble groups in competition for the first time. The Brass Choir, under the direction of Mr. D'Amico, after several performances in the area, auditioned at the New England Solo and Ensemble festival and received first award. The woodwind quintet under the direction of Mr. William Edmonds also received a blue ribbon signifying a first award.

The biggest single event for the Music Department was the High School Band performance at the New York World's Fair. On May 15th the band played an early evening concert at the United States Pavilion on the main mall of the fair and received a letter of commendation from the U. S. Commission.

At the Sesquicentennial of the Town of Lynnfield in June, the Music Department provided music for various programs.

In the competitions for both the Northeast District All State and All New England, Lynnfield students have done well. Six students participated in the 1964 All State concert at the Massachusetts Music Educators Convention. Seventeen students have been selected for this year's district concert. Out of 17 instrumental students auditioning, 15 were selected.

This year's Solo and Ensemble Festival for the "All New England" organization saw Lynnfield's greatest accomplishment. Forty-four vocal and instrumental soloists were prepared for this festival. Out of this number, Lynnfield received thirty blue and red ribbons signifying first and second awards.

Members of the music staff have served as adjudicators for both the Massachusetts and the New Hampshire Auditions.

SPEECH THERAPY

LOUISE A. REDICAN

Director

During September, all first grade children and those new to the system were tested. Those children, now in second and third grades, who could not be taken last year because of case overload, were retested. All teacher and nurse referrals from Grades II - VI were also tested at this time. A report of the results of this testing survey was received by the superintendent and the principals of the elementary schools.

Ninety-eight children were found to be in need of speech therapy as a result of this survey.

Severe	5
Moderate	19
Mild	71
Foreign dialect	3
Total	98

The speech therapy case load was compiled from the results of the September testing survey, and includes all active cases carried over from the 1963-1964 case load. Seventy-two children remained in therapy from the 1963-1964 carry-overs. Out of the 98 children found to need therapy as a result of this year's testing survey, the 49 most serious cases are now receiving therapy. This brought the total number of children receiving therapy at the beginning of October to 121 — a maximum case load.

During the October-November period, 18 of the 121 children were dismissed from therapy. Currently 103 children are receiving therapy. As others improve and are dismissed, new students needing help will be scheduled for therapy.

Eight of the above remaining children are being observed this year in their classrooms for carry-over, instead of attending regular sessions. Three of the above number are from a foreign country and are receiving help. One of the above is receiving lip reading for the second year.

WHO SAYS Schoolwork's a drag? Look at these faces!

Last June five pre-school children were tested and conferences were held with their parents. Also in June written reports were sent home to all parents informing them of dismissals, progress, and hints for help at home.

Speech therapy is not yet available to Junior-Senior High students, except by special request. This is because there is no available teaching space, and scheduling is difficult because of double sessions. Last Spring, by request, two high school children were seen once a week.

Children in therapy are taken once a week for half-hour sessions. The five severe cases are seen twice a week.

Informal conferences are held from time to time with both parents and teachers. Parents are notified when a child is in therapy, and are notified when they are dismissed. Every child receives work for home practice.

In late September, meetings with first grade mothers were set up at the Huckleberry Hill and the South Schools. The speech program was outlined by me and the following points, most asked by parents, were stressed:

1. All children do not outgrow their speech problem.
2. Reasons why your child is in speech therapy or will be in speech therapy.
3. Why the first grade is the logical place to begin speech therapy.
4. Why speech class alleviates a problem instead of making a child more self-conscious.
5. Speech training is a slow process requiring time, patience, and home cooperation.

Annual Evaluation of Speech and Hearing cards for the Lynnfield Public School System were printed this year and these will be filled out and given to teachers of children with special problems for their cumulative files.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL HEALTH

PRISCILLA F. BURNHAM, R.N.

This nurse covers elementary schools with a case load of 1209 students, and assists at the High School on the average of once a week.

The first objective of the school health program is to appraise the health of all school children and the pre-school child eligible for first grade the following year. This appraisal of each youngster's health is made through the annual screening tests for vision and hearing defects, heights, and weights, physical examinations, Tine tests for tuberculosis, and through teacher-nurse-parent conferences. All observed defects are called to the parent's attention for correction.

After such appraisal has been made, we then turn to our second objective: Educating the children in ways of healthful living for themselves, their school and their community. In this area of health education, the school nurse serves as a resource person to the classroom teacher. She may assist the teacher in health classes when requested to do so, and will provide the teacher with supplementary health materials.

It is not the policy of the school health department to give immunizations to school children, but this may be done at the request of the local Board of Health. Such has been the case in the giving of the Sabin oral polio vaccine. A make-up program was held this past year for those students who did not receive the oral vaccine in the 1962-63 statewide programs. One hundred-ninety students received types they had missed.

More than 1300 first aid cases were handled during the year.

The school nurse must continue to grow professionally as does the classroom teacher. This has been accomplished through attending the school nurses' district meetings once a month and attending workshops. The elementary nurse has completed the second of a three-year school nurses' workshop being held each June at Simmons College, and has also attended a nutrition workshop at Essex Agricultural Institute this past year. Information from such programs is shared with the principals and teachers at staff meetings.

In October a report on the objectives and needs of the school health program was given to the School Committee.

The School Health Department gratefully acknowledges its appreciation to the Lynnfield Lion's Club for the recent gift of a Titmus Vision Tester. This is now being used by the elementary school nurse, and is serving to make the vision screening program faster and more efficient.

HIGH SCHOOL

HUGH O. MACFARLANE, Principal

This is the second year of double sessions at the High School. Grades nine through twelve attend the morning session. Grades seven and eight operate as a Junior High School in the afternoon. We have been able to utilize all plant facilities, and all students have been scheduled for a full academic and specialized subject program. In two areas we have definite limitations

One, because formal class time is limited, Senior High School students must do a greater amount of independent, outside-of-school work. Two, the Junior High School program of activities, so essential in a well-rounded schedule, must be curtailed due to the late hour of dismissal. Members of the faculty teach in either the Junior or Senior High School, except in such specialized areas as art, shop, and household arts. Students, parents, faculty and staff have been most cooperative under these trying conditions.

Eighteen new teachers have joined the faculty this year. Henry Cotton was appointed new assistant principal. His responsibilities are mainly at the Senior High School level. Assistant Principal Leonard Nihan is working mainly at the Junior High School level. Each has some duties at both levels. We are fortunate to have many good teachers who are most conscientious in carrying out their assignments.

During the past year great emphasis has been placed on stabilizing the educational operation of Lynnfield High School. Some of the areas discussed and studied by department chairmen and faculty are: Follow-up of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools evaluation, practice-teaching policy recommendations, teacher-evaluation procedures, mid-quarter appraisal reports, academic awards, citizenship-mark criteria, individual student scheduling, book depreciation policy, course elective procedures, course credit standardization, budget, grading, program-of-study materials, faculty assignments, and examination processing. These, along with dozens of other items, were reviewed and revised in an effort to provide stability in our relatively new school operation.

Content of Courses

Curriculum is never a status-quo proposition. Both offerings and content must be constantly re-evaluated. For example, the English program has been articulated to teach progressions in grammar, composition and literature more effectively. Reading lists for both academic year and Summer have been distributed to students. Spanish III is being taught for the first time this year. A new course in Applied Science, which includes basic concepts of chemistry and physics for non-college students, has been introduced. The "Program of Studies" booklets for both Senior and Junior High School were published in March and April of 1964.

The Senior High School booklet includes information on school philosophy, guidance services, grading, academic honors, course descriptions, activity programs, and floor plans of the new High School presently under construction. I suggest that all interested citizens read this booklet.

One hundred and sixty-six students graduated last June. Approximately 85 per cent of them have gone to 83 different institutions of higher education. Awards and scholarships to the Class of 1964 are a matter of previously published record. We are most grateful to the various organizations which have given generous scholarship aid.

The Class of 1965 already has distinguished itself. Five students have qualified as semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Program, and eight have received letters of commendation. These students deserve hearty congratulations on this achievement.

Many residents have shown interest in how well Lynnfield graduates have done in the various colleges they have attended. I am happy to report that most have done quite well. All reports received from colleges are studied to discover any particular strengths or weaknesses we may have in academic areas. No consistent pattern of achievement or lack of it is apparent from Lynnfield preparation in English, languages, history, mathematics, or science.

The question, "What are we doing with our academically slow students?" has been raised many times. Although we cannot do as much as we would like to, there are two basic things we can do. One, classes are kept as small as possible to enable us to give a more tutorial type of instruction. Two, basic textbooks, geared nearer to the reading ability of the student, are used. We rely on the teacher to move at a reasonable pace, with patience and understanding for the individual.

Extra Activities

Student activities are geared to meet student needs and interests. Facilities, timing, availability of faculty advisors, cost, and continuing support are all considerations to be taken into account. An active American Field Service Club was started last Spring, and this Fall we were most encouraged by the response of the Latin Club. The athletic program is broad in scope. Girls have interscholastic competition in field hockey, basketball, tennis, and softball. Approximately 70 percent of the boys in grades ten through 12 participate in interscholastic sports including football, basketball, hockey, baseball, track, tennis and golf.

Plant restrictions as well as double sessions have curtailed our expansion of intramural programs at both Junior and High School level. We expect to expand our athletic program as facilities increase and strong interest continues.

As I stated in my report last year, "Undue emphasis should not be placed on any school activity." Although it is fine to have strong interests, I firmly believe that all activities should be evaluated in the light of their service to the school as a whole.

A prodigious upcoming task for administration and department chairmen is the completion of equipment lists and operational plans for the new High School. All books and materials in the present school library, for example, must be completely surveyed to determine which books will go, which will remain for the Junior High School, and what books should be ordered to enable both libraries to function at optimum efficiency. The same situation exists in all of our academic and specialized areas of instruction. Details of daily schedule and routine will be given later in the year.

As Lynnfield High School comes of age, we must continue to improve. Competition with other secondary schools in the placement of graduates is intense. If we want the best opportunities for our students, we must be leaders in our field.

I wish to acknowledge the work of the School Committee, the Superintendent of Schools, and the High School Building Committee. We of the administration, faculty, and staff pledge our best efforts in behalf of the young people of Lynnfield.

GUIDANCE

WILLIAM J. COUGHLIN

Director of Guidance

Our students graduating in 1964 found themselves in the projected squeeze for college acceptance. We were very fortunate to have a sizable percentage who were accepted by the college of their first choice, even though the number of applications throughout the country increased by approximately one-third. Equally important is that each student who desired to continue his or her education was placed in a satisfactory position.

An aspect of the admissions procedures is that for the preferred colleges, the ratio for applications to the number accepted is four to one. The admissions directors of these colleges have often stated that of this ratio, three of the four are academically able to compete satisfactorily. What this means is that unfortunately many students will be rejected, not on the basis of their deficiencies, but because there were others who were considered by the admissions committees to be better prepared.

The problem of admissions at the University of Massachusetts was brought into focus since so many qualified students had to be turned away only because of the numbers-increase. To add to the problem, other state universities also had the same problem, and, in turn, had to reject out-of-state applicants who formerly would have been accepted. This fall the State Board of Education has decided to open a Boston campus of the University of Massachusetts which will provide a measure of relief. Worth noting is that the State Community Colleges will be able to transfer students to the U. of M. if the student has acquired a good record there.

We expect these difficulties of college placement, inherent in the sheer numbers applying, to continue for the next few years. Consequently, we are beginning to stress earlier consideration of various types of schools; more realistic choices, including acquaintance with schools beyond the New England area, and earlier applications.

We have noted a definite increase in the number of institutions sending representatives to our school and scheduling interview sessions in the Boston area. During one month in the Fall we were visited at Lynnfield High by representatives of fifteen types of schools, and notices were posted regarding numerous other open houses and interviews. This allows our students to have first-hand contacts with admissions officers. But we cannot stress strongly enough the importance of visits to campuses during earlier school years in order to familiarize students with college life, and possibly to receive an evaluation of their preparation. It is still the student who has the responsibility to select his college along with parental and school advice.

UP AND OVER — Elementary "Phys-Ed".

To help our students select a school, they are offered vocational counseling through a series of fifteen career conferences. Experienced men and women give some insight into their occupations, the training needed, and the opportunities for advancement. In addition, career assemblies are conducted periodically. The guidance office maintains a file of many hundreds of pamphlets and brochures describing various fields of work, thus enabling the students to investigate their vocational interests at their leisure. Although only a minority of students choose a definite occupation from their high school years, the exposure to a great number of areas makes their ultimate decision easier and more intelligent.

The follow-up study of the Class of 1963 verified earlier figures which show approximately 80 percent of the graduates continuing training beyond high school, with almost 50 percent in four-year colleges, and the remainder in technical and secretarial schools, prep schools, and junior colleges. Although most of the students were attending institutions in the New England states, nine were enrolled in colleges in other states.

We expect to complete a study of the Class of 1960 by this Summer, as we inaugurate a policy of an annual five-year follow-up.

The guidance office maintains a placement service for students going directly to work after graduation. Our contacts with firms in the area have proved fruitful as potential employment sources. We work jointly with the United States Employment Service in the testing and interviewing of prospective employees. Studies have shown that our graduates who have gone directly into employment are successful in competing for positions involving responsibility.

Educational counseling, including selection of a program of studies, continues to occupy a great deal of the time of the four counselors. All students are seen individually by the counselors during the year for assistance in difficulties encountered in day-to-day work involving study habits, lack of background, and insufficient motivation; for discussions of educational and vocational plans for the future, and for the various personal problems of the adolescent boy or girl. Parents have an opportunity to discuss their child's work, by appointment, either during the school day or by a scheduled evening appointment.

HIGH SCHOOL HEALTH

BEATRICE W. LYON, R.N.

The health appraisal and health education of Lynnfield students follows the elementary health program as a continuing growth of the young person's awareness of health as he relates it to himself and his fellow man.

Each student receives the same screening programs for hearing, vision, physical examinations, tuberculosis and physical growth. In cooperation with the guidance department, adjustments in student programs are often made to aid the child with a handicap.

Due to time limitations imposed by the double sessions, nothing new has been developed in the health program at the secondary level this past year. But once the high school is settled in the new building, a Future Nurses' Club of America will be organized.

A Sabin oral polio vaccine "make-up" program was held, during which 97 students received vaccines. The number of physical examinations given by the school physician for sports reflects the high participation in our athletic programs. This year Dr. Charles A. Worthen, Jr., gave 280 sports physical examinations.

In addition to the health appraisal and health education programs under the direction of the school nurse, she has treated more than 900 first-aid cases this year.

DRIVER EDUCATION

ROY E. HARBOUR

The supplementary program of driver education which was conducted during the past two summers seems to have taken care of the backlog of students which had accumulated for road work. We have added a part-time road instructor, and are now able to take all students as they reach 16 and enroll in the course. I see no need for a Summer program this year. An extra program every other Summer would probably solve any overload problem which may develop.

It is expected that the registration for the Spring term will be slightly greater than the present enrollment, but the present program should be adequate for the coming year.

The young people of Lynnfield who have taken the driver education course are maintaining a better-than-average driving record. As a side-benefit Lynnfield's auto liability insurance rates did not increase as they did in many other communities.

The small increase in the elementary school enrollment reflects the opening of the parochial school with Grades I through IV in 1961, and the addition of one grade per year up to Grade VIII as these children progress through school. It is expected that some of the 237 students now attending the parochial school will be returning to the public schools at the ninth grade level.

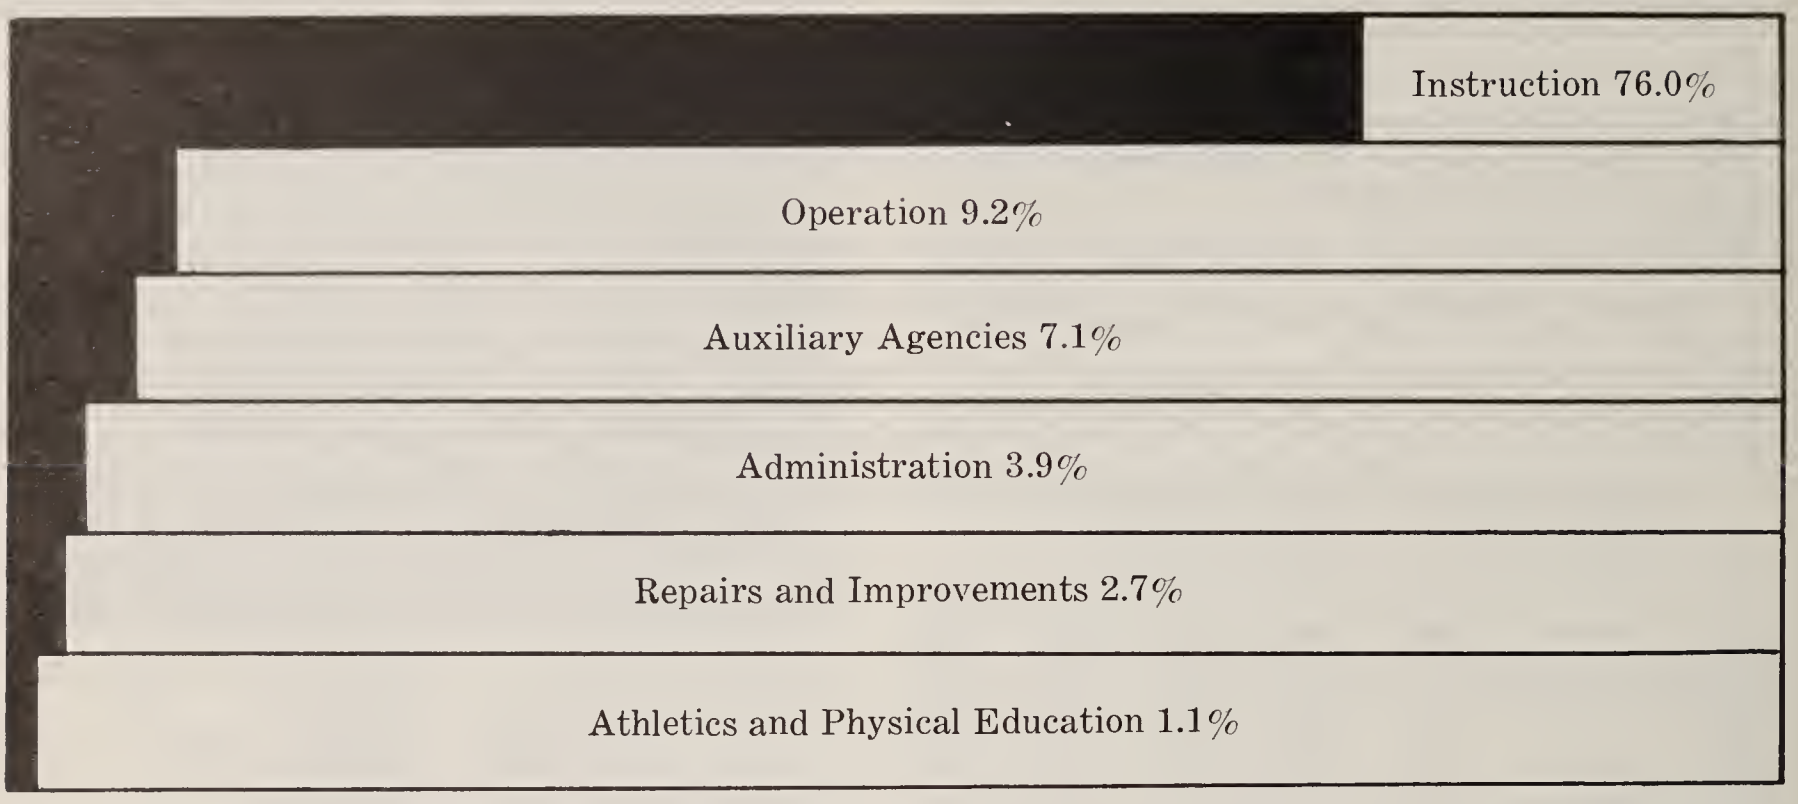
Breakdown of Operational Costs



Instruction

This item includes salaries of principals, directors, teachers, and coaches, as well as textbooks, supplies, and instructional materials.

Operation

Approximately 9.2% of the budget is spent for operating our buildings. Custodial salaries and supplies, fuel, light, and power, gas, telephones, and water costs fall in this classification.

Auxiliary Agencies

This 7.1% charge covers such items as libraries, transportation of pupils, promotion of health, including salaries and tuition.

Administration

This account involves expenses for the business and educational administration of the public schools. Central office expenses and salaries are included.

Repairs and Improvements

It is considered sound economy to expend sufficient funds annually to keep the buildings in good repair. Repair and improvements to maintain the plant constitutes 2.7% of the budget expense.

Athletics and Physical Education

This item represents a budget account toward the cost of the athletic and physical education program.

150th Anniversary Committee

On November 10, 1963 Selectman Harry C. Wendt met with representatives of the organizations and churches of Lynnfield to discuss the possibility of a town-wide celebration to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the incorporation of the Town and the 250th anniversary of the Meeting House. It was agreed that Lynnfield should undertake such a celebration to be held on June 12, 13 and 14, 1964, and a Steering Committee was appointed. Subsequent additions and revisions were made and the final membership of the Committee included:

Chairman — Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Wendt

Treasurer — Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Higgins

Secretary — Mrs. C. Hammond Stone

Program Chairman — Mr. and Mrs. Gordon B. Wilkes, Jr.

Finances — Mr. and Mrs. John Nelson

Public Relations — Mr. and Mrs. Bayard D. Waring

Hospitality — Mr. and Mrs. Norman E. Northrup

The Steering Committee met on the 17th of November, but the next meeting of the full committee was postponed twice because of the death of President John F. Kennedy, followed one week later by the death of Rev. Andrew C. K. Richards, an active member of the Committee and Minister of the Centre Congregational Church.

It was decided by the Committee that nominal charges would be made for attendance at the events scheduled, but that the Town should appropriate funds for the general expenses. The realization of profit was not the purpose of the celebration. It was agreed that concessions would be allowed, with the understanding that 50% of the profit remain with the sponsoring group and 50% go to a general account to support the expenses of the celebration.

Every organization in Lynnfield was contacted by the secretary and asked to participate in the planning and execution of one of the events by supplying a chairman and personnel to act as a subcommittee of the 150th Anniversary Committee. It was explained that there would be no financial loss or gain expected of the organization. At the same time, each organization was also invited to have a concession which could be used as a profit making venture for the organization.

Getting Started

Regular meetings were held by the Steering Committee from January to June, and monthly meetings with all the sub-committees. Tentative plans were formulated, but no firm commitments could be made until there was money available to underwrite the cost of the celebration. At the Annual Town Meeting in March the Town voted $5,000 to be spent by the Steering Committee within the broad categories of the budget.

Beginning the last week in January, and continuing until the actual celebration, an extensive promotion and publicity program took place. Weekly stories in all three local papers were written by Judy Coates, telling of progress, work, accomplishments to date and the enthusiasm growing within all of the committees. Photographs by June Crumrine, also appeared weekly to help unfold the story. A feature article was done for the Boston Herald Rotogravure Section, and interviews were given on Boston radio and television stations.

Special Supplements were issued by the Lynnfield Shoppers' News, Wakefield Daily Item and Lynn Daily Item, presenting the history of the Town. Flyers of the week-end schedule were printed and distributed to all homes and stores around town.

The Decoration Committee urged residents to decorate their homes for the week-end. Prizes were awarded the most original, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Worthen, 646 Main Street; most appropriately decorated and planted, Mr. Ernest G. Willard, 618 Main Street; and the most patriotic, Mr. and Mrs. Philips V. Taylor, 574 Main Street. Many, if not most, of Lynnfield home owners are now flag owners. One of the committee's major projects was to plant the Town Seal, designed in flowers by Francis McHugh, on the Common, and by June 12 it was a lovely floral point of interest. All Town buildings were decorated for the occasion by the South Lynnfield Women's Club and all four garden clubs.

Plans were started in January for the homecoming aspects of the week-end. Nearly 1,000 letters with all the celebration details were mailed by Mrs. Joseph W. Smith and Mrs. Wesley W. Munroe to many former residents, extending to them a warm invitation to return "home" for the week-end. There were many reunions of old friends throughout the town and a special opportunity to visit with the older residents during the parade, at an area provided beside the reviewing stand at the Summer Street School.

There were appropriate programs and exhibits in each of the elementary schools. Early arrivals visited the historical displays in each room at the Center School. A play dramatizing the history of schools in Lynnfield was presented on Thursday by the 6th grade students at the Huckleberry Hill School. The research was done and the script prepared by Mrs. Clifford Ham, Mrs. Marion L. Maddison and Miss M. Frances Kelliher.

John Callahan, Post Master, and his staff did their part. Starting with the afternoon of June 12, all outgoing mail for six months was processed with the Sesquicentennial Commemorative Cancellation with the compliments of Louis Tuck. A special cachet, designed by Mrs. Dean Williams, was on sale at the post offices and became a collector's item.

Yes, Lynnfield prepared to celebrate its 150th Anniversary on June 12, 13 and 14th in great style. A celebration on such a large scale needed extensive planning which literally involved hundreds of interested Lynnfield citizens taking active parts. The Town's growing enthusiasm was like that of a small snowball — being rolled over and over — growing larger and larger — and quite ready to burst at 4 p.m. Friday, June 12, when the birthday party began.

Message from Boston

Two Lynnfield marathon runners volunteered to help start off the town's week-end in a very special way. At 2 p.m. Friday, June 12, Robert Dolbeare received a proclamation by Governor Endicott Peabody on the steps of the State House. Running the document half way back to Lynnfield, he gave it to Richard Weeks who ran to Salem Street and Broadway. The pair then ran through South Lynnfield down Summer Street to the corner of the Lynnfield Common. Waiting for the runners was Francis (Chip) Piatti, Town Crier for the Anniversary week-end. The proclamation was read on the steps of the historic Meeting House to a large number of residents of the community and assembled dignitaries under a warm and pleasant afternoon sun. In the proclamation the Governor extended greetings of the Commonwealth to Lynnfield, and complimented the Town as being one of the state's outstanding communities.

Harry C. Wendt officially welcomed the people on behalf of the Town. The Lynnfield High School Band played an anniversary song which was written for the occasion by John Kimball. Dr. John A. Redmond, Superintendent of Schools, read from an article, "Lest We Forget". Assisting at the opening ceremonies were Rev. Alexander E. Szypko and Rev. James C. Marshall. Two air raid signals located at either end of town blared, and church chimes played. The celebration was on its way.

Activities Varied

As Lynnfield celebrated its 150th anniversary, the Meeting House celebrated its 250th anniversary. The Historical Society, whose members are custodians of the Meeting House, urged people to visit and see the restoration process in progress. Members of the Society greeted visitors in "costumes of the period." The House was decorated by local garden clubs, and had many pictures and treasures on display. There were old things to see, an old Prescott cello to hear and many small souvenirs to take home.

In connection with the celebration, the Lynnfield Lions Club held a "hole-in-one golf contest for amateurs only" at Colonial Golf Course. The contest, lasting two weeks, ended at noon, Saturday, June 13. The first prize was $500 to Kennett Green, second prize $300 to H. T. Gerould, and sets of golf clubs for third and fourth prizes to Tony Texiere and Philip Fox.

The Lions Club also sponsored the lobster-chicken barbecue which was held on the South Hall lot from 5 to 7, Friday night. Approximately 2,000 enjoyed the delicious menu served family style. The 28 attractive contestants competing for the title of "Miss Anniversary" were seated with the judges at special tables at the barbecue. The evening was ideal for the outdoor occasion, and the Junior High School Band filled the air with entertaining music.

The Lynnfield Art Guild Exhibit was held in Todd Hall in the Centre Congregational Church, and paintings could be seen Friday and Saturday. Local artists exhibited traditional and modern art work in all media. The winners were all oil paintings: 1st, Sally Milo's "Setting Sun"; 2nd, Ann Swan Douglass' "Grand Tetons"; and 3rd, Helen Malcolm's "The Eva S. Culliton."

At 8:30 p.m. "The Spotlighters," Lynnfield's amateur theatrical group, presented a pageant with seven scenes, each depicting a portion of the town's history, directed by Gertrude Charter, researched by Edith Pope Richard and narrated by Norman Northrup. The presentation of "Village Vignettes, 1664 - 1964" was enjoyed by over 1,700 persons in a large tent erected behind the High School. Music for the historical show was performed by the Lynnfield High Dance Band. The last scene, Lynnfield's first senior prom in 1960 at its first high school, made a perfect setting for the judging and crowning of "Miss Anniversary of Lynnfield." Cathy Monroe, a junior in the High School, was selected and crowned from a field of 28 by a panel of judges as "Miss Anniversary," and began her week-end reign. Her Court of Honor were Marion Crichton, Jill Harrison, Karen Hayden, Beverly Heider, Cheryl Langmaid, Barbara Morse and Carol Sherwin.

The Big Parade

Saturday morning, long before the day had begun, 1,200 persons were preparing to make the march along a flag-decked parade route. Scores of shining fire engines were receiving that final 'spit and polish' that would later delight children and adults alike. The Legion, Jaycees and Masons presented "The Parade" from South Hall, down Summer Street to the High School. Lynnfield had never seen such a parade before and the greyness of the weather did not seem to affect the gathering crowds. Colorful floats, bands, marching units, pretty girls, clowns and many others constituted a parade which took a full hour and a half to pass. Fascinating varieties of uniforms drew continuous applause along the four-mile route. A $50 prize was awarded the most spectacular float — Boy Scout Troup 49 — and $25 was awarded to the best in each of the following categories: most original — Blue Birds; most appropriately decorated with the theme of the celebration — Worthen's Market; most patriotic — Middleton Volunteers; and the most beautiful — Spotlighters of Lynnfield. Lynnfield organizations handled the sale of balloons, ice cream, soft drinks, and the like along the parade route. Refreshment concessions on the Common were also busy all day serving the crowds of celebrating people.

Town Office Building Dedicated

At 1 p.m., with Selectman Mason Condon officiating, the Dedication of the new Town Hall took place. In a pouring rain, the Elementary School Band played before an audience of raincoats, boots and umbrellas. On the wet steps stood County Commissioner C. F. Nelson Pratt, State Representative Belden G. Bly, Selectmen's Association Secretary Charles MacPherson, Architect John Guarino, Rev. Merrill Kluhsman, Rev. Douglas A. Elliott and Chairman John B. Rodgers of the Building Committee. Town Clerk Harry W. Higgins introduced Secretary of State Kevin White for the dedication speech. A time capsule, to be re-opened in the year 2014, prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Osberg, and containing current items, was displayed and sealed. Secretary of State White and "Miss Anniversary" cut the blue ribbon which officially opened the new Town Hall, and an open house followed.

Sports

Despite the rain, the Sport Boosters' Road Race went along as planned at 1:30. The winners were: 1st, Dennis Puleo; 2nd, Edward Purtz; 3rd, Ross MacDonald; 4th, Peter Dane; and 5th, David Smith. The race was 4.8 miles, beginning at the High School, going up Chestnut Street, down Lowell Street, and down Main Street back to the High School. On the High School field at 2 p.m. a baseball game took place between the Little League managers and town residents. The managers lost! Teams wore old-time uniforms, and slipped and splashed in the downpour and mud while an audience sat under the flaps of the nearby tent. The first ball was thrown out by "Miss Anniversary."

Saturday Night

At 6 p.m. the rain stopped, and in the tent behind the High School Lynnfieldites and their guests and dignitaries from neighboring communities gathered for a New England Saturday Night Supper which was prepared by the Rotary Club and friends, including Mrs. Kons and her school cafeteria staff. Town Moderator John Kimball was master of ceremonies. Father James Garrity and Rev. Garvey MacLean gave the invocation and benediction. Prizes were awarded for the best decorated homes, best parade floats, and to winners of the sports events. About 1,000 enthusiastic diners enjoyed the traditional ham and bean supper. A highlight of the evening was the arrival of Governor Endicott Peabody by helicopter. Other honored guests were Congressman Torbert Macdonald, State Senator Phillip Graham, State Representatives Belden Bly and Russell Craig, and Mayor M. Henry Wall of Lynn. Selectman Ralph E. Dwight introduced the visiting officials from the neighboring communities of Saugus, Reading, Wakefield and North Reading. The women of the Lynnfield-Saugus Chapter of the Hadassah supplied clever and authentic replicas of the Meeting House for all of the banquet tables. The High School Chorus delighted the gathering in song. Girl Scouts efficiently waited on head tables, and Boy Scouts and high school boys handled the clean-up detail.

The Town was also delighted that two oldtimers, Albert Mansfield and Rutherford Smith, both members of the committee which conducted the 100th anniversary celebration in 1914, were able to participate in the town's 150th Anniversary. Lynnfield saluted Charles E. Williams who has the distinction of being the resident who has lived the longest in town. Born in Lynnfield 85 years ago, he has voted for 65 years. Lynnfield also paid tribute to Mrs. Catherine Keating of Walnut Street as being the town's newest resident as of the week of the celebration.

Saturday night, June 13, the parking facilities in the center were filled to capacity and overflowing. The Centre Couples' Club Anniversary Ball was held in the High School gym, and the South Lynnfield Couples' Club Hootenanny was in the tent behind the High School. A display of "Vogue of Yesteryear", directed by Fran Johnson and narrated by Charlotte Barker, was one of the highlights of the Anniversary Ball. Local residents modeled gowns representing 22 modes of dress since the year 1829, all belonging to Lynnfield residents. Tony Barrie's orchestra provided music for the gala 150th Anniversary event. Decorations carried the theme of elegance of a bygone era in the forms of life-size silhouettes, an elaborate chandelier and colorful streamers. Dancers wore costumes appropriate to various periods of Lynnfield history. The folksong festival in the large tent took place at the same time. This "new-fashioned" hootenanny included the talents of Tom Rush, Roy West, Priscilla DiDonato, Nancy Michaels, The Coachmen and The Brothers and Others. An evening anticipated by many teenagers was one of frolic and excellent entertainment.

Sunday and Church

Sunday dawned bright and clear. In the morning each church had its own service with a special welcome for former members. In the afternoon at 3:00 p.m. about 400 residents of Lynnfield and their guests gathered on the Common to await the arrival of a horse drawn carriage bringing Dr. Russell Schofield, in 18th century clerical costume, to the 1714 Meeting House. In a service which reflected the stark Puritan simplicity and carried the congregation back 200 years, he spoke on Pre-Revolutionary Religious Influences. The ministers and congregation walked the few feet to the 1833 Chapel where Rev. Douglas Elliott, Pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, spoke on the Evangelism of the 19th Century. Then all walked to the 1960 Sanctuary of the Centre Congregational Church where Rev. Garvey MacLean, Assistant Pastor of the Centre Congregational Church, and the Right Rev. Monseigneur Lally, Editor of "The Pilot", spoke on the Ecumenical Influence in the 20th Century. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Milton Saville, former pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Rev. James C. Marshall, Pastor of Lynnfield Community Church, was the co-ordinator and introduced each speaker. A combined chorus of singers from all the churches sang music appropriate to each period under the direction of Mr. Bruce Herrick, Choir Director of the Centre Church. At the conclusion of the service, a reception was held for all the clergy present. Refreshments were served by a committee consisting of women from all the churches represented. History was made that afternoon in this small town when people of all faiths met together and reviewed their common religious heritage.

FINANCES

Finance Committee

FINANCE COMMITTEE — Standing, Robert E. Sperry, Raymond Samora, Richard D. Foulkes. Seated, C. Stephen Tsorvas, William E. Sweetman, Bayard D. Waring, Walter R. Moynihan. Proctor A. Coffin, Chairman; Robert G. Fraser not present.

The maturing of our Town during the last decade has caused many economic and operating problems. Most of these have been faced squarely, with success. The Finance Committee recognizes the dedication of Town employees, officials, and many citizens serving on a variety of committees. Their devotion has certainly resulted in economies and improved services — a part of this success.

However, we still cling to certain practices not appropriate to a two and one half million dollar corporation. As previous Finance Committees have, we urge adoption of a more professional approach to our Town management. In keeping with this policy, the Town approved the purchase in 1964 of an accounting machine. The Town Treasurer, Mr. Higgins, has been very cooperative in adapting to it. His enthusiasm should be encouragement to the Town Accountant, Tax Collector and Assessors to consider its use in 1965. The Treasurer reports savings of time and improved accuracy in his department. There are more dramatic savings to be realized when these other departments use this machine to its full potential.

For several years a group of interested voters have studied our government with a view to updating its functions. When put to the Town Meeting last year, their proposals were not accepted. Neither the discussion nor the vote indicated a total rejection of their recommendations. It is our opinion that the changes perhaps were too many and too fast. However, certain of our management problems are of such magnitude as to require solution soon. To this end we have held many discussions during the year. It is our opinion that there are three areas of prime importance:

1. PURCHASING. Department heads who frequently have neither the time nor the training do their own purchasing. There is no coordination between departments. (Example: Tires are purchased separately by the School, Highway, Police, Fire, Tree and Moth, and Park and Cemetery Departments. By pooling their needs and putting them out for bid, important savings could be realized.)

2. ACCOUNTING. We believe fiscal management aspects of this function have not been sufficiently emphasized. The need for more analytical work is apparent and to this end, we feel that a full time accountant might be the only solution to this problem. A full time accountant could do the accounting for the School Department as well. This is a practice followed in some communities.

3. MANAGEMENT. The Selectmen as part-time officials are greatly hampered by lack of staff. Their responsibilities are many and varied. It is unrealistic to expect them to be knowledgeable in all the problems they face and to resolve these without proper assistance.

We have prepared appropriate articles for the Town Meeting warrant and are recommending the addition of a full time qualified person who would report to the selectmen. He would be responsible for all three areas mentioned above. The salary for such an official might come, in whole or in part, from funds already regularly appropriated for positions that would no longer be required. Our neighbor, Wakefield, has a comparable arrangement and is reported to be well pleased with it.

In our meeting with the School Committee in connection with this year's budget, we noted that, as in the past, the School Committee is endeavoring to hold expenditures slightly below the level of the highest-spending towns in the state, but not so low as to jeopardize the educational standards of the school system. For example, 1964 records indicate that eleven towns exceed Lynnfield in the starting salaries for teachers, thirty-four were at the same level and approximately two hundred and ninety towns were below Lynnfield in this category.

Per capita expenditures by Lynnfield for its schools also appear to be compatible with the foregoing fiscal policy, i.e. near the top but not at the top of all towns in the State. The school budget has increased 63% over the past five years (see chart below). The 1965 budget is 8% higher than last year, an increase of $140,000 over 1964 expenditures, which represents an addition of over $2.00 per thousand on the new tax rate (about $5.00 on old tax rate). The School Committee sees no hope that school costs will level off in the foreseeable future. If this trend continues, school costs over the next 10 years would add $20.00 to our tax rate.

The Town's assessed valuation has been increasing at a rate of only 4% per year or about 2.5 million on 100% valuations. This could easily be offset by the expected increase in the budgets of Town departments other than Schools during the next decade. Thus the entire amount of increases in the school costs would be felt in a direct proportionate increase in the tax rate.

SCHOOL BUDGET INCREASES 1960-1965

Year	School Budget	Per Cent Increase over Previous Year
1960	$ 855,134	—
1961	949,016	22.6 %
1962	1,023,622	7.85%
1963	1,133,685	10.7 %
1964	1,272,372	12.2 %
1965	1,399,192 (anticipated)	63.9% increase over 1960 budget

Two matters we wish brought to the voters' attention were mentioned in our 1963 report. No change has been made in our system of work records. Employees are not required to turn in time sheets nor generally do department heads maintain logs of hours worked. We also continue to be concerned with the acquisition of capital equipment and other expenditures not in keeping with the intent and spirit of the original appropriation. Should this practice continue, it will force the Finance Committee to so word the budget articles as to stop this practice. This would be unfortunate in that it could unnecessarily hamper departments and lengthen Town meetings which are already quite lengthy.

The somber financial picture which we have outlined above makes it necessary to analyze all proposed expenditures carefully, and to recommend against any expenditures which cannot meet the tests of necessity and practicality. Like most communities, we face difficult financial years ahead.

ACCOUNTANT'S CERTIFICATE

I have examined the cash receipts and securities in the various Trust Funds in the hands of the Treasurer and find them to be as stated in the Treasurer's report. The income from Trust Funds in the hands of others have been received for the year 1964 and credited to the proper accounts. The receipts as reported by the Treasurer agree with the books, and that payments of the Town correctly present the financial status as of December 31, 1964. I sincerely thank the Honorable Board of Selectmen, all Town officers and employees, and the Town Report Committee who have contributed so much of their time and talents in compiling this report.

Board of Selectmen

This year saw the consolidation of Lynnfield's tremendous growth during the post World War II era. The first full year in the new Town Hall and the dedication of the new Senior High School marked a period in which the spiritual, educational, and administrative housing needs were met. However, revaluation at full value and flood plain zoning have now set the stage for an imminent second period of progress. As we attempt to look beyond to the ultimate growth of the Town we are concerned not only with its physical but social and recreational needs as well. We see the young and old requiring increasing attention through long range planning. For both, the cultural needs must be provided for in our libraries and facilities for adult education. Additional playgrounds, parks, and youth centers for leisure activities are needed now to balance these. At the same time the vested rights of our elderly must be protected through counter-inflationary taxation methods. Action at local, State, and Federal levels is required.

With the above in mind, your Board has appointed several new committees for land acquisition, street lighting, and garage needs. It has also made its views on State legislation known through our Representatives, Senator, Selectmen's Association, and the League of Cities and Towns. As our State and Federal officials advocate home rule (while at the same time passing legislation to take it away) public apathy at the local level must be overcome to insure a way of life of our own choosing. The citizens of Lynnfield are asked to participate in a positive approach at all levels of government.

Fire Department

Carl E. Davis

The year 1965 has been the worst in the history of the Weather Bureau records, with at least a 20 inch rainfall deficiency. This not only lowered the water table of the Town but also dried up most of the brooks and swamp areas making it most difficult to completely extinguish brush and woods fires. Although conditions were extreme and our woodlands a tinderbox, most of the year the Town was most fortunate in not having a major catastrophe. The citizens' cooperation during the extended "open air burning" ban played an important part in keeping our woodlands and meadow areas from becoming conflagrations.

The Fire Department lost a most devoted and faithful member in the death of Albert C. White, July 10, 1965. Retired Deputy Chief Harold F. Kaler passed away January 10, 1965 having served the Department many dedicated years.

The Fire Alarm Signal System was completely re-numbered over the Fourth of July weekend with the Town broken down into six alarm districts and all fire alarm boxes given a new code number according to its location within its district.

Bids were opened and a contract awarded April 29, 1965 for a replacement of Engine 4 and the new Ford vehicle is expected before the end of the year.

Dr. Thomas B. White was appointed as the first Department Physician and the Reverend Daniel P. Hegarty was appointed as the first Department Catholic Chaplain. Both appointments became effective November 26, 1965.

Civil Defense

Lawrence Austin

Civil Defense in the year 1965 has made marked progress and has increased the assurance of Self-Survival in the event of a disaster. The emphasis was to increase the number of shelters available and to teach Medical Self-help to the public. Civil Defense training has been expanded by offering night courses, and by suggested inclusion of courses in the regular school curriculum throughout the State.

Twenty-three Lynnfield residents were awarded certificates as Radiological Monitors after completing an eight hour course at the local Civil Defense Headquarters.

The Auxiliary Police assisted in over 550 hours of emergency duty in 1965. Over 200 hours per man was donated in training sessions during the year.

The Auxiliary Fire Personnel participated in actual firefighting or standby service during all alarms. After an intensive training schedule and actual participation in firefighting, eligible personnel from the Civil Defense Auxiliary are promoted to the regular call department.

The value of the local Civil Defense organization and its training proved immeasurable in the blackout emergency of November 9, 1965. Within thirty minutes, ninety per cent of the entire Civil Defense organization had reported for duty and were stationed at their various emergency stations.

Ralph G. Howland

Town Counsel

This department was very busy during the past year in routine work of drafting the many contracts for the purchase of vehicles, machines, equipment and supplies, and work, labor and materials for the Town departments. Other legal documents for necessary easements, petitions and deeds for street acceptances, and articles for Town meetings were prepared.

Many new and complex laws enacted in the past year by the State Legislature were digested and copies were furnished to the Town departments concerned.

Meetings of the Board of Selectmen and Town Meetings were attended, as were board and committee meetings when requested.

Highway Department

James C. Fletcher

Report of the Highway Department for 1965:

Storm drains were installed at Elmwood Road and Summer Street and the brooks and channels were cleaned in other areas of the town as provided in Article 2 of the Annual Town Meeting. Also by the direction of the Town Meeting, Island Road was built, Russett Lane, Pine Street, Edward Avenue south, Witham Road, and Chestnut Street were rebuilt and a bituminous surface installed.

Sidewalks were installed on Essex Street from Kenniston Road to Pillings Pond Road. Stone seals were applied to a portion of Chestnut, Lowell, and Essex Streets.

Chapter 90 funds were used on Summer Street by rebuilding and widening the portion from Archer Road to about 200 feet north of Knoll Road and the completion of the Salem Street project of 1964.

The department is now working on the drains for the rebuilding of Lowell Street starting at the North Reading line.

One new truck with dump body, one snow plow, and a frame were purchased for the department under items for capital outlay.

Wire Inspector and Fire Alarm Supervisor

James V. Thompson

Fire Alarm

During the past summer all Fire Alarm boxes were recoded. At present a major changeover is in process on the main cable on Summer Street as a result of the widening of the street and the installation of sidewalks. This year we had no outage on the fire alarm system nor did the recent "blackout" interfere with the fire alarm service.

Wire Department

261 wiring permits were issued entailing over 650 inspections. The new high school was inspected and recommended changes were completed by the contractor. There were several rejections made during the year which were corrected and passed.

Board of Appeals

Glen R. Smith, Chairman

The Board of Appeals currently meets in the Public Hearing Room of the Town Hall on the first Tuesday of each month to act on all cases submitted four weeks or more prior to the hearing date.

The Board of Appeals acted on thirty-two cases in the year 1965, disposing of them as follows:

1 case withdrawn by petitioner
5 cases denied
1 case denied by default
18 cases unconditionally granted
6 cases granted with suitable conditions imposed
1 case continued to 1/4/66

Procedural rules and all decisions of the Board are a matter of public record on file with the Town Clerk. Any person aggrieved by a decision of the Board is entitled to appeal to the Superior Court within 20 days of the filing of the decision.

Park and Cemetery Commission

James Thompson

The Park and Cemetery Commission welcomed a new member this year, A. David Rodham, who was elected at the 1965 Annual Town Election. Mr. Rodham was nominated and voted as Secretary of the Commission; J. V. Thompson voted Chairman. The Board accepted with regret the resignation of Raymond Pearson and voted Mr. Samuel Caldwell to succeed Mr. Pearson for the balance of the term.

A temporary Pony League field was laid out at Newhall Park — also provisions have been made here for Soccer to be played by the local high school this year — a sport which is rapidly becoming very popular here in Lynnfield. This year repairs were made to the walls of all our older cemeteries . . . also in Forest Hill and Willow cemeteries. Additional work of this type is planned for 1966 using monies available in the Sale of Lots Fund (the monies from this Fund can be used solely for the upkeep and improvement of cemeteries). New roofs have been installed on both Willow and Forest Hill cemetery tool sheds. Our tennis courts received a great amount of play this year because the new lighting system proved very successful. A new Deed Book was purchased this year to replace the Books for Willow and Forest Hill Cemeteries — these books dated back to 1856.

Board of Registrars

The Board of Registrars held two official registration periods in 1964, plus almost continuous registration by the Clerk in the Town Hall. The State Census taken as of January 1, 1964 showed a population of 9821.

Young men and women reaching age 21 should register as voters; also, those moving within the town are advised to notify the Clerk. Registered female voters who have married during the year should re-register promptly.

Due to the resignation of William B. Murphy, Michael J. Neumann, Jr. was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Insurance Advisory Committee

The Town Insurance Committee aides in an advisory capacity to the Selectmen. Its function is to provide a source of impartial advice on the Town's Insurance Program.

The committee plans to suggest to the Selectmen that competitive bids be accepted on the Town's Insurance program on January 1, 1967. Such competitive bidding will assure the Selectmen that the program, both in cost and scope of insurance coverage is most favorable to the town.

JOHN CAREY, Chairman

Health Officer

The work of the Board of Health has been continued along the same lines as reported in 1964 with a constant determination to keep the health activity and welfare of the Town at a high level. Some of the activities are as follows:

Clinics

The annual spring clinics were held in February, March, and April for the immunization of pre-school children against diptheria, whooping cough, and tetanus. Small pox vaccinations were given, and Sabin polio vaccine for immunization against infantile paralysis. Clinics to be held in 1966 will also include measles innoculations. Clinics will be announced through the local newspapers. Mrs. Lucy Lindquist, R.N., assisted at the clinics, and has done follow-up work on cases of tuberculosis which have been reported by the State. There were no hospital cases in town this year.

Diseases

The State Department continues to require that all communicable diseases and dog bites be reported to the local board of health. It will be appreciated if the doctor in charge or the family concerned report same either by mail or by phone to the agent of the board of health. I am very grateful to the school nurses through whose efforts many of the diseases heretofore unlisted have been reported.

Diseases reported in 1965 numbered 317. There were 26 dog bites, one squirrel bite, one rabbit bite, one horse bite and one muskrat bite.

Rubbish and Garbage Collections

Complaints concerning these collections have been dealt with when received and steps have been taken to forestall additional problems. The new rubbish contract to be let in March will contain clauses to solve problems arising from the continued growth of the town. It should again be stressed that garbage and rubbish must be kept separate, or it will not be collected, and that garbage containers must be covered lest there be an outbreak of rodents.

GEORGE S. ROBINSON, M.D., D.O., Health Officer

Sanitarian Inspector

There were eighty-four samples of milk and cream taken at random from delivery trucks and retail stores, which were examined for compliance of State Standards on butterfat, coliform, total solids, bacterial count and phosphatase.

One hundred thirty-eight bacterial swabs were taken of eating and drinking utensils at those establishments serving food or drink.

Five complaints in regard to the quality of products were thoroughly investigated.

This department also examined samples of water from the swimming areas of Pillings Pond.

I completed an extensive course given to the Food and Drug officials by the United States Department of Public Health on emergency preparedness.

ROBERT RIMBACH, R.S., Sanitarian Inspector

Burton B. Cogswell

Veterans Services

As of January 1, 1965 there were four permanent cases on the Veterans Benefits Program. In February and March five temporary cases were added due to a labor dispute which lasted six weeks. In August three permanent cases were deleted by death and removal from town. Excess hospital and nursing home bills during the summer required the asking of $1500.00 to be Transferred from the Reserve Account.

In May of 1965 all veterans graves were inspected as in the past, and decorated by The American Legion Post No. 131, Lynnfield.

Street Lighting Committee

The Street Lighting Commission has, during 1965, been quite successful in accomplishing a few of its projects for street lighting in the Town of Lynnfield. There is still much to be done. The Committee is presently working on a Master Street Lighting Plan and it is anticipated that this Plan will be completed in a few months.

At the present time, the street lighting in various sections of Lynnfield is inadequate with respect to proper illumination, safety, and protection of property at night. It is not the intention of the Committee to light up the Town like a great "White Way", but it is the Committee's responsibility to analyze and make recommendations to the Board of Selectmen for proper lighting throughout the Town. Several recommendations have been submitted to the Board for the addition, removal, or replacement of street lights in sections of Lynnfield.

The Street Lighting Committee has, and still is, covering all sections of Lynnfield to minimize the danger of haphazard lighting in the Town. In order to achieve this goal, the Committee spends many evening hours driving around the Town to investigate complaints of numerous types with respect to street lighting.

RANDOLPH DOYER, Chairman

Elizabeth Kenney, Director

Board of Public Assistance

The various programs of assistance have continued to be carried on by this department: General Relief, Old Age Assistance, Medical Assistance for the Aged, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, and Disability Assistance. The high cost of medical care has caused more and more people to take advantage of the Kerr-Mills bill which was passed in 1960 and known as MAA or Medical Assistance for the Aged.

Tree Warden and Moth Superintendent

Gustav H. Koch

A year of hope but a year of eventual disappointment characterizes the operation of the Tree and Moth Department for 1965. Entering the year with a rainfall deficit accumulated from previous seasons a shortage of more than 17 inches was our misfortune in the past year. New plantings made by the department were watered weekly and I believe most will come through.

Essex County Mosquito Control Program will start actively in 1966. It will take several years to fully implement the undertaking and eventually will replace local efforts.

Our usual tree planting and replacement program was carried on and in addition 1000 red and white pine seedlings were planted in various locations to cover barren spots and reforestation projects.

A new truck was purchased during the year and our basic equipment is in excellent condition.

Inspector of Animals

With no dairy animals left in our town and only a few sheep and riding horses left, our main concern has been man's best friend "the dog". With one animal to every 2½ homes we, as a town, are well protected. A rabies clinic is conducted by the Board of Health, generally in October, booster shots are administered for a nominal fee and advantage should be taken of this service.

GUSTAV H. KOCH, Inspector of Animals

Sealer of Weights and Measures

The department of Weights and Measures serves a dual purpose, to protect the consumer from inaccurate measuring devices and a check on prepackaged merchandise. Also to insure the accuracy of the vendors equipment against both short measure and overages. Fees that are set by the Commonwealth were increased this year and the Department is more self supporting.

GUSTAV H. KOCH, Sealer of Weights and Measures

Dog Officer

Sanborn A. Caldwell

For the period of March 31, 1965 to January 19, 1966, 990 dogs have been licensed.

A total of 8 dogs were picked up and humanely destroyed. Homes were found for 11 dogs. 79 dogs were picked up and returned to their rightful owners.

21 dead dogs were picked up on State and Town highways.

All dogs three months or older must be licensed by the owner as of March 31st each year and must wear a license on collar or harness, and, if possible a Rabies' tag. These tags are means of returning lost dogs to their owners.

Rabies clinics are conducted at the Centre Fire Station each Spring. The date will be announced.

Plumbing and Cesspool Inspector

Forrest W. Howard

One hundred twenty-one (121) plumbing permits were issued, and after installations, inspections were made.

One hundred twenty-three (123) cesspool permits were issued, and upon completion, inspections were made.

Forty-three (43) cesspool complaints were investigated and corrective measures were instituted.

Building Inspector

Roger Harris

New dwelling starts increased by thirteen percent as compared to the three previous consecutive years.

The issuance of Permits for dwelling improvements and additions continued to remain high.

The most noteworthy non-dwelling units were the start and completion of a medical building in Post Office Square and the start of a church on Grove Street.

This year marks the completion of the new Lynnfield Senior High School on Essex Street.

Permits issued for 1965 were:

Dwelling improvements	98

Demolish dwellings	3
Demolish sheds, barns, etc.	8
Swimming pools	5
Commercial improvements	8

New Municipal Land Acquisition Committee

Colby Burbank, Jr., John E. Harriss, Chairman;
Clifton E. Hodgdon

This Committee was appointed by the Selectmen on August 12, 1965 to investigate more fully a proposal made that the Town acquire for future use certain properties adjacent to the Town Hall.

The matter is still under investigation to determine future needs. The owners of the property in question have allowed access to their land which has given knowledge of the topography and building areas.

The committee, through the Selectmen, was granted a sum of $1100 to obtain professional advice as to expected population trends and future needs of the community. The firm of Shurcliff & Merrill is now working on this survey.

Wage Study Committee

In accordance with the by-laws, this Committee has prepared a Wage/Rate structure which met with the general approval of the Finance Committee and many other affected agencies and departments.

During the year members of this Committee were available to any person or organization in the Town desiring more information on our work — believing that an informed electorate can be trusted to make the right decisions.

OWEN E. APPLIN, Chairman

Conservation Commission

Robert C. Rourke, Chairman

The Commission with the approval of the Board of Selectmen has acquired by purchase from Richard B. and Lila B. Learnard for the Town of Lynnfield thirteen acres of land in Reedy Meadow. This acquisition brings up to about forty acres held by the Town in Reedy Meadow for conservation purposes.

The Board of Selectmen at the request of the Commission placed in its custody a parcel of land containing nine or more acres located to the west of Main Street and to the north of Sagamore Golf Club and another parcel of land of about nine acres bordering on and extending under Pillings Pond, said parcels having been acquired through foreclosures for unpaid taxes.

Members of the Commission have interviewed the owners of various parcels of land within the Town of Lynnfield which would be desirable for conservation purposes.

Mr. George S. Burnett resigned from the Commission due to his acceptance of employment in Vermont.

Mrs. Ruth Oliver and Mr. Clifton E. Hodgdon were re-appointed and Mr. Bennett R. Keenan was appointed to the Commission (each for a term of three years) by the Board of Selectmen.

The Commission attended hearings on the removal of shade trees located within the bounds of the highways which resulted in some of the trees being saved.

Planning Board

The growth pattern of Lynnfield, as reflected by the establishment of new subdivisions, has remained at a high level during 1965.

Year	No. of Subdivisions Approved	No. of House Lots Approved	Aggregate Length of New Streets Approved
1961	6	120	12,165 ft.
1962	1	19	1,240 ft.
1963	1	3	190 ft.
1965	5	76	8,450 ft.

At the 1965 Annual Town Meeting, the Town adopted Flood Plain Zoning, as introduced by the Planning Board. Under this new zoning, the use of certain land areas of low elevation which are subject to seasonal or periodic flooding, has been restricted to purposes consistent with the protection of the health and safety of the people using the area.

It has long been the opinion of the Planning Board that the majority of Lynnfield citizens desire the Town to retain its essentially residential character. This belief was strengthened when, at several prior Town meetings, the voters refused to enlarge Commercial Districts, or permit a motel on Route 128, even though the Planning Board recommended adoption of the articles involved.

This year, the Town gave the appearance of the opposite opinion when it refused to act on the matter of golf course lighting. With the absence of recent objections from property holders near the several golf courses in town, it is probable that townspeople saw no evidence of incursion of residential property rights, so their action was consistent with the past.

In order to verify this opinion, the Board is repeating the following "Statement of Principles Applicable to Zoning", and welcomes comment on this matter:

1. The Town of Lynnfield is by choice of its residents basically residential and all zoning should recognize and be compatible with this fact.

2. Zoning must be consistent with sound overall planning. All zoning should conform to the Master Plan in effect in the Town, or if there are sound reasons why the Master Plan no longer applies, then modification of the Plan should be made and the zoning of the Town should conform to the modified overall plan.

3. The proper purposes of zoning are not primarily financial. These purposes include the establishment and preservation of residential neighborhoods, the establishment of necessary service facilities for the neighborhoods, the preservation of certain amenities for the residents of the Town, and the preservation of certain sanitary considerations.

4. Zoning ordinances should be of enduring quality and should only be altered for extremely good reasons — always by an Annual Town Meeting and in accordance with the regular procedure for the adoption of changes in Town By-Laws as outlined in the General Laws of the Commonwealth.

During the year, Mr. Richard R. Wolsey resigned because of pressure of business interests. Mr. Colby L. Burbank, Jr. was appointed to serve until the next annual election. Mr. Howard A. Bouve, Jr. was re-elected for a second five-year term at the 1965 annual election.

The Board of Lynnfield Library Trustees reports continued progress in the very important educational area of library work. A handbook compiled for the use of teachers was the first result of a School-Library Liaison Committee formed last Spring. This committee consists of the Head Librarian, Chairman of the Board of Library Trustees, the superintendent of schools, principals of the elementary and secondary schools, and the school librarians. The purpose of the committee is to improve school and public library service in the community. Four meetings were held during the year.

The library handbook for teachers has resulted in greater cooperation between the teachers and the public library and in much increased student use of the library, where collections of books for special assignments are put on reserve at the request of the teachers. This handbook is receiving national attention and requests for it have been received from as far away as Oregon.

The summer reading program again proved highly successful, with over 700 children participating, and 500 receiving certificates for completing the program. Each class in the elementary schools, both public and parochial, was personally visited before the close of school in June, in connection with this program which was sponsored by the Friends of the Lynnfield Library. Children entitled to certificates were feted at a party at the Huckleberry Hill School.

In November, each of the sixth grades in the public schools attended a lecture and demonstration on finding research materials and using them to the best advantage. Four of these classes returned to the library to work on pupil specialties under the supervision of the teacher and the librarian. This year; for the first time, pupils from each of the fourth grades came to the library for instruction in the Dewey Decimal System and the use of the card catalog.

A staff meeting has been held each month with instruction and workshop practice in various phases of library science.

The four local garden clubs have made the Green Library and the Branch Library attractive with arrangements and displays.

The Friends of the Lynnfield Library Group has continued to give invaluable assistance, sponsoring, besides the summer reading program, a bookmending class for elementary and parochial school P.T.A. members. The winter series of morning lectures has continued to be very popular. A gift of money was given to purchase books.

The giving of memorial books is increasingly popular. This year, several have been received, in memory of Jeanne Pearson, Lance Chadwell, Robert Goring, Viola Brattin, and Jason Lack. A youth table was also given in memory of Miss Pearson.

In February, a state grant of $2,099.50 towards library services was received by the town, based on the 1960 census, at 25c per capita. To receive this grant, standards set by the state must be maintained. Higher standards will be required when the population of the town reaches 10,000.

It was necessary to purchase additional book stacks for the Green Library, causing a reduction of the number of books in the reference area. With the increase of student use, the Library Trustees anticipate further reduction of study areas.

Senior High School Building Committee

Construction work on the new Senior High School building on Essex Street continued until late in August, 1965. Tile work, painting and the installation of heating, ventilating, plumbing and electrical fixtures comprised the major portion of this work.

Early in January the Committee commenced the work of selecting and arranging for purchase and installation of the many items of furniture and teaching equipment necessary for this complex school plant. Invaluable aid in this undertaking was provided by the School Department.

Due to the dry summer, work on final landscaping was not undertaken until fall. Partial finish grading was done in September and loaming and seeding in October. It is expected to finish this work in the spring of 1966.

With the opening of school on September 9, the building commenced to serve the purpose for which it was designed and on October 24 it was formally turned over to the School Department at a simple dedication ceremony. Open House was also held that afternoon at which an estimated one thousand persons inspected the new facilities.

As the year comes to a close, work of correcting minor faults and making necessary adjustments continues. There remain a few concluding details before the project can be called completed. The Committee expects, however, to wind up its affairs sometime in the first half of 1966, having completed well over four years of service.

WALTER H. KUESTENMACHER, Chairman

School Plant Needs Committee

During 1965, the School Plant Needs Committee carried out its annual review of school enrollment trends and restudied its previous forecast of the future need for new facilities. An updating of the projections made in 1964 indicated that a principal conclusion stated in last year's report was still valid — namely, that additional elementary school space will probably be required in the fall of 1971. Details of this study have been placed on file in the Elizabeth W. Green Library as a supplement to the 1964 committee report.

The Shurcliff and Merrill estimate of future town growth under existing zoning laws, made for the Municipal Land Acquisition Committee, indicates that the maximum population could be 15% higher than that shown in the 1960 Benjamin Report. Such a possibility extends the upper limits of the ranges previously given for the estimated maximum future enrollments in our elementary and secondary schools. This increases the likelihood that Lynnfield will eventually require additional elementary capacity beyond that practical by the expansion of the Summer St., Huckleberry Hill, and South Schools.

The Committee has the responsibility of locating building sites consistant with requirements recommended by the School Plant Needs Committee. In analyzing sites, consideration must be given to availability, size, land cost, sewage disposal, and possible construction problems.

The Committee recognizes that careful planning requires current attention to future needs. With this in mind, several possible sites have been considered.

School Committee

This year there have been many important changes in the School Department.

Due to the keen interest in education of the citizens of the town and the diligent work of the Building Committee, we have our new high school. With our new facilities, we are able to give our students full educational value and a normal school day. We can be proud of the scholastic achievement attained by our students, and of the excellent efforts of our staff while working under more adverse conditions.

This year the School Committee had many vacancies to fill. Working with Dr. Herold Hunt, of the Harvard School of Education, it was our pleasure to name Mr. Bernard A. Huntley our new superintendent of schools upon the retirement of Dr. John A. Redmond. The vacancies in the high school administration were filled by the appointment of Mr. Henry F. Cotton as principal, and Mr. Roy E. Harbour as assistant principal. Mr. Leonard Nihan was named principal of the Junior High School.

The Committee is grateful for the interest that the people of Lynnfield continue to show in the operation and development of our schools.

The more detailed aspects of this report will be discussed in the succeeding reports.

RICHARD D. MORROW, Chairman

Superintendent's Report

Bernard A. Huntley
Superintendent of Schools

The chief concern of responsible school administration is that of providing continued improvement in the quality of the educational program being provided in the community. Quality in an educational sense is dependent upon a great many inter-related factors such as curriculum content, the skill and training of the professional staff, the physical facilities for learning, the selection and amount of instructional materials, and the wise integration of such resources. The year 1965 reflects a continued concern on the part of those responsible for public education in Lynnfield. The individual reports from the various schools and special departments demonstrate this concern of providing expanded learning opportunities for our young citizens and of further up-grading the existing program.

The opening of our new high school, along with cessation of double sessions, represents the most significant development of the year on the educational scene. The chief conclusion which might be drawn from this school expansion is that it provides tangible evidence of the interest of the citizens of Lynnfield in providing greater educational opportunity for their youth.

Another development related to the opening of the new high school is that we now have a full junior high school functioning as an independent administrative unit. This arrangement permits every opportunity for establishing a program geared fully to the differing educational and social needs of this age group. The growing sense of self-identity on the part of the junior high school student body is being observed and encouraged with interest.

It may be well to review several items of general interest which help to describe the full scope of the present school program:

Enrollment Staff. There are approximately 2,475 pupils presently enrolled in the Lynnfield schools. A staff of 114 classroom teachers. There are 17 specialists who provide services in the areas of guidance, speech therapy, reading, music, art, physical education, library, audio-visual aids. Private instruction is provided for those who are confined at home. Seven full-time administrators and 1 part-time assistant serve to coordinate and guide the efforts of these groups.

School Housing. At the present time two third grade classes from the Center School are housed in the Junior High School. Additional space in this building will be utilized to accommodate expected increases in the near future. It is anticipated that further expansion of school facilities may be required by the end of the present decade. It is not too early to anticipate the establishment of a public kindergarten program in Lynnfield. The educational value of kindergarten training is obvious to parents and teachers, and is clearly reflected in appropriate research efforts. The fact that if the recommendations of the Massachusetts Education Commission (the Harrington-Willis Report) are fully implemented, kindergarten education will become a mandatory part of public school programs throughout the Commonwealth.

Curriculum Development. Department heads, specialists, administrators, and committees of teachers share responsibility in providing for the continued revision and development of our school curriculum. Your superintendent has requested sufficient funds under the new budget to provide a summer workshop for in-depth study and curriculum development to meet future demands.

Professional Staff. Lynnfield is served by a highly trained and experienced professional staff. Participation in advanced training efforts during the school year as well as during the summer period continues to be high, with close to 50% of all professional personnel having earned advanced degrees beyond the four year college level. Teacher turn-over is relatively low at 9% Every effort is made to secure the services of the finest staff possible.

Student Achievement. Our Lynnfield pupils continue to maintain an impressive academic record as measured by standardized achievement tests, performance in our schools, and accomplishments of our graduates in institutions of higher learning. These qualities of our school program as well as of our student body, represent concrete accomplishment. It is important to note that they do not provide us with the answer as to what "might have been" as a result of improved programs. There is no room for self-satisfaction when we are dealing with the future well being of our young people.

Libraries. To meet the needs of a modern school program, pupils must be enabled to go far beyond the basic text to a wide range of instructional materials to acquire the knowledge, skills, and understandings needed in today's world. While our school libraries have made notable strides in recent years, continued emphasis and growth are necessary before our library services may be considered fully adequate.

Federal Aid. The Federal government is extending aid to schools and Lynnfield has been alert to capitalize on those provisions which are appropriate to our situation and need. During the past school year we have obtained over $50,000 in matching funds from the Federal government, most of which was granted on the basis of the facilities established at the new high school. These funds were authorized for such diverse purchases as language laboratories, science equipment of all types, library books, and a great variety of audio-visual materials. An additional $700 was obtained for publications and testing materials in the guidance area.

Adult Education. Evening courses representing a wide range of academic and avocational interests have been offered throughout the year. This program has functioned on a self-sustaining basis through a modest tuition charge and will continue to be provided in response to local interest and support.

Psychological Services. We are continuing to utilize the contracted services of the Child Guidance Center of Greater Lynn, in coordination with our own guidance program. This service provides for the direct assistance of a child psychologist in our schools for four hours weekly, while additional services are provided through referrals to the Center in Lynn.

Summer School. A summer school program is provided on a minimal tuition basis to students who have a special need or who wish to extend their education by this means. A total of 265 students received the benefit of six weeks additional education in twelve different subject areas through this program.

These provisions represent a commitment to quality education on the part of all elected as well as appointed personnel. Our obligation to today's young people is as sobering in the degree of its vital importance as it is complex in its fulfillment.

I would like to share, in conclusion, a statement made by Sterling McMurrin, former United States Commissioner of Education, which seems particularly eloquent in describing the fundamental purposes which underly all of our efforts and responsibilities:

> "So when the question is asked, what is the purpose of education, what are its ends, to what are the commitment and energies of our schools properly directed, the answer must be sought across the total spectrum of human interest, experience and value. It concerns first the well being of the individual student . . . But it concerns as well the strength of the Nation . . . And it concerns the quality of the culture . . . The question of education is nothing less than the question of how we are to achieve and preserve a genuinely free society in which men are authentic persons who are masters rather than slaves of the forces that shape their world and where there is a culture in which the spirit of man can flourish freely and whose vitality is not a threat of decline and disintegration but promises a future of even greater achievement."*

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Henry F. Cotton, Principal

Secondary education in Lynnfield made a great stride forward in 1965 with the opening of the senior high school on Essex Street. The completion of this facility enabled the community to end its double session program and to move into its 6-3-3 grade arrangement with the knowledge that all of the children were equipped with outstanding facilities.

The community can take pride in the fact that during the difficult years of double sessions the quality of education offered suffered only slightly, if at all, due to the splendid cooperation of teachers, students and parents. This fact is substantiated by the achievements of the class of 1965 that graduated one hundred and seventy-seven strong in June of this year. Eighty-five percent of this class chose to continue their education in institutions of higher learning while the other 15% divided their choices between private employment and the armed services.

With the opening of our new high school a number of new programs have been established which will add significantly to the previously established high quality of our educational program.

Particular emphasis is being placed on our student leadership program. Four students were selected to attend the Student Leadership program at Syracuse University this past August. An Honor Pass system for students receiving academic honors was established and the Student Marshal program was strengthened. The Student Council has been given considerable authority and is working very closely with the administration for the improvement of student responsibility and morale. We were particularly pleased with the growth of our American Field Service program and very proud of Miss Jeanne Walter who spent the summer as an A.F.S. student in Turkey, and Miss Martha Rich who is presently representing Lynnfield as an A.F.S. student in Stuttgart, Germany.

Study group in new high school library.

Our academic program has profited a great deal from the hard work of our department heads who are constantly appraising and implementing our curriculum needs.

The effect of our new building with its excellent laboratory and library facilities is already paying dividends as first-quarter report cards show over 25% of the senior class with honor grade averages.

The introduction of data processing to the parental reporting and school record keeping aspect of our administrative function has meant a great deal to us as we are now able to process grades and records more efficiently.

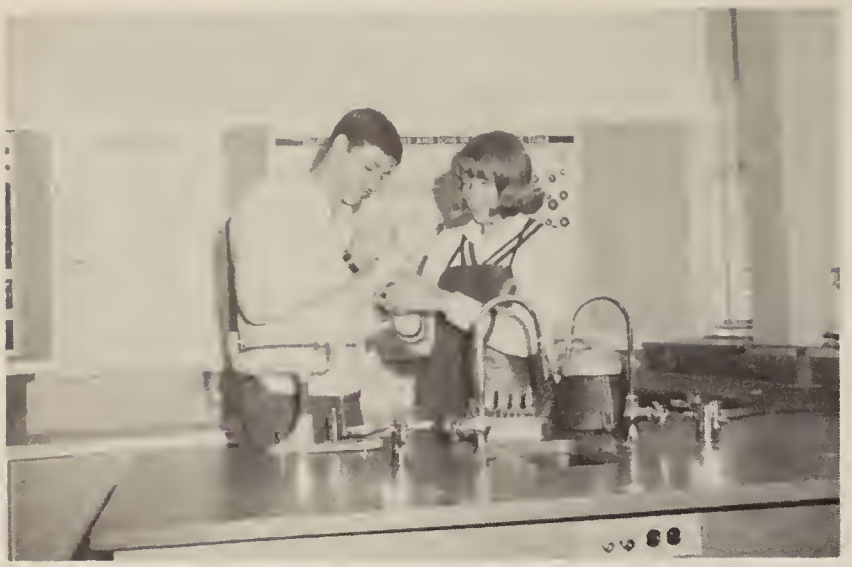
We feel indeed fortunate that 95% of our staff returned to take up their posts in the new building, and that only 4 of our staff are new to the Senior High School. The hard work and dedication of the teaching staff is no small part of the reason why we face the future with optimism, confident that we can and will provide each Lynnfield youngster with the opportunity to fulfill his educational potential, secure in the knowledge that his preparation is of the highest order.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Leonard Nihan, Principal

The establishment of a Junior High has meant the end of the following: two or more students to a locker, the use of the gymnasium as a mass home room, transportation difficulties, limited class time, and only one activity. The increase this year in the length of periods is equivalent to an additional day of school each week for major academic areas. Minor subjects such as physical education, shop, art, and home economics have benefited by the increase in time for instruction.

The Junior High program of activities has been expanded to include programs in art, audio-visual, camera, gym, science, sewing and shop; the Junior High chorus has been re-activated.



High School science facilities.

An intramural athletic program for both boys and girls is held three times weekly at the close of school.

This year, as always, attempts are being made to strengthen individual areas. One cannot itemize all of them but attention might be drawn to: greater emphasis in the English Department to aid the slow-reading student, foundry work added to the ninth grade metal course, and science laboratory studies enriched through the use of facilities that were formerly used by high school students. The new thirty position language laboratory has been invaluable to the study of French at the Junior High level.

Initially the ninth grade class was disappointed in not starting at the new High School. However, being "Seniors" at the Junior High School has given both boys and girls an opportunity of becoming school leaders through participation in the Student Council, the newspaper, the band, various other activities, and the athletic programs. While functioning as a separate entity in many ways, in the academic area the Junior High is and must continue to be closely coordinated with the High School. High School department chairmen have curriculum responsibilities that extend from grades seven through twelve. Coordinators have been appointed at the Junior High School in each of the major subject areas to work closely with department chairmen. Such inter-school organization assures Lynnfield students of an articulated Junior-Senior high school program.

Dr. Nancy C. Santeusanio

Center School is a primary building and houses four first grade classrooms, four second grades, two third grades, with two additional third grades housed in the Junior High School. One hundred nineteen children are presently enrolled in grade one.

All subjects are taught in a self-contained classroom with the exception of mathematics in grades one and two. Adjustments for learning are made within the self-contained classroom through grouping practices and different patterns of classroom organization. The Center School staff believes in a philosophy of continuous growth, provision for individual differences and teaching adjusted to the individual growth pattern of the child.

During this past year the teachers have worked to build self-directing materials in reading to give the pupils an opportunity to reinforce a particular skill through the selection of appropriate materials.

Innovations in the social studies program were made under the direction of Mr. Charles Wolski and the committee for curriculum revision.

Three teachers participated in a science workshop directed by Mr. Gilbert Bulley. New thinking in the science area stresses the importance of science-by-doing rather than science through textbook teaching only.

Under the direction of Mr. Robert Cox, audio-visual director, more teachers are making use of audio-visual equipment as a tool for teaching. There has been a heavy demand on the opaque projector and the new overhead projector even at the primary level.

During the three years of operation the Mildreth Parkhurst Rourke Memorial Library has tripled in number of volumes. The library is open every morning and is staffed by volunteers.

Center School is geared to the best possible use of its facilities, staff, and teaching materials with one purpose in mind — a high quality of education aimed toward the needs and differences of the children it serves.

SUMMER STREET SCHOOL

George E. Caswell, Principal

The Summer Street School has four classrooms each of grades four, five, and six which serve 350 children.

The School is committed to providing for individual differences and our work in curriculum content and instructional activities predicates this philosophy. Our School provides learning opportunities in flexible ways ranging from whole class activities, through ability, interest and discussion groups, to self-instruction. We employ a wide variety of instructional techniques and materials. We also plan for continuous curriculum revision along with serious study and concern for the individual student.

In social studies this year we have new units of work, new textbooks and additional supplementary materials. In the language arts area we have stimulated children's writings, partly because of the acquisition of a new creative writing skills kit. Our mathematics program has progressed to newer materials that create better understanding of mathematic principles. New science kits have added enthusiasm and substance. Our Library continues to grow through support of the town and Parent Teacher Association.

An opportunity for each child to develop as a unique person continues to be our foremost goal.

HUCKLEBERRY HILL SCHOOL

Gilbert F. Bulley, Principal

The Huckleberry Hill School contains all elementary grade levels plus a special class for educable youngsters, and serves over 345 students.

High cooperation between pupils, parents, and teachers is noticeable. During American Education week over 175 interested parents visited the School. Over the period of the school year many varied types of programs were enjoyed by students and parents.

The P.T.A. has had an active year. The help given in the school library area, by volunteer workers and contributions, is highly appreciated.

During the past year many new ideas were explored within the various curriculum areas. The overhead projector was used by many teachers for the first time and this machine could well be one of the most valuable educational tools for all grade levels. The new mathematics and social studies programs are giving the classrooms a new look. Plans were made by a curriculum committee to strengthen the science program with new materials and equipment.

This year a change was made in the organizational pattern of sixth graders. Four teachers instructed in one of the following subjects — reading, mathematics, English and a combination of social studies and science. The program is now in its second year and a complete evaluation is being planned.

The elementary school continues to improve and strengthen the various curriculum areas. Within the school structure it is a task and a challenge to educate children to become responsible American citizens. As educators we strive to achieve this goal so that our students will be prepared to meet any challenge.

SOUTH SCHOOL

Charles A. Wolski, Principal

South School has continued to place a strong emphasis upon building a closer relationship between home and school. We pride ourselves in that frequent P.T.A. conferences are held during the course of the year.

The principal received full cooperation from the P.T.A. when he recommended a centralized library. This organization financed the project while volunteer mothers accomplished the task. This is our crowning achievement.

Our program of studies, which is frequently revised, emphasizes the common needs in up-to-date curriculum. Teaching materials and courses provide for the common as well as the individual educational needs. The program of studies is flexible enough to allow for improvements and new developments and is constantly being evaluated.

In addition to the regular classroom experiences, South School provides co-curricular activities, characterized by more student freedom in the classroom, stimulating student initiative and interest. This program is enthusiastically supported by pupils and teachers.

GUIDANCE

William J. Coughlin, Director

For the purpose of evaluation of our educational efforts, the Guidance Department has conducted a survey of each senior class since the first in 1960, one year after graduation.

Over the five years 613 students have graduated with 547 (90%) returning questionnaires showing their training and employment. 80% continued with formal schooling; while 20% were directly employed, married or in military service, 48% attended 4-year colleges and 32% entered junior colleges, nursing schools, private preparatory schools, business and secretarial schools, and technical or trade schools.

A further study of the first graduating class (1960) indicated their progress after five years. An 81% return of questionnaires showed 36% of the graduates completed training at junior colleges, nursing schools, business and secretarial schools and trade or technical schools. 41% have graduated or are still attending a college or university.

Of 44 graduates who entered a 4-year college, 28 have graduated with a Bachelor of Science or a Bachelor of Arts degree from 27 different colleges representing 11 different professional areas. Other fields include research, law, psychology, language, sociology and writing. Thirteen are still matriculating at college, all predict successful completion of their degree programs.

Three graduates who entered college did not meet minimum requirements and are not presently attending college — far less than the national norm "drop-out" rate.

Eighteen of the 28 persons who earned Bachelor degrees are presently working full time for a Master's degree. Of the remaining 10, 2 indicated part-time schooling for an advanced degree.

Forty-eight of the graduates are presently employed, 9 are service men and the remaining 21 are full-time housewives.

MUSIC

Michael E. Cooney, Jr., Director

For the past several years, each September has brought about significant changes necessitated by double sessions and overcrowding of facilities, while others were experiments, to some degree, in achieving balance in music education. 1965 is a banner year in that for the first time in many years, all phases of basic music (instrumental and vocal) are scheduled in the school day and a full-time vocal specialist has been added to the staff.

In the Elementary school the musical program is directed by a vocal specialist and the instrumental program is introduced at the 5th and 6th grade levels.

The development of the Junior High program since September has been gratifying. This year there is a choral program and the popularity of the band program is evidenced by the participation of 110 players. The success of our High School program is dependent on the program in Junior High.

Also scheduled in this program is a course in general music for all seventh grades in the hope that interest will be stimulated for an elective course of this type in the eighth grade.

Our greatest asset, second only to the performances of our pupils, is the wonderful facilities at the new High School on Essex Street where everything physically possible has been provided for the musical development of the students. Although the groups are smaller due to the exclusion of ninth grades in the High School program, the quality continues to be up-graded as is indicated in our State and New England record. Seventeen students participated in District All-State and 15 were chosen for the All-New England Concert Festival in Nashua, New Hampshire.

The list of school musical organizations now active follows:

High School: Marching Band and Symphonic Band, Mixed Chorus, Madrigal Group, A Cappella Choir, Woodwind Quintet, Brass Choir, Stage Band.

Junior High School: Band, Brass Ensemble, Woodwind Group, Dance Band, Mixed Chorus, Boys Vocal Ensemble.

Elementary: Elementary Band, Pre-Band Instrumental Ensemble.

ATHLETICS

Allan R. Perry, Coordinator

In 1965 because of the change in the junior high-senior high housing, freshman hockey was substituted for junior varsity hockey. An intramural program has been initiated at the Junior High School to include seventh, eighth, and ninth grade girls.

Double sessions and the subsequent return to a single schedule caused several coaching changes.

There were several changes in the Dual County League, of which Lynnfield is a member in all sports.

The number of players in each sport remained about the same as in previous years, except that the number of boys playing freshman athletics increased by about 30% over the average for previous years.

Total participation in interscholastic athletics at the High School level amounted to between 18 and 25% of the total student body each season in 1965. About 50% of the student body participated in at least one sport during 1965.

AUDIO-VISUAL PROGRAM

Robert A. Cox, Coordinator

Lynnfield Schools have taken a long forward step in their Audio-Visual program with the introduction of a graphic arts center at the new senior high school.

This center provides a much needed service to the staff and is capable of producing overhead projectuals, duplicate copies, spirit duplicator masters, previewing facilities for staff members and, also, it serves as a central distribution point for Audio-Visual equipment, services, and materials throughout the entire system. There is constant liaison between all principals and staffs and the department.

A course in the preparation and use of Audio-Visual equipment and materials will be offered to teachers on a volunteer basis with in-service credits given for successful completion.

HEALTH SERVICE

Mrs. Romanchuk, Mrs. Lyon, Mrs. Burnham, School Nurses

The school health program continues to carry out its two main objectives, the health appraisal of each student and promotion of health education within the student body and among faculty members. The three school nurses are on duty throughout the entire school day and attend to all cases of sickness and accident which occur during that time.

The nurses conduct screening programs in vision and hearing, and administer the Tine test for tuberculosis. A yearly record of height and weight is kept on all pupils. Sports physicals at the secondary level and routine physical examinations are given by the school physician, Dr. Charles A. Worthen, assisted by the school nurses. Parents are notified of defects requiring attention and nurses visit homes where necessary.

Despite problems of double sessions at the secondary level during the first part of the year, the regular program of tests and examinations was maintained.

In February all elementary teachers attended an in-service program under the auspices of the Epilepsy Society of Massachusetts, planned to aid teachers in understanding and management of the handicapped child within the classroom. The School Nurses District Association holds monthly meetings enabling its members to further their education and keep abreast of new methods and procedures.

ELEMENTARY ART

Mrs. Gladys H. Goodwin, Art Supervisor

Lynnfield is a growing community which means an expanding school system. In September 1965 an elementary unit of two third grades was established in the Junior High building, making five buildings in which the Art Supervisor meets pupils and teachers.

Continuing its custom the Art Department participated in the P.T.A. program. Huckleberry Hill School teachers and pupils, under the guidance of the Art Supervisor, held an art workshop for children of grades One through Six. An exhibition of work of all grades in various media was presented and explained by the Art Supervisor.

The art program is geared to develop skills that can be used in daily life. Each child is growing in appreciation through visual aids as well as gaining dexterity by use of skills.

SPEECH THERAPY

Mrs. Louise A. Redican, Speech Therapist

Tests given to all first grade pupils and those new to our system at the elementary level showed 92 children in need of speech therapy. Work was continued with 70 cases held over from the previous school year, and 62 were dismissed from the program during 1965.

Conferences are held in October in conjunction with the regular parent-teacher meetings. Every child in the program receives weekly take-home practice work during the school year. Severe cases are taken twice weekly for half-hour periods; others receive help once a week depending on need. Pupils dismissed from group therapy are observed by the therapist in regular classrooms for carry-over ability. Coordination with parents is maintained as needed.

The Speech Therapy program continues to provide training and corrective therapy for pupils who demonstrate special need of assistance.

ELEMENTARY READING

Mrs. Frances H. Carpenter

When a person has learned to read well he has acquired the most valuable tool of his lifetime. If we had to choose a single skill to teach it most surely would be reading.

Every effort is made to teach each child in Lynnfield to read as well as he can. Almost every child reads at grade level and scores well above grade level on national standardized tests. A few pupils are taught in small groups or individually by the consultant. Most are given specific instruction for a short time to prevent possible disability. Individual needs are met in the classroom through grouping techniques and use of special materials. Often the consultant works in the classroom with the teacher.

Several teachers' workshops have been conducted for preparation of self-directing materials for the practice of reading skills. Problems were discussed and ideas shared. Pupil interest and use of the materials have proved them valuable. Workshops are now in progress in techniques for vocabulary development and comprehension, and new methods for practice in oral reading.

Our experience is that children learn best with a variety of programs and materials, basal textbooks are supplemented by an individualized reading program using library books, skills-building projects with multi-level and special study skills materials. Reading is also taught as part of science, social studies and mathematic lessons.

Elementary schools conduct summer classes in reading. Pupils with reading weaknesses are encouraged to attend, as this often gives additional help needed to keep up with their classes or to prevent loss of skills during the summer.

Wide use by children of school and public libraries attests to their interest and ability in reading. The summer reading program in the public libraries definitely contributes in stimulating a continuing interest for many children.

Capital Outlay Committee

In the past, the Capital Outlay Committee has restricted its activities to investigating and recommending action on items of a capital outlay nature on a year-by-year basis. This approach has led to some degree of duplication of the effort of the Finance Committee and for some time it has also been apparent that a need exists to more fully investigate all areas of town expenditures from a long range viewpoint. Accordingly, the Capital Outlay Committee, with the expressed desires of the Board of Selectmen and the Finance Committee, has re-examined its basic purpose and has redirected its efforts to long range financial planning. In keeping with its new charter, the name of the committee has been changed to the Capital Budget Committee.

The aim of the committee is to prepare a six year town budget based on past experience, current trends and future predictions and to present the budget as a guide for use by the Finance Committee and by the voters at Town Meeting. The aim of such a long range budget is to insure a stabilized tax rate, maintain a good credit rating for the town and insure a proper balance between pay-as-you-go and borrowing.

ACCOUNTANT'S CERTIFICATE

I have examined the cash receipts and securities in the various Trust Funds in the hands of the Treasurer and find them to be as stated in the Treasurer report. The income from Trust Funds in the hands of others have been received for the year 1965 and credited to the proper accounts. The receipts as reported by the Treasurer agree with the books, and that payments of the town correctly presents the financial status as of December 31, 1965. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Board of Selectmen, all Town Officers and Employees, the Town Report Committee and others who have contributed so much of their time and talent in compiling this Town Report.

THROUGH THESE DOORS

Through these doors pass the men and women who choose to be the elected and volunteer members of your town government.

For more than 150 years countless people like yourself, with the same steady devotion you give your tasks, have been going through these Town Hall doors to work and build the best-possible town in which to live and do business. You are living in that town.

This age-old devotion to others is still alive in the hearts and hands of your townsmen who, day after day and night after night, continue to go through these doors to build the best possible present and tomorrows they can for you and your children.

Think of the volunteer groups—the dozens of committees and boards—that guide this town. You couldn't name them all. You couldn't begin to pay the members for their time, their sacrifice, their service to you.

But you could begin to give them something that might mean more than pay: Your support, your encouragement, your pat on the back. Sometimes you disagree with them. Sure. But the fact that they battle as hard for their beliefs as you do for yours should signify something of great value to us all: Their dedication.

This Town Report salutes that spirit of dedication. And it salutes the people who—with your best interests at heart—carry that spirit Through These Doors.

BOARD OF SELECTMEN

ROBERT PERKINS, Chairman

Great strides were taken during the past year by the Townspeople in the acquisition of lands for the public use by present and future generations. The Hudson Farm property for Conservation purposes, the Pearson property for Municipal growth and land to the rear of the Center School for Future School needs.

In the fall of the year the voters appropriated sufficient monies to construct and equip an addition to the Green Library which is anticipated to meet the future needs for Public Library facilities. A historic first for Lynnfield was the installation underground of all utilities in a subdivision.

Your Board in its continuing concern for the welfare of what we consider to be the finest community north of Boston appointed a (1) Recreational Sites Committee charged with preparing a long range plan for (A) Land acquisition (B) A master program for recreational activities. (2) A committee to study and update the building codes.

It is our hope that the By-Law Committee which has been hard at work during the past year in the recodification of the Town By-Laws will then undertake the task of recommending changes in outdated By-Laws.

Although a full year has not been completed of the office of Administrative Assistant to the Board of Selectmen, Mr. Walter Hungerford, his availability every day at the Town Hall, has helped immeasurably in coordinating the affairs of the Board. He also consults with other Town Officers, Boards, and Committees on mutual problems. He has full responsibility for the maintenance of all municipal buildings, and acts not only as Secretary to the Board but also serves with the Finance Committee in the assimilation of data and preparation of the budgets. In the coming year he will concentrate on the streamlining of functions and control of expense.

New Appointments were made this year to the Office of Town Counsel and Building Inspector.

We would like to make special note of the resignation of two men who distinguished themselves by their untiring efforts on behalf of the Town. Mr. Ralph Howland, former Town Counsel, and Mr. Proctor Coffin, former Selectman and Chairman of the Finance Committee.

We would also like to pay tribute to the numerous unpaid citizens who have or are presently serving on Boards and Committees. Many hours have been devoted on behalf of the Town sometimes without much appreciation. We are extremely fortunate to have such competent and interested people participating in our form of government.

The strength of our way of life is determined by your interest. Voting at Town Meetings and Town, State and National Elections is our cherished privilege.

Sales upon which a tax has been paid in another jurisdiction shall also be exempt. Assessment, abatement and collection of the use tax shall be governed by the provisions which relate to the tax upon retail sales. The tax upon retail sales and the excise upon storage, use or other consumption shall be effective during the period from April 1, 1966 to December 31, 1967.

Each qualified taxpayer shall be entitled to a credit of four dollars for himself, four dollars for his spouse and eight dollars for each qualified dependent, but such credit shall not be allowed if the taxable income of such individual and his spouse exceeds five thousand dollars for the year. In addition to the taxes described above, the Act provides for new excises upon certain banks; new taxes upon the income of certain corporations; new taxes upon cigarettes a room occupancy excise upon rent paid for the use of hotel rooms and other lodging places; and excise upon sales of certain alcoholic beverages.

The Act creates the Local Aid Fund for the purpose of providing educational assistance, and authorizes the periodic distribution of amounts from such Fund to the cities and towns. In addition, the Act contains a variety of provisions relating to the program of State aid to public schools, and to its administration.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

CARL E. DAVIS, Chief

A total of 47 fase alarms plagued this department during 1966. These malicious acts cost $1776 in payroll.

"Old Lynnfield" lost two landmarks when fires of suspicious origin leveled the Smith and Ballou barns.

Mutual aid requested of surrounding towns, backed-up our all-call department during extreme emergencies and their cooperation was most appreciated.

On several occasions the response to alarms by available department personnel was less than adequate. This condition is of concern especially during normal weekday working hours.

A new Engine 4 was placed in service Feb. 16, 1966 and very much improved the department's operations.

An inadequate supply of reserve hose following several major fires proved to be a handicap and steps should be taken to add to our reserve hose inventory.

Private Archie Packard, appointed to the department Sept. 1, 1956, retired May 31, 1966 completing ten years of faithful service.

Rev. Robert W. Etzel was appointed Protestant Chaplain June 8, 1966.

The fire alarm system was extended to include several new developments.

The following roster of personnel shows our membership as of Dec. 31, 1966, and the record of alarms indicates 1966 activity.

CIVIL DEFENSE DIRECTOR

Civil Defense in Lynnfield has continued to progress in several fields of training. The Federal and State levels are continuing to concentrate on increased training of medical self help and shelter capability. Approximately 150 people, including the entire Senior High School class were taught a family personal survival course. Twenty-five Lynnfield residents completed the advanced radiological course. Due to the participation in the radiological course, Lynnfield is now eligible for 6 government equipped monitoring stations.

An additional survey for public shelter space has been completed by the Army Corps of Engineers for the town. The results are not yet available.

All units of the Civil Defense organization held regular weekly or monthly training sessions in all phases of their particular field of activity.

The purchase of citizen band radio equipment has increased the communication capability of the civil defense units. With this equipment additional coveage of the town was available for Halloween and other required services.

LAWRENCE E. AUSTIN

TOWN COUNSEL

This department has continued the practice of attending all meetings of the Board of Selectmen as well as all other board and committee meetings upon request.

In addition, numerous written rulings and opinions were rendered the various Town agencies upon written request and contracts were drawn for the conduct of the necessary business of the same.

Litigation involving the Town was instituted or defended according to the facts involved, articles for Town Meetings and appropriate motions thereunder were drawn, and land purchases and takings, street acceptances and related matters were performed in conformity with the instructions of the Town.

Deep appreciation is expressed to the Officers and interested citizens of the Town, all of whom made the transition from one Town Counsel to another with patience and who rendered necessary and welcome assistance. Particular gratitude is extended to Ralph Howland, Esquire, for his continued interest in Town affairs, his cheerful assistance and his wise counsel, all of which enabled this department to properly perform its assigned duties.

S. PETER GORSHEL

SEALER OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

The Department of Weights and Measures serves a dual purpose, basically to protect the consumer by accurate measurement and to insure correct delivery by motor fuel vendors. All deficiencies found this year were in favor of the consumer and were corrected.

SCHOOL SITE SELECTION COMMITTEE

The School Site Selection Committee devoted its efforts to the investigation of the land adjacent to the Center School for school expansion purposes. The result of this site investigation was reported at Town Meetings in the Spring and acquisition of this land was voted by the town.

Further activities of this committee will depend upon the need for future school building sites as determined by the School Plant Needs Committee and School Committee.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

Three weeks of overtime work were required to combat the snow storms of the first half of the year with major storms occurring on the weekends of January 28, February 4 and February 11. The sum of $2,890.80 was spent for overtime wages, $1,735.09 for sand, $2,279.50 for salt, $7,170.13 for hired equipment and $2,079.65 for plow blades and repairs.

Storm drains were installed on Lowell Street from the North Reading line to the intersection of Chestnut Street and the roadway was reconstructed and a bituminous surface put in place. Rossmore Road, Stillman Road, Keniston Road, Lovell Road, Bluejay Road and Carol Ann Road were rebuilt also with a bituminous surface.

Chapter 679 funds were allocated to a portion of Hart Road and Maiden Lane. These two streets were rebuilt and sidewalks were installed.

Parkwood Road and Glenwood Road were laid out by the Board of Selectmen for a width of 25 feet and 32½ feet after approval of the Planning Board, and these two streets were rebuilt.

Chapter 90 funds were used on Summer Street between Rockwood Road and Elliot Road with the street being built for a width of 30 feet and the ledge removed between Lockwood Road and Lakewood Road.

The department, at the present time, is working on a storm drain on Chestnut Street between Tophet Road and Cooks Farm Lane.

One new snow plow, one new dump truck, one new 4x4 truck and a new sidewalk asphalt spreader were bought in 1966 under Capital Outlay items by direction of the Annual Town Meeting.

Our town is still growing as evidenced by the following street mileage:

1956	45.41 miles
1958	47.15 miles
1960	50.06 miles
1962	52.60 miles
1964	54.19 miles
1966	56.62 miles

The greatest increase in miles of new streets occurred between 1953 and 1955 when we went from 32.22 miles to 43.31 miles. Since then the increase has been near one mile per year. With the increase in miles of streets, more plowing and clean-up work will be required every year, and as a result of this, the department is requesting funds for one new employee in 1967.

As a result of the vote on Article 27 of the 1966 Annual Town Meeting, a Highway Garage Building Needs Committee was appointed by the Board of Selectmen. At the present time, plans and estimates of cost are being obtained in order that an article may be inserted in the 1967 Town Meeting for funds to enlarge the present highway garage.

JAMES C. FLETCHER
Road Commissioner

INSURANCE COMMITTEE

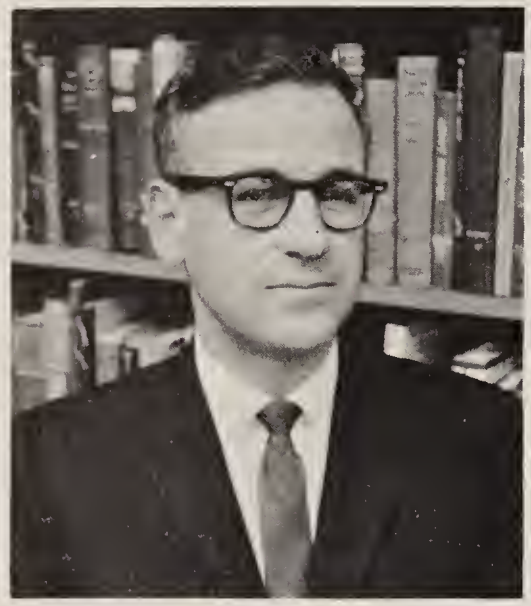
The Committee serves as an impartial source of advice to the Selectmen on matters related to the Town's insurance program. The purpose of the committee is to assist the Selectmen in developing and maintaining a program designed to protect the Town from substantial unexpected financial loss.

The principle activity of the committee during 1966 was the development of specifications for use in obtaining competitive bids on the Town's insurance program. Based on the responses received, the Insurance Advisory Committee recommended an insurance company to provide the Town's insurance for a three-year period beginning January 1, 1967.

The committee also made an extensive analysis and recommendations on insurance to protect members of the Town's volunteer fire department hurt while performing their duties.

JOHN J. CAREY, Chairman

LIBRARY BUILDING COMMITTEE



FREDERICK D. EBLE

Favorable action on articles introduced by the Board of Library Trustees at the 1966 Annual Town Meeting cleared the way for the Library Expansion Project. $200,000 was appropriated for the project — $75,000 from Available Surplus, $75,000 from the Stabilization Fund and $50,000 from a Federal Grant.

The architectural firm of Richmond and Goldberg, Boston, Massachusetts completed drawings and specifications in late July. General contract bids submitted in late August indicated that an additional $25,000 was needed to complete the project as planned.

The Special Town Meeting held October 3, 1966 voted to borrow an additionl $25,000 and a contract was executed with the Gourdeau Construction Company on October 10, 1966. Ground was broken one week later and all foundation work was completed by late November. The new building will be available for occupancy by late August 1967.

FREDERICK D. EBLE, Chairman

GAS INSPECTOR

Sixty-five (65) gas permits were issued, twenty-four more than last year (1965).

Sixty-five (65) of these gas permits were for new gas services.

RALPH PREZIUSO, Gas Inspector

SCHOOL PLANT NEEDS COMMITTEE

The pattern of school enrollment growth changed markedly from that of the previous few years. Although the Junior and Senior High totals were once again close to predcted values, elementary school enrollments exceeded our expectations by almost 80 students. The principle reason for this sudden rise was a jump in the number of children moving into town compared with the number moving out. The 1966 increase recorded due to this cause was more than four times as great as the average of similar increases recorded during the last seven years. At the same time, the recent slight downward trend in the pre-school population was reversed as an eight percent swell occurred throughout this age group.

Continuing construction of new homes gives evidence that Lynnfield is still growing. There is still enough open land in town to permit an eventual doubling of the number of homes. This means that some day we will need at least one new elementary school on an entirely new site as well as expansion at all existing locations.

A look at the immediate picture shows that our elementary school capacity is already overtaxed and that further crowding is ahead in the near future. In order to maintain present educational standards it is essential that action be initiated in the 1967 Annual Town Meeting to plan for the next step in an orderly expansion of our school facilities. Accordingly, the School Plant Needs Committee intends to recommend such action for consideration by the citizens.

ARTHUR E. FOULDS, Chairman

ANIMAL INSPECTOR

A continued decrease in our livestock population was again noticed in 1966, fewer horses and sheep with no cattle or hogs.

I wish again to call your attention to the Rabies Clinic sponsored by the Board of Health each fall and all dog owners should avail themselves of this opportunity.

GUSTAV H. KOCH, Inspector of Animals

CONSERVATION COMMISSION

ROBERT C. ROURKE, Chairman

The major activity undertaken by the Commission in 1966 was the acquisition of the Hudson Farm property for the Town of Lynnfield by the overwhelming vote of the October 3 Special Town meeting. This property, situated northwesterly of Main Street and immediately behind the Colonial Shopping Center, comprises 35 acres of excellent natural resources and watershed land. As such, it forms a part of an extensive greenbelt in Lynnfield Center of approximately 150 acres most of which is owned by the Lynnfield Center Water District. This commission hopes that the citizens of Lynnfield will make use of this, and other properties in its custody, for the benefits that land in a natural state has to offer.

Applications have been filed with the Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources for reimbursement of 50% (representing approximately $16,500) of the cost of the above property. Preliminary approval has been received and final approval looks favorable.

The Town received a check for $2,250, representing 50% of the costs of lands acquired by the Commission in 1965 and 1966.

Several Commission members worked with School Department officials in establishing a Conservation Education Program to be taught in the elementary grades. Extensive use will be made of town owned lands as natural laboratories to support the teaching of natural history, biology, ecology, and conservation. This program has been praised by officials of the Massachusetts Department of Education as an outstanding effort of townspeople and school officials.

To assist the citizens of Lynnfield in locating town owned Conservation properties and thereby to enhance their enjoyment of these lands through hiking, natural study, etc., the Commission intends to prepare a leaflet of maps, geologic characteristics, and permitted uses to be distributed to every household in 1967.

Mr. Robert C. Rourke and Mrs. Jessie Duston were reappointed to the Commission by the Selectmen for a period of three years. Mr. Carl G. Sandin was appointed at a joint meeting of the Commission and the Board of Selectmen to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Donald G. Harriss, who resigned upon election to the Planning Board.

Members of the Commission attended meetings of the Massachusetts Association of Conservation Commissions, the Essex County Greenbelt Association, the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, and other regional and state conservation and planning agencies. The Commission is continuing its efforts in working with and supporting the programs of these organizations for the conservation and preservation of our natural resources in a balanced, beneficial and perpetuating fashion.

Effort is continuing to preserving Reedy Meadow as a major natural resource and wildlife area. The problem remains one of extreme difficulty in determining exact locations and ownership. However, several parcels are now under consideration for acquisition.

This Commission continues to derive its mandate for action in the acquisition of rapidly disappearing "open lands" from the extremely favorable support the town's voters have given it during the past Town Meetings. The Commission solicits, welcomes, and appreciates the comments, suggestions, and especially the active participation of all townspeople in bringing to fruition the conservation of Lynnfield's remaining Natural Resources.

The cooperation and assistance of the Selectmen, Road Commissioner, and other Town officials is gratefully acknowledged.

ROBERT C. ROURKE, Chairman

BOARD OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

ELIZABETH KENNEY

This year has seen a major change in the medical assistance program. Children under 21 years of age with parents on a limited income and adults who are medically handicapped may be taken care of. In addition, the regular programs of assistance have been continued to be carried on by this department.

ELIZABETH KENNEY, Director

VETERANS' SERVICES

During the year there were five permanent cases receiving Veterans Benefits, three of these have since been dropped due to death and moving from town, also eleven emergency cases ranging from three week to three month periods were processed and authorized for Veterans' Benefits. The majority of these were caused by labor disputes in two major companies working on National Defense contracts.

All veterans' graves were inspected and were decorated with a flag and a geranium for Memorial Day. This project is always carried out by our local Post No. 131 American Legion.

1966 saw the completion of the church on Grove Street, the start of the new Library addition and the start of a new restaurant on Salem Street.

The following members were appointed by the Selectmen to the Building Law Study Committee to review, evaluate and bring up to date the building code.

Architect: Joseph D. Milo, 8 Baldwin Lane

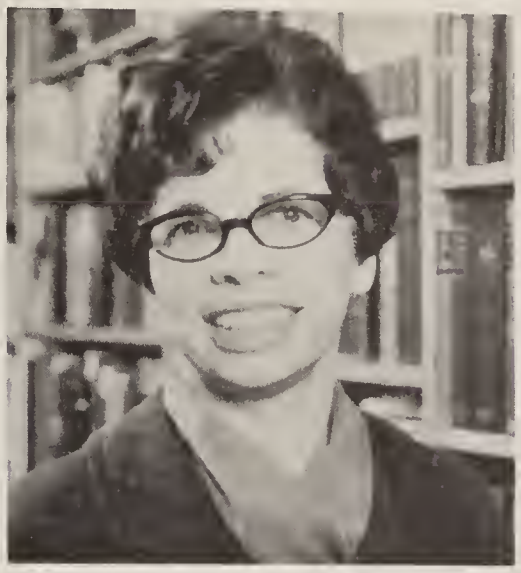
PERRY L. NIES, Chairman



NATALIE BROOKS

DR. ROBERT CARD

This has been a year of transition for the Lynnfield Library System. Increased use for study and reference and demand for more books for educational purpose have caused an increasing shortage of space in shelving and seating.

The March Town Meeting voted favorably on the proposal to expand the Elizabeth Green Library. Ground was broken October 18, 1966 and it is expected the new library will be ready for the opening of school in September, 1967.

At the Branch Library, Mrs. Ruth Wiley reported the story hour and the summer reading program proved very popular. The building has been painted an attractive green inside. Old, worn-out, obsolete books have been removed and a new section of shelves installed.

At both libraries there has been a gratifying increase in the use of reference books and periodicals for research. In April, Mrs. Marcia Wiswall, who has received her master's degree in Library Science, became a member of the staff, directing the catalog department and serving, at times, as reference librarian. There are now two professional librarians on the staff. Five staff members have earned their sub-professional certificates from the State. One member, Mrs. Virginia Campbell, received a scholarship from the Massachusetts Friends of the Library enabling her to take a course in reference work at Northeastern University.

The town again received a grant of $2,099.50 for library services, based on 25 cents per capita, because the library reached and exceeded the standards set for a town of a population up to 9,999. This is based on the 1960 national census.

The summer reading program again proved very successful with both the public and parochial schools participating. The over 500 children completing the program attended a party in late August where they received their certificates. Many of these were later displayed in the schools.

Our gratitude is due to the local garden clubs which have beautified the libraries with arrangements and displays, and to those who have provided memorial gifts.

The Friends of the Library sponsored the Summer Reading Program, and a very well-attended series of morning lectures in the winter.

PLANNING BOARD

The rate of growth of Lynnfield has dropped when compared to the two previous years but is still substantially above the 1962-1963 period.

Year	No. of Subdivisions Approved	No. of House Lots Approved	Aggregate Length of New Streets Approved
1962	1	19	1,240 ft.
1963	1	3	190 ft.
1964	7	72	8,204 ft.
1965	5	76	8,450 ft.

In addition to the approvals indicated above, the Planning Board currently has before it a subdivision containing 41 house lots on which action will probably be taken before the end of the calendar year.

It is interesting to note that of the 35 house lots approved this year to date, 26 are in the RC zone with 40,000 sq. ft. requirements while the remaining 9 Lots are in the RB zone with 30,000 sq. ft. requirements. The subdivision presently before the Board is in the RB (30,000 sq. ft.) zone. There has been very little development of the RD (60,000 sq ft.) zone since this one came into being in 1954.

Mr. Parker Holloway, Jr. is the Planning Board representative on two town committees — School Plant Needs and School Site Selection.

During the year Donald G. Harriss was elected for a five year term on the Planning Board replacing Calvin J. Osberg who did not seek re-election after having served continuously for ten years. Colby L. Burbank, Jr. was elected for a two year term. Mr. Russell Franck resigned because of being transferred out of state and Arthur J. Bourque, Jr. was appointed to serve until the next annual election. Howard A. Bouve, Jr. was elected Vice Chairman and Donald G. Harriss was elected Clerk. Mrs. Edith Anderson continues as Assistant Clerk. For the first time the Planning Board Office is open Tuesday and Thursday mornings each week.

To fulfill its responsibilities and objectives, the M.A.P.C. staff has made significant progress in a number of specific areas. The following major studies are currently underway and the Council is pursuing a number of other study proposals:

DEPARTMENTS OF TREES AND INSECT PEST CONTROL

GUSTAV H. KOCH

This year saw a beginning of the return to normal rain fall. While the average was not fully attained there were no long periods without appreciable storms. Our older trees, especially Sugar Maples, have been seriously affected by the long cycle of drought conditions. More normal conditions should reverse this process. Dutch Elm showed some decrease but has not been conquered. A new systemic injection released for use two years ago has been thoroughly evaluated by both State and Federal experimental control projects and is to say the least, seriously lacking in results over the claims and reports of the manufacturer. Other new products are currently being evaluated.

The South Hall and Fire Station, with the Garden Clubs providing the various shrubs, was planted this spring and will be a source of beauty and pleasure as the plants mature.

The large plot of land on Salem Street created by the relocation of the road was partially planted this year. More will be added in 1967.

Roadside cleaning was carried on with greater effort by both Highway and Tree Department personnel with safety, beauty and considerable decrease of litter being observed.

BOARD OF REGISTRARS

We wish to thank the residents of the town for their co-operation in the compiling of our annual street list. This information is of the utmost importance not only at present, but in years to come. We urge new residents to call us as soon as possible so we may have information about them. In the past this information has been most helpful particularly in emergency situations.

The Board of Registrars held six official registration periods plus daily registration in the Town Hall.

The Town census or listing as of January 1, 1966 showed a population of 10,432.

All young men and women reaching age 21 should register as voters; also, the voters moving within the Town should notify the Clerk's office. Women who change their name by marriage should re-register.

At the close of registration October 8 1966, there was a total of 5,234 voters listed, with Precinct 1 having 2,660, and Precinct 2 having 2,574.

BY-LAW COMMITTEE

This committee has continued the difficult task of compiling the present by-laws of the Town with the purpose of deleting obsolete by-laws, rearranging current by-laws into logical sequence and listing the statutes accepted by the Town. There has been no attempt to propose new By-Laws since that is not within the mandate of the committee, but areas of the By-Laws which require modification have been duly noted with the hope that a future committee will be able to perform this task.

It is the hope of the committee that during the ensuing year it will be able to present to the Town a current and organized body of By-Laws suitable for publication in loose leaf form to enable interested citizens to keep their copies current when changes are made in the future.

S. PETER GORSHEL, Chairman

CAPITAL BUDGET COMMITTEE

The Committee has been working for over a year to put together a complete six year town budget. Data and statistics gathered covering the past ten year period will form the basis for projection.

The committee will publish the budget in its entirety for the use of town officers and committees and will publish some highlights, mostly in graph form, in "Recommendations of the Finance Committee" for use at the Annual Town Meeting. In later years an updated budget may be published separately for use of all residents.

The six year budget will be a compilation of the recommendations of all town officers, regular committees and boards and special study committees with a projected tax rate for the implimentation of the recommendations. In addition to financial predictions the committee will depict such figures as population growth, school enrollment, housing starts, road miles, etc.

The Committee will predict the tax impact of projects which are determined by other groups to be desirable so that timing for introduction of a new project may be planned when it fits best with total income and expenditures.

The committee will act as a collection point for financial and statistical data of the Town growth pattern and by an annual updating of the budget, provide a useful tool for the town officials to use in planning for each year's budget and the citizens to vote on each year.

STREET LIGHTING COMMITTEE

The streets in Lynnfield have been grouped according to IES standards with respect to use into three classes:

1. Major - Examples: Main St., Summer St.
2. Collector - Examples: Essex St., Forest Hill Ave.
3. Local - Most others

Lighting for Major roadways was mostly completed prior to 1966 with the installation of 175 watt mercury vapor luminaires on every other pole.

Improvement of lighting on collector roadways was begun with the installation of 100 watt mercury vapor luminaires on Essex Street.

Local (residential) streets are presently lighted (if at all) with incandescent lamps. These are inefficient in producing light, and require much maintenance. The goal of the Committee in this area is to develop a type of street lighting which is pleasing to the residents, yet efficient and economical to operate and maintain. In the coming year, trial installations of promising types of lighting will be made for viewing and evaluation by the Committee and the townspeople. In planning such installations, consideration will be given to the increasing trend to underground wiring, and to the possibility that the town may eventually operate its own power and/or lighting system.

The master plan map and a display of several types of luminaires may be viewed at the Committee office in the Town Hall by anyone interested.

In general, Town -operated lighting cannot be installed on unaccepted streets. The Committee hopes that residents of such streets will move to have them accepted before vandalism or robbery make it an emergency issue. Information on acceptance may be obtained from the Selectmen.

BOARD OF APPEALS

The Board currently meets in the Public Hearing Room of the Town Hall on the first Tuesday of each month to act on all cases submitted four weeks or more prior to the hearing date.

The Board acted on twenty-seven cases, disposing of them as follows:

- 1 case withdrawn without prejudice by petitioner
- 2 cases denied
- 1 case denied by default
- 18 cases unconditionally granted
- 3 cases granted with suitable conditions imposed
- 2 cases continued to 1-3-67.

Procedural rules and all decisions of the Board are a matter of public record on file with the Town Clerk. Any person aggrieved by a decision of the Board is entitled to appeal to the Superior Court within 20 days of the filing of the decision.

RECREATIONAL SITES COMMITTEE

PICTURE OF POCAHONTAS TAVERN PROPERTY

Formed by the Board of Selectmen during May, 1966, this committee endeavored to take such initial actions as were necessary to start a recreational program for the town. Foremost in our program was the investigation of desirable potential recreational areas which might be acquired by the town.

After bringing up to date a 1961 report by Allen Benjamin, the committee met with several other town committees to coordinate its activities and to prevent an overlap of effort in determining the apparent recreational needs of the town. We also sought the advice and assistance of known experts and consultants in the field of municipal recreation. After considering the recreational facilities and programs of other communities, the following goals emerged as necessary first steps:

(1) Establish a permanent Recreation Commission to implement a recreation program for the town encompassing all age groups.

(2) Secure a suitable major recreational playfield for the use of town residents of sufficient size and capability to meet the recommendation of the Benjamin report.

(3) Secure a suitable site in South Lynnfield to be used as a playground for residents on the far side of the turnpike.

It became apparent after much investigation that the Pocahontas Tavern property of about 22 acres presented a highly desirable recreational site that could benefit all age groups. The size, location, topography of the land, the pond, and the existing facilities on the site made up a recreationl package not matched by other known areas within the own. We, therefore, decided that it was in the best interests of the town to recommend that the acquisition of this property for recreational purposes be pursued while it was yet available.

DOG OFFICER

SANBORN A. CALDWELL

I herewith submit my annual report of the duties performed by me as Dog Officer during the year 1966:

57 dogs were picked up and returned to their rightful owners.

42 dogs were picked up on town and state highways, and buried.

9 dogs from out of town were returned to surrounding towns.

6 dogs without identification were sent to Harvard Medical.

All dogs three months or older must be licensed on or before April 1st of each year.

At this time I would like to thank the Police Department and Mr. Koch for their assistance.

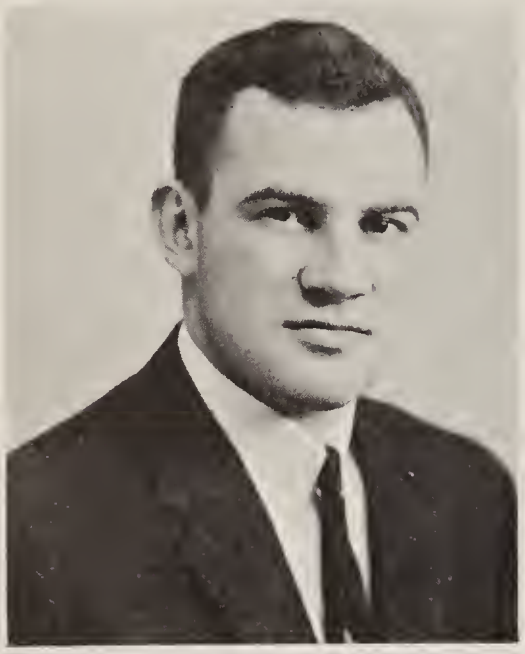
PARK & CEMETERY COMMISSION



A. DAVID RODHAM, Chairman

The Park and Cemetery Department completed several projects and instituted one new one, a program of dandelion control. Results of this should be evident this spring on the Common and Town Hall property. Expansion of this program to other town properties is planned for this year.

The wall around Willow Cemetery was rebuilt for a distance of 800 feet, completing the project commenced two years ago of repairing or rebuilding all cemetery walls. The Pony League field at Newhall Park has been completed. Originally a Little League field, it now can be operated for either league. New fencing, which should prevent balls from going into the lake, and a better back stop were installed.

A lilac walk was started and a dogwood tree planted in Forest Hill Cemetery. Further developments of the back section of this cemetery is planned.

Of more general interest, perhaps, was the removal last summer of the ancient elm tree near the Old Meeting House on the Common, finally deemed unsafe after many years of care to prolong its life. A metal horse tether, believed to have been driven into the tree 75-100 years ago, was uncovered during the removal process. At the request of the Lynnfield Historical Society, the stump of the tree has been left so that anyone interested may count the rings which prove the tree to have been about 150 years old. There is reason to believe that the "Stump" is already becoming a landmark.

Funds turned into the Town Treasury in 1966 are as follows:

Cemetery Lots sold	$ 725.00
Amounts added for Perpetual Care	1,050.00
27 Internments	870.00
Foundations	239.50
Liners	442.00
Interest from Perpetual Care Funds	1,874.47
	$5,200.97

HEALTH OFFICER

The work of the Board of Health in Lynnfield has increased a great deal in the past year. It has been necessary to make more inspections than in previous years, and to cope with more problems. There have been numerous complaints as to unsanitary conditions in certain quarters. I have tried to take care of these conditions as they have arisen and as they have been reported to your Board of Health. This year two houses in town have been condemned as being unfit for human habitation after inspection had been made by the district health sanitary engineers of the state with your health agent.

Our annual spring clinics were held in February, March and April, at which time immunizations against diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus were given to pre-school children. Sabin oral vaccine for immunization against infantile paralysis, and small pox vaccinations were also given. This year measles inoculations were available for the first time. Because of this factor the clinics were increased in size and were better attended than ever. These clinics will again be conducted in early spring of 1967. Dates of the clinics will be published in the local papers. Mrs. Lucy Lindquist, R.N., assisted in the clinics for her twenty-sixth year. She also did follow-up work on T.B. cases in town.

In cooperation with your local Board of Health the mobile unit for chest x-ray of the Essex County Health Association came to Lynnfield for the afternoon and evening, November 4, 1966. There were 726 x-rays taken at this time. Follow-up x-rays were done when necessary, and treatment is being given in positive cases.

The number of contagious diseases reported to your Board of Health this year is very small due to the fact that not all are being reported as required by law. The State Board of Health desires this information in order to keep track of possible epidemics or increase in numbers of specific diseases, and therefore requires that all communicable diseases be reported directly to the local board of health either by the patient or by the doctor in charge. Your health agent will appreciate your cooperation in this matter. Contagious diseases reported this year numbered 47. There were 27 dog bites and two cat bites.

Due to a variety of causes, this past year has been a trying one as far as rubbish collections have been concerned. For the first time special pick-ups were scheduled for large articles. This being a new service there was no way of foreseeing that such a large number of over-sized articles would be put out for collection. About thirty-five extra loads of rubbish were expected, but over one hundred and fifty were picked up. Present rubbish plans for the ensuing year have been worked out satisfactorily. Dates of pick-ups in the various sections of town will be announced through the papers. It is advisable that all rubbish will be put out the night preceding pick-up days as the pick-ups wll start at 7 a.m. on the scheduled day. No rubbish will be taken care of if it has been put out after the pick-up has taken place in that area. All rubbish and garbage must be kept separate in order to insure proper pick-up.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

In the succeeding pages of this portion of the Annual Report are presented the individual reports of the Superintendent of Schools, Principals, and Specialists of our Lynnfield Schools. We believe their reports are worthy of your careful attention, for they reflect the goals, aims, aspirations, and accomplishments of the professional staff as well as many of the problems confronting our educational system.

Each year there is always one salient aspect of our school operations that over-shadows all others. Most recently there was the transformation of our fine new High School facility into an on-going educational operation. This was coupled with the engagement of a new Superintendent of Schools, new High School, Assistant High School, and Jr. High School Principals, and many new staff members. With the shake-down period behind us, this past year has seen these new elements molded into a fine strong team providing the excellence in education demanded by the people of Lynnfield. One measure of how well the students and the school system are doing is that our graduating class continues to score in the top 1% of the nation on standardized achievement tests.

Immediately ahead looms the need for additional elementary space. With the transference of many students from the Jr. High School to the new High School, unused space was created at the Jr. High School. The overflow of elementary children are now being housed in this Jr. High School space, which has provided a temporary buffer. However, by 1969 enrollments of both elementary and junior high school pupils will be such that all this space will be used at capacity. Hence, if we are to avoid excessive pupil-teacher ratios or double sessions beyond 1969, the Town needs to take the first step at the 1967 Annual Town Meeting of establishing a Building Committee to provide preliminary plans, specifications and estimates of cost. A more detailed examination of elementary space requirements is provided in the reports of the Superintendent of Schools and the School Plant Needs Committee.

The School Committee meets regularly on the first and third Mondays of each month at 8:00 p.m. in the Jr. High School Library. Parents and interested Townspeople are always welcome.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

In fulfilling their role of educating the youth of the community, all of those responsible for the planning and operation of the school program must be deeply concerned with a great variety of considerations. Prominent among these are such aspects as the necessity to provide adequate school facilities for a growing school population, continuous recruitment of highly qualified personnel, the offering of a comprehensive school program geared to the varied needs of our youth and society, the identification and provision of a host of supplementary services such as pupil guidance, library services, athletic and extracurricular activities, remedial reading, speech therapy, health and psychological services, to name a few. Along with providing for such educational and personal needs of the child, we must also be equally concerned with the manner in which these responsibilities are fulfilled, or, stated another way, there must be an overriding concern for continued improvement in our attempt to meet the standard of excellence which we have set for ourselves and which is dictated by the crucial importance of our charge.

This report and the ones which follow will try to describe some of the ways in which we have proceeded toward these goals during the past year. It should be kept in mind, however, that progress in education must be seen in the context of what has (or has not) taken place previously and, also, in what is being contemplated for the future. This limited form of reporting does not permit such treatment of the subject; therefore, it should be recognized that the entire perspective must be restricted to some degree, omitting, often, full description of the educational rationale which supports many of the specifics being outlined. Nevertheless, the important highlights will be included, and I shall begin by providing a framework of several major school-wide considerations, commenting on each, which should aid in providing a base of understanding for the more detailed reports which will follow.

School Facilities. In last year's report it was stressed that, despite the recent expansion to our school plant, we are beginning to experience difficulties in providing facilities for our elementary school populaton. This past September revealed an unusual increase in enrollment of 6.8 over the previous year, resulting in overly high pupil-teacher ratios in several classes, and the establishment of two more elementary classrooms in the Junior High School, for a total of four at that location. Projected figures indicate that there will be at least seven elementary classes next year which will have to be housed outside our elementary facilities, limiting to some extent the educationally desirable use of space in the Junior High School, and clearly indicating a critical situation as our school population continues to grow.

The members of the School Plant Needs Committee, the school administration, and the School Committee have been intensively studying this matter during the past year in an effort to develop appropriate recommendations to the townspeople for the alleviation of this growing problem. All concerned have been particularly conscious of the need to identify solutions which not only provide for our immediate needs but, also, which are fully consistent with sound long-range planning. In furthering this effort, the School Committee has utilized the consultant services of Mr. Walter Hill, Lecturer on Urban Planning, Harvard University, and of the architectural firm of Hill and Associates, in assisting our in-depth study of future school facilities needs. It would appear that beginning steps must be taken this year if we are to avoid a crisis situation in the very near future; therefore, I would ask every citizen concerned with the educational future of our Lynnfield youth to give careful consideration to this subject as it is presented for community action.

Another aspect of school facilities planning which was stressed in last year's report, and which will require our continued concern, is the need for anticipating the eventual establishment of a public school kindergarten program in Lynnfield. The educational value of kindergartens has been clearly demonstrated in practice and in appropriate research, and the need appears particularly obvious to parents of pre-school age children as well as to those involved in primary grade education. Quite beyond the important aspect of educational desirability, however, is the clear indication that the Commonwealth is proceeding toward eventual implementation of the recommendation made by the Massachusetts Education Commission (the Harrington-Willis Report) that kindergarten programs become a required part of all public school systems. This likely eventual requirement should be given careful consideration as we formulate our long range school housing plans.

The preservation of our major school playing fields, particularly those at the Junior High School, has become a growing cause of concern as the New England drought conditions continued during the past year. These fields are in almost continuous use by the schools and townspeople throughout the growing period, and this, plus the necessary water ban, is taking an increasing toll on the surface of these grounds. To date no economically feasible solution has been identified, despite study by the School Committee and the Water Commissioners, though the availability of new playing fields at the Senior High School should reduce the present over-utilization of these areas. Continued drought conditions, however, seem certain to cause additional future expenditures in rebuilding strong turf on the Junor High School fields.

It is of interest to note the widespread use of our school facilities by various citizen groups, town agencies, and private organizations during evening and weekend periods. During the past year, for example, our schools were utilized by 31 non-school agencies and organziations on 434 different occasions. These uses varied from town meetings to square dances, from theatrical productions to physical fitness activities. During this past year a new dimension was added to the adult education opportunities of our local citizens with the extension of Northeastern University's Suburban Program to include 10 college level classes in liberal arts, business education, and law enforcement, at our Senior High School. Minimal fees are charged for the rental of school facilities and necessary custodial services, and all such collected funds are deposited with the Town Treasurer to become part of the general funds of the community.

Professional Staff. The 2633 pupils enrolled in our Lynnfield schools are served by a teaching staff of 116 teachers and 17 specialists who provide additional services in the areas of reading, library, speech therapy, music, art, physical education, guidance, and audio-visual aids. Private instruction is provided for those who are confined at home. Seven full-time administrators and one part-time assistant serve to guide and coordinate the efforts of these groups.

Recommendations for September 1967, in addition to enlarging our basic teaching staff to accommodate increases in enrollment, include the adding of another physical education teacher serving the elementary schools, and the expansion of our guidance services to include an adjustment counselor to serve the 1200 students in grades one through six.

As in the past, a great many of our staff members participated in programs heading toward the attainment of advanced degrees and the updating of teaching skills, with several of our teachers receiving National Defense Educational Act scholarships. At the present time slightly less than one half of our professional staff has earned at least one degree beyond the four year college level. Additionally, Lynnfield staff members participated in a wide range of professional conferences locally and regionally. During the past year Lynnfield hosted three major educational conferences in the areas of elementary education, biology, and music which were attended by over 300 teachers from neighboring school systems.

In another aspect of personnel action, the Lynnfield Teachers Association, an affiliate of the Massachusetts Teachers Association and the National Education Association, requested and was granted recognition by the School Committee as exclusive representative in all matters of collective bargaining for teachers as provided for by Chapter 763, the Acts of 1965 of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Federal Aid. In addition to the federal assistance obtained for improving our library resources, the schools have been alert to other aid possibilities available from the federal level. Slightly over $27,277 was obtained on a matching basis under Title III, National Defense Education Act, for the purchase of materials and equipment to be used in improving our social studies, reading, science, mathematics, English and foreign language programs. The operational costs of our guidance program were reduced by an additional $3,768 granted under Title V of the same act. Further, Public Law 874, which provides assistance to communities in federally impacted areas, provided an additional $22,377 during the past year.

One of the most promising new developments on the local educational scene is the banding together of 10 nearby communities in pursuing the possibility of establishing a supplementary educational center fund entirely under the provisions of Title IV, Elementary and Secondary Education Act. Lynnfield has joined in this endeavor, termed "Educational Mutual," with the Belmont, Burlington, Winchester, Reading, North Reading, Woburn, Stoneham, Wilmington, and Wakefield school systems in applying for a beginning grant necessary to get firm planning under way. This center is seen as providing a variety of educational services such as (1) special classes for the emotionally disturbed, exceptionally able, and mentally retarded, (2) a curriculum service center providing personnel and a common source of information on curriculum innovation and improvement, (3) a materials center providing films, tapes, and similar supplementary services, and (4) a staff services center for in-service training. Northeastern University is an active partner in this joint enterprise and, should we be successful in our efforts, it is expected that our pupils and teachers will have a far greater range of available educational services than we could expect to provide under our own resources.

One important conclusion should be noted from the fore-mentioned and that is that the federal government has very much become a partner in the local educational enterprise, and from all portents its role will continue to grow in the future.

The Instructional Program. The scope and quality of our school curriculum is, of course, extremely crucial to the prospect of sound learning outcomes for our Lynnfield pupils; therefore, we must be always mindful of the need for careful assessment and improvement of our program and instructional methods. All of those responsible for the Lynnfield schools - the professional staff, school administration, and the School Committee — share this concern and have taken several important steps in fulfilling this responsibility.

Probably the most significant improvement in this area has been the institution of a formal program utilizing school personnel and some outside consultants in a major effort of curriculum improvement during the months of July and August. Thirteen teachers, working under the direction of principals and department heads, reviewed and revised our science and mathematics programs on both the elementary and junior high school levels, and several interested citizens assisted us with specialized knowledge in botany and conservation education. This type of in-depth approach, carried on at a time when school personnel can contribute a full-time effort in effecting curriculum improvement, has resulted in significant updating of our science and mathematcs program, and accomplishment which would have taken at least two normal school years in the past. These improvements, described in greater detail in other portions of this report, have resulted in the planned continuance of this program for the coming year.

One of the most interesting and promising developments planned for our science program is the opportunity for some of our elementary pupils to have 4½ days of direct learning experience in Nature's own classroom at the Otter Lake Conservation School in Greenfield, New Hampshire. Living and working under the direction of our own teachers and the specialists of the conservation school, our fifth grade pupils will, through such techniques as observing, recording, discussing, and doing private research, have the opportunity to learn a wide variety of basic nature study and conservation concepts in a first-hand manner not possible to duplicate in the classroom. This is not a camping program but, rather, a "week of school away from school," and one which will bear a direct relationship to our expanded science program on the elementary level. Meetings will be held in the future to enable parents and interested members of the community to learn more of this coming program.

Other recent changes in our school curriculum include the establishment of World Problems as a required course for all senior high school students, the addition of a creative writing course to our secondary English program, and the inclusion of power mechanics in the industrial arts course.

Libraries. A most vital adjunct to all phases of our instructional program is the provision of a full, high quality, school library program serving all grade levels. A narrow curriculum, one which restricts pupils to a single textbook source of knowledge and which does not provide for a vast array of differing pupil study needs has no place in today's schools, and, more and more, comprehensive school libraries staffed by competent professionals are evolving into a most central position in the total school program. Several important steps have been taken in progressing toward that goal in our Lynnfield schools including such improvements as the establishment of the nucleus of future libraries in each of our elementary schools, the increasing of our budgetary expenditures for libraries, and the involvement of parents and teachers in a study of our school library services in comparison to recognized standards of excellence. Two full-time professionally trained librarians serve our junior and senior high school library needs, and elementary teachers, administrators, and volunteer parents provide for our library services in grades 1-6. A major step in improving our library service has come about through the obtaining of slightly over $25,000 in federal funds under the auspices of Title II, Elementary and Secondary Schools Education Act, to be spent in improving library services over this and the next four years.

In closing, it should be said that the true heart of our school program will not really be found in any of the descriptive material in this progress report. Changes in curriculum programs, school facilities concerns, noted improvements, funds expended and gained, personnel considerations and like matters, vitally important as they indeed are, are merely pale reflections of the living school program represented by teachers and pupils together exploring the whole gamut of concepts, skills, knowledge, and understandings which result eventually and hopefully in what we term an education, and herein is the true heart of your Lynnfied schools. May our efforts as citizens and educators always be devoted toward that which is truly meaningful in the accomplishment of our basic goal in education — effective learning on the part of every pupil in our charge.

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Henry F. Cotton, Principal

The key word at Lynnfield High School in 1966 had to be the word "new" since a number of significant new programs were put into operation. Particular emphasis was placed on the development of the creative arts; among the new projects were a school musical (the much acclaimed "Carnival"), a literary magazine (REVELATIONS), a course in power mechanics, and a course in creative writing as well as the addition of a record collection and high fidelity equipment for the music listening room.

POWER MECHANICS SHOP

The Class of 1966 lived up to its early record of achievement by graduating with 25% of the class on the honor roll. Graduation provided one of the high points of the year as ver 2,000 citizens turned out on a warm Sunday afternoon to witness the first graduation exercise held at the Essex Street High School. One hundred and sixty-two graduates divided their choices between colleges, nursing schools, business, technical and vocational schools, work, and the armed services, with over 87% choosing to continue their education. A great deal of credit for the high level of achievement and school morale in 1966 must go to our student leaders who contributed energy and ledership beyond the normal expectation. This, added to the willing cooperation of our student body and the consistent high quality of work accomplished by the teaching staff made 1966 a memorable year for Lynnfield High School and set a standard by which we will be proud to measure our future accomplishments.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Leonard Nihan, Principal

Student enrollment increased six percent in grades 7-9 in 1966 and two additional third grades were added to the two previously housed at the Junior High School. Tentative plans call for additional elementary classes next year to handle the increased numbers at the elementary level. Increasing the daily periods from six to seven will help to make this additional space available. However, projected enrollment figures indicate that in September of 1967 we shall have reached the saturation point at the Junior High and the problem of school housing will become increasingly critical.

The gap between the American Library Association standards and our school library has diminished considerably. Increased local expenditures as well as federal funds received under Title II of the Elementary and Secondary School Act have resulted in the addition to our library of approximately 800 volumes.

Efforts to aid the slow reader are being continued in the English department. The use of simplified classic novels has proved successful as they provide a high interest level with a simplified vocabulary.

The Social Studies department has designated 1966 as the "Year of the Slow Learner." Teachers and pupils alike are enthusiastic about the newly adopted series of texts introduced this year for slow learners in eighth grade American History and seventh grade geography classes. Results in these sections have been most gratifying.

I feel excellent educational dividends are now being received and will continue to be received by Lynnfield's investment this past summer in a curriculum workshop. Recommended by the Superintendent and approved by the School Committee, a group of elementary and secondary teachers met daily for a six week period during the summer months. Areas under study at the junior high level were science and mathematics.

At the seventh grade level a science course has been outlined in detail with a half year of biology and a half year of physical science. Both are laboratory centered courses with the emphasis on "doing" simple experiments. At the eighth grade level the Earth Science course includes study in the areas of astronomy, earth chemistry, physical geology, paleontology and oceanography. This course is also laboratory centered with more complex experiments and with definite training in laboratory procedure.

The mathematics committee has developed a program which is more meningful to students at all levels of ability. In addition to outlining specific goals for each level, the committee has also developed a philosophy and outlined objectives for all mathematics courses taught at the junior high level.

LANGUAGE ARTS IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Dr. Nancy Santeusanio

Principal, Center School

The language arts program encompass four phases of the school curriculum; namely, reading, language, spelling and handwriting. It provides for the intake of ideas through thinking, listening and reading and the outgo of ideas through speaking and writing.

The teaching of reading is one of the major responsibilities of the elementary grades. The reading program is designed to prevent reading failures through careful diagnosis and well-planned instruction according to the needs of the child.

In grade one it begins with diagnostic testing in order to ascertain the needs and most desirable grouping for each child. The child's ability to hear beginning sounds in words, to see likenesses and differences in letters and words as well as his knowledge of letter names are all part of the diagnostic phase. During this initial period the teacher also observes and notes the ability to follow simple group directions and to complete a task.

Last September 133 first grade children were enrolled in grade one. Rather than being assigned permanent placement as they entered school, they received a temporary assignment. During the half-day sessions in September the five first grade teachers planned their daily programs together, with provision for diagnostic testing and very careful observation, using an anecdotal record to note information about each child. For part of the morning the children, on a rotational plan, worked with more than one teacher thus enabling all of the first grade teachers to know all of the children entering first grade and to identify more closely with them.

At the end of this three-week period, the five first grade teachers, the principal and the reading consultant evaluated the results of this prgram with respect to diagnostic reading tests and anecdotal records. Each child's individual differences were carefully considered, and the children were given a permanent teacher assignment.

The classes were arranged so that groups of children with differing ability would be in the same classroom. In other words, each first grade classroom was set up with one group of children who were already beginning to read or whose diagnostic test results indicated they were ready to begin; another group in the same classroom consisted of children who needed some work with prereading skills but were essentially ready to to read; and a third group of children who needed much work in order to develop their prereading skills. In this way each classroom had groups of children with differing ability arranged in workable groups for reading instruction.

While it is not possible to highlight all facets of the reading program, it does seem important to describe the central school library as a vital factor in the reading program.

The growth in the number of volumes at Center School has almost doubled over a two-year period with a total of 2,110 volumes consisting of 1,064 nonfiction and 1,046 fiction. This increase in volumes has been made possible by the awareness on the part of the Superintendent and the Lynnfield School Committee to increase library funds.

In addition to books, the school library has 577 back issues of National Geographic with a subscription from Mr. Robert Rourke in memory of Mildred Parkhurst Rourke.

While there is a real need for much more adequate library space and a staff member trained in school library services, the central school library has been recognized as an integral part of the school program.

At the beginning of this report, it was stated that the language arts program was four-pronged, dealing with a large block of instruction including reading, language, spelling and handwriting. It is not possible to describe each phase of the language arts program in detail, but only to say that this block of instruction gives the child his basic learning tools in the art of communication.

SOCIAL STUDIES IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Charles A. Wolski
Principal, South School

Social Studies is a term applied to that area of the elementary school curriculum which has theh primary responsibility of helping children develop skills in and the understanding of human relationships. The social studies deal with the study of man.

The new guide developed by Lynnfield elementary teachers draws from all of the social sciences. Elements of geography, history, sociology, economics, and even anthropology are included. The guide puts emphasis on cultures.

What are the objectives of the new program? We expect the new curriculum to do at least the following: first, it is to teach our students about human behavior. The student learns about the varying systems of cultures. Everyone will agree that the adult of the future must be acquainted with all the other peoples of he world! Units of study have been developed at each grade level to fulfill this objective.

Since it is not feasible to teach all of the cultures of the world, certain areas and their people have been chosen for in-depth study.

The second objective is to give the student knowledge about the history of mankind, especially the traditions of his own country. Though the teaching of American Heritage has always been an important function of the social studies, the new guide puts greater emphasis on the study of our country. In grade three, the child is introduced to communities in various parts of the United States. The fifth year is devoted to a comprehensive study of the history and geography of the United States, while the development of Western Civilization is taught in grade six.

Next, social studies must teach skills and cultivate certain attitudes. Man has accumulated such a vast amount of knowledge during the past two decades that it is not possible to teach it all. What can we do? To enable a child to gain knowledge concerning his society, we can teach him how to research the information needed; teach him to think reflectively about problems and issues, and to apply his thinking in constructive action. Teaching the skills such as map and globe reading, organizing and evaluating skills, and research skills, is an important adjunct of the program.

The final objective is to develop group participation and human relations skills. A meaningful definition of group particiption and human relations skills is derived from the first and foremost tenet of American democracy: a belief in the dignty and worth of the individual human personality. This is what we strive to teach our youngsters—that each person is unique, that each person possesses distinct capabilities, that each is entitled to basic human rights and liberties and the respect of others.

The social studies curriculum is receiving new impetus in the schools. Survival in the nuclear age depends far more on progress in human relationships than on technology. What good is the knowledge gained if man does not have that common ingredient necessary for society—the understanding of and respect for his fellow man?

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL MATHEMATICS

George E. Caswell
Principal, Summer Street School

DOING RESEARCH WORK
FOURTH GRADERS, SUMMER STREET SCHOOL

Means for improving and evaluting the mathematics curriculum this year was provded by the School Committee, through the efforts of the Superintendent, when they authorized a mathematics workshop to be conducted during the summer months. Participating in the workshop were three elementary school teachers, two junior high school mathematics teachers, the mathematics department chairman, and an elementary school principal. Also available to the group as consultant was Mr. Michael Antone, director of mathematics for the City of Medford and former mathematics chairman at Salem State College.

Initially the workshop group considered the new mathematics objectives and the articulation between elementary and junior high schools, following which the groups worked on independent projects. The elementary school members planned teaching suggestions to help teachers better meet the needs of different groups of pupils, and also made a detailed examination of the topics and teaching aids in the best of the published materials currently available. The junior high school teachers prepared specific course outlines for grades seven, eight, and nine.

The workshop members agreed with the objectives of leading mathematicians and educators who want to present mathematcs as a way of thinking and resoning while providing the pupil with desirable mathematical skills. A number of newer programs being developed by the publishing companies and the continued research by influential groups were cited by our consultant as concrete evidence of the acceptance of the newer objectives throughout the country. Content organization in most of the newer programs uses a spiral approach in which similar topics appear at different levels and with increasing complexity and rigor. Teachers still must be allowed the freedom to delete, supplement, and enrich this content in mathematics according to the needs of their students while they seek the fine line between challenge to the student and the opportunity for successful learning.

Evaluation of our present program leads us to believe that we have generated greater interest and enthusiasm for learning mathematics. In analyzing our standardized test results for the past several years we have found a significant gain in reasoning and in understading mathematical concepts, but no appreciable gain in computational skill. We must still seek ways to improve our units of work and our teaching abilities. We plan to continue to evaluate our teaching and learning in mathematics as we attempt to meet the demands of our modern society.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL SCIENCE

Gilbert F. Bulley
Principal, Huckleberry Hill School

During the past summer a science workshop committee, comprising four elementary teachers and an elementary principal, spent four weeks on a serious study of the science program in the elementary schools. This committee investigated the latest science texts and the thinking of recognized experts in the field of science education, keeping in mind the followng goals as they prepared material for the guide:

1. To develop a better understanding of the natural physical world.
2. To gain some understanding of the methods used in the sciences.
3. To learn more about the needs of living things, including the needs of the human body.
4. To take part in the exciting adventures that lie ahead in science and technology.
5. To prepare for effective citizenship.

This guide was put in the hands of all the elementary teachers by early October and each teacher was asked to follow the guide according to the science program in his or her grade. This new systems approach to teaching elementary science relates material from six science areas: the solar system and beyond, matter and energy, the biological sciences, exploring the earth, the physical environment, exploring space. The depth approach gives time for investigation and the question approach will guide children in discovery through inductive thinking. This new program provides opportunities for pupils to learn and use sciences processes: observing, comparing, hypothesizing, etc. The science material is consistently presented as open-ended, with unsolved problems.

HANDWRITING LESSON, HUCKLEBERRY HILL SCHOOL

A section of the guide was devoted to nature study. The committee felt strongly that children should develop an awareness and appreciation of their natural surroundings through a program of nature study within the the schools. A suggested nature trail was mapped out behind each school with the hope that all classes would take a nature study walk sometime during the school year. The Massachusetts Audubon Society and the Lynnfield Conservation Commission helped greatly in this area of study.

The workshop commttee asked that one person in each building be appointed to act as the head science teacher. This person would assist all phases of the program by keeping science materials together in a central area within the building.

The Lynnfield School Committee is presently studyng a recommendation by the workshop committee to send each fifth grade in the town to a conservation school in New Hampshire for a week of first-hand science experiences in outdoor living. This program has been in operation for the last eighteen years and has been used successfully by several Massachusetts communities.

We feel that the new elementary science program is in high gear and that results of an evaluation planned at the end of the school year will stregthen it further.

GUIDANCE

William J. Coughlin, Director

Each student at the secondary grade level has available the counseling services of the guidance staff for any problem, whether it be personal or educational. In addition, there is a complete and informative collection of occupational and vocational materials at both the junior and senior high school facilities.

LISTENING TO TAPE OF "CAREER OPPORTUNITIES"

A unique occupational tapes room has been added this year where students may listen to the Northeastern University Library recordings on occupational careers. There has been an enthusiastic response to the venture and it is planned to broaden this resource.

During the school year the Guidance Department schedules fifteen career conferences at which adults well informed about their specialties speak to interested students concerning career fields. The schedule for this year includes junior or community colleges, job interviews, chemistry, teaching, hospital work, retailing, physical education, drafting, radio and television, technical schools, social work, art, engineering technology, data processing, and nursing.

Other friends that return each year are the admissions officers of the numerous colleges, business schools, and technical institutes, who provide our students with first-hand information. We are indebted also to those people in Lynnfiield and other nearby communities who invite our pupils to admissions lectures and similar activities. We are proud to be able to cooperate with such public-spirited citizens.

We are indeed fortunate to have fine facilities and interested adults available to aid in the vocational education of our future citizens. We are also grateful to the civic clubs and other groups which annually provide scholarships for our graduates. Every year the value and number of these scholarships rise and the recipients are most grateful for the expanded opportunities available as a result.

MUSIC

Michael E. Cooney, Jr., Director

The year 1966 has been a fruitful one for the music department, not only in terms of musical accomplishments but also by way of offering additional performance groups for students at all levels—we have satisfied the ever-increasing demand for music outlets, both instrumental and vocal.

This year marked a high point in the particiption of this town in all star muscal groups. Seventeen vocalists and instrumentalists were accepted for the Northeat District Concert; five were re-auditioned and performed at the Massachustts All State Concert. At the New England Festival Auditions, Lynnfield students won seventeen places in the New Engald Band, Chorus and Orchestra that performed in Falmouth, Massachusetts, in the Spring. This is not only a large number to be chosen for selected groups of this type, but it also represents a milestone in that for the first time, at least half of these students were vocalists, a balance toward which we have striven for many years. Another outlet which is avilable to our students is the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra, in which we are proud to have five instrumentalists, three in the senior and two in the junior orchestra.

March 1966 witnessed another first for the Lynnfield Music Department in its presentation of "Carnival," a Broadway musical originally produced by David Merrick in 1961. A musical of this sort represents a many-faceted project of major proportions, and one is that it is especially taxing to young voices. We feel that our first effort in this area was indeed rewarding.

Curriculum development this year is focused at the Junior High School, where, for the first time, each member of the music staff is scheduled for some part of the general music program in the seventh grade. This provides for the sharing of experiences and ideas to this worthwhile, but often neglected, area of music education.

Lynnfield played host last June to the second annual Northeast District Junior High Band Festival, where bands from nine other towns came to Lynnfield, auditioned for the judges and availed themselves of the opportunity to hear other groups as well. At this audition our Junior High Band was awarded an A rating in all seven phases of its performance.

Musical organizations that were heard for the first time this year include the A Cappella Choir, Boys' Choir at the High School and Brass Ensemble at the Junior High.

ATHLETICS

Allan R. Perry, Coordinator

1966 saw the introduction of two new sports to the high school athletic progrm. Soccer became an officially recognized high school sport and winter track was officially accepted by the School Committee.

During the 1966 sports season, 157 boys and girls participated in spring sports, 130 in winter sports and 184 in fall sports, for a total of 471 for the three seasons. This represents an increase of about 30 over the previous year.

Several coaching changes were made during 1966. Mrs. Gottleib replaced Miss Donahue in field hockey; Mr. Huntress replaced Mr. Callbeck as freshman hockey coach and Mr. Callbeck became assistant to Mr. Hall in varsity hockey; Mr. Kautz replaced Mr. Perry as junior varsity basketball coach and Mr. Warren was appointed freshman basketball coach. Mr. Dearborn was appointed as soccer coach and Mr. Cutter was assigned as winter track coach.

Lynnfield High School now provides a comprehensive athletic program offering at least two boys' sports and one girls' sport for each season.

ELEMENTARY ART

Mrs. Gladys Goodwin, Art Supervisor

"Art is the creative power of the human spirit. A personal response to a need or expression."

With this thought in mind the children in each grade have been given opportunities, under the art supervisor's guidance at two week intervals, to participate in a variety of activities.

Development and growth on the part of the pupil take place through freedom of expression in a wide field of materials. Some of these used at various grade levels are crayons, craypas, or sketchos, payons, charcoal, clay and paper of many kinds.

Group activities in making murals, bulletin boards, background for plays, as well as displays for other subjects, are worthwhile experiences in art practices.

Each year the pupil's growth is seen as he builds on the previous years' experiences and moves into more difficult phases of design and art principles.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL READING

Frances H. Carpenter

One of man's greatest needs is that of communication. Probably the most useful of the communication skills is reading, so we start at an early age to develop reading ability and work continuously to improve nd refine it.

Every effort is made to teach each child in Lynnfield to read as well as he can. Individual differences and needs are always considered and children are allowed to progress at their own rates of development. Pupils are grouped for instruction, provided with appropriate materials and taught by methods suited to their immediate needs. Most pupils read at or above grade level.

A few pupils who have specific difficulties are given remedial help. Most of the work done by the reading consultant is preventive in nature and is a cooperative effort with the classroom teacher.

A great variety of methods and materials are used to teach reading. Basal tests are used and supplemented by study-skills kit, individualized material in literature, science and social studies, speed reading machines, individualized programs using library books, and much teacher-prepared material. Often materials and methods are planned in workshops where teachers are able to share ideas and work on common problems.

Each elementary school now has its own small library and each child is taught how to use it properly and has a scheduled weekly visit. He is encouraged to use it for individual or class projects. These library centers are staffed by parents who volunteer willingly and they greatly expand the amount and variety of reading materials available to each child. Use of the Town Library is encouraged and circulation statistics indicate its wide use by elementary school pupils The summer library program is very popular and definitely contributes in stimulating a continuing interest in reading for many children.

Summer school classes in reading are conducted for six weeks in July and August. Pupils with reading weaknesses are encouraged to attend as this is an opportunity to acquire additional help needed to keep up with classes and to prevent loss of skill during the vacation period. Classes are kept small in order to give as much individual help as possible.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Mrs. Marjorie Knowlton, Supervisor

The physical education program for the Lynnfield elementary school is most comprehensive. It is at the elementary school level that the foundations are laid for a lifetime interest in physical activity and well-being.

Each child has the State required physical fitness program exercises 15 minutes a day plus a program with the classroom teachers, and 30 to 45 minutes a week with the physical education specialists.

All pupils are expected to participate in the physical education program. Students excused for medical reasons are required to present a certificate from a doctor which must be renewed each year.

Our program is divided into Fall, Winter and Spring activities.

Primary grades are taught the following basic skills:

Calisthenics
Story Plays
Running games
Ball games
Class games
Mimetics
Singing games
Rhythmic activities
Stunts

Elementary grades are taught the following:

Calisthenics
Relay and toy games
Fundamental skills and lead-up games to major sports
Tumbling, apparatus, ropes
Stunts
Square dance
Social and folk dance
Final testing program
Special Activities:

After school sports
Throughout the school year a one-hour after-school intramural program is held for girls and boys in grades five and six. About two hundred boys and girls take part in this program which includes soccer, flag, football, basketball, volley ball, softball and track.

Track meet
Each year a track meet is held for all sixth grade students.

Demonstrations
Every year physical education demonstrations are held in various school buildings in the town. Such programs assist in giving the public an idea as to what we are doing in primary and elementry physical fitness education in Lynnfield.

Physical Fitness Testing
In the elementary schools, physical fitness tests are given each year. The Amateur Athletic Union has awarded a Sponsor's Certificate to the Summer Street School and Huckleberry Hill School.

HEALTH SERVICE

Mrs. Priscilla Burnham, Mrs. Geraldine Cole,
Mrs. Beatrice Lyon, School Nurses

The school nurses are on duty throughout the school day and are responsible for the care and treatment of illness or accidents occurring on the premises during that time.

Since youngsters achieve and benefit from their education only when they are physically and mentally healthy and alert, the school nurse's primary objective at any level of the student body is to appraise each student's personal health. Programs for such appraisal include hearing and vision tests, evaluation of growth, physical examinations by school and private physicians, skin tests for tuberculosis, and control of communicable diseases within the student body. Children benefit greatly from the early detection and treatment of defects in any of these areas, making possible the prevention of a more serious or permanent handicap in the future.

TINE TESTS FOR FIRST GRADERS

The school nurses acknowledge gratefully the assistance of Mrs. Elizabeth Kenney of the Welfare Department in connection with needy children, of Dr. Thomas Devaney for time and service given, and of the Lions Club for their help and interest in the school vision program.

AUDIO VISUAL PROGRAM

Robert A. Cox, Coordinator

The Audio Visual Department has grown to a full time organization rendering services to all levels of the staff and administration. It is capable of supplying all forms of visual and audio teaching aids even to the manufacture of spirit duplicate masters, transparencies and related materials.

The Audio Visual Department worked extensively this past year in the preparation of long range plans and the writing of Title III NDEA project justifications. We also acted as coordinators for the provisions of Title II ESEA (Library Resources) here in Lynnfield. This has gained the community moderate sums of monies from the federal government for library books, materials and audio visuals. It is expected that we will continue this activity for the coming year.

For the first time Lynnfield offered a course in audio visual utilization to the staff this past spring. Nineteen staff members representing all schools and levels attended. This course will be offered yearly.

The first complete revision of the audio visual materials catalog was completed and all teachers have a copy listing available materials in the system.

RECORD OF ACTION TAKEN AT ANNUAL TOWN MEETING HELD MARCH 14, 1966 IN THE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM AND GYMNASIUM

JOHN H. KIMBALL
Moderator

Pursuant to the foregoing warrant, the legal voters of the Town of Lynnfield met in the Junior High School Auditorium and Gymnasium in the said town of Lynnfield on Monday, March 14, 1966.

The meeting was called to order at 8:00 P.M. by John H. Kimball, Moderator.

With the consent of the voters, certain unregistered persons named by the Moderator were admitted to the meeting and they were seated on the stage.

The call for the meeting was read by the Moderator as was that part of the warrant preceding the articles. Since no objection was voiced by the voters, the articles would not be read until taken up for action. Mr. Kimball then read that part of the warrant following the articles, including the signatures of the Selectmen and the return of service of the constable.

Mr. Eugene Santeusanio was appointed and sworn to act as Moderator for the voters seated in the Junior High School Gymnasium.

On motion of Mr. Robert F. Perkins, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, it was Voted to adjourn to Thursday, March 17, 1966 at 8:00 P.M. in the Junior High School Auditorium and Gymnasium if necessary, if the business of the annual town meeting had not been completed in this first session.

At this time, in recognition of Mr. Ralph Howland's service as Counsel for the Town, the following statements were made; the first by Mr. John Kimball, Moderator:

"Ralph G. Howland, Esquire
23 Beaver Avenue
Lynnfield, Massachusetts

Dear Ralph:

You have indicated that you will cease to serve as Town Counsel on or about April 1, 1966. The Town of Lynnfield has indeed been fortunate to have you, Ralph, as its Town Counsel for the past eighteen years.

All this has involved frequent absences from your family circle. It has also required long hours of careful work, analysis and disciplined study of the complex and ever changing body of municipal law.

Over these years you have handled the many legal problems of the Town with distinction and integrity, with honor and devotion.

I have enjoyed working with you at Town Meetings and I appreciate your concern for the voters and your co-operation with me.

Congratulations to you for your long record of distinguished service to the Town of Lynnfield.

Every best wish."

and the second, by Mr. Proctor Coffin, Chairman of the Finance Committee:

"The Finance Committee unanimously recommends that this Town Meeting recognize the contribution that Ralph Howland has made as Counsel to the Town. During the period of mushrooming growth in the Town, his advice has been invaluable to the officials, committees and townspeople. He has given, often under pressure, an immeasurable amount of time and yet has counseled in a calm, always unbiased manner. We resolve, therefore, that this meeting recognize this contributions by a standing vote."

ACCOUNTANT'S CERTIFICATE

I have examined the cash receipts and securities in the various Trust Funds in the hands of the Treasurer and find them to be as stated in the Treasurer Report. The income from Trust Funds in the hands of others have been received for the year 1966 and credited to the proper accounts. The receipts as reported by the Treasurer agree with the books, and that payments of the town correctly presents the financial status as of December 31, 1966. This office takes the opportunity to thank the Board of Selectmen, all Town Officers and Employees, the Town Report Committee, and others who have contributed so much of their time and talent in compiling this Town Report.

FIRE ALARM SUPERVISOR AND WIRE INSPECTOR

JAMES V. THOMPSON

During 1966 a daily check was made of the Fire Alarm switchboard and associated equipment. This information was duly recorded as required by the Fire Underwriters. Five fire alarm boxes were tested weekly, one box on each circuit, until all boxes in the system had been checked. In November and December two automobile accidents in town damaged fire alarm boxes to the extent that they had to be replaced. The responsible parties have been billed for damages incurred. Although the accidents were serious there was no disruption in the fire alarm system other than box replacement.

This past year one developer installed fire alarm equipment on his property underground which has proved to be very successful.

Two hundred sixty-five wiring permits were issued which required over 500 inspections. Two new churches were completed, corrections made where necessary by the contractors, and both structures were passed.

JAMES V. THOMPSON

Regional Incinerator Planning Committee

The Annual Town Meeting of 1965, article 25, created a Regional Incinerator Planning Committee, to which we were appointed by the Town Moderator.

Since the inception of this Committee, one or more of its Members have attended meetings as follows:

1. Wakefield, Mass. — Spring 1965

   This meeting was a Regional Group meeting held for the purpose of determining interest in a Regional Incinerator to be built by a group of surrounding Towns.

2. Swampscott, Mass. — September 1965

   A Regional Group meeting involving the feasibility of a private company building an Incinerator on the North Shore.

3. Reading, Mass. — December 1965.

   Meeting with Town officials to determine if Lynnfield could be considered in their plans for building an Incinerator.

4. Needham, Mass. — October 1966

   A Sanitary Landfill conference sponsored by the Perkins Machinery Co., Inc. and Caterpillar Tractor Co. which consisted of an all day study of all aspects of Sanitary Landfill.

5. Whitman, Mass. — October 1966

   Visited a newly built Incinerator designed and constructed by American Design and Development Corp.

6. Many other visits and meetings between the Committee itself.

After attending these many meetings, and after reviewing the scope and purpose of our Committee, we have concluded that Reading has already made the decision to construct an Incinerator and the Engineers are starting the preliminary design. Having approached the Town for consideration of our sharing their Incinerator, we now feel that they do not plan to include us in their planning.

There does not appear to be any Prime Mover to generate interest in any Regional Incinerator being built in any one of the surrounding Towns, primarily because of the problems involving the obvious questions of Where, When, Who will run it, Pension & Fringe benefits, etc. It is with this in mind, we feel that Reading has decided to go ahead alone.

Conclusion:

The time is fast approaching when Lynnfield will be forced to build an Incinerator of its own. We should consider therefore that it will take from four to six years from preliminary design to final construction, and recommend that the Town of Lynnfield plan and build an Incinerator in Lynneld, suitable for its long range needs, before available sites are developed that would prevent it.

The Engineering Study Report by Fay, Spofford & Thorndike, Inc. dated December 30, 1958 recommended "That the Town of Lynnfield continue to contract for the separate collection of garbage and rubbish as long as prices and quality of service remain favorable" and "if and when a change from present arrangements becomes necessary, construction of an incinerator be given favorable consideration by the Town of Lynnfield and Wakefield."

The time is now, to act on this important item of waste disposal.

In Retrospect

For contrast between the current business and activity of the Town recorded in this annual report, included are some factual excerpts from historical sources and some interesting old pictures. A wonderful and descriptive account of the wilderness from which Lynnfield was carved came from an old time journal. The spelling is as it appears in the source. The cover worked up by Mrs. Howard Kurt is illustrative of the old style printing used in publications. An example is the Town's 1850 Annual Report shown fully reproduced on the inside front cover. The scene on the cover is from an old photograph of the corner grocery, Broadway (Newburyport Turnpike) and Salem Streets taken about 1903. The store was reportedly run by Alfred Copeland. The picture of the group with the magnificient horses was then a farm where the Junior High School now stands. Mrs. Leslie Newman's contribution to this pictoral effort is sincerely appreciated.

FOURTH SITTING OF ANNUAL TOWN MEETING HELD MONDAY, MARCH 27, 1967 IN THE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

The meeting was called to order at 8:05 P. M. by the Moderator.

Unregistered persons wishing to attend the meeting were admitted by vote of the attending townspeople and were seated on the stage.

The first order of business was action on Article 20.

ARTICLE 20

ARTICLE 21

On motion made and seconded, it was VOTED to INDEFINITELY POSTPONE action on this article which reads as follows:

"To see if the Town will vote to authorize and direct the Board of Selectmen to create a Highway Garage Building Committee and to authorize said Committee to construct and equip, where necessary, a garage addition to be connected with the present Highway Garage and to alter, remodel and renovate the present Highway Garage, all in accordance with plans already acquired and approved by the appropriate Town Boards and Agencies, and to raise and appropriate, appropriate by transfer from available funds, or borrow, or from any or all such sources, a sum of money for such purposes, or what action it will take thereon."

ARTICLE 22

Because the recommendation of the Planning Board did not approve the passage of this article, and since a period of two years had not elapsed since this article was submitted to a Town Meeting, the Moderator ruled that this article could not be acted on.

The recommendation of the Planning Board and the article as it appeared in the warrant for the Town Meeting are noted below.

Recommendation of the Lynnfield Planning Board relative to Article 22 of the Town Warrant.
"In accordance with Chapter 40A of the General Laws, Section 6, a duly advertised Public Hearing was held by the Planning Board at the Town Hall on February 20, 1967 at 8:00 P.M. at which time the full board was present and acted throughout on Article 22 as contained in the Town Warrant for the Annual Town Meeting to be held on March 13, 1967.

"After holding a Public Hearing on this article and after careful consideration, it is the majority opinion of the Planning Board that Article 22 should be defeated. The Limited Business Districts were created to serve the needs of the immediate neighborhood without having a critical impact on the nearby residential areas. If automotive service stations were to be permitted in a Limited Business District, they would, in our opinion, be detrimental to the abutting residential neighborhood. The glaring lights, turned on for all hours, the storage of vehicles in various stages of repair or disrepair, the storage, temporary though it may be, of the discarded tires, etc., and the customary circus type banners used to attract one's attention, are some of the things that go to make up the ordinary automobile service station. The Planning Board suggests that this type of operation has no place in a small business district surrounded by good residential areas.

"The Planning Board has continually attempted to maintain a high standard for our Residential Districts. Any possible contamination of these districts by loosening the reins on what would or would not be a permitted use in an adjoining Limited Business District should be defeated.

"A minority of the Planning Board disagrees with the above recommendation believing that automotive service stations should be a permitted use in a Limited Business District, that the advantages to the adjacent residential area outweigh the disadvantages and, therefore, would be an overall benefit to the area."

The article as it appeared in the warrant follows:
"To see if the Town will vote to amend Zoning By-Laws Section 2 (c) 3 by changing the period after the word Trailor to a comma, and adding thereto the following: Automobile service station, where such type of consumer service is not inconsistent with other consumer services in the same limited business district."

ARTICLE 23

On motion of Mr. Colby Burbank, Chairman of the Planning Board, duly seconded, it was VOTED to raise and appropriate the sum of Six Thousand Dollars ($6,000.00) for an engineering survey and study of an area along the northerly side of Pillings Pond between Summer Street (near Archer Lane) and Pillings Pond Road: said survey and study to determine the most advantageous layout of a way that would run between Summer Street and Pillings Pond Road, said funds to be expended by the Planning Board.

A motion by Mr. Herbert Chase for indefinite postponement of this article had failed.

ARTICLE 24

The recommendation of the Planning Board relative to this article was read by Mr. Colby Burbank.
"Recommendation of the Lynnfield Planning Board relative to Article 24 of the Town Warrant.
"In accordance with Chapter 40A of the General Laws, Section 6, a duly advertised Public Hearing was held by the Planning Board at the Town Hall on February 20, 1967 at 8:00 P. M. at which time the full board was present and acted throughout on Article 24 as contained in the Town Warrant for the Annual Town Meeting to be held on March 13, 1967.
"After careful consideration and after holding a Public Hearing on this article, the Planning Board recommends the adoption of Article 24.

When the original By-Law was written, there were certain limitations put on the size of the signs allowed in the various Zoning Districts. However, it was never made clear as to just what constituted the "sign area". Article 24 is intended to rectify this apparent oversight."

On motion of Mr. Colby Burbank, duly seconded, it was VOTED UNANIMOUSLY that the Town amend its Zoning By-Laws, by adding paragraph "i" to Section 13, of initions, as follows:

i. Area of a Sign - The area of the minimum rectangle in the plane of the sign necessary to totally enclose all parts of it.

ARTICLE 25

On motion of Mr. Ham, Tax Collector, duly seconded, this article was DEFEATED. The article read as follows:

"To see if the Town will vote to raise and appropriate or appropriate by transfer from available funds, or both, a sum of money for the purchase and installation of materials necessary to convert an existing recess in the Tax Collector's office, in the Town Hall, into a fireproof vault, or what action it will take thereon."

ARTICLE 26

On motion of Mr. Myles Burke, duly seconded, it was VOTED to raise and appropriate the sum of Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000.00) to be expended by the Selectmen for the continuance of the control of algae, weeds, and other aquatic nuisances in Pillings Pond and to direct the Selectmen to cause the same to be done.

ARTICLE 27

On motion of Mr. Myles Burke, duly seconded, it was VOTED that the Town transfer the care, custody, management and control of the land located between what is now old Salem Street and New Salem Street, and which resulted from the relocation of Salem Street, Lynnfield, from the Board of Selectmen to the Park and Cemetery Commission of the Town.

ARTICLE 28

On motion of Mr. John Harriss, duly seconded, it was VOTED to accept the provisions of General Laws, Chapter 40, Section 8(d) and to create a Town Historical Commission in accordance with the provisions of said Statute to consist of 5 members service without pay.

ARTICLE 29

On motion of Mr. John Harriss, as amended and duly seconded, it was VOTED to raise and appropriate the sum of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) for the use of the Historical Commission established under Article 28 for incidental expenses, studies and activities necessary and incidental to the purposes of said commission.

ARTICLE 30

On motion of Mr. Peter Gorshel, Town Counsel, duly seconded, it was VOTED UNANIMOUSLY to authorize and instruct the Board of Selectmen to create a By-Law Revision Committee to examine the current By-Laws of the Town together with all rules and regulations of the various Town agencies and to propose to the Town where Town action is required, and to the various Town agencies, where the action of the same is required, all amendments, revisions and/or new by-laws and rules and regulations which in the opinion of the committee are necessary to bring the by-laws and rules and regulations of the Town and its various agencies into harmony with current theories of municipal government and the needs of the Town in relation to modern society.

ARTICLE 31

On motion of Mr. Peter Gorshel, Town Counsel, duly seconded, it was VOTED to raise and appropriate the sum of Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000.00) to be used by the Town's By-Law Revision Committee for studies, clerical and stenographic expense, conduct of hearings, if any, and publication of notice thereof and all oher activities necessary and incidental to the purposes of said committee.

ARTICLE 32

On motion made and seconded, it was VOTED that the Town raise and appropriate the sum of Eleven Thousand Dollars ($11,000.00) to be placed in the Stabilization Fund.

ARTICLE 33

On motion of Mr. Peter Gorshel, duly seconded, it was VOTED that the Town amend its By-Laws by adding the following as Section 1 of Chapter 9, (Old Chapter 8) "Regulations Regarding Persons and Property":

Section 1

A. No occupier or owner of land shall permit any junked, stripped, partially dismantled or wrecked motor vehicle, or parts thereof, debris, junk, scrap metals or other waste material or waste products to be stored, parked or placed on any premises owned or occupied by him unless the same shall be within a building or area such that the debris or other materials previously enumerated shall be unexposed to view of the public or abutters, or within an area operated by a properly licensed person or persons, or corporation for the purpose of selling the same and is not in violation of any Town agency or law of the Commonwealth.

B. No occupier or owner of land shall permit more than one unregistered used motor vehicle within public view or the view of abutters on the land owned or occupied by him, unless such unregistered used motor vehicles are used regularly on the premises or unless such unregistered used motor vehicles are displayed by a properly licensed person or persons, or corporation for the purpose of selling the same.

C. The Selectmen, either as a result of their own observations or of the receipt of a complaint from any individual, may, when a majority of the Board of Selectmen determines that a violation of this section exists, notify in writing the occupier or owner of land on which such an offending vehicle, parts thereof or other material within the meaning of Sections A and B supra, is permitted, to remove the same in or within five (5) days from the date of the notice; delivery of such notice shall be made by mailing the same by ordinary mail, postage prepaid, to the last known address of said owner or occupier of such land. Every day that such an offending vehicle, or parts thereof, or other offending materials within the meaning of this section shall be allowed to remain on the premises commencing with the sixth day after the date of said notice, including Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays, shall be considered a separate offense.

D. Each violation of this By-Law shall be punished by a fine of not less than Twenty Dollars ($20.00) nor more than Fifty Dollars ($50.00).

ARTICLE 34

On motion made and seconded, it was VOTED UNANIMOUSLY that the Town amend its By-Laws by adding to Chapter 11, Section 4 (Old Chapter 10, Section 4) the words, "but no less than $10.00" after the words, "New Construction - 0.2% of estimated cost".

ARTICLE 35

The recommendation of the Planning Board relative to this article was read by Mr. Colby Burbank.

> "Recommendation of the Lynnfield Planning Board relative to Article 35 of the Town Warrant. "In accordance with Chapter 40A of the General Laws, Section 6, a duly advertised Public Hearing was held by the Planning Board at the Town Hall March 6, 1967 at 8:00 P.M. at which time four members of the board were present and acted throughout on Article 35 as contained in the Town Warrant for the Annual Town Meeting to be held on March 13, 1967.
> "After carefully considering the article and after holding a Public Hearing thereon, the Planning Board recommends the adoption of Article 35. Until now the penalty for a violation of the Planning & Zoning By-Laws could not exceed twenty dollars. This article 35 would in effect raise this maximum penalty to $50 but not less than $20 and thus make it more costly and hopefully less desirable to disobey these statutes."

On motion of Mr. Colby Burbank, duly seconded, it was VOTED UNANIMOUSLY that the Town amend its By-Laws by amending Chapter 10 - Planning and Zoning, Part II, Section 8 (e) (Previously Section 8 e of Chapter 9) by deleting the words, "a sum not to exceed twenty dollars", and substituting the words, "a sum not less than twenty dollars and not more than fifty dollars".

Town Clerk of Lynnfield

RECORD OF ACTION TAKEN AT THE FIRST SPECIAL TOWN MEETING HELD MONDAY, JUNE 26, 1967 IN THE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Pursuant to the foregoing warrant the legal voters of the Town of Lynnfield met in the Junior High School Auditorium in the said Town of Lynnfield on Monday, June 26, 1967.

The meeting was called to order at 7:37 P.M. by John H. Kimball, Moderator.

With the consent of the voters, unregistered persons named by the Moderator were admitted to the meeting and were seated on the stage.

The call for the meeting was read as was the part of the warrant preceeding the articles. Since there was no objection, the articles would be read when taken up for action. The balance of the warrant was then read and also the return of service of the constable.

The first order of business was action on Article 1.

ARTICLE 1

The Planning Board report relative to this article was read by Mr. Parker Holloway, Jr.

"Recommendation of the Lynnfield Planning Board relative to Article 1 of the Special Town Meeting Warrant

In accordance with Chapter 40A of the General Laws, Section 6, a duly advertised Public Hearing was held by the Planning Board at the Town Hall on June 22, 1967 at 8:00 P.M. at which time four members of the board were present and acted throughout on Article 1 as contained in the Town Warrant for the Special Town Meeting to be held on June 26, 1967 at 7:30 P.M.

After holding a Public Hearing on this Article and after careful consideration, it is the majority opinion of the Planning Board that Article 1 should be defeated. Limited Business Districts were created to serve the needs of the immediate neighborhood. It is the majority opinion of the Planning Board that Automobile Service Stations do not fall into this classification. The glaring lights, turned on for all hours, the storage of various and sundry automotive parts such as tires, mufflers, tailpipes, etc., large illuminated signs, and the ever present advertising gimmicks, are some of the things that go to make up the present day automobile service station. The Planning Board suggests that this type of business has no place in a small business district abutting - or at least across the street - from good residential areas.

The current zoning permits a great many retail, business and professional uses in the eight Limited Business Zones in Lynnfield and it is the strong recommendation of the majority of the Planning Board that the controls on these Districts be maintained in their present form. These restrictions, together with many others that were carefully conceived and written, have resulted in a Town in which we can all take justifiable pride and we urge defeat of Article 1.

A minority of the Planning Board disagrees with the above recommendation, believing that Automobile Service Stations are of a character that is primarily for the convenience of the immediate area and should be a permitted use in a Limited Business District."

At this time a motion was made, seconded and voted to take up Articles 1 and 2 jointly for purposes of discussion.

On motion made and seconded it was voted 302 in favor, 130 opposed (288 required for passage) to amend the Zoning By-Laws, Section 2 (c) 9 by striking out subsection 9 and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

9. Any of the following additional uses, if authorized by the Board of Appeals:

   a. Any of the uses, which the Board of Appeals may authorize in Single Residence A, B, C, and D Districts as set out in Section 2 (b) 11 and subject to the same conditions as therein specified.

   b. Automobile service station.

   c. Any other retail business or service establishment supplying commodities or performing personal or consumer services primarily for residents of the surrounding neighborhood. provided that such use is similar to the uses hereinbefore listed in general character, extent of business hours, number of persons or cars to be attracted, and in effect on adjacent property and improvements (but not including any use specifically listed herein in a less restricted district, nor any use whose stock in trade consists primarily of large bulky objects not normally subject to being carried away by the customer on his person or in his automobile).

ARTICLE 2

The report of the Planning Board was read by Parker Holloway, Jr. On motion made and seconded it was voted 305 in favor, 111 opposed (276 votes required for passage) to amend Zoning By-Laws, Section 3 (a) 7 by striking out subsection 7 and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

7. In General and Limited Business Districts only, the dispensing of fuels, lubricants or fluids at automobile service stations.

Motions for reconsideration of Articles 1 and 2 were lost.

ARTICLE 3

During the discussion on this article, the Moderator declared that it was time for taking up action on the Second Special Town Meeting which was scheduled for 8:30 P.M. The Moderator read the warrant for the meeting and the constable's return.

On motion made and seconded, it was voted that action on the Second Special Town Meeting be postponed until action was completed on Article 3 of the First Special Town Meeting.

Action now reverted to action on Article 3 of the First Special Town Meeting.

On motion made and seconded this article was defeated 57 in favor, 287 opposed. The article read as follows:

"To see if the Town will vote to accept the provisions of Chapter 33, Section 59 of the Massachusetts General Laws, Ter. Ed. which provides as follows.

"Any person in the service of the commonwealth, or of a county, city or town which, by vote of its county commissioners or city council or of its inhabitants at a town meeting, accepts this section, or has accepted similar provisions of earlier laws, shall be entitled, during the time of his service in the armed forces of the commonwealth, under section thirty-eight, forty, forty-one, forty-two or sixty, or during his annual tour of duty of not exceeding seventeen days as a member of the reserve component of the armed forces of the United States, to receive pay therefor, without loss of his ordinary remuneration as an employee or official of the commonwealth, or of such county, city or town, and shall also be entitled to the same leaves of absence or vacation with pay given to other like employees or officials."

All business of this special town meeting having been completed, on motion made and seconded, it was voted to adjourn SINE DIE.

The meeting was called to order at 8:45 P.M.

The call for the meeting having been read plus the warrant, with the exception of the individual articles which were to be read when taken up for action, the first order of business was to take up action on Article 1.

ARTICLE 1

On motion made and seconded, it was VOTED to defeat the following article as amended:

"To see if the Town will vote to raise and appropriate, appropriate by transfer from available funds, or borrow, or from any or all such sources a sum of money for the purchase of the following maps:

1. Tax or Property Maps to be purchased and prepared under the supervision and control of the Board of Assessors.
2. Topographic Map to be purchased and prepared under the supervision and control of the Board of Assessors, or what action it will take thereon.

The amendment to this article was that the said maps would be prepared under the supervision and control of a committee appointed by the Selectmen to include a member of the Finance Committee, Board of Assessors, Capital Outlay Committee, Planning Board, Conservation Commission, Drainage Committee, the Lynnfield Water District and the Lynnfield Center Water District.

ARTICLE 2

On motion of Mr. Robert Perkins, duly seconded, it was VOTED to raise and appropriate the sum of $3,500.00 to be added to the sum of $1,500.00 to be transferred from the Mary U Nash Improvement Fund, the resulting sum to be used for the purchase and installation of a Memorial containing an Honor roll of Veterans who were residents of the Town during all or part of their military service, all to be done under the supervision and control of the Board of Selectmen and that the following dates of service apply: World War II 9-16-40 - 12-31-46; Korean War 6-25-50 - 1-31-55; and Vietnam 7-1-58 - present.

ARTICLE 3

On motion of Mr. Robert Perkins, duly seconded, it was VOTED UNANIMOUSLY to INDEFINITELY POSTPONE action on this article.

"To see if the Town will vote to raise and appropriate or appropriate by transfer from available funds a sum of money to be expended by the Road Commissioner for the construction of a retaining wall on Chestnut Street at number 90."

ARTICLE 4

The report of the Planning Board relative to this article (noted below) was read by Parker Holloway, Jr.

"Recommendation of the Lynnfield Planning Board relative to Article 4 of the Second Special Town Meeting Warrant.

"In accordance with Chapter 40A of the General Laws, Section 6, a duly advertised Public Hearing was held by the Planning Board at the Town Hall on June 22, 1967 at 8:00 P.M. at which time four members of the board were present and acted throughout on Article 4 as contained in the Town Warrant for the Second Special Town Meeting to be held on June 26, 1967, at 8:30 P.M."

"After holding a Public Hearing on this Article and after careful consideration, it is the unanimous vote of the Planning Board that Article 4 should be approved."

"This request is a sensible extension of the existing General Business District naturally isolated from existing residential development, and is for all practical purpose the highest and best use of this property."

"We urge acceptance of Article 4."

On motion made and seconded it was VOTED UNANIMOUSLY to amend the Zoning By-Laws for the Town of Lynnfield by extending the present General Business District that adjoins Route 1 (Newburyport Turnpike) on the southeasterly side of said Route 1 from its present terminus so as to include a parcel of land described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the southeasterly side of Route 1 (Newburyport Turnpike) which intersects with the terminus of the present General Business District, said Business District being shown on the "Zoning District Map of the Town of Lynnfield, Massachusetts, dated December, 1953, as amended, and prepared for the Lynnfield Planning Board by Allen Benjamin, Municipal Planning Consultant"; thence running in a southwesterly direction along the southeasterly line of said Route 1 for a distance of approximately 1056 feet to a point, said point being the distal end of the present power transmission line of the New England Power Co.; thence turning and running in an easterly direction along said power transmission line for a distance of 505 feet; thence turning and running in a northeasterly direction for a distance of approximately 848 feet to the corner of the present terminus of said General Business District, said corner of said present terminus being approximately 430 feet from the southeasterly side of said Route 1; thence turning and running in a northwesterly direction along the line of the said present terminus of said General Business District for a distance of approximately 280 feet; thence turning and running in a westerly direction along the line of said present terminus of said General Business District for a distance of approximately 194 feet to the point of the beginning; the above-described premises being shown on "Plan of Land in Lynnfield, Massachusetts, showing Proposed Re-zoning" drawn by Hayes Engineering, Inc., Melrose, Massachusetts, and dated May 18, 1967, and revised June 13, 1967.

VETERANS SERVICES

During the year there were three permanent cases receiving Veterans Benefits and will contine for 1968. Five emergency cases ranging from two weeks to four months were processed and authorized to receive benefits.

Due to the increased costs of nursing home and hospital care, it was necessary for two transfers to be made from the reserve fund.

All veterans' graves were inspected and found to be in good condition and as usual were decorated and honored on Memorial Day through the efforts of our American Legion Post No. 131.

As a member of the War Memorial Committee, I wish to thank the townspeople, veterans, and organizations who helped out so much to bring this project to realization.

BOARD OF REGISTRARS

We wish to thank the residents of the town for their co-operation in the compiling of our annual street list. The Board wishes to advise residents that our listers will be unable to make several calls, and ask that cards left at the door be sent to the Town Hall promptly. This information is of the utmost importance not only at present, but in years to come and is required by law. We urge new residents to call us as soon as possible so we may have information about them. In the past this information has been most helpful particularly in emergency situations.

The Board of Registrars held three official registration periods plus daily registration in the Town Hall. In 1968 there will be twelve official sessions.

The Town census or listing as of January 1, 1967 showed a population of 10,490.

All young men and women reaching age 21 should register as voters; also, the voters moving within the Town should notify the Clerk's office. Women who change their name by marriage must re-register in order to vote.

At the close of registration, there was a total of 5135 voters listed, with Precinct 1 having 2622 and Precinct 2 having 2513.
Total Democrats - 941. Total Republicans - 1850. Total Independants - 2339.

BOARD OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

The department's Medical Assistance Program, popularly known as Medicaid, has been helpful to 200 people in the town of Lynnfield this past year. The budget request for 1968 will reflect its usage. In addition, the regular programs of assistance have been continued; that is, Old Age Assistance, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, and Disability Assistance.

As of July 1, 1968, this department will be taken over by the State Department of Public Welfare.

Elizabeth Kenney (Mrs.), Director

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

As the year 1967 began and Department heads were meeting with the Finance Committee on budgets prior to the Annual Town Meeting, it appeared that the Snow and Ice Budget would be on the low side as the month of January produced only a trace of snow. This, however, didn't last long as February, March and even April produced weather that made this budget the highest it has been for many years.

Brook Drive was rebuilt with storm drains and sidewalks, also Mitchell Road, Richards Road, Oak Street and Edward Avenue. A sidewalk was constructed on the north side of Main Street from Phillips Road to Carter Road.

Under Article 9 of the Town Warrant funds were provided to reconstruct Salem Street from the Wakefield line to Walnut Street. Under Article 11 funds were made available to rebuild 535 feet of Perry Avenue.

Chapter 90 funds were used for the construction of Summer Street from Elliot Road to Walnut Street.

By direction of the Town Meeting a new parking area was made at the South Meeting Hall. The Lynnfield Garden Club spent much time and effort in the beautification of the area. When a project turns out as nicely as this one did, I as Road Commissioner experience much pride and satisfaction - co-operation makes Lynnfield the town it is. I welcome any ideas and suggestions the garden clubs of the Town may have.

One new snow plow, a new sidewalk snow plow, a sand body and a new dump truck and body were purchased for the Town under capital outlay items.

Looking ahead to 1968 we need our present garage repaired. Plans were made for the enlargement and repairs in 1967 but the funds were not appropriated at the Annual Town Meeting. Repairs to the heating system, plumbing and electrical work, painting and remodeling of the office are now a must. The department can live with the storing of equipment out of doors. The present garage was built in 1947 and to date the only repairs made to it was a new tar and gravel roof five years ago.

The Road Commissioner and the personnel of the Highway Department wish to thank the citizens and administrative officials of the Town for their help and co-operation throughout the year.

James C. Fletcher, Road Commissioner

1772—Extraordinary amount of snow in March. Storms on 5th, 9th, 11th, 13th, 16th and 20th. In 16 days there fell about 5 feet on a level. On the second Friday in April, so violent a storm occurred that drifts 12 feet deep accumulated.

SCHOOL SITE SELECTION COMMITTEE

A new School Site Selection Committee was appointed as a result of favorable town meeting action on a recommendation of the School Plant Needs Committee.

This new committee is charged with finding a fifteen acre lot of land for the future building of a new elementary school to accomodate the needs of the town's expanding school population.

The committee is presently investigating sites toward sponsoring an article in the March warrant for the purchase of a future school site.

TOWN COUNSEL

The Law Department continues to attend to the legal affairs of the Town; suits were instituted and defended, rulings were furnished upon request of department heads, specifications were drawn or were approved when submitted for this action and contracts were drawn for various Town agencies.

In addition, Town Counsel worked with Firefighters of the Town drafting proposed legislation, acted as a member of the Town Mapping Committee and drew specifications for this project, assisted the Conservation Commission and School Building Committee, prepared Warrant Articles and motions thereunder, made a preliminary study of acquiring title to Pillings Pond to end its pollution and create a Town Recreation Center and served as Co-Chairman of the By-Law Revision Committee, working closely with the law student research assistants for 10 weeks during the summer.

S. Peter Gorshel, Town Counsel

ANIMAL INSPECTOR

Another year has taken its toll of our former rural atmosphere. The last of the sheep formerly grazing on our landscape have disappeared leaving only a few horses and ponies. Household pets are our only other animals.

The problem of rabies has increased in some of our neighboring states and extra alertness should be maintained while traveling with pets. Rabies innoculations are mandatory for all dogs in 1968 in our State and Town.

WAR MEMORIAL COMMITTEE

The project of the Committee is to errect a permanent bronze plague to honor all men and women who served in the Armed Forces of the United States during World War II, Korean Conflict and in Vietnam, while residents of Lynnfield.

Before the present town hall was built, there were two temporary wooden plaques, placed on either side of the front door of the original town hall; later to be taken down and placed in storage in the cellar of the present building.

We plan to have this memorial plaque completed with the names of World War II and Korean Veterans listed, by Memorial Day, May 30, 1968. Vietnam Veterans' names will be added as soon as the list is complete.

SANITARIAN

Routine inspections were made of food handling establishments. Bacterial swabs were taken of eating and drinking utensils at those establishments serving food or drink.

Samples of milk and cream taken at random from trucks and retail outlets were examined for conformance of State Standards on coliform, bacterial count, total solids, butterfat and phosphatase.

Samples of water were taken from Pillings Pond and examined for swimming standards.

Several warnings were given to those food handling establishments that failed to rectify violations noted on inspection reports and one instance we requested the aid of the State Department of Public Health to assist us in bringing the standards of one establishment up to the minimum requirements.

Robert W. Rlmbach, R.S., Sanitarian

HEALTH OFFICER

There have been many new problems brought before the Board of Health this year, some of which will have to be solved over a period of time.

One of these is the future disposal of rubbish. At the present time the town is having very good rubbish pick-up with ample facilities for it's disposal. The Board has met with several officials of State and District Boards of Health in an effort to resolve the future handling of this problem. One of the solutions may be the use of incineration either in and for this town alone, or in conjunction with other towns. I might briefly say at this time that incineration as referred to to-day is a far step from the unsightly smoke stack incineration of only a few years ago. We hope sometime in the near future to bring before the townspeople the story of incineration, and what such a program can mean to our town. This method could solve the problems of both rubbish and garbage.

The annual clinics sponsored by the Board of Health were again held in the Summer Street School. Immunization was given against Diptheria, Whooping Cough, and Tetanus. Sabin Oral Vaccine was also administered, and vaccinations against small pox were given. Measles vaccine was used for the second year, and was much in demand, due, perhaps, to the fact that the incidence of measles in town seems to be less as a result of the vaccine. These clinics will again be conducted in early spring of 1968. Dates of the clinics will be published in the local papers. Mrs. Margaret Loux, R.N., assisted very efficiently at the clinics. She also did follow-up work on T.B. cases until she moved out of town. We have been very fortunate since then to have the assistance of Mrs. Susan Ross, R.N., who has had previous experience in public health nursing. She has continued in the follow-up work in the T.B. cases, and in the care of new born babies. She has also helped with other Board of Health nursing problems.

Contagious diseases have been on the decline except in the case of Mumps reported. There were 100 cases of these. Other cases reported numbered 23 with 20 dog bites and 1 squirrel bite reported. Due to the prevalence of Rabies in adjacent states the Board of Health has unanimously adopted a resolution requiring all dogs in town be innoculated against rabies during the coming year.

There has been a decided increase in the demands for building on undersized or poorly drained lots of land. To allow building under such conditions creates a problem for there must be sufficient area and good conditions for septic tanks and adequate leaching fields. This is a very important consideration in a town such as Lynnfield which has no public sewerage disposal system. We could be in the position of having to put in public sewage in the relatively near future if we do not insist on proper private disposal systems now.

Dr. George S. Robinson

BOARD OF HEALTH

The Board of Health has been in a state of revision during this past year. The Department of Public Health has made numerous revisions in the State Sanitary Code. Your Board has reviewed them with a State Board Health Representative. Some of these regulations have been adopted and others modified. We have tried to adjust the regulation to the needs of Lynnfield, which is rather unique, especially in the field of sewerage disposal systems. These regulations have been adopted to protect the homeowner and the Town from future sewage problems.

As most people are aware of the statewide difficulties of the solid waste disposal, the Board of Health has spent considerable time studying our own immediate and future solution of this matter. We asked the Board of Selectmen to reactivate the Incinerator Committee and to have them delve into the advisability of an incinerator for the Town. At this time the Board of Selectmen, Planning Board, and Board of Health are trying to find the best solution to this problem for the Town.

The Board of Health wishes to bring to the attention of all dog owners the regulation passed concerning the innoculation of all dogs against rabies. All dogs must have a certificate of innoculation before a license will be issued.

DEPARTMENT OF TREES AND INSECTS PEST CONTROL

The year 1967 created many new problems and relieved others. The drought was finally ended during the spring and summer but we have a deficiency of rain so far this autumn, yet the overall situation is much improved. Two heavy wet snow storms with high winds did some damage to our street trees but was much more destructive to private trees, especially white pine. Your Tree Department, with the assistance of Highway Department personnel, as an emergency service removed this debris and disposed of it. This was done to eliminate both fire and personal hazards.

Dutch Elm continues to be a problem and new regulations eliminating the use of D.D.T. when present supplies are used in both Tree and Mosquito work will result in much larger expenses for substitute materials.

With much wet and humid weather providing ideal breeding conditions the insect problem was a tight program. Continued high winds which prevented a normal spray program resulted in some serious problems, but these were eventually overcome. The home owner is cautioned to be especially alert for the following pests; Elm Leaf Beetle, late June early July; Birch Leaf Miner, 3 breeding periods, generally mid May, June and July; Oak Leaf Skeletonizer, mid June; European Black Willow Beetle, July. These with Aphids may be present in larger numbers than usual in 1968. You may call this office or Mr. Fitzgerald at Essex Agricultural School and we will try to advise you on proper procedures.

Our usual program of tree planting and maintenance was carried forward. Roadside clearing and maintenance was given greater effort this year and a marked decrease of roadside litter was the net result as well as more attractive and safer roads. I would be remiss in not giving a big "Tip of the Hat" to the ladies of our Garden Clubs for their efforts in making our South Hall area so attractive. They provided the plant material and design for the newly paved parking area with the Town doing the seeding and planting, making, a former eyesore an area that will increase in beauty as the years roll on. The usual cooperation of the several Departments has been enjoyed, all for a better Lynnfield.

INSURANCE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Insurance Advisory Committee advises the Selectmen on matters related to the Town's insurance program. The Committee serves as an impartial advisor on property and liability insurance, involving Town property and group insurance protecting Town employees.

The principal activity of the Committee during 1967 was associated with completion of work related to competitive bidding on Town insurance during 1966. As a result of competitive bidding on the Town's insurance program, more comprehensive insurance protection is in effect at reduced cost to the Town.

Members of the Committee include George Duffield, John Brodbine, Bernard Stiff, Richard Learnard and John Carey.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

THOMAS F. GANLEY
Police Chief

On February 13, 1967, Patrolman Franklin Livermore resigned from the Department and Hartley Boudreau was appointed a regular Patrolman on February 23, 1967.

In the field of education and training, Patrolmen Edward Foley and Paul Madden successfully completed courses in Law Enforcement under a program conducted by Northeastern University. Patrolman Hartley Boudreau graduated from the Metropolitan Police Academy on June 30, 1967. Practical pistol courses and target practice was conducted during the first week of May at Camp Curtis Guild in Wakefield under the auspices of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The Department has investigated a total of 2838 complaints. Arrests for the year totaled 327 and are classified as shown in the table following:

A Time For Action

Never in the history of the United States have citizens been so conscious of Law Enforcement than at the present time. Political hay has been made on such subjects as inefficiency of law enforcement, crime in the streets and a general cry of despair. No Police Department in the world can survive unless it has the support of the rank and file of the average citizen. We in law enforcement are aware of the problems, frustrations and changes in social thinking. In the past, too much emphasis was placed on economy. However, we are finding out that there are no bargains when it comes to protection of human life and one's property. We are at present in the "talking stage". When are we going to stop talking and plan to do something about it?

On the local level, your Police Department has had its share of frustrations as it continues to meet the ever increasing problems. Your Police Department will remain strong as long as it receives the financial and moral support of its citizens.

Thomas F. Ganley, Chief of Police

1692-93

By the law of the Province enacted at this time to warn all stangers to leave town, if it were not given in three months then they were citizens and if they become sick or poor the town must aid them. If any person warned failed to depart within two weeks, he was waited upon out of town by the constable or his order.

STREET LIGHTING COMMITTEE

In addition to handling requests for and complaints about street lighting, the primary activity of the Street Lighting Committee was a detailed study of residential lighting. The object: to find out how to provide the best residential lighting at the lowest cost to the Town.

Luminaire specifications from all known manufacturers were studied, as were samples of those currently available from the power companies serving Lynnfield. Conditions on every street in town were observed.

Results indicated that better lighting would result from optimum spacing and location of luminaires, independent of the sometimes haphazard arrangement of power poles: also that Town-owned lighting would result in substantial savings and in freedom of choice as to the type of luminaire to be used.

These conclusions are being tested in two areas: King James Grant - Eight 100 watt mercury vapor luminaires of Colonial design have been installed on Barnesley Road. Comments on this installation have been favorable.

Tophet Hill - Cooks Farm Lane and Cortland Lane West will be lighted by the same type of luminaire, which is particularly suited to this underground-wired area. The developer of this tract is installing underground lighting cables during construction at no cost to the Town.

Long range recommendations: Include street lighting to Town specifications (with all services underground) as a requirement in all new subdivisions.

We consistently focus our attention and concern to the problem of inflation. Diluting the purchasing value of appropriations to carry out the necessary services to operate our municipal affairs, indeed, becomes a provoking challenge.

In spite of the cause and consequence of dollar devaluation, our Lynnfield tax rate has remained essentially constant for the past four years.

Your Finance Committee is deeply grateful to all town officials and citizens in their sincere endeavor to maintain a sound economic balance between wants and needs. We believe a stable tax rate is a sound objective.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS BUILDING COMMITTEE

This Committee, whose first function was to procure preliminary plans, sketches, and estimates of cost for additions to the Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill Schools, held its organizational meeting on May 11, 1967 and proceeded forthwith to its first order of business, the selection of an architect for the project. After considering seventeen applications and conducting a number of interviews, the Committee concluded that the selection of the original designer of these buildings, Mr. Howard Rich and his associates, would serve the best interests of the Town.

Design work on the additions commenced early in June and continued throughout the summer. A number of tests relative to the sewage disposal facilities were made during this time, and approval for this phase of the project was obtained from the State Department of Public Health. Two meetings were held with the Massachusetts School Building Assistance Bureau which resulted in the granting of preliminary approval of the project by this agency.

The preliminary plans and cost estimate were presented to a joint meeting of this Committee, and the Board of Selectmen, School Committee, Finance Committee and Planning Board on September 19, and were subsequently approved for submission to the voters at a special Town Meeting.

A brochure describing this project was distributed to the voters on October 28 and the special Town Meeting, which voted the necessary funds to construct these additions, was held on November 6.

As the year closes, work is progressing on the preparation of working drawings and specifications. It is expected that advertisements for bids will be published early in February, with the opening of bids soon after March 1, 1968. This timing will allow construction to take place during most of the year 1968, with the expectation that the facilities will be ready for School Department occupancy early in 1969.

DRAINAGE COMMITTEE

In April, 1966, having noted a close relationship of soils and drainage to many of the complaints, and having no organization or consultant at hand specializing in such matters, the Board of Selectmen established a drainage committee. Instructions were:

1. Procede immediately; continue actively.
2. Perform immediate assignments, and recommend long range plans.
3. Recommend before problems arise where possible.
4. Work professionally and efficiently. Cooperate with other boards and committees.

On this basis, five of us composed of 2 department heads, a water department supervisor, a construction contractor, and a civil engineer have contributed over 400 manhours this calendar year. In effect we have served as consultants to the Selectmen, advised other boards and committees, and correlated ideas and information between these bodies.

We engaged in seven conferences, submitted 9 professional reports, investigated 6 complaints involving 20 or so lots and recommended accordingly. We enjoyed a fine spirit of inter-and-intra-committee cooperation; but we were greatly handicapped.

Greatest handicap has been insufficient mapping. More problems are arising; more water lines will be extended, drainage installed, building sites explored, ponds examined, appraisals and surveys made; even dumps and sanitary sewerage works will have to be considered ultimately. These all require concise knowledge of topography, street and lot locations, buildings. Thousands of dollars will be expended in the next few years to line up some geographical and topographical facts. These costs can be decimated, guess work eliminated, precious hours of time saved by adequate mapping.

Our recommendations have been summarized in two recent reports to the Selectmen for their consideration. As of this writing, the Drainage Committee chairman is also chairman of the Mapping Committee appointed by the Selectmen in cooperation with the Board of Assessors.

PLANNING BOARD

During the past year the growth of Lynnfield has again taken an upswing.

Year	No. of Subdivisions Approved	No. of House Lots	Aggregate Length of New Streets
1963	1	3	190 ft.
1964	7	72	8204 ft.
1965	5	76	8450 ft.
1966	4	35	4430 ft.
1967	4	57	7735 ft.

The greatest activity occurred in the RC (40,000 sq. ft.) Zone, which had 35 house lots approved. The RB (30,000 sq. ft.) Zone had 12 lots approved and RD (60,000 sq. ft.) Zone had 10 lots approved.

At the Annual Town Meeting in March, the Planning Board was successful in gaining an affirmative vote from the townspeople, granting $6,000.00 for an engineering study to lay out a new or realigned way to connect Summer Street (area of Edgemere Road) and Pillings Pond Road. This was a recommendation of the 1954 Master Plan study. This engineering work should be completed by December 31, 1967.

A Special Town Meeting was held in June and among other articles was one which would permit (with Board of Appeals approval) automotive service stations to be located in a Limited Business Zone whereas heretofore they were permitted in a General Business Zone. The majority of the Planning Board recommended that this article be defeated but in spite of this, those voters present voted overwhelming approval of this article.

BOARD OF SELECTMEN

ROBERT F. PERKINS
Chairman

MYLES T. BURKE

HARRY WENDT

Your Board in its continuing effort to maintain Lynnfield as one of the most progressive and desirable towns to live in, determined that many of our By-Laws needed updating as well as new concepts for our changing Municipal Government. We therefore constituted through Town Meeting action a By-Law Revision Committee to undertake our task. You will be called upon at the annual meeting in March to evaluate and vote on many changes to be recommended by various Boards and Committees of the Town.

A great deal of time was spent considering the complaints of citizens regarding serious drainage problems; it points up the need for stricter control and inspection of drainage requirements in proposed sub-divisions.

In case you have overlooked it we now have a very effective By-Law covering the control of "junked automobiles" and "debris". Any violations brought to our attention will be immediately investigated.

We have continued to work with the Planning Board and Building Contractors in the development of requirements for underground wiring and other public utilities in sub-divisions. In addition Colonial Style street lighting became a reality recently with a pilot installation on Barnesley Road. We believe they add not only beauty to an area but we also have the confirmed opinion that probable future economies in the cost of street lighting can be effected. We urge you to view this installation. Your comments will be most helpful in the formulation of plans for the future.

Your board is presently deeply concerned with the fact that disposal of waste will soon become a very real problem. Meetings are being held continuously with State and Municipals Officials as well as the Commercial Companies in the development of modern means of waste disposal.

The Board of Selectmen are responsible through the Chief of Police for the enforcement of law and order. As citizens, we are all prone to accept the protection of life and property as a routine matter until it touches us directly. Law enforcement today is a thankless, frustrating task constricted by permissive laws. This acute problem presents to us as adults and parents the realization that it is our attitudes and the example we set which cannot be left entirely to those responsible for law enforcement.

The Board pays special tribute to Mr. Ralph Dwight who retired from office.

CONSERVATION COMMISSION

The acquisition program of land for conservation purposes has gone ahead steadily during the last several years. In October of 1967 the town voted to acquire for conservation purposes the Keenan tract of about 35 acres in South Lynnfield. In 1966 the town acquired the 35-acre Hudson farm in Lynnfield Center. The state has reimbursed the town for half the purchase price of the Hudson farm, and it is expected that reimbursement will be forth-coming for half the purchase price of the Keenan property. These two acquisitions represent important milestones in the program of your Conservation Commission, which is based upon the Master Plan for the Town of Lynnfield. Following the guidelines of that Master Plan, the long range objectives of the Conservation Commission are to preserve certain areas and types of land within the town. Specifically, our goals are:

1. Acquisition of Bow Ridge - about 100 acres in South Lynnfield along the town line with Lynn. Including the acquisition approved in November of 1967, we presently own about 60 acres of this. It includes the highest land in the town, and is a beautiful specimen of one kind of typical New England land: dry oak forest, granite outcroppings, with pockets of swamp and bog pond. The reservation includes a granite quarry, that 50 years ago provided the raw materials for Boston's Custom House Tower. Years before, this was part of the Newhall sheep farm that ran all the way to the Wyoma section of Lynn.
2. Acquisition of the Beaver Dam Brook watershed - about 100 acres, including the 35 acre Hudson farm the town already owns. This is valuable from many points of view: wildlife, recreation, watershed, and aesthetic values are all present in high degree. This too is typical New England land - open field, abandoned orchards, maple swamps with a few stands of pine on the high ground. This area is perhaps most characteristically Lynnfield, for the town has been described as "three islands in a marsh".
3. Acquisition of Reedy Meadow marsh - about 400 acres in Lynnfield, plus about another 100 acres in Wakefield. This land is under water throughout most of the year. As such it contains a variety of plants and wildlife found in few places in New England, for there are few remaining fresh-water marshes of this size.
4. Acquisition of such other parcels as may be offered, if the property has real conservation value and if the price is attractive.

A map is included in this report, showing land now in the custody of the Conservation Commission. A brief description of the important town Conservation land follows (the numbers relate to the corresponding numbers on the map).

1. Two parcels, one about 25 acres and the other about 12 acres, between Main Street and the Ipswich River; mostly swampy woodland. The proposed reservoir would flood both except for an acre or so of the smaller parcel near Main Street. This can be reached over a dirt road just north of the Sagamore Golf Course; the other parcel is "landlocked" but has a couple of old roads through it.
2. About 15 acres of swamp behind Apple Hill. No access, but adjoins the well field of the Centre Water District.
3. The Hudson Farm. 35 acres of old field, swamp and woodland. Best access: the road beside the Shopping Center; other access at the end of Carter Road.
4. The Pine Hill lot - between King James Grant and Wing Road - 10 acres of pine woods. Access from Mirabeau Road (off Main Street).
5. 28 acres in the middle of Reedy Meadow marsh. No access.
6. 8 acres; all of it is underneath Pillings Pond except 100 feet of shoreline.
7. 4 acres along Hawkes Brook - access along the brook from Timberhill Lane.
8. 50 acres along Bow Ridge. Best access from the end of Ledge Road.

There are a number of projects that well might be undertaken with these properties; unfortunately most of them cost money. These lands represent an important asset to the Town of Lynnfield. In the future, as open land becomes scarcer, its value to the residents will increase markedly and may well call for increased development. For the present, we have no plans except for modest beginnings on nature trails, wild flower gardens, etc.

Bennett R. Keenan, Chairman

MUNICIPAL LAND ACQUISITION COMMITTEE

This committee was appointed by the Selectmen in July and August of 1965 to investigate and to recommend to the selectmen acquision of property that the town might need for future development.

With the town planning firm of Shurcliff & Merrill the committee recommended that the town purchase the four acre Pearson property adjoining the Town Hall.

Acting on this recommendation the selectmen introduced article 29 at the annual town meeting in March, 1966, to have the land appraised and at a special town meeting in June the town voted to acquire this property.

The committee is now considering a future site for a garage and storage space for the Highway Department. The present location behind the Town Hall is now adequate, but as the town grows more area will be needed.

This committee is of the opinion that all of the area in the vicinity of the Town Hall should be acquired for future use. The Rideout, Haskell, and Donahue properties, together with property now owned by the town, would provide an ideal area for the expansion that is bound to come and the amenities that will be demanded.

MUNICIPAL LIGHT STUDY COMMITTEE

The Municipal Light Study Committee was named in April, 1962 to study the possibility of a Municipal Light Department. Its report was made to the Annual Town Meeting in March, 1963 at which time the Committee asked that it be discharged. The Town, however, decided to retain it on a stand-by basis, its present status. The Committee has had no activity during the year 1967.

RECREATION COMMISSION

The Recreation Commission came into being by action of the Lynnfield Town Meeting of March, 1967. Members are Robert B. Kautz, Chairman, Warren Morton, Vice-Chairman, C. Maxwell French, Helen Eckert, and George Levey. Clerk of the Commission is Marguerite Brennan. Meetings are held in the Town Hall on the first and third Thursday evenings of the month.

Considerable time was spent researching recreation programs for the entire town, and after taking time and budget limitations into consideration the Commission decided to put emphasis on a worthwhile summer playground program, since prior canvass proved this to be a real need in Lynnfield.

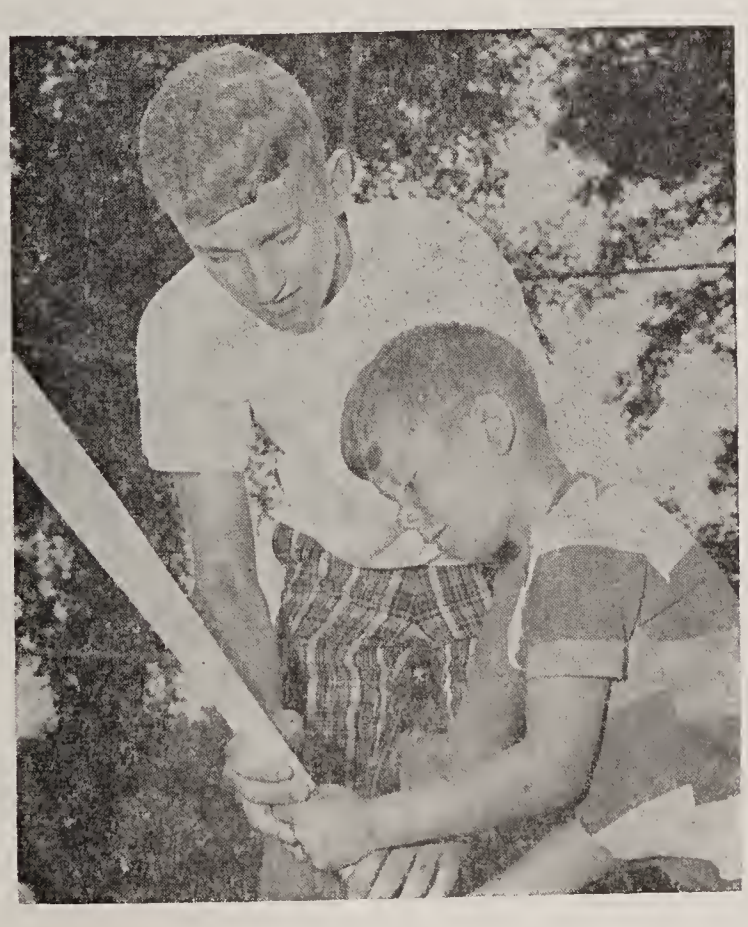
A six week playground program for first through sixth graders, at two playgrounds at opposite ends of town, was planned and carried out under the direction of a Northeastern University student majoring in recreation, Miss Barbara MacMurray of Clinton. Eight Lynnfield High School students were hired as playground leaders, and considerable sports equipment and craft material was purchased. The program included a series of day trips to nearby points of interest and amusement parks, nature hikes, arts, crafts, games, and dancing, as well as a varied sports schedule. Outside of the cost of the day trips, the only charge to residents was a one dollar registration fee, as a result of which $251.00 was turned over to the Town.

The morning playground program was acknowledged by parents to be highly successful, and this was also indicated in the high rate of attendance at both playgrounds.

During the six weeks from July 10 - August 18 an informal evening sports program was sponsored by the Recreation Commission; there were two evenings of basketball at the junior high school, one evening of soccer at Newhall Park, and an evening of softball, as a result of which an informal six team league has developed and is active in the Town. This aspect of the program was also well received and attended.

For its Fall and Winter Program, the Recreation Commission has sponsored a physical fitness program for adults three nights a week at the Senior High School gymnasium. Mr. Robert MacLeod, of the High School physical education staff, has been engaged to oversee this enterprise, which has proven quite popular. Badminton, ball games, organized exercise, and free use of the extensive gym equipment, including the trampoline, have been the highlights of this activity.

Robert B. Kautz, Chairman



But "whiffle ball" is just as much fun, and there's no danger of "high flies" becoming "bean balls." Jeff Strout, a junior member of the school's junior varsity basketball team, shows Scott Franklin the proper grip.

Peter Grady, like all the teen boys selected for Lynnfield's playground staff, is active in athletics — but just in case the game to be played is unfamiliar, instructions are available on 3 x 5 cards (100 of them). Information includes rules of the game; how to teach it; how to organize the players and ages of the children most likely to enjoyy it. That's Steve Rosenthal receiving a pitching lesson.

"DUCK WALK RELAY" — It's a race, just one of many games Janet Jordan plays with first grade boys and girls as a member of the Lynnfield playground staff. Since small children tire easily, great emphasis is placed on arts and crafts. Janet took a special course to learn simple games and teaching techniques before starting the job of instructor.

Jean Northrup (at right) blew up LOTS of balloons because they were needed for an arts and crafts lesson. Jean, an instructor, supervised while her pupils covered the ballons with papier-mache, then popped them to leave a hollow container.

Above, Lynnfield's recreation director Barbara MacMurray (center), takes over from teen instructors to conduct special activities like the informal dramatic lesson in progress here. Frof left are: Susan Panarese, Susan Madden, Miss MacMurray, Diane Conte and Heidi Nielsen.

Since Carey Burns (left, below) and "Chip" Stephen loved active sports as children, they place heavy emphasis on an athletic program for their charges at Lynnfield's playground. Carey supervises second and third grade boys and Chip directs activities of boys in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. As a change of pace, they take hikes or work with arts and crafts.

At the present time, there are 1091 licensed dogs and 3 kennel licenses in the Town of Lynnfield.

Thirty-seven dogs were picked up and returned to their rightful owners;

Three dogs from out of state were picked up and their owners were notified;

Nine dogs were picked up on town highways and were humanly disposed of;

Homes were found for four dogs, and which were later duly licensed.

CAPITAL BUDGET COMMITTEE

The committee published four charts in the 1967 "Recommendations of the Finance Committee" for the Annual Town Meeting. These charts projected total town expenditures and debt service costs and in addition listed possible large capital expenditures and miscellaneous statistics covering population growth, real estate valuation projections, tax rate projections and others.

The committee was limited in its ability to project tax rates because of the lack of information available from any source on sales tax disbursements to the town. For 1968 we have one full year experience on sales tax revenues and therefore it will be somewhat easier to predict a reasonable accurate tax rate projection.

The committee will also publish in early 1968 a complete history of revenues and expenditures by departments from 1958 to 1967. This will be distributed to all town department heads so that they may help the committee in making detailed projections by department through 1973.

The committee plans for 1968 call for the publishing of general trends of statistics for the annual town meeting, much the same as it did in 1967. In later years it is hoped that a much more detailed report can be published for town wide distribution.

PARK & CEMETERY COMMISSION

The year 1967 brought out the results of the fertilizing program which was started four years age. Needless to say, we will continue work on the area assigned for the above program, which are as follows:

The Common
Newhall Park
Essex Street Ball Field
Glen Meadow Park Area
Grassed Area at old Salem Street
The Five Cemeteries
Town Hall and South Hall entrusted to our care.

The flag pole on the Common has been moved back to allow room for the new Veterans memorial.

The Common has been the setting for a great many local organization gatherings this year, which included: Rotary Club Lynnfield Chapter No. 222, Order of Eastern Star, The Historical Society, Book Sales, etc.

Dandelion control on the Common and in the cemeteries is doing a good job retarding the growth of the blossoms. More weed killer will be used during the coming season.

The stone wall at Newhall Park has been completely re-pointed and rebuilt where necessary.

During the past year the rear section of Forest Hill Cemetery has been developed for the sale of additional lots.

During 1967, Newhall Park was the scene of much vandalism - the total destruction of the pre-cast marble drinking fountain and the block of swings, which were used by the children.

At this time, I extend my thanks to Chief Ganley and his men for the many hours spent keeping Newhall Park under control.

Recreation:

For the year 1968 - Plans are underway for the installation of one full size tennis court for Glen Meadow Park; also areas are to be set aside for family recreation and cook-outs.

At Newhall Park, we will put up approximately 150 feet of chain link fencing to keep cars off the grass and the baseball diamond.

At the Essex Street Little League Ball Park, the Commissioners are planning to rebuild the back stop.

The following is a breakdown of the receipts which were turned in for the year 1967:

Cemetery Lots sold	$ 675.00
Amounts added to Park and Cemetery Perpetual Care Funds	850.00
21 Interments	760.00
Foundations	71.00
7 Liners furnished	182.00
Interest transferred to Town of Lynnfield	1,499.29
Total:	$4,037.29

SCHOOL PLANT NEEDS COMMITTEE

Last fall, enrollment in the Lynnfield elementary schools had reached a level such that the need for expansion of facilities was clear. Accordingly the School Plant Needs Committee sponsored an article in the Warrant for the 1967 Annual Town Meeting calling for the creation of a building committee to prepare plans for additions to the Huckleberry Hill and Summer Street Schools. Passage of this article and the subsequent authorization to proceed with construction takes care of the immediate future, however we should not forget that further action will be necessary as the town continues to grow.

Projections made by the School Plant Needs Committee indicate that more classrooms must some day be provided at the High School, Junior High School, South School, and Center School locations, but these alone will not be enough. At least one additional elementary school will eventually be required, therefore good planning dictates that another site be obtained while suitable land is still available. In order to make the acquisition of a new site possible if the Town so desires it, a Site Selection Committee has been created and will make its recommendations at a future date.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL --

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

With continuing increases in school enrollment and expanded programs, our staff requirements continually become larger. This past year has seen the addition of ten more people to our professional teaching staff. Athletically, as well as academically, we also have experienced growth in the programs offered.

One of the most interesting programs recommended by the School administration, and enthusiastically endorsed by your School Committee, was a one-week camping program for all fifth grade students at the Otter Lake Conservation School in Greenfield, New Hampshire. We think this program provides a truly inspiring educational experience for our school children and the response to the first year's participation, as compiled from a questionnaire sent to all fifth grade parents, has been both enthusiastic and pleasing.

Townspeople are all too familiar with requirements for added school facilities and have proved most understanding and generous in meeting this need. Your Committee in order to support the School Plant Needs Committee, authorized and obtained a professional report by an independent and well-qualified consulting organization, Hill Associates, to up-date, on the basis of present circumstances, both the current as well as the long-term future needs of the town for school facilities. This report has proved most helpful to all concerned in analyzing the various alternatives available. The additions to the Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill Schools, as voted at the November, 1967 special town meeting will assist significantly in alleviating the pressure on our elementary and junior high school facilities, but the end is not in sight. The report of the Planning Board will tell of several new residential building developments with the certain growth in the number of homes and school children. It is with this knowledge that a new school site committee has been activated to search out land with the potential for added school housing.

In discussing space requirements, your Committee would be remiss in not mentioning the subject of public kindergartens. During the past year we have received two petitions signed by several hundred Lynnfield citizens requesting the immediate establishment of public kindergartens. However, your Committee is of the opinion that the interests of grades one through twelve must be given first priority, both in respect to school facilities and programs offered. It is recognized, however, that it will someday be a state requirement for towns to provide kindergarten training and accordingly the two new additions to the Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill Schools have been designed with this in mind. If it is determined in the future that kindergarten classes should, or must, be provided in these schools these can be provided without significant additional building costs.

At the time of writing this report, your School Committee has already completed many, many hours in preparing for, and negotiating with, the Lynnfield Teachers' Association (the local unit of the Massachusetts Teachers' Association and the unit recognized as the bargaining representative for all teachers and principals) and the State Council for State, County and Municipal Employees, Local Council No. 41, AFL-CIO, which is the union representing all custodia and cafeteria personnel. Initial contracts covering wages, hours and conditions of employment will be entered into with these two organizations as a result of the many bargaining sessions. Your Committee has not used outside professional assistance in conducting its negotiations with the two groups involved because it is the opinion of the Committee that it should maintain a close relationship with its employees. The relations to date have been amicable and it is hoped that the results will be consonant with a good school system and will continue harmoniously in the future.

As always, the School Committee's most difficult task is to establish a budget which provides adequately for continuing the excellent school system which we now enjoy and yet keeps costs within bounds. Many hours are spent on this task with careful consideration given to each request. The cooperation, assistance, suggestions and guidance of the Finance Committee in this time-consuming endeavor is most appreciated.

More detail reports of each of the areas of our school system will be found elsewhere in this annual Town Report, but the School Committee welcomes any questions or comments which any citizen may have and will endeavor to see that appropriate responses are provided in all cases. You are always welcome at School Committee meetings which are held regularly on the first and third Mondays of the month.

Richard L. Hobbs, Chairman

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

As Superintendent of Schools, it is my pleasure to provide this report on the progress of your Lynnfield schools during this past year. While it is not possible to provide a fully detailed account of every aspect of our school operation, a review of the various school reports should provide the reader with a comprehensive overview of our major current efforts and accomplishments. As in the past, I would like to call your attention to certain highlights of our year's effort covering, in particular, our curriculum, the professional staff, new programs and practices, as well as the status of our school facilities, for it is within these contexts that we fulfill our primary purpose, the education of our Lynnfield youth.

Educational Program

One of the most important of our school responsibilities is the consistent review, evaluation, and revision of our educational program in order to insure its relevancy and effectiveness in meeting the present as well as preparatory needs of our students. This aspect of our concern presents particular problems in a school system such as Lynnfield's which does not include an extensive central office staff to deal full time with curriculum improvement and program supervision. Our current major approaches have included teacher meetings after school hours for curriculum projects and in-service training activities, as well as the scheduling of summer workshops where small groups of teachers and administrators work full time from two to six weeks in an in-depth effort to improve a particular subject area. Workshops held last summer dealt with such areas as the improvement of reading, writing, and spelling on the elementary level, organization of a team teaching program in social studies, the development of a more meaningful program in English for the general student in grades 7 - 12, applied science-physics, creative and technical arts, and the improvement of our elementary art appreciation program.

While some of these curriculum efforts result in completely revised programs, others merely establish the framework by which we can pursue long-range plans of curriculum improvement and, of equal importance, implementation of the program through improvement in staff understanding and teaching skills. Our elementary arithmetic program is one example of such long range efforts. Following a summer study group effort, the system is now in the process of trying out two major new arithmetic series. After this evaluative effort we shall, with School Committee approval, select an improved series which will be introduced concomitantly with in-service training for our elementary teachers. Further discussion of these curriculum efforts will be found in the individual reports which follow.

New additions to our educational program which were introduced during the past year included an innovative reading program at the Junior High, with personnel and equipment costs fully underwritten by federal funds, and the extension of our natural science program to include a week of outdoor education at the Otter Lake Conservation School. Both of these programs are described in considerable detail elsewhere in this report, but I do wish to add that, from the Superintendent's standpoint, it was most heartening to see the truly enthusiastic parental and pupil response to these new programs.

Another addition to our program which was recently acted upon by the School Committee is the provision of an introductory course in data processing to commence next September at the Senior High School. This expansion of our offerings in the business education area will provide, I believe, a meaningful beginning in developing our pupils' understanding of this rapidly expanding field. Initial cost of materials for this program will be underwritten by the provisions of the Vocational Act of 1963.

Other areas of the overall program which have been expanded during the past year include the addition of winter and cross country track, and the continued growth of the fall soccer program. I refer you to Mr. Cooney's report, in particular, for an understanding of the many rich opportunities available to our pupils in the music area. Student publications now have been expanded to include a senior high school literary magazine and a separate newspaper on the junior high school level. While these are but recent additions to our program, they do serve to highlight the fact that the schools offer a remarkably wide program for the personal enrichment of every student extending from music and athletics to art, writing, debating, homemaking, drama, and all types of special interest clubs in such areas as French, mathematics, photography and physical education.

The Summer School program provides another educational opportunity which serves many of the specialized needs of our students. A total of 380 pupils attended summer classes this year. In addition to the new federally funded developmental and remedial reading program on the junior high school level, course offerings included:

Elementary	Secondary
Reading	Junior High School Arithmetic
Arithmetic	Algebra I and II
Typewriting	Foundations of Algebra
Music	Biology
	Junior High School English
	Senior High School English
	French
	Typewriting
	Music

Costs for this program were partially underwritten by a modest charge for enrollment.

Professional Staff

The 2700 pupils presently enrolled in our Lynnfield schools are served by a teaching staff of 123 classroom teachers and 19 other specialists who provide additional services in the area of reading, library, music, speech therapy, art, physical education, guidance, and audio-visual education. Private instruction is provided for those who are confined to the home for prolonged periods. Seven full-time principals and one part-time assistant principal serve to guide and coordinate the efforts of the professional staff.

A large portion of your superintendent's time is devoted to the recruitment of a well qualified professional staff, for it is only in the effectiveness of each individual teacher's work that we can hope to attain our educational goals. Department heads and principals assist the superintendent in screening and selecting candidates for nomination to the School Committee. A tally of the total number of hours devoted to the recruitment process was made for the school year 1966, and it was learned that close to 500 hours of administrative time had been devoted to narrowing the field down to a final selection of some seventeen teachers. In our view, the selection of a capable staff, one which is sincerely interested in our Lynnfield youth, is probably the most important service which this office performs.

The updating of professional skills and the attainment of advanced degrees continues to involve a large portion of our staff. At the present time slightly under one half of the staff has been awarded one or more advanced degrees beyond the 4 year college level, which is a truly significant ratio. In addition to the pursuit of individual academic programs, the school system itself sponsors professional training activities from time to time, depending on our current needs. Plans are underway for three in-service training programs which are being sponsored by the Lynnfield schools. These are in the areas of science, language arts, and audio-visual education. Additional professional development opportunities consist of special study groups and the previously mentioned summer curriculum workshops.

As in the case of most school systems in Massachusetts, we have been extensively involved in collective negotiations between teachers and the School Committee over matters of salaries, hours, and other conditions of work. Following months of effort, characterized throughout by a sincere effort by all parties involved to find solutions to conflicting positions, a mutually acceptable contract has been evolved, and it is expected that the final signing will be effected shortly.

School Facilities

As predicted in previous town reports, our elementary school enrollment has continued to expand to the point where seven classes are located in the Junior High School, bringing the total enrollment of that building to a peak capacity of approximately 900 pupils. The School Department has been working very closely with the newly appointed Building Committee in developing educational specifications for the planning additions to the Huckleberry Hill and Summer Street Schools. With the Town's approval on November 5, 1967 of these proposed additions we shall now be in a position to alleviate the present overcrowded conditions without having to introduce double sessions in any of our buildings.

The continued growth of our community, as well as the State Board of Education requirement for provision of a kindergarten program within the next few years, indicates that the end of our need for additional facilities is not yet in sight. In this respect, it would appear wise for Lynnfield to acquire another elementary school site for eventual future use, though the town may not necessarily elect to utilize such site in the next construction phase.

The general pattern of school growth for the last five years is as follows:

Year	Enrollment	Increase	% of Increase
1963	2347	116	5.19
1964	2374	27	1.15
1965	2464	90	3.79
1966	2633	169	6.85
1967	2699	66	2.50
	Average % of Increase		3.89%

Federal Aid to Education

I am certain that the residents of Lynnfield must be well aware that there has been a significant increase in the partnership role of the federal government in supplementing local support of certain school programs. On the whole this assistance has been beneficial to Lynnfield, permitting the introduction of some programs earlier than they might have come otherwise, such as remedial reading on the junior high school level and the coming course in data processing, as well as permitting rather large reductions in budgets presented to the town. These advantages are frequently offset to some degree by the growing burden placed upon the system in complying with the very complex administrative requirements which always accompany such efforts, which must be processed through several levels of the state and federal bureaucratic structure. I believe the results of these efforts, however, represent a commendable accomplishment benefiting both the pupils and, by reducing the budget, the tax burden of the community. The record for 1967 reads as follows:

a. Public Law 88-210, Vocational Educational Act of 1963	$1,100.00
Funds used in the purchase of dictating and listening equipment, programmed shorthand material, and visual transparencies for use in bookkeeping and accounting classes.
b. Public Law 85-864, National Defense Act Title III - materials and equipment for mathematics, science, social studies, English and foreign language programs	4,931.28
Title V - guidance program	770.40
c. Public Law 89-10, Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.
Title I - covering cost of materials, equipment and salary of teacher for the Junior High School reading program	$13,121.00
Title II - improvement of library and audio-visual resources	4,496.01
d. Public Law 874, Aid to Federally Impacted Areas	35,557.00
Total income received from all federal assistance	$59,975.69

Other School Services

In the realm of the "Did you know?" type of information, I would like to call attention to various other services that are rendered by the Lynnfield schools.

Our Adult Education program had a successful fall term this year, with 87 persons participating in the ten sessions held on Monday nights in our Senior High School. Courses given this year included Conversational French, Furniture Refinishing, Oil Painting, Sewing, and Typing. Reports from participants indicate an enthusiastic response to the worth of this program, and it is our intention to continue the program next September.

One service we generally take for granted is the truly massive feeding operation that is carried on daily in our schools. A staff of 28 persons, working under the direction of our Cafeteria Supervisor, Mrs. Stella Hawkes, served a total of 322,825 meals in our six schools during the past year. The cost of this entire operation, excluding the cafeteria supervisor's salary, is underwritten by a combination of lunch fees and state and federal assistance.

On occasion it has been remarked that towns like Lynnfield have a large capital investment in a school plant which is only used during the daylight hours, thus realizing only a portion of its potential utilization. Actually, the facts indicate that this is far from the case, for, even when one discounts all school sponsored evening events such as musical programs, dances, basketball games, and official meetings, it may be surprising to note that our school buildings were utilized on 462 other occasions by 34 different non-school organizations. Fees collected for such use, though minimal, amounted to $5,197.87 which was returned to the general fund of the town.

While on the subject of night use of school facilities, it is hoped that all parents are aware of the fact that our guidance personnel hold "open house" on every Tuesday night when school is in session, thus providing a convenient opportunity for both parents to confer with their child's counselor.

Though many other examples of supplementary school services might be described, I would like to mention only one other service to the community which may not be generally known, that of controlling the issuance of work permits to minors. The School Department reviews and acts upon all applications for work certificates to assure that the type of work, number of hours involved, and the work environment itself are in conformity with the laws of the Commonwealth permitting the employment of minors. During 1967, 209 applications were passed upon by the Superintendent's office.

In closing, one might look back upon 1967 as a year in which much progress was made in several major areas of our school program. Certain of our curriculum offerings have been expanded or improved, new programs in teacher training have been provided, several innovative practices have been introduced, and planning is now underway in providing for needed additions to our school facilities. All of this can only be accomplished through the cooperative action of a great many people and institutions. In this respect I wish to extend a special word of appreciation for the splendid efforts of the School Committee, our teachers and principals, and the community at large. It is only through your continued interest, review, and support of our Lynnfield schools that we can provide the quality of education which our young pupils need for today as well as for the future. For each of them, the opportunity is NOW and it is our shared concern to ensure that we have done all that is reasonably possible for the full development of our youth. Only then can we say that we have begun to discharge our responsibility to them and to the future of our society.

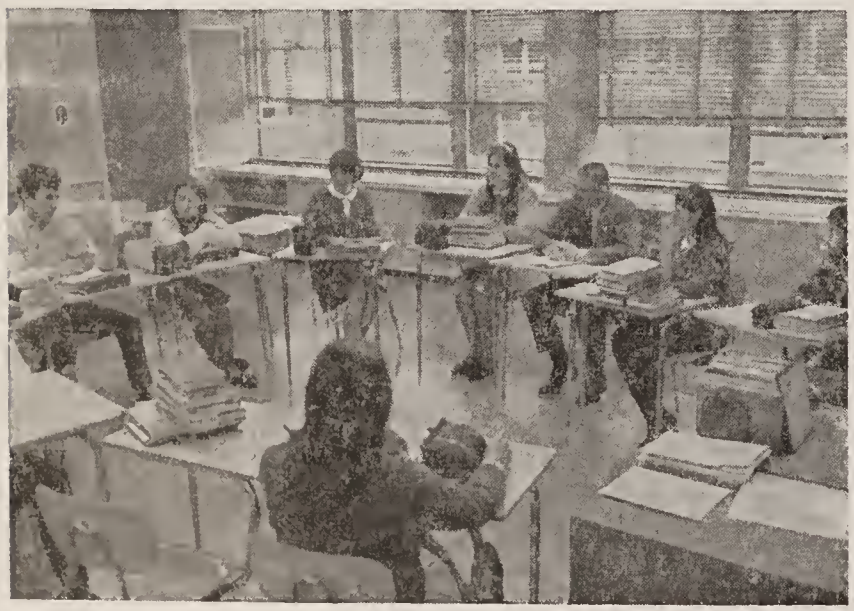
SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Henry F. Cotton, Principal

The Class of 1967 chose EXCELLENCE as their theme and endeavored throughout the year to meet the challenge of this high standard.

Graduation exercises were once again blessed with exemplary weather and the statistics compiled by the graduating seniors were just as impressive. For eighty-eight percent of the senior class, graduation was only a prelude to a summer of preparation for the schools in which they had chosen to continue their education, while for the others it meant a termination of formal education for a while as they began to seek experience in full time employment or in the armed services.



Small group instruction in social studies

A number of curriculum projects undertaken in the summer of 1967 were put into effect in September. The most promising of these curriculum changes was the revision of the United States History program to include large group instruction, small group discussions and team teaching. Though this program has not, at this point, been totally evaluated, indications are that a number of its promising teaching techniques may find their way into other areas of our curriculum.

Studying seaweed in a Senior High School biology class

We are already pleased with the work of the new staff members added at the beginning of the new school year and doubly pleased that 85% of last year's staff returned to continue their teaching careers in Lynnfield.

Guidance counseling is provided to all secondary school students

I would be remiss if I did not mention the high quality of leadership provided by our department heads in insuring that the quality of instruction provided is consistent with the willingness of our student body to seek and achieve the high standards set for them.

Learning by experience at Otter Lake Conservation School

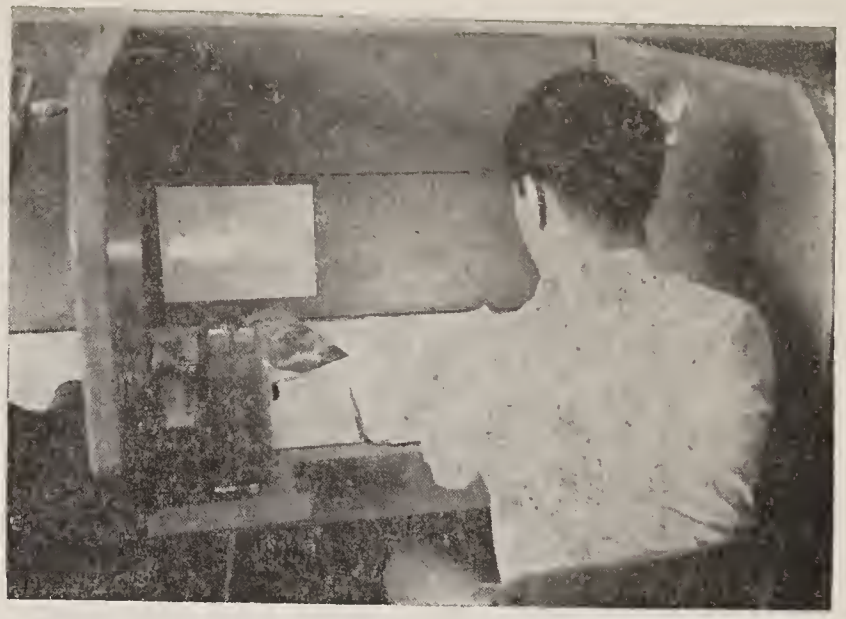
I am sure that the community will look back with pride on the accomplishments achieved at its high school in 1967 and can look forward to achievements yet to come, for the town has continued to provide the facilities, the materials, the cooperation, and the fine teachers and willing students that together are the ingredients from which excellence in education is developed.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Leonard Nihan, Principal

With the recent voter approval of additions to two elementary schools at the November Town Meeting, we are looking forward to the eventual ending of overcrowded conditions at the Junior High School. We anticipate total building enrollment to approach one thousand before completion of construction at the two sites.

The Junior High building has received a considerable "face-lifting" since the last town report. The gymnasium floor has been resealed, much of the building interior has been repainted, and new ceiling tiles have been installed in the corridors. The school cafeteria has been repainted and partially soundproofed, and improved lighting has been added.



Use of the control reader in a new Junior High School reading carrel

In addition to building maintenance, one room has been completely equipped with reading consoles, controlled readers, tape recording devices, and other educational materials essential to a remedial reading program. The bulk of the cost of the hardware, as well as the salary of the reading instructor, has been largely underwritten by a federal grant under Title I of E.S.E.A. Approximately eighty students participate in the ten remedial reading classes offered.

Use of tape recorded reading lessons

For the first time Lynnfield Junior High School has been represented at the North Shore division of the Eastern Massachusetts Intermediate Mathematics League. The team is made up of four ninth, four eighth, and two seventh graders. Competing towns in the League include Beverly, Danvers, Hamilton, Saugus, Marblehead, Swampscott, Wakefield and Wenham. The contest categories cover the following topics: number bases, metric geometry, number sentence solutions, arithmetic and algebraic operations. School advisor for the "mathathletes" is Mr. Paul Trunfio.

Another first for the school is the publishing of its own newspaper, the BLUE AND GOLD BUGLE, with Mrs. Paula Chase as faculty advisor. Student response to having their own news media has been most enthusiastic.

In September the science department introduced the experimental I.P.S. Program to half of the ninth grade while the other half continued with the traditional program. The Introduction to Physical Science program is a new lab-centered course with the emphasis on learning by doing. Lab procedure and technique are stressed and this new approach has been most effective. The I.P.S. Program is being adopted for all ninth grade students next year.

During the summer months a team of junior and senior high school English teachers met to deal with the curriculum problem for the slow-learner. The committee wished to provide the practical, workable tools of the English language for the general student whose formal education would terminate upon graduation from the high school. Such a course of study has been outlined in detail for grades seven through twelve and is now in operation.

The up-dating of curriculum as noted above in the area of English, resulted from one of the workshops held several weeks last summer by Lynnfield teachers. In the two years since these workshops have been in operation, junior high students have benefited from similar studies in science and mathematics. Educational gains are so gratifying that attention has been called again this year to these valuable summer programs.

CENTER SCHOOL

Dr. Nancy Santeusanio, Principal

The Center School opened in September with five first grade classrooms and five second grade classrooms housed in the Center School building and five third grades in the Junior High elementary wing. In addition, two sixth grades from the South School are in this wing, totalling seven classrooms with Mr. Richard Sullivan acting as head teacher to handle routine matters.

For the first time the primary grades have been set up so that they range in size from twenty five to thirty pupils, while one classroom at each grade level is planned for highly individualized instruction with class size planned for fifteen to twenty students.

On major improvement has been a new cafeteria design which was made possible through the purchase of folding cafeteria tables and benches. This has kept food preparation, serving and cleanup in the cafeteria itself and has permitted the utilization of the all-purpose room as a dining area at lunchtime. For the first time ten classrooms are being served using two cafeteria sittings rather than three. This provides more comfortable surrounding and permits children to eat lunch at a realistic time.

The most important tool that any primary school can offer its children is a reading program with an emphasis on word attack and reading for meaning skills. In addition to a strong basal reading program, an individualized reading program has been set up at each grade level. More and more books have been programmed by the teachers for individualized reading. Some teachers have a reading file with over two hundred programmed while others, new to the staff, are beginning with the minimum ratio of three books per pupil or thirty books programmed for a group of ten pupils.

For the first time grade one has started a modified individualized reading program using easy books programmed by the teacher and setting up the pupil-teacher conferences as a pupil completes a book.

In July a language workshop was conducted to revise and implement the curriculum. A language handbook entitled Give Me an Idea was developed. Give Me an Idea is a sourcebook for the teacher who is concerned with the creative impulse in children. It is the teaching of language through a variety of approaches with one general purpose: to help the teacher spark the creative impulse in children.

Members of the language committee were: Mollie Babcock, Patricia Banks, Veronica Hatch, Dorothy Batty, Eloise Kenney, Virginia Mitchell and Nancy Santeusanio, Chairman.

On February 26, 1967 a Volunteer Teacher Aid Program was initiated at Center School on an experimental basis. The program functioned in two phases:

> Phase I. Working on the preparation of materials to be used in the classroom.
> Phase II. Helping on the playground and in the school cafeteria.

The purpose of the program has been to relieve teachers from non-professional duties and to provide them with MORE TIME TO TEACH. The two phases of the program were initiated with four volunteers working at lunchtime and four volunteers working for a two-hour time block performing clerical tasks for the teacher.

The outcome of this program has been:

- Greater parent understanding of the school as a result of mothers working in the school.
- Teachers with more time to teach and to teach better with new teacher aid services.
- An opportunity for other schools in Lynnfield to set up the volunteer aid program in their own building.

Center School is dedicated to a philosophy of continuous growth and provision for individual differences so that each child may progress according to his own rate and level of ability.

HUCKLEBERRY HILL SCHOOL

Gilbert F. Bulley, Principal

This past year at the Huckleberry Hill School has been a most interesting and exciting one for all the elementary students and faculty. The school is very concerned with the wellbeing of all pupils and their desire to learn in a healthy and lively educational atmosphere. The staff has a deep interest in each individual and tries to bring out the very best in his social and educational experiences.

The school could be thought of as a clock that keeps accurate time, with the teacher as the key person to make it tick. The pupils come inside in the morning, move around during the six hours and then leave in the afternoon. How well the individual functions throughout the period of time that he or she lives on this earth depends largely on how well the school does the job of educating the mind of each individual. It is a real challenge to all of us and it is our hope to keep the working parts well oiled so that students, using their own natural ability, will grow into adulthood with a sense of pride and the satisfaction of a job well done.

During the past year many new ideas and significant changes have reached a reality. Our school library, under the volunteer leadership of Mrs. Elmer Weismantel, has been a great asset to our educational program. Parents and sixth grade students have kept the library open from 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. each day. This means that a student can be sent to the library at any time and receive help.

A new idea, the Interest Corner, has been the focal point of many exciting items brought to the school and shown to all pupils. It is interesting to watch the enthusiasm with which a youngster brings something of value to the school for others to learn about and enjoy.

What a truly tremendous educational experience for all the fifth graders who attended the Otter Lake Conservation School in Greenfield, New Hampshire, for five days and four nights! Here the youngster learns everything from how to set a table, to the relationship that exists between field, forest, brook and swamp. Spending most of their day out of doors, these fortunate youngsters, guided by teachers, could be seen in small groups digging in the soil to examine the litter layer, humas layer, topsoil and subsoil. All week long they put into practice the skills learned - observe, compare, classify. It was a full week of educational learning in a totally different atmosphere. The hands of this school clock really traveled fast. The science program took an enthusiastic step forward in all grade levels with the help of the new curriculum materials.

P.T.A. members have given many hours of valuable service to the school and to the students; many projects were successfully completed and the rewards of effort and time went to benefit the school.

The students in Lynnfield have a sincere desire to learn and, as professional educators, we are continually striving to find the best ways possible to obtain the highest results. The new addition to the school is greatly needed. All of us look forward with enthusiasm to the completion of this addition to better serve the educational needs of the Town.

SOUTH SCHOOL

Charles A. Wolski, Principal

The traditional greet "Hello" when good friends meet is being replaced by a cheerful inquire "What's new?" South School is pleased to take this opportunity to report on "What's new?"

During the latter part of October, the long awaited parking facilities were completed. The new parking lot for faculty cars frees a large play area for the children during winter months.

The mystery of muffled sounds of hammering and sawing throughout the school in the early days of November was finally explained. A new storage room was fashioned from a little-used tool shed and became the reading supply center. New lighting is being introduced gradually for the corridors beginning with the foyer. The obsolete desks in the intermediate grades are being replaced with more flexible furniture.

Under the heading of "What's new in instruction?" comes the unique activities period centering around student interests in art, music, and dramatics. One hour a week is devoted to this exciting enrichment program. The South School faculty devoted the past year to the evaluation of our reading program. As a result of this study a new basal reading program was launched this year.

During the past year the South School P.T.A. had a very successful and active year under the presidency of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Andresen. Beginning with a humorous and thought provoking lecture by Cynthia Parsons, Education Editor of the Christian Science Monitor, continuing through the excitement of a Science Fair, on to the annual all-school musical in the spring, and ending with the highlight of the year, the South School Carnival. Through the generosity of our P.T.A., each classroom is equipped with movie screens, and a record library has been started. In addition to staffing the library, the P.T.A. mothers are supervising the cafeteria in order to provide teachers with a much needed daily half-hour duty free lunch period. For this latest endeavor, the faculty is most grateful.

Although our staff members are not new, each year they bring professional growth, new ideas, and enthusiasm. The South School is gifted with a staff of highly responsible and creative people, who work closely to provide the best possible educational climate for our children.

SUMMER STREET SCHOOL

George E. Caswell, Principal

Summer Street School is an intermediate elementary school with four classrooms each of grades four, five and six. Plans have been approved for expansion of our present facilities to include six additional classrooms, a media center, a gymnasium, and larger kitchen space. Present staff members are principal, secretary, twelve classroom teachers, custodian, and three kitchen workers. Teachers and children also command the services of a nurse, reading consultant, art and music teachers, physical education teacher, and speech therapist. These permanent and itinerant staff members provide the general and special education of our pupils.

The children are grouped heterogeneously in self-contained classrooms for the major portion of the school day, although they change teachers for mathematics instruction and for other special subjects such as art, music, and physical education. The teachers provide for the children's learning differences through various grouping procedures and through individualized instruction. A number of instructional materials, commercial or teacher-made, and a variety of planned educational experiences and activities are used to enhance each child's growth pattern.

Curriculum planning and evaluation remain an on-going endeavor. Recently revised social studies units are proving worthwhile to the students. Much enthusiasm has been generated by our current materials in elementary science and especially by our conservation school program where fifth grade students spend a week at Otter Lake with qualified conservation instructors. New materials prepared by a group of teachers in a summer workshop are also creating greater interest and achievement in spelling and language. Increased use is being made of audio-visual materials as supplementary tools of learning.

Finding what works in the education of our children is a major task of parents and children. Above all we must be concerned that our efforts are aimed at helping youngsters to realize their enormous potential. We will continue to provide for the maximum development of each unique individual.

GUIDANCE

William J. Coughlin, Director

Guidance at the secondary level has many facets and continues to assume more responsibilities as the times change and new outlooks and backgrounds are needed. Increasingly there are more opportunities available to students as evidenced in one way by the growing numbers of visitors to Lynnfield from colleges, industry and further education.

The multiple opportunities open to students today are a reflection of our affluent and dynamic society; yet while many vocations abound, there exists a never ending upgrading of preparation. To meet these changes, the guidance staff at the secondary level has kept abreast by encouraging more representatives from industry and schools to speak with the students, and at the same time having counselors attend conferences, summer schools, and graduate courses in order to transmit the most recent information to their counselees.

To further this end, the staff now is actively engaged in assessing student needs as reflected by recent changes in curriculum, standards, and employment opportunities. The students are the focus of our attention and all efforts are in their behalf in order to assure that their background and training will be sufficient to ensure their entrance into college, employment, or other fields.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL READING

Mrs. Frances H. Carpenter

This teaching of reading is considered one of the major responsibilities of elementary school teachers and a large portion of the school day is spent in the teaching of this skill.

Every effort is made to assure success in reading for each child by meeting his individual needs through careful diagnosis and small group work. Pupils are allowed to progress at their own rates and difficulties are corrected before they become problems.

Teaching techniques are employed to provide the greatest return for time and effort spent on the part of both pupils and teacher. Besides textbooks, supplementary books and library books, pupils use many self-directing materials which allow them to continue their learning while the teacher works with other groups. Some of these are published materials while many are prepared by teachers working together and sharing ideas in methods and materials.

Classes are presently being conducted in reading readiness for those pupils showing a need for such preparation, as well as transitional classes for pupils needing greater individualized attention. Smaller than usual groups and special materials and techniques will, hopefully, result in increased gains for the children involved.

This year Lynnfield was the recipient of a federal grant of money with which we were able to start a junior high reading program. This program began with a summer session which extended over a six week period and involved eighty-eight pupils. It has continued through this school year and a teacher who is especially trained in reading has been employed to administer it. As there are many refinements of the reading skills which can and should be taught beyond the sixth grade level it is believed that these reading classes are a step in the right direction and may possibly be expanded to include reading classes for all junior high pupils.

Summer school classes in elementary school reading were held as usual this year, with teachers working with small groups in hour long sessions. Although any child may attend Summer School, recommendations were made for some by teachers. These classes give an opportunity to strengthen and maintain skills throughout the summer months.

The summer reading programs at the public libraries were again a big success. Many children were awarded reading certificates to be posted in their classrooms in September. Pupils not only enjoy their summer reading but they profit from the reinforcement of learned skills, build good reading habits and extend their interests far beyond that which personal experience allows them.

Each year we strive to improve our effectiveness in the teaching of reading, to reach each child's needs in a better way and to provide him with one of the most valuable learning tools - the skill to read to the best of his ability.

MUSIC

Michael E. Cooney, Jr., Director

Lynnfield High School Band

The year of 1967 has seen a busier than usual schedule for the music department, not only in the number and scope of public performances, but in terms of program expansion both in the classroom and in the performance organization. In February Lynnfield served as host for the Greater Lynn High School Band Festival in which the towns of Marblehead, Swampscott and Lynn participated both musically and socially, including a pre-concert banquet for administrators and friends of the combined music programs. A second Broadway musical, "Brigadoon", was produced by the music department in cooperation with the High School and marked another high point of the school year in that it was a combined effort of over 100 senior high students and many faculty members. Special note should be made of the cooperation of the industrial arts department and Mr. William Faria.

At the elementary level, the vocal music program was stimulated this year by the introduction of a new series of texts, "Music for Young Americans", published by the American Book Company. Junior high general music classes this year have again been reduced to normal classroom size and the benefits of last year's curriculum development are beginning to be noted. New musical organizations heard for the first time were the High School Boys' Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Maifeld and the Percussion Ensemble coached by Mr. H. Robert Ayasse. This percussion ensemble, combined with the brass group, was indeed privileged at this year's annual spring concert to play the first performance of an original composition written for them by Mr. Ayasse. This composition, titled "Naomi", is soon to be published.

The vocal groups were included this year for the first time in our exchange concerts with Cony High School of Augusta, Maine. The two schools combined band sections, as well as chorus groups, in the concert performances in both towns.

In the area of musical performances the greatest amount of time and effort was expended at the elementary level. The Huckleberry Hill School performed for a Parent Teacher Association program a special adaptation of Rogers and Hammerstein's "Sound of Music", presenting the music and story by way of narration and scenes, and the South School presented "Folk Town U.S.A." Another first for Lynnfield was a Christmas season presentation of Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite" by the Center School. This production was distinguished for three reasons: it was the first attempt at carrying the bulk of the program with the first three grades of school; every section of music was completely and originally choreographed and danced by first, second and third graders; and, finally, it attempted to convey to the public the follow-through of music instruction from grade one through grade twelve. This was accomplished by using the High School A Capella Choir from the orchestra pit to support singing parts, and also by providing an originally arranged instrumental accompaniment performed by a select group of students from grades seven through twelve.

The Junior High Chorus has begun to show the enrollment rising to the near 100 mark this September and also by its performances under the direction of Mrs. Maifeld. Another first for the year 1967 was the High School Dance Band's participation in the Dance Band Competition in Winthrop, Maine, with award of second place in the final judging.

Lynnfield was represented in both District and All-State Band, Chorus and Orchestra, and last year's All-New England Solo and Ensemble Festival awarded thirty-one ribbons to Lynnfield's students. Most of these award winners were invited and took part in New England Concert Festival in Burlington, Vermont in April.

Finally, in 1967 the entire music faculty took advantage of a rare opportunity to attend the Music Editors' National Convention which was held in Boston for the first time in many years.

ELEMENTARY ART

Mrs. Gladys Goodwin, Art Supervisor

Again the schools are growing! Due to the fact that five third grades and two sixth grades are now housed in the Junior High School it was necessary to modify the art schedule. The regular program has been carried out in the upper elementary grades and modified in the lower grades.

The beginning step in art appreciation was established this year. Classroom prints of famous paintings, in conjunction with film strips of paintings and lives of artists, have been used by the classroom teachers and the supervisor.

This phase is a very worthwhile part of art education and one which we hope to expand in the future.

SPEECH THERAPY

Mrs. Susan M. Wallace

At the present time 99 pupils are receiving speech therapy. Each child enrolled in this program is seen from 15 to 30 minutes twice a week. Emphasis is being placed this year on INDIVIDUAL therapy in an effort to increase the benefits to each child.

Parents will be invited to attend a speech therapy session in the spring but are also urged to make an appointment with Mrs. Susan Wallace, 334-5545, at any time.

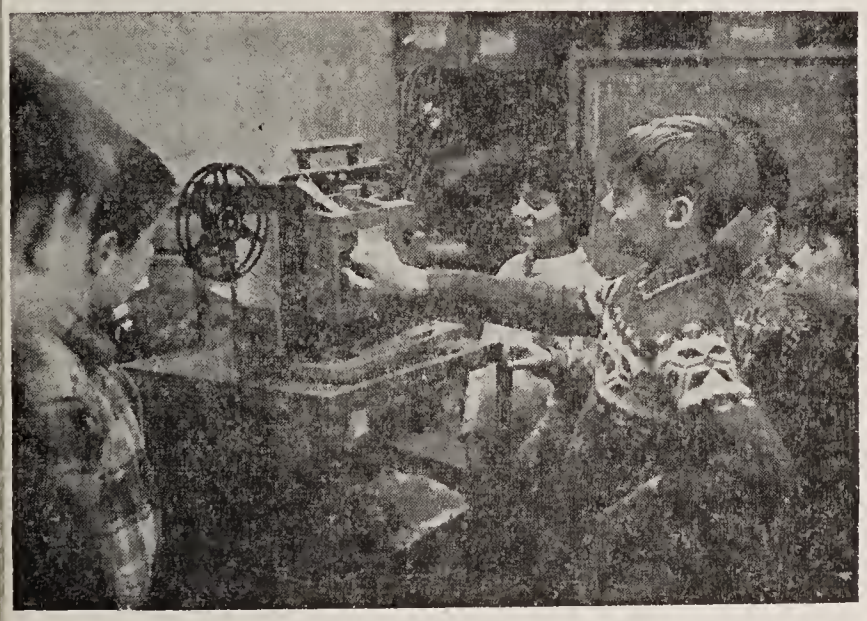
A new course in SPEECH EDUCATION is being taught to all first and second graders at Center School this year. Although the classroom teacher is not expected to be a specialist in speech therapy, she is vitally interested in the maximum growth of each child as a COMMUNICATING being. She can be the motivating force in the development of good speech. It is for this purpose of providing actual classroom examples and helpful suggestions that the SPEECH EDUCATION PROGRAM was designed.

AUDIO VISUAL EDUCATION

Robert A. Cox, Coordinator

As in the past the Audio Visual Department has continued to provide service to the teachers of Lynnfield in the form of equipment, films, filmstrips, records, tapes, transparencies and reproducing services.

During this past year the Audio Visual Department has continued to assist in the preparation of federal projects. We are proud of the reading program at the Junior High School. This project, one hundred per cent funded by the federal government, started as a summer school course and is now a part of the regular curriculum. Another new addition is the introduction of group listening posts in the business department using pre-recorded tapes to increase speed and skill in the area of dictation and typing. This also is completely funded with federal money.



Students assist in use of audio visual equipment

We have increased the amount of materials in this department, using in part grants for Library Resource Materials, a provision of the acts giving federal aid to education. To house some of these new materials, space was utilized at the Junior High School library.

In cooperation with the Historical Society, this department prepared a slide study of the Town of Lynnfield for use in the schools.

ATHLETICS

Allan R. Perry, Coordinator

Winter track and cross country were added to the athletic program in 1967, and, although the turn out was modest for each, there are indications that there will be more interest in 1968. This was the case in soccer for which 23 boys turned out in 1966 and 63 in 1967. Turn outs were about normal in all other sports for 1967. The early turn out for football was a little below average, but the number increased during the season until the total was about the same as it has been in previous years. The addition of winter track and soccer has increased the total number of high school boys and girls participating in sports to about 140 per season - slightly under one third of the total student enrollment.

The following additions and changes were made in the coaching staff this year: Garland Johnson, football; Arthur McManus, soccer; Robert Kautz, J. V. basketball; Robert Cutter, winter track and cross country; Fred Huntress, freshman hockey; Mrs. Ilsa Gottlieb, softball; and Miss Bonnie Blake, cheerleaders.

Use of the new fields at the high school has helped to reduce the wear and tear on the junior high fields which are already showing improvement.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT

DR. ROBERT CARD

PRISCILLA HAHN

1967 has been an unusually exciting year in the Library Department. Although for the first nine months, the new addition was under construction with the accompanying noise and confusion, library service was continued as usual.

By official action of the Board of Trustees in October, the name "Elizabeth Green Library" was changed to the simpler and more accurate name "Lynnfield Public Library", the main library in Lynnfield Center, with a branch in South Lynnfield.

At both libraries, use for study and reference has continued to increase. Circulation has kept up throughout the period of physical expansion.

The State Aid Grant of $2,099.50 was received, based on 25c per capita using the 1960 census, because the library service met required standards. A Federal grant of $3,950.00 was awarded the Lynnfield Public Library to establish a business collection and service, which has already proven highly successful.

The Public School-Public Library Liason Committee has met four times during the year to discuss plans and methods which have resulted in closer co-operation. Special collections of books have been reserved for classes at the request of the teachers. 4th, 5th, and 6th grade classes have visited the library for instruction in the use of the library.

Over 500 children completed the summer reading program and were awarded certificates at the concluding party. This project is sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

NATALIE BROOKS

Civic groups have continued to co-operate enthusiastically. The local garden clubs have furnished arrangements and displays; the Lynnfield Art League has loaned paintings and the Centre Club has set up a community calendar of events. The Friends of the Library held a very successful winter series of four lectures.

The highlight of the year was the dedication of the newly-expanded main library held on Sunday afternoon, December third, with over 250 people in attendance. The Chairman of the Board of Library Trustees, Dr. Robert L. Card, presided. Greetings were brought by the Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, Robert F. Perkins. Participating in the program were the architect, Isidor Richmond, the general contractor, Richard Gourdeau, and the Chairman of the Building Committee, Frederick Eble. The speaker was Mrs. Betty Flynn, Senior Supervisor of Public Library Development of the Massachusetts Department of Education. Music was furnished by a group from the Lynnfield High School a cappella Choir, and refreshments were provided by the Friends.

The Board of Trustees regretfully accepted the resignation of Mrs. M. Lois Flewelling as Head Librarian on December 31, 1967, and appointed Mrs. Marcia Wiswall Head Librarian, and Mrs. Patricia O'Brien Assistant Librarian. Mrs. Flewelling completed seventeen years of productive and progressive service to the town, years that witnessed the growth of the library, not only in terms of physical expansion, but also in the quality of the many services a modern library should provide.

The Trustees congratulate Mrs. Flewelling on her fine achievement, and look forward with great enthusiasm to the opportunities and challenges of the future under the experienced leadership of the new librarians.

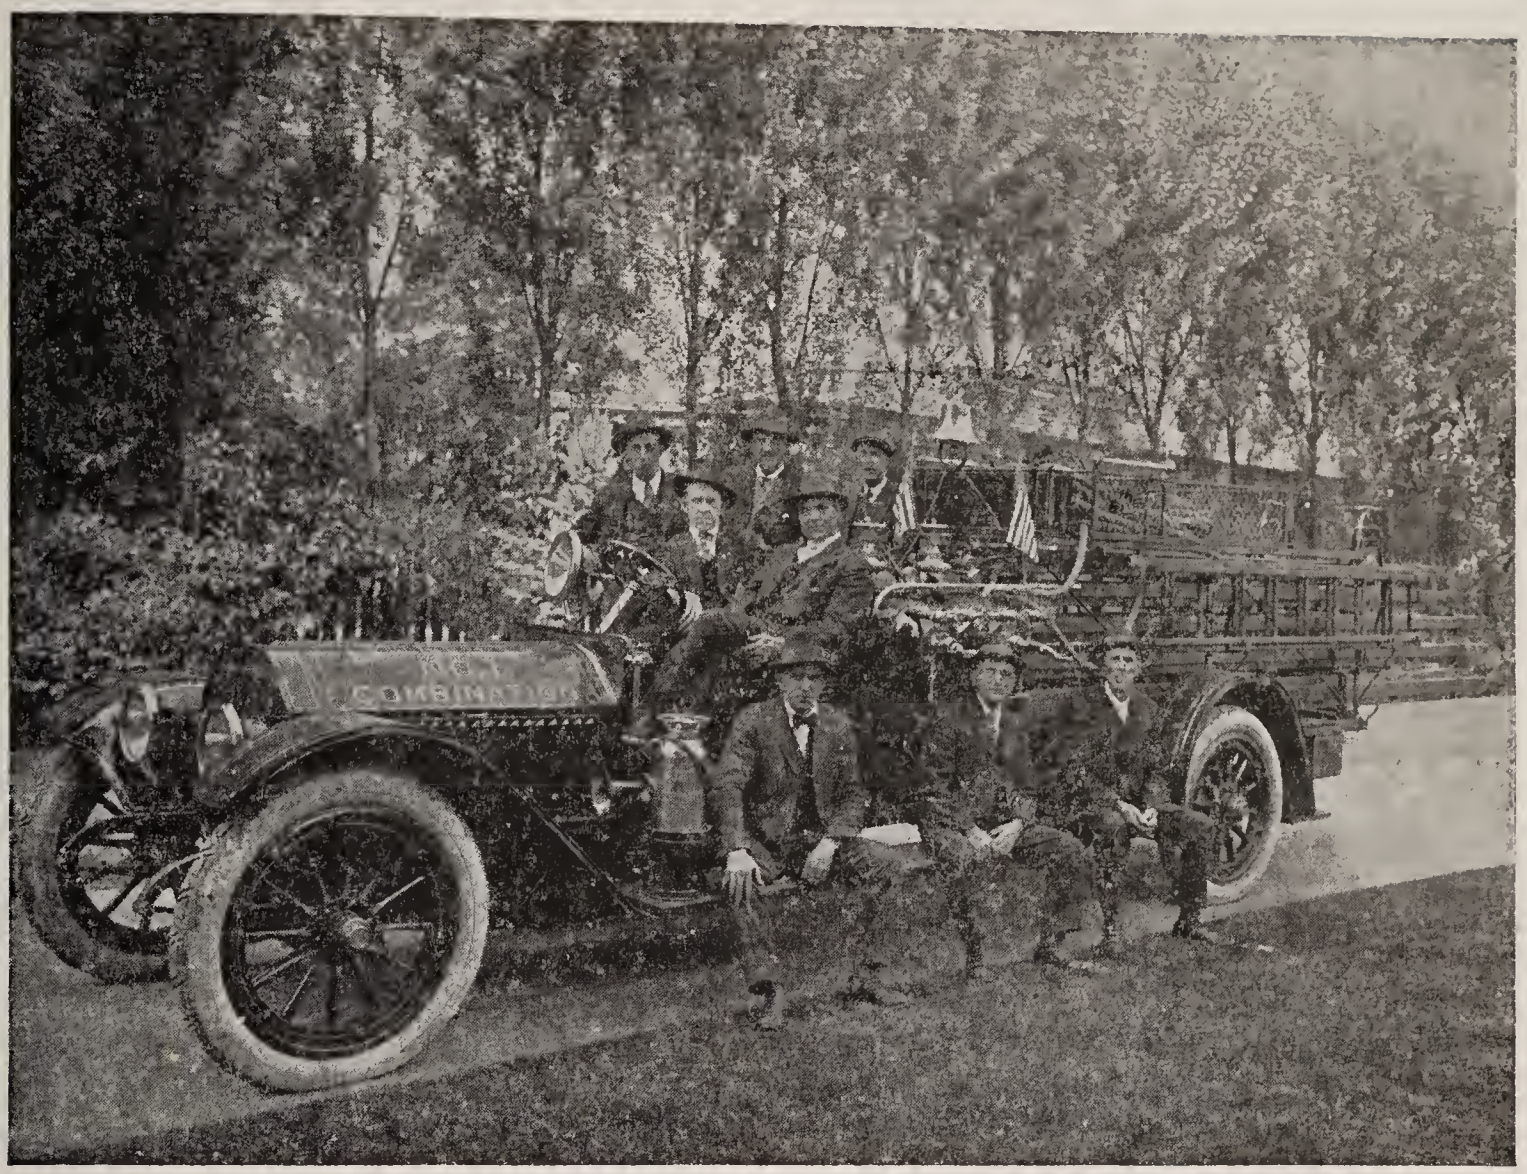
FIRE DEPARTMENT



1967 ALARM RECORD:

Brush Fires	59
Building Fires	5
Inside Fires	2
Vehicle Accidents	20
Mutual Aid	4
False Alarms	28
Needless Alarms	34
Misc. Alarms	19
Total Alarms	170
Box 333	102
Box 8	4
Street Boxes	64
Total Boxes Struck	170

The breakdown of alarms for 1967 reveals a marked decrease of activity in this department as compared to 1966 and 1965. This was due to the small number of brush and grass fires. The return of near normal rain patterns to the northeast is perhaps the most significant reason for this reduction.

Your fire department continued to make strides in '67 in the area of drills and training sessions. The department underwent an excellent course of instruction under the leadership of the Boston Fire Department Drill Master and his staff. Many fine points of fire theory were covered and much benefit was derived from this course.

This year has been a year of internal innovation for a better fire department. In September of 1967 I was pleased to announce the appointment of Donald R. Ross as Deputy Chief. Deputy Ross brings more than 13 years of experience and knowledge to his position. His enthusiasm, ability and knowledge have already proved of great value to the department and its members.

The administrative burdens of this department have been mounting every year and in 1967 they reached their greatest height. Many of the routine administrative functions had to be passed over in favor of the more important functions.

FORMER ENGINE HOUSE - South Lynnfield

In '67 steps were taken to overcome this problem. Many new and modern business systems and procedures were innaugurated to help lessen the burden. The appointment of Robert L. Shafner to assist in many of our administrative areas has proved to be of great value. The flow of information from this department to other town and state agencies is now handled with ease. The flow of communications between members of the department and the Chief's office has also been improved resulting in a more efficient and effective fire department.

Finally, this year saw the retirement of one of our most faithful and loyal members. Gustav H. Koch has left the department after more than twenty five years of devoted service. Gus often took on extra responsibility and chores for the good of the department and the welfare of its members. His retirement has been well earned.

Carl E. Davis, Chief

"Whosoever shall kindle any fires in ye woods, before ye 10th day of ye first Mo. (March) or after ye last day of ye 2th mo., or on ye last day of the weeke, or Lords day, shall pay all damages yt any pson shall loose thereby, & halfe so much to ye comon treasury"
"It shall be lawfull for any man yt is on his journey (remote from any house five miles) to take tobacco, so that thereby hee sets not ye woods on fire to ye damage of any man."

WIRE INSPECTOR & FIRE ALARM SUPERVISOR

Two Hundred Forty Two wiring permits were issued in 1967. This involved a total of over Four Hundred inspections. New houses require two to three inspections.

Numerous questions are answered in the office between 4:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. Several re-inspections were made as the work performed did not come up to standard. Several house fires were inspected and after repairs were made they were checked out.

Eight new Fire Alarm Boxes were installed by developers in the past year. These do not cost the tax payers anything for installation but are now maintained by the Fire Alarm Dept. The past year two poles were hit by cars. Boxes were damaged but no Fire Alarm Service was disrupted. We had no circuits out of service during any storms. Numerous cross arms had to be changed either due to old age or relocating of poles.

It is our intention this year to add another circuit to the Fire Alarm System due to a condition existing on Lowell and Chestnut Sts. One wire carries the Fire Alarm from Main and Chestnut to Lowell then to North Reading line back to Main and Lowell to the corner of Main and Summer. This is not a good condition and should be corrected starting this year and should be completed early in 1969. 5 Fire Alarm Boxes are tested weekly and reports kept on file. Week end maintenance pays off in the long run.

SEALER OF WEIGHTS & MEASURES

This department has inspected for accuracy all weighing and measuring devices being used commercially in Lynnfield. Corrections were made as necessary and resealed. Spot checks are a continuing process and accuracy is maintained.

BUILDING INSPECTOR

JOHN GLENNAN
Building Inspector

New home construction continued to drop, with 29% fewer new dwelling permits issued in 1967. Home improvement permits remained constant. The year 1967 saw the completion and dedication of the Elizabeth Green Library, the opening of the new restaurant on Salem Street, the start of the construction of the Lynnfield Veterans Memorial on the Common, and the demolition of a gasoline service station on Broadway.

The Building Law Study Committee, whose purpose is to review, evaluate and bring up to date the Lynnfield Building Code, has reviewed and rewritten the present building code to provide a guide, which will protect the health and safety of our community. Rough drafts are being studied by the committee for presentation to the Town Officials.

ACCOUNTANT'S CERTIFICATE

I have examined the cash receipts and securities in the various Trust Funds in the hands of the Treasurer and find them to be as stated in the Treasurer's Report. The income from Trust Funds in the hands of others have been received for the year 1967 and credited to the proper accounts. The receipts as reported by the Treasurer agree with the books, and that payments of the Town correctly presents the financial status as of December 31, 1967. Again this office would like to take the liberty of thanking the Board of Selectmen, all Town Officers and Employees, the Town Report Committee, and all others who have contributed to the compiling of this report.

THEODORE C. PALIZZOLO, Town Accountant

TOWN TREASURER

OLD TOWN HALL

In 1837, surplus U. S. revenue was distributed among the states. Lynnfield's share amounted to $1,328.29. This sum was appropriated to the payment of Town debt.

MARRIAGES

1764—"Married, Daniel Gowing to Mary Bowers, Dec. 25, 1764 by Rev. Mr. Adams" and it is added that the bride was clothed only in a sheet and undergarment, and those "She borrowed." Probably the bride appeared in that remarkable outfit under the apprehension that if she brought nothing to her husband he could not be held for and debt of hers. The bride being a widow it is conjectured that she did not want her new husband held accountable for the debts of her former husband.

1874—March, a Lynnfield lady gives birth to three children at one time, making up a family of four infants, under the age of 13 months, and 8 children, all under 12 years. The parents not being very prosperous pecuniary circumstances, were deservedly the recipients of many useful gifts.

EXCERPTS FROM HISTORICAL SOURCES

Journal of Mr. Obadiah Turner recounting a journey "afar into ye wildernesse" (to the west and north of Lynn.)

"1630 Jnlie ye 28. On ye last 4*th day some of us did goe afar into ye wildernesse towards ye river on the west and thence about by ye hills on ye north. And this we did that we might discover what ye land and productions of this our heritage might be. We found valies of mighty trees of such kinds as Old England is a stranger too. And wee made sore our feet by ye climbing of hills among rocks and thornie brambles and vines. Great store of wild berries were on every hand. Among them were many black shining berries as big as ye pills of ye apothecaries and these berries be of sweete milde taste and grow in clusters on low bushes with light green leaves without thorns."*
"Wee did pluck some and found them savory to eat in fire cakes and did think them apt for puddings. Then there were found other large shining berries growing on creeping vines of most lucious taste, and we did eat all till our mouths were black as ye chimney back."

"As we journied we did sometimes see skulking abont among ye trees what we conjectured to be Injans or Devils! jt patent yt ye great foe of all God his people both already begun to harass and plague this godlie company. But we do expect to have over from Nehumkeage a big ordinance whereby to defend ourselves from ye one and some godlie books and catechisms to fortifie againt each other. And God being on our side wee feare not what Injans or Devils can doe."

"In a vallie wee found a small store of corn growing wch wee did conjecture belonged to ye savages. And a little way off we did see some fruits growing whereof wee knew not ye name or use, but did surmise they were all for food. But we saw none watching thereabouts and no habitations."

"Of wild animals wee spied a few But we heart jt terrible roarings as if there were bears or unicorns away off in ye wildernesse or may be wild asses or Devils seeking to devour God his people."

"We did see some reptiles and serpents and two we saw had rattails in their tails Wherewith they made a strange whirring noise much like ye nose of ye night watch in London only not so mightie a rattil."
"Of birds we saw great store. Some eagles and hawkes and a manie of wch wee knew not ye names. But we are of a truth in a paradise of those moving things yt be good for food."

"In ye woodes in ye pondes and on ye sea shore wee have multitudes of fowle fish and game most savory to ye appetite and healthy for ye stomach. Ye Israelites fared less dantilie than we wherefor praised God."
"It was somwhat within ye night when we came in sight of home. In coming over ye hillock nigh ye doore of our habitation I discried a daintie white rabbit as yt seemed wch I deemed would make a savory dish for breakfast on ye morrow. Giving chase I was soon upon him, when lo he whisked up a bushy tail over his hinder parts and then threw jt towards me with a mightie rush! and jt shed upon me a liquor of such stinke nothing but ye opening of ye bottomless pit can equal. My eyes N my breath seemed stopped forever. When I recovered ye smell remained upon me insomuch yt they would fain drive me from ye house saying yt they could not abide within while I remained. And I still carry jt abont with me in a yet terrible degree. I am parsuaded yt this is another device of Satan yt fourfooted beast being an impelet to do ye Devil his baptism by sprinkling"

BY LAW COMMITTEE

This committee completed its assigned task of recompiling the by-laws rules and regulations of the Town and causing the same to be printed and made available to the public.

S. Peter Gorshel, Town Counsel

BY LAW REVISION COMMITTEE

Under federal financing of approximately 85%, this committee hired 5 law student research assistants and, after a public meeting designed to inform the citizens of the Town about the effect of the Home Rule Amendment, placed them under the supervision of a subcommittee comprised of H. Joseph Maney, Esq., Theodore C. Regnante, Esq., and S. Peter Gorshel, Esq. The students studied such diverse areas as Board of Health Regulations, Consolidated Personnel By-Law, assessing practices, Board of Appeals decisions, Town Committees, drainage regulation and Historical Districts. Some of these studies will result in proposed amendments to the Town's By-Laws; others have already manifested themselves in changes in the regulations of Town agencies, i. e. the Board of Health and still others will result in similar action in the future.

In an attempt to discharge the Town's responsibility to increase the student's skills as part of the mutual undertaking of the Town and the Work-Study Program of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, weekly discussion meetings were held and almost daily conferences between the students and their respective supervising attorney or attorneys occurred.

SEALER OF WEIGHTS & MEASURES

Checks are periodically made on all measuring and weighing devices in Lynnfield. By law all such scales, pumps and containers are checked, adjusted if necessary and sealed annually. This process protects both the consumer and vendor, insuring proper weights and measures. Prepackaged goods must have price per pound, weight and cost per package to be legally sold and are checked at various intervals as to their accuracy.

Gustav H. Koch
Sealer of Weights & Measures

VETERANS SERVICES

Three permanent Veterans Benefit cases were processed during 1968, one of which was a Nursing Home case, now deceased. Another unforseen labor dispute resulted in temporary cases which required a transfer of funds from the Reserve Account amounting to $750.00.

Vietnam Bonus applications were received and many veterans were advised on the filing of the same; also my sincere thanks to Mr. Higgins, Town Clerk and his staff for the wonderful co-operation given to the Veterans on these applications.

The War Memorial Plaque on the Lynnfield Common was dedicated on Memorial Day with appropriate ceremonies, and much credit should be given to other members of the committee for a "job well done"; also as usual Veterans graves throughout the towns cemeteries cared for in the usual manner by Post 131 American Legion, Lynnfield.

Respectfully submitted,

Burton B. Cogswell,
Veterans Service Director
Veterans Agent.

DOG OFFICER

CHARLES VABALARO
Dog Officer

This report covers the year 1968 in which there were a total of 756 complaints answered and investigated made at the request of the police department, the Animal Rescue League, the School Department, and Citizens of Lynnfield.

37 dog bites were reported to the dog Officer

67 dogs and 5 cats were picked up by the department kept in custody and eventually returned to rightful owners in Wakefield, Peabody, Reading, Malden, Amesbury, Saugus, and Lynnfield. Of the 67 dogs 11 were unlicensed and the owners were forced to license the dogs before release.

1025 dogs were licensed last year
50 females
551 males
424 spayed females

436 warning cards were sent to the owners of unlicensed dogs at the direction of the Peabody District Court. 5 meetings were held with the Selectmen.

I would like to thank all the Departments involved for the excellent cooperation shown to me in 1968. The relentless efforts will be extended in 1969 to the end that all dogs will be licensed.

And in 1969 I direct an earnest plea to the parents of school age children to make an honest effort to restrain your dogs so that they will not follow your children to school. This will eliminate fear and severe danger from dog packs. This type of dog is a menace to the safety of others and will be treated accordingly.

Respectfully submitted
Charles J. Cavallaro
Dog Officer.

BOARD OF ASSESSORS

At the request of the Board of Assessors a Town Mapping Committee was appointed by the Board of Selectmen to analyze the requirements of the Town. The Committee was composed of representatives of the following Boards, Committees and Departments:

Board of Selectmen
Board of Assessors
Planning Board
Board of Health
Town Counsel
Lynnfield Water District
Lynnfield Center Water District
Drainage Committee
Finance Committee
Capital Outlay Committee
Road Commissioner
Conservation Commission

After considerable months of study, the Committee recommended that a complete set of maps, both topographic and tax maps be purchased and made available to all Town Departments.

Article 29 was approved by the 1968 Annual Town Meeting for the expenditure of the sum of $53,500 for the complete mapping program as recommended by the Mapping Committee.

The purchase of both topographic (contour) and tax maps resulted in a $21,000 savings to the Town.

A forty-two (42) page set of specifications was condensed into a thirty (30) page set of contract specifications. These specifications were mailed to sixteen (16) mapping firms with known capabilities.

Proposals were received from eight (8) mapping companies with bids ranging from $42,000 to $85,000 for the project.

The Air Survey Corporation of Reston, Virginia was awarded the contract on the basis of experience and ability to perform to the contract specifications and their indicated willingness to comply with the rigid requirements within the specified dates. The Air Survey Corporation was also the company that submitted the lowest proposal for the complete project.

The committee hired Mr. Howard Bennett, Supervisor in the Boston Redevelopment Authority, Registered Engineer and former Aerial Mapping Supervisor, as consultant and adviser. Mr. Bennett is a Beverly resident.

Aerial flights were made on April 18th, 19th and 20th and resulted in near perfect photographs showing various features of the Town in great detail. During June and July teams of ground surveyors were seen on the main roads of Lynnfield checking out ground control monuments. At the same time topographic (contour) maps were being drawn from the aerial photographs. The map indexing system, legends and format for the topographic and tax map sheets were approved just before Labor Day. Micro-filming of all deeds and abstracts began after September 1st and were completed within a week. Initial drafting of tax maps started September 15, 1968 and will be completed by the end of January, 1969.

An informative meeting will be held with all Town Departments and Committees to acquaint and familiarize them with the maps and the uses to which they can be put.

From a layman's point of view, the new topographic and tax maps provide a wealth of information never before obtainable.

1.) Both types of maps contain an index sheet showing sixty (60) individual map sheets into which the Town has been divided.
2.) Map scales are 1 inch equal 100 feet with the addition of 2 foot contour intervals on the topographic maps.
3.) All map sheets contain a format which includes an explanation of symbols used and a small index of the Town to assist in locating the proper individual area.
4.) Tax maps show parcel or lot lines, frontage, shape, easements, streets, right of ways, traveled ways, ponds, lakes and other waterways. Each parcel of land has the legal lot number and an assigned parcel number to identify present owner, plus many other features.
5.) Topographic maps show elevation of terrain in vertical 2 foot contour intervals, grade of lots, streets, roads, ponds, lakes, waterways, natural drainage features, flood plain lines etc.

A map display will be set up in the Town Hall at a later date and the Board hopes the Townspeople will avail themselves of this opportunity to become acquainted with the new maps.

The Board of Assessors will make itself available to various Town groups to explain in detail the use of these new maps.

Any taxpayer who did not receive the pamphlet entitled "No Tax Increase for Home Maintenance and Repairs" with their 1968 tax bill, may obtain a copy of same at the Assessors Office.

BOARD OF REGISTRARS

1968 was a busy year for the Board of Registrars, with 10 official meetings being held, and a record total of 938 persons - 482 women and 456 men - registering as new voters. Reflecting the increased political interest during a national election year, there was an increase of 352 Republicans, 140 Democrats, and 119 Independents over the 1967 figures.

The current totals are:

PRECINCT	REPUBLICANS	DEMOCRATS	INDEPENDENTS	TOTAL
1	1236	409	1304	2949
2	966	677	1154	2797
	2202	1086	2458	5746

In addition, 45 citizens, recently moved into Lynnfield from another state, were qualified to vote for the electors for a presidential and vice presidential ticket in the November 5 election. The Board also processed the absentee ballot applications of over 300 people who were unable to vote in person. The residents of Lynnfield are to be congratulated on their November voting performance since 92% of the registered voters cast ballots, a turnout which is believed to have been the second highest percentage in Essex County

The Board wishes to thank all residents for their cooperation in the compiling of the annual street list. We ask that census cards left at the door be returned to the Town Hall promptly. We also urge voters moving within the town to notify the Town Clerks office of their new address.

If the reader is not a registered voter, the eligibility requirements are: a minimum age of 21, ability to read a section of the Massachusetts Constitution, one year residence in the state and six months residence in Lynnfield by Election Day.

Albert C. White, Jr.
Chairman, Board of Registrars

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

The year 1968 for this Department wasn t anything new. It was just a continuation of 1967. As we go from one season to another or from one year to another, we are never finished as there are always many things that have to be done. In the Winter we have the snow and ice problems, in the Spring the clean-up of the scars of Winter, in the Summer and Fall new construction and all year there are many maintenance chores.

By direction of Town Meeting, Maple Street, Green Street, Laurel Road, Sylvan Circle, Parsons Avenue, Beaver Avenue and Highland Avenue were rebuilt. A portion of Fletcher Road was repaired by installing a new drain and removing the Culder-Sac by the Watts property. A drain was installed on Crescent Avenue and stone seals applied to a portion of Chestnut Street, Lowell Street and Pillings Pond Road.

At a Special Town Meeting funds were appropriated for a new storm drain on Standish Road and for the rebuilding of Coleman Avenue. This work was done.

Chapter 90 funds for 1968 were spent on the widening and rebuilding of Summer Street from Walnut Street to north of the Summer Street School.

The heating system in the Highway garage has been repaired and new lights and wiring installed. Before the end of the year the office and lavatory will be repaired and painted and some new furniture installed.

Looking ahead to 1969 we expect to finish Summer Street widening and rebuilding to the Town Hall. Also the rebuilding of Merrow Road, Priscilla Road, Phillips Road, Trickett Road, Thomas Road, Witham Road and Douglas Road.

The Road Commissioner and the personnel of the Highway Department wish to thank the citizens and many of the administrative officials of the Town for their help and co-operation throughout the year.

James C. Fletcher
Road Commissioner

GAS INSPECTOR

During the year of 1968 fifty-one gas permits were issued, thirty-one of these were for new gas services.

Ralph Preziuso
Gas Inspector

TOWN COUNSEL

The ordinary legal business of the Town increased in volume during 1968 and included furnishing rulings, counselling, litigation, contracts, preparation of warrant articles and motions and appearances before administrative agencies.

In addition, as directed by the Selectmen, Town Counsel prepared a report on the impact on the Town of the proposed conversion of Camp Curtis Guild into a missile base and presented it to the Ways and Means Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature during its deliverations on a bill to authorize the sale of the Camp to the United States Government; the bill did not pass durng the 1968 session but indications are that this was only a temporary impediment to the site's installation.

Town Counsel also acted as a member of the Town Mapping Committee and as Chairman of the By-Law Revision Committee.

The Town's citizens and officers were helpful and considerate, particularly during my disability in the critical period when the Annual Town Meeting Warrant was prepared and closed. Former Town Counsel, Ralph Howland once again demonstratd his sincere concern for the Town by attending to this essential work and acting as Town Counsel in my stead, thereby earning the deep appreciation of the Town in general and mine in particular.

S. PETER GORSHEL

ANIMAL INSPECTOR

In the past year a Dog Leash Law was created and subsequently repealed by vote of Town Meeting, then a revised Control Law was enacted, but as no adequate funds were appropriated implementation has not been accomplished as yet. There have been problems at our Elementary schools, dogs following their young masters and creating problems on the playgrounds.

In September and October problems arose and for several weeks considerable activity ensued. One call involved a cat that had been bitten by a bat which proved to be rabid. The cat had previously been destroyed and no further positive tests were found. Checks of the area by a Registered Exterminator were made and no further evidence of bats were found. This was the first case of rabies in this area in the many years of my service as Animal Inspector. I cannot urge too strongly that all pets should be innoculated for rabies and sudden changes in the disposition of an animal should be checked by a veterinary.

Gustav H. Koch
Animal Inspector

BOARD OF HEALTH

In July of this year a part-time Clerk was employed by the Board of Health with office hours in the Town Hall from 8:30 to noon Monday through Friday. All complaints and inquiries to the Board of Health should be made during that time.

The Town has also acquired the services of a Sanitary Engineer, Mr. Robert Fields, and he has been of immeasurable help in inspecting sewerage and drainage systems as well as land to be developed, and also in enforcing the Sanitary regulations of the Town. It is the responsibility of the homeowner to take out a permit on any change in a sewerage system. This is the only way the Town can keep control over inadequate systems being installed.

Any complaints concerning garbage or rubbish collections are being handled through the Board of Health office in the Town Hall. It should be noted that whenever the normal day for rubbish collection falls on a holiday, the pick-up will be one day late. All rubbish and garbage must be kept separate; otherwise it will not be collected. Cardboard cartons should not be used as containers because they fall apart when they get wet.

The annual clinics sponsored by the Board of Health were held in the Summer Street School in the Spring. Immunization was given against Diptheria, Tetanus, Whooping Cough and Measles. The Sabin Oral Vaccine was administered as well as vaccinations against Smallpox. Mrs. Jean Taylor has been appointed Public Health nurse. She will make home visits for all new-born babies and investigate any cases of infectious diseases in the Town.

All dogs must have a certificate of innoculation against rabies. No license will be issued to a dog that has not been innoculated.

Dr. George S. Robinson, Chairman
Manton P. Spear
Harold D. Aldrich

STREET LIGHTING COMMITTEE

Implementation of the Street Lighting Master Plan was begun this year, and will be nearly complete at year's end.

The plan, for residential areas, calls for a mercury vapor luminaire on every third power pole, with additional units at intersections, curves and where the number of poles does not permit such spacing. On some streets with exceptionally wide pole spacing, lights have been installed on every other pole to give an equivalent spacing.

In the Centre area, 100 watt units have been installed. In the South area, 175 watt units were called for, as the rate for this wattage here is only slightly greater than for 100 watt units, and the amount of light obtained is twice as great.

The Committee has had little guidance from townspeople in the selection of conventional street lighting. In the 1966 Town Report, the completion of the Master Plan was reported, and comments and suggestions were invited; none were received. However, since the installation has begun, a number of letters and comments have been received, which can be summarized as follows:

Too much light	-	13
Not enough light	-	11

From this response the Committee has concluded that, on the average, the people of Lynnfield are satisfied with the residential street lighting being installed.

Physical arrests for the year 1968 indicate an increase of 50% and of this total, 75% were between the ages of 15 and 23 years of age. Complaints for the year increased 20%. Although there is no substantial increase in house breaks, the total is still too high.

I want to thank the citizens of Lynnfield for their financial support at Town Meeting. It enabled us to successfully compete with other cities and towns for new recruits.

Very truly yours,
Thomas F. Ganley,
Chief of Police

DEPARTMENT OF TREES AND INSECTS PEST CONTROL

GUSTAV A. KOCH

1968 has been a year of extremes. Extreme cold in November and December with little snow cover until January and a cold wet spring, then the extremely dry summer and fall. November will bring rainfall up to and exceeding the normal for the year, but to paraphrase the sports announcer "Too Late" as much damage has already been done to the root systems of the trees. The excess moisture in May and June created numerous pest problems and created weather conditions that made a proper spray program difficult. Research by the Shade Tree Labratory at the University of Massachusetts and Waltham Field Station and many other similar units throughout the nation have not been able to solve our Elm and Maple tree problems as yet, but we are hopeful.

Our tree replacement program is up to date and all subdivisions are planted as needed by the developers under the supervision of your Tree Warden.

The Mosquito Program seemed to give better control in most areas and our three way program consisting of winter dusting of marshes, aerial spraying of breeding areas and weekly fogging for adult mosquitos is proving its worth.

Cooperating with the Garden Clubs whose beautification of Municipal buildings projects continues. We assisted with the Elizabeth Green Library project and the initial planting was completed in November. Help is needed from adults as well as children by using the bicycle rack and sidewalks.

Cooperation by our Town officers has been excellent as usual.

& Supt. of Insect Pest Control

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Seated (1. to r.) Mrs. Eugene M. Gutowski, Asst. Clerk, Clyde R. Warburg, Chairman, Robert G. Fraser

A relatively stable tax rate each year continues to be one of our primary objectives for all of our residents. Each year additional services must be evaluated in terms of our needs and ability to pay.

This past year our tax rate increased $2.50. Continuation of inflation, expansion of municipal services, increasing costs of our educational system and higher welfare and medical expenses require all citizens to be prudent when considering appropriations.

Your Finance Committee will continue to be sensitive and responsive to the needs of our growing community. The challenge is to encourage desirable improvements, resist unnecessary expenses and identify the difference.

Your Finance Committee is deeply grateful to all town officials and citizens in their sincere endeavor to provide sound financial continuity relative to future tax commitments.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS BUILDING COMMITTEE

Preparation of working drawings and specifications for the Huckleberry Hill and Summer Street School Additions was well under way as the year commenced. Bids for the Huckleberry Hill Addition were advertised in February. Five bids were received and opened March 12, with Connor Construction Company of Burlington, Massachusetts, proving to be the low bidder. A contract was signed on March 26 with this company for the sum of $635,500 and actual work commenced at the site on April 1.

Bids on the Summer Street Addition were advertised in late March. Three bids were received and opened April 23 with Griecci Construction Company of Arlington, Massachusetts, the low bidder. A contract was signed on April 30 with this company for the sum of $579,540 and work on this project commenced shortly thereafter.

Construction work on both additions continued throughout the summer and fall. As the year draws to a close, the Huckleberry Hill Addition is well along toward completion and is expected to be finished in February 1969. The Summer Street project, due to a later start and a long delay in receiving the structural steel parts, is somewhat behind in its schedule.

An entirely new sewage disposal field has been built at Huckleberry Hill and an additional field installed at Summer Street. Both of these undertakings have been completed and have been approved by the District Engineer of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

During the last two months of the year, the Committee has been engaged in arranging for the purchase of equipment and furnishings.

DRAINAGE COMMITTEE

This committee was formed in April, 1966 by the Board of Selectmen "to perform immediate assignments, recommend on the cases involved and on long range plans; to work professionally and efficiently, and to cooperate with other town bodies."

In our 1967 report, we recommended the early purchase of topographic and assessors' lot maps. This was done, and is reported by the Mapping Committee. Henceforth the work of the Drainage Committee will be more efficient and effective by use of those maps. This did not include the mapping of Town drainage facilities, much of which is concealed and unknown, thus handicapping our analysis and our efficiency. We recommend that a survey be authorized to post drainage and certain criteria on existing maps and that funds be appropriated therefor.

During the past 12 months, you gave us 11 actual assignments, the Planning Board two, and the Appeal Board one. On these were submitted advisory reports as complete as the nature of our appointments and facilities at hand permit. We held 15 conferences in this work, - mostly of engineering nature, or in the obtaining of data for the reports. Actually a total of 41 complaints were heard and resolved in the 14 reports.

It may be of interest that our budget, assets and liabilities each are zero. However, we like to feel we continue to serve as the Selectmen required of us two years ago.

Respectfully,

Freeman W. Towers, R.P.E.

PLANNING BOARD

During 1968 the Planning Board held 22 regular meetings and 3 special meetings. The number of sub-divisions approved was 5 and the total number of house lots approved was 52. The following table compares these figures with those of the previous three years:

Year	No. of Sub-divisions Approved	No. of House Lots	Aggregate Length of New Streets
1965	5	76	8450 ft.
1966	4	35	4430 ft.
1967	4	57	7735 ft.
1968	5	52	5303 ft.

Inasmuch as there are now several proposals for either new sub-divisions or extensions of existing sub-divisions under consideration, it would appear that the rate of growth in Lynnfield will hold steady at least through 1970.

A major project during the year was an engineering survey and aerial mapping of the northeast side of Pillings Pond to determine the best route for a major artery running from Summer Street to the Pillings Pond Road area. Funds for this project were voted at the 1968 Annual Town Meeting and the survey work has been substantially completed.

The Planning Board was pleased to have cooperated with other town committees in attracting a major wholesale drug firm to make initial use of industrial land on the south-bound lane of Route 1. It is hoped that the future will show expanded use of this area.

Elected to the Planning Board in 1968 was Oscar S. Bray, succeeding Colby L. Burbank, Jr., who did not seek re-election. Arthur J. Bourque, Jr., resigned from the Board in September and Vaughn E. Young was appointed to fill this vacancy. Parker B. Holloway, Jr., continues to serve as Vice-Chairman and Donald G. Harriss as Clerk. Mrs. Edith L. Anderson remains Assistant Clerk and can be contacted at the Planning Board office Tuesday and Thursday mornings each week.

Respectfully submitted,

MUNICIPAL LAND ACQUISTION COMMITTEE

This Committee was appointed by the Board of Selectmen in July, 1965 to investigate and recommend to the Selectmen possible land acquisition for the future needs of the Town.

We are currently investigating the possibilities of acquiring from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts all the unused portions of Camp Curtis Guild that are within the boundaries of Lynnfield.

Many hours have been spent checking and rechecking various possible sites for a new Town Highway Department. This committee feels that while the present area may now be adequate, the daily operation of this type of facility should not be conducted in close proximity to existing homes and certainly does not belong behind the town office building in the very center of town. Lynnfield continues to grow and available open spaces are becoming increasingly hard to find and increasingly expensive. We feel that now is the time to act even though the move to the new location will be five, ten, or fifteen years in the future. We have submitted our unanimous recommendation for a new location to the Board of Selectmen for their action.

During this past year we have met with representatives of the newly created Historical Commission regarding the Henry Haskell property on Main Street. Both Mr. and Mrs. Haskell have passed away, and we are told that this property is to be sold. This committee again strongly urges the ultimate acquisition of all properties between the Town Hall and the Junior High School to provide now for the expansion of the town facilities that is inevitable.

Mr. Clifton Hodgdon resigned from this committee during the year, and we wish to extend our appreciation for the many hours he spent working in the Town's behalf. The Board of Selectmen appointed Mr. Charles Curtis to fill this vacancy.

Respectfully submitted,
John E. Harriss, Chairman

The first major tax increase in a number of years cast a shadow over the year 1968. This reflected the town's approval of salary increases of the order of 15 to 20%, the shifting of the state tax burden to the towns through reduced local aid reimbursements, the impact of the Medicaid debate and the continued voter apathy towards town meeting participation (90% of the registered voters do not attend). It also laid the foundation for requests for further substantial increases in 1969 and the years to come.

The non-participating taxpayer, now thoroughly brainwashed at local, state, and federal levels as to the inevitability of an increasing tax load, will find out too late that he has lost complete control of the fruits of his labors.

1968 saw the transfer of the Welfare Department from the town to the state. This, by itself, will not produce immediate significant changes in the justifiable services to those in need. However, the Medicaid program as now administered will impose indirectly an inequitable tax load on the Lynnfield taxpayer and eventually will reduce the services to those genuinely in need of them.

The creation of a missile site at Camp Curtis Guild as part of the Seatinal Missile System was opposed by your board at state and federal levels as being detrimenal to the town. A number of meetings with the Army, our legislators and Congressman William Bates were held. Despite these objections, the site has been selected, and we are now attempting to minimize the impact on the town through an adequate buffer strip and contemplated purchase of portions of the Guild other than the missile site.

Passage of a dog leash law at the Annual Meeting and substitution of a dog control law at a special town meeting produced problems in that inadequate funds were appropriated for satisfactory inforcement of the latter. Corrections should be made at the next town meeting.

Approval for a temporary teenager Drop-In Center at the property next to the Town Hall was given in 1968 with activation to take place in 1969. This will serve to establish interest in and requirements for contemplated permanent center in the future.

Initiation of a uniform street lighting program for residential streets, correction of several drainage problems, continuation of the pest control program at Pillings Pond and the mapping of the town were other areas of primary concern to your board.

The town was particularly honored by the success of Miss Cathy Monroe both the Mass. and national Miss America contests.

The board also pays tribute to Robert F. Perkins who served as chairman of the Board of Selectmen during 1966 and 1967, and who contributed considerably to the town in that capacity.

CONSERVATION COMMISSION

1968 saw several advances of major significance in the program of your Conservation Commission. In last year's Annual Report we described the specific objectives by which we hope to balance the growth of the town with acquisition of wetlands and other open space. This years advances concern two of the major areas described in that Report.

The Beaverdam Brook Conservation Area, immediately behind the shopping center on Main Street, occupied much of our attention during the year. The meadows were mowed to keep them from being overgrown, trails were marked and improved, and native wildflowers were planted in some sections as the first step toward a wild flower garden. In the Spring we planted flowering trees,, selected for both their beauty and their attractiveness for wildlife. In the Fall we organized a "plant-in". Approximately 50 willing townspeople arrived on the scene with shovels and rakes, and hundreds of shrubs, trees, and glowering bulbs were dug into the groud. A measure of the effort is that 1500 gallons of water were supplied through the cooperation of the Fire Department and the Civil Defense Unit. At the same time a sign (shown in the photograph above) was erected. A map of the area, showing trails and some of the special feacutes of the area, is being prepared and will be mounted permanently next to the sign. The sign, the map, and most significantly the comprehensive plan for this Conservation Area are principally the work of our member Randolph Johnson. We are indebted to him for his initiative.

More and more people are taking advantage of this land, just walking through it and enjoying its beauty. We are especially cheered by the growing number of groups - Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Garden Clubs - that are making use of it. The beginnings of what we hope will be regular use in the school programs were seen in 1968. Special mention should be made of the hours of work contributed throughout the year by many of our teenagers, and of the interest they have shown in this Conservation Area.

Our long-hoped-for extension of the Bow Ridge area in South Lynnfield finally became a reality this year. Acquisition of the 35 acres of land from Dr. and Mrs. James A. Keenan, voted by the town over a year ago, was completed in 1968. Lynnfield now owns in one tract over 50 acres along Bow Ridge, extending all the way from the town line with Lynn to the back slope of the ridge, with another l0 acres nearby. This area includes Nells Pond, the old granit quarries, and Robin Hill, the highest point of land in the town. The easiest access is from the end of Ledge Road. It is well worth a trip.

Rainfall in 1968 was only about one-half inch below average. This return to normal served as a reminder that Lynnfield is "three islands in a march." Preservation of our wetlands is important to people everywhere from the points of view of water supply, wildlife, and recreation. It is particularly important to Lynnfield because of their usefullness in acting as storage sponges, slowing runoff and preventing flooding in the residential sections of the town.

During the coming year we intend to devote our principal energies toward conserving Reedy Meadow, the largest and most important such area in Lynnfield.

RECREATION COMMISSION

Lynnfield Recreation Commission programs grew in all directions this year, providing recreation for as many age groups as budget and planning would permit, and the Commission was gratified to find that the problems attendant on rapid growth were greatly eased by the enthusiasm of the community and the cooperation of Town officials and committees.

Saturday a.m. Junior High Girls

The Summer Playground Program was expanded to 8 weeks, and an additional site, Glen Meadow Park, was opened. 600 children in grades 1-6 registered for this morning program, which was conducted at the Junior High School and at Suntaug Park as well as Glen Meadow. There were weekly bus trips to such points of interest as Benson's Animal Farm, Science Museum, Canobie Lake, Tufts Children's Theater, North Shore Music Theater, and a boat ride to Nantasket Beach, as well as the always popular sports, games, music, and a well-coordinated arts and crafts program. The playgrounds were under the supervision of George W. Rodan, Senior High School teacher and football coach, who also oversaw the other aspects of the Summer Program--afternoon sports for junior high age boys and girls, and evening softball and basketball for adults. During one of its regular meetings in the Spring the Recreation Commission hosted a representative of the Lynn Economic Opportunity group, who told of 2,000 children being serviced by one playground in Lynn. As a result of this visit a bus load of children from this area was included on one occasion during the summer playground program; Mr. Rodan felt the experience was beneficial to all involved.

Town Forest

The evening adult physical fitness program, under the direction of Robert MacLeod and Garland Johnson of the Senior High School staff, was expanded to four nights last fall, and included sports, games, badminton, jogging, and use of the Town's extensive gym equipment, such as the trampoline, etc. The Fall and Winter program grew in another direction with the inauguration of Saturday morning activities for the junior high age group. Mr. MacLeod conducted gymnastics for girls at the senior high school and Mr. Arthur McManus supervised the boys in basketball at the junior high school. The Recreation Commission has long sought to provide pastimes for this age group, and is well pleased with the response to this phase of the program.

Saturday a.m. Junior High Girls

Another "trial balloon" last fall was the Yoga course, for which a charge had to be made since this item was not budgeted. 13 women enrolled, and after the first creaking muscles were loosened found the course most beneficial. Joanne Sherwood, head of the American Buddist Center Yoga Schools, conducted this course. The Recreation Commission hopes in the future to provide more opportunity for such special interest groups.

At the usual twice-monthly meetings, program planning seems to be becoming a perennial problem for the five laymen on the Commission--Robert Kautz, Chairman, Warren Morton, Vice-Chairman, Helen Eckert, George Levey, and C. Maxwell French. The need of a coordinator becomes more apparent, and to this end the Recreation Commission has budgeted for a Fall-Winter-Spring Program Director next year in the hope of providing fuller recreation for townspeople.

Outside of programming, the major project of the Recreation Commission this year was the development of the Town Forest near Pillings Pond as a public recreation area. $6,000. was voted in 1968 for this purpose, and with the invaluable supervision of Mr. James Fletcher these seven acres have been bull-dozed, graded, and partly seeded. A baseball diamond is in, and there will be parking area and wooded areas here for the enjoyment of the community. The Town Forest will be equipped with picnic tables and play equipment. A pleasant alternative to Route 128 when the family wants an outing on a hot summer day!

Mrs. John Leonard's Girl Scout troop volunteered to do a survey on Lynnfield citizens' recreation preferences. In great demand was a swimming pool, which the Recreation Commission briefly considered a part of the Town Forest development, but lack of an immediate water supply caused this plan to die aborning. Perhaps another day, another place. Another need mentioned in the survey was more tennis courts, of which two have been constructed at Glen Meadow Park by the Park and Cemetery Commission with which the Recreation Commission works closely.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL --

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Education in Lynnfield as in every other community is an ever changing process requiring the introduction of new organizational arrangements, teaching techniques, and the establishment and the implementation of new policies. The year 1968 has presented its share of problems and accomplishments, each contributing to the evolutionary progress of our school system; a progress paced to the growth of the town and in keeping with increased knowledge and changing educational needs.

The November 1967 special town meeting authorized additions to the Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill Schools to alleviate the pressures on our elementary and junior high school facilities caused by increased enrollments junior high school facilities caused by increased enrollments. Substantial progress has been made in the construction of these additions with occupancy planned for the near future. The ability to expand these facilities was foresightedly planned by the original citizens building committees, and has at this time not only permitted necessary expansion but provided an unparalleled means for modernizing these facilities in keeping with most recent educational practice.

During this past year the State Legislature, through the powers delegated to the State Department of Education, has required all school systems to establish kindergartens by the year 1973. The additions to Summer Street School and Huckleberry Hill School contain future kindergarten rooms which can be used as regular elementary rooms until the adoption of a kindergarten program.

In order to better prepare the children of the town to live and work effectively in a racial integrated society, as well as to promote better understanding and cooperation between negroes and whites, the School Committee voted to participate in Metco as permitted under the State Racial Imbalance Law. Since September, fifteen negro students have been bussed to Lynnfield each day from racially imbalanced Boston schools to pursue our junior high school curriculum and partake in our extra curriculum activities. The first five months of involvement in this program have been highly successful.

This year, as in past years, the School Committee has spent many hours on the difficult task of establishing the next year's budget. Careful consideration has been given to each item in order to keep the costs of education within bounds while providing adequate monies to continue and up-date the educational programs which are currently in operation and to properly maintain the school plant facilities.

A major budget item is professional and non-professional salaries, now required by law, to be established through collective bargaining with the local representatives; the Lynnfield Teacher's Association for teachers and principals, and the State Councils for State, Community, and Municipal Employees, Local Council No. 41, AFL-CIO for custodians and cafeteria workers. This year the negotiations with these groups have involved the reopening of last year's contracts in regard to contract language, wages and hours. While these negotiations have been carried on by the School Committee, professional labor relations assistance has supplemented our activities.

While it is the responsibility of the School Committee to compile its budget, we wish to acknowledge the cooperation assistance, suggestions, and guidance of the Finance Committee in completing this task.

In the following pages of his portion of the Annual Report are detailed reports by the Superintendent of Schools and members of his staff. We believe these reports are worthy of your careful consideration for they reflect the goals, aims, and accomplishments of the professional staff of the Lynnfield school system.

The School Committee meets regularly on the first and third Mondays of each month at 8 p.m. in the Junior High School library. Parents and interested townspeople are always welcome.

W. J. Schultz, Chairman

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

It is a pleasure, as your Superintendent of Schools, to once again highlight some of the significant developments this past year. This has been a busy year, one which reflects continued forward movement toward improved educational opportunities and services for the youth of our community. A school system, being a dynamic human enterprise, accomplishes its purposes and goals through the cumulative effect of thousands of individual instances of teach- these represent the heart of our efforts, they do not lend themselves to summary description in a report such as this, therefore we shall focus on several major concerns such as program development, personnel selection and development, new facilities, and improved educational services through which, hopefully, we have been instrumental in continuing to improve the quality of Lynnfield's educational system. I refer you to the various individual reports which follow for a more complete description of much of the material contained in this introductory portion.

Personnel

The major strength of any school system rests not with the program of studies nor with its excellent school facilities but, rather, with the general quality of its teaching personnel. It is in the realm of personnel planning, recruiting, and supervision that the administrative staff is presented with its richest opportunities for affecting the quality of education within a school system, and your school administration has attempted to be most diligent in fulfilling its responsibilities to provide and maintain the very finest teaching staff available. Over the years these efforts have produced highly commendable results, to the benefit of our pupils, and I am pleased to report that this past year's efforts have resulted in many valuable additions to our school faculty. It has been our general policy to seek a reasonable balance between hiring experienced teachers as well as those recent graduates who demonstrate a marked potential for success in teaching. It is of interest to note that of the twenty-nine new teachers employed this year there is an average teaching experience factor of 4 years, and that 41% of these new teachers possessed an advanced graduate degree upon entering our school system. This percentage compares roughly with the number of teachers already within the system who possess degrees beyond the minimum bachelor of science level.

The past year also brought us two fine new members of our administrative staff, Mr. Stanley Robinson, our new Senior High School Principal, and Mr. Richard Cogan, new Principal of the South School. I'm sure the community joins with me in wishing both of these gentlemen every success in their future endeavors within our cmmunity.

Other personnel actions were taken in order to provide for improved educational services as we face the expanding demands presented by the needs of today. Chief among these was the promotion of Mr. Gilbert Bulley to the position of Director of Curriculum, serving all grade levels within the system. Mr. Bulley is well known as a teacher and administrator of many years' experience within Lynnfield, and, in his new position, he will have an unusual opportunity to strengthen the total educational program of our schools. Chief among his responsibilities will be the planning of in-service training for our staff, and the coordination of specialists' services throughout the school system.

Other new positions established included an elementary guidance counselor to deal with learning and school adjustment problems in the elementary schools, an additional elementary art teacher, and the employment of part-time school aides to assist with lunchroom supervision and to perform minor clerical tasks.

At the present time Lynnfield's 2800 public school pupils are being served by a staff of 130 classroom teachers, six principals, two assistant-principals, and 21 other specialists who provide additional services in such areas as music art, physical education, speech therapy, library, guidance, and audio-visual education. Three full time nurses and one part-time nurse provide health services to the student body.

School Program

Several efforts in curriculum improvement took place during the paat year, with the major emphasis in the summer curriculum workshops. These workshops, involving Lynnfield school personnel and occasional outside consultants, extended from two to six weeks, depending on the scope of the particular endeavor. Major areas of workshop effort included mathematics, junior high school reading, industrial arts, data processing, general science, biology, senior high school social studies, foreign languages, and audio-visual aids.

Just as a school system must make continual effort to up-date the quality of its educational program, individual teachers periodically have to pursue advanced study in order to be aware of newer methods and approaches to instruction. In addition to such private study on the part of individual teachers, the school system sponsors special in-service training activities focused on particular current interests or needs of the system. Current in-service training activities include courses in earth science, pupil adjustment in school, audio-visual education, primary grade arithmetic, and utilization of school media centers. Response to these in-service training efforts has been excellent with a total participation of 55 teachers plus other school personnel.

The 1968 fall session of our adult education program was one of the most successful in the history of the program, with 114 adults participating in eight classes ranging from rug hooking to conversational French. The school system is pleased to be instrumental in extending this service to the community and will continue to provide the necessary classes in response to public interest. Individuals or organizations which have particular desires for courses not being provided in our program are asked to share their suggestions with Mr. Edward Fuller, Director of Adult Education, who is a department chairman at the senior high school.

Lynnfield had a well attended summer school session with 276 pupils, or approximately 10% of our total enrollment, participating in make-up or enrichment activities. Thirteen courses were offered covering major academic areas on both the elementary and secondary level. Thirty-three pupils were enrolled in a special Title I remedial reading program, all costs involved being paid by the federal government. A special instrumental music program involving individual lessons and ensemble playing continues to be an important part of our summer school offerings.

The school system has continued to participate in the highly popular Otter Lake Conservation School program wherin all pupils in the fifth grade have the opportunity to live and study in a natural laboratory setting at Otter Lake in Greenfield, New Hampshire. Nature study, conservation, animal life and similar aspects of outdoor education are provided by the specially trained camp staff. Our own Lynnfield teachers accompany our pupils, assisting in the instruction and providing supervision of the students throughout their stay. This program has met with outstanding approval from the pupils, teachers, and parents, for it adds a real life dimension to our educational program which cannot be obtained within the classroom.

School Facilities

At the present time our community is in the process of providing additional school space through the construction of additions to our Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill Schools. There are now seven elementary classes being temporarily housed in the Junior High School and, as mandated by State law, the community must proceed toward the establishment of a kindergarten program before 1973. Our total enrollment is slightly over 2800 pupils, which represents an approximate 4% increase over a year ago. The Junior High School experienced the greatest growth, 8%, presenting us with a crucial need for the additional space that will be generated upon moving the seven elementary classrooms back into our elementary additions.

While our current needs are being met through the additional construction now underway, we must continue to look ahead in order to ensure careful planning for our future school needs. The School Committee has recently extablished a special committee for the study of alternate plans of school organization so that future facilities planning may be based upon a detailed consideration of the particular grade structure identified as being most desirable for our Lynnfield youth. It is expected that this committee will complete its study during the coming spring months.

A major change in grade organization was instituted this year with the establishment of South School as a primary school feeding into Huckleberry Hill. As our school population has continued to grow, South School has become inadequate for accommodation of a full elementary program. This situation, coupled with the expanded facilities soon to be available at Huckleberry Hill, which include a school library and a full gymnasium have made it desirable to re-arrange our grade level organization. Our aim in making this change is to provide equal educational opportunity to all Lynnfield pupils regardless of where they may live within the community. In a similar way several years ago, the limitations of the school plant at the Center School dictated its being changed into a primary school feeding into Summer Street School, a plan which has worked out very well in practice.

In conclusion, I would like to extend a special word of appreciation to the School Committee, the school staff, and the total Lynnfield community for the outstanding interest and support that have been rendered throughout the past year. The provision of a first rate system of public education is undoubtedly the most important accomplishment of our community. This effort is costly and requires the individual effort of a vast number of people. I can assure you that your school system, while recognizing the substantial accomplishments of the past, will continue to place its emphasis upon the pursuit of the elusive goal of true excellence in education. The awesome responsibility we bear toward our developing young people will permit nothing less.

Bernard A. Huntley
Superintendent of Schools

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Stanley I. Robinson, Principal

Graduation 1968. The culmination of 12 years effort

A major item in the 1968 Annual Report for Lynnfield High School must be the appointment of a new principal. For Mr. Cotton, it meant the severing of professional and community ties to go on to a challenging position in Long Island. For the new principal, it meant assuming a significant administrative post most capably developed by the former principal - Mr. Cotton.

Your new principal found the transition to Lynnfield High School to be an easy and pleasant one. All members of the School Department were most hospitable and cooperative and high school staff members applied effective diligence to minimize the problems inherent in a transfer of administrators.

It is my belief that a major task of a new administrator is to evaluate the educational program for which he is responsible and on the basis of this evaluation to make recommendations for the future.

The overall educational program at Lynnfield High School is impressive. Follow-up studies by the Guidance Department show a fine record of achievement in higher education and vocational objectives. The faculty is of high caliber and its stability attests to the School Committee's efforts to maintain high educational standards. The high school plant is maintained and equipped in a superior manner. It is to the credit of the clerical, custodial, and cafeteria staffs that the high school building serves its function so well. Most importantly, there exists among the students an excellent attitude toward education. Participation in school activities and serious application toward studies is widespread and reflects community pride and respect for its high school.

As far as the future is concerned, the 1968 enrollment indicated an increase and projected figures for 1969 estimate another increase of approximately 7%. This growth will be an influential factor in the educational program. Building expansion should be anticipated with the possibility of incorporating the ninth grade into a four year high school.

Though growth poses space problems, it provides the impetus for curriculum expansion. As the student numbers increase, we must provide more avenues for the student who in not college bound. We must offer more exploratory and cultural experiences for the terminal student. We must use innovative measures to better account for individual differences and to use the full potential of our faculty.

Neighboring communities are successfully using ungraded classes, mini-courses, computer based instruction, and independent study. Subject offerings include drama, computer programming, journalism, graphic arts, art and music appreciation, classical literature, humanities, psychology, and health.

A study is now being made of our physical education facilities. This phase of educational building has not kept pace with construction of classrooms. A major development of outside areas is necessary to provide adequate facilities for a quality physical education program which embraces athletics and recreation.

Two dominant themes on the national education scene in 1968 were teacher negotiations and student activism. These influences have been felt in Lynnfield and, in my opinion, have made a positive contribution. Both issues require mutual respect and open communication lines by the parties involved or explosive situations result. In Lynnfield, common respect and open dialogue have benefited our educational program. I look forward with anticipation and optimism to 1969.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Leonard Nihan, Principal

As the result of one summer workshop group, composed of an elementary reading specialist, a reading and an English teacher from the Junior High School, the curriculum has been expanded to include a developmental reading program for eighth grade students. The course is designed to increase vocabulary, to speed rate of reading and to improve comprehension. Various study skills such as reference techniques, outlining and summarizing are included as an integral part of the reading course.

A second workshop committee, under the direction of Mr. Edward Fuller, foreign language department head, included language teachers from both Junior and Senior High Schools. Efforts of this committee have resulted in closer articulation between the language program of the two schools. Workbooks prepared during the summer months are being used daily in conjunction with the classroom texts. Audio-visual media were explored and audio-visual materials such as tapes, slides, and films were adopted for use at the Junior High.

New on the scene this year are two teacher aides. Available a total of thirty hours, these two women have relieved teachers of the supervision of the twenty-four lunch periods scheduled each week. Additionally, the aides are doing clerical work, typing and running off duplicated material. They have provided valuable assistance to the librarian with her prodigious task of processing the more than 800 books added to the library this year.

Lynnfield's secondary schools are being served for the first time this year by the New England Education Data Systems. Through use of the NEEDS computers, report cards are processed, student averages are computed, honor rolls are printed, mark distributions by courses and by teachers are prepared, class lists are printed and mark and attendence labels are prepared for the permanent records. In addition to relieving teachers of hundreds of hours of clerical duties each marking period, NEEDS makes a great deal of valuable statistical analysis available to the building principal the same day report cards are issued.

From a student point of view, the past school year has been exciting. Under the direction of Mrs. Linda LaCombe and Miss Sue Glidden the students presented their first three-act play, "Max". Under the direction of Mr. Michael Cooney and the staff of the music department, the Junior High presented its first and very successful musical, "Rough'N Ready". To end the year on a successful note, the freshman football team of Coach Fred Huntress completed a nine game schedule undefeated. The cheerleaders, in spanking new uniforms purchased by the student council had a lot to cheer about.

HUCKLEBERRY HILL SCHOOL

Our entire democratic society is based on change. Change results in progress. Accepting the philosophy of change as a way of life is one reason Americans have advanced to one of the most powerful and technological nations of the world.

Huckleberry Hill School is a school in transition. It is attuned to the song of change. Its whole rhythm of education is changing. It is faster. It is more insistent. It is more compelling. In each of us, it arouses a deep concern about the directions and trends that affect us all. For the staff, it is a year of study. It is a year of exploration.

What are some of these changes and explorations? First of all, Huckleberry Hill School has been organized into an intermediate school, housing grades three through six, with the overflow in the junior high.

New Wing at Huckleberry Hill School

Portions of the faculties of South and Huckleberry have been exchanged. This fusion of teachers brought on an exchange of ideas. New ideas often result in strengthening an institution.

At the third and fourth grade levels, classes are largely self-contained, changing for mathematics only. The teacher's intimate acquaintance with the children in her class is a distinct asset at this age level. This acquaintance provides the basis for friendly association and deep personal concern for each child's development. At the fifth and sixth grade levels, the block unit of organization is employed whereby pupils are in a self-contained situation for the language arts studies and change classes for mathematics, science, and social studies in the afternoon.

Construction underway at Huckleberry Hill School

Here in Lynnfield the curriculum undergoes close and continuous evaluation. All the elementary schools have adopted a new mathematics program, as well the linguistic approach to teaching language. The Huckleberry faculty is evaluating the basal reading program with the purpose of updating the program to reflect current interests of pupils and trends in reading.

With eager anticipation, we await the completion of the new addition to our building especially the instructional materials center. The new center will evolve a new method of teaching and learning. We realize that children who merely learn to manipulate memorized rules are inadequately prepared for the future. Educators are becoming aware of the fact that teachers must place emphasis on cognition rather than regurgitation, on research rather than rote. Therefore, our school must create an atmosphere that encourages exploration and discovery. Already the townspeople have taken the giant step and built this "learning center". Our faculty will be having in-service training in preparation for the opening of this center.

This is a year of transition for the Huckleberry Hill School.

CENTER SCHOOL

Dr. Nancy C. Santeusanio, Principal

The Center School has a rather interesting history dating back to its earliest beginnings in 1772 when it was located near the watering trough on the Common. Later in 1808 another school was erected on the Common in front of the present library until it burned down and had to be rebuilt in 1856. Overcrowding occurred even during this early period and the Meeting House served as an addition to the Center School until the present building consisting of two classrooms was built in 1905. Two additional rooms were added in the early 1900's. These four rooms made up the wooden section of the building with one brick wing added in 1937 and another in 1948.

At present the Center School continues to operate as a primary building with ten first and second grade classrooms housed in this building. Seven elementary classrooms, namely five third grade classrooms from Center School and two sixth grades, are housed in the Junior High School. This overcrowding will be alleviated as soon as the new additions to the Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill Schools are completed.

Although the Center School is the oldest building, it has been well maintained. The physical plant has been made more attractive with a large amount of interior painting during the summer months, and the floor space in the school library has been doubled by the removal of a partition. In addition, a food storage area has been constructed adjacent to the cafeteria.

The school library was set up in 1962 with a collection of 488 volumes given in memory of Mildred Parkhurst Rourke, a former teacher at Center School. The library has continued to grow from its modest beginning in 1962 to a book collection which now exceeds 3,000 volumes. This growth has been made possible by an increase in school library appropriation from $1.00 per pupil in 1962 to $4.00 per pupil in 1968. In addition, Title II Federal Funds were allocated for elementary school library books in 1968.

Not only has there been a large increase in the number of library books, but a library of forty eight Wollensak Teaching Tapes has been purchased for the Center School Library. With teaching tapes and headsets, the tape recorder provides an active learning experience stimulating pupils to participate as they listen since each tape is accompanied by pupil worksheets. Teachers are using this audio-guided learning with small groups as reinforcement to their own teaching. In other words, the tape recorder and tape serve as a "second teacher" while the classroom teacher works with another small group of pupils.

An innovation to the curriculum has been a change in science education with an emphasis on the processes of science: observing, classifying, measuring, communicating, predicting and inferring rather than on traditional content or concept sequences.

Science--A Process Approach, developed by the Commission on Science Education of the American Association for the Advancement of Science has been introduced in a limited number of first and second grade classrooms at Center School. Instead of instructing and explaining, the teacher is presenting a problem or assisting the children in identifying a problem and then providing the children with direction to guide them in its solution.

The Volunteer Teacher Aide Program was initiated at Center School in 1967 and continues to function as an integral part of the school. Many volunteers serve in varying roles. Volunteers work on the preparation of materials for teachers, collecting lunch money in first grade classrooms, and as helpers in the school library. In addition to volunteer services, another innovation has been the employment of two School Aides to assist in the cafeteria, on the playground, in the library, and in the preparation of materials for teachers.

The Center School will continue to provide the building blocks or basic tools for high quality education with primary emphasis on increasing reading ability in accordance with the mental and physical capacity of each child.

SOUTH SCHOOL

Richard W. Cogan, Principal

This year at South School has been an interesting and challenging one in that it witnessed the changing of South from an elementary school to one committed to primary education only. South School now includes four first grades, four second grades, and two third grades. The change meant an exchange of personnel and materials between Huckleberry and South which was accomplished last spring. The change is complete and the school is operating smoothly.

Organizing South School on a primary basis has given us an opportunity to be of greater service to the children. Even though the redistricting meant busing of some children who might have walked to Huckleberry, there are many advantages to the new system. Materials which are purchased for one grade level can now be used in four classrooms. Because of the increased number of classes at the first and second grade levels more kinds of materials can be bought. Another advantage is that people working at the same grade level can share the experiences of each other to improve their own teaching. Also, the children can be grouped efficiently for instruction. Children with specific kinds of difficulties can be helped more easily because we can now gather children from four sections of a grade to make an instructional group.

At the first grade level we have established a class smaller in number than the other first grade sections where we give intensive instruction to some children so that they will be better able to learn in second grade. Several kinds of instructional materials are used including tapes. These children could not get the kind of help they need in a large class.

At the second grade level we have grouped the children for instruction in mathematics. Each day the second graders leave their regular room and go to another class where they learn with a group of children who have about the some achievement level as their own. Thus, the children with difficulties are given help while those who are quick in mathematics are pushed ahead. At the third grade level the children are also grouped in mathematics. Even though there are only two classes, both teachers give mathematics instruction at the same hour so they can divide the students between them.

In the area of reading the fact that the school has a large number of children at one grade level has meant that we can group the children more accurately for the teaching of reading. When we find it helps a child to place him in another reading group we can choose among groups in four classes.

In discussing the progress of South School, mention of the South School Parent Teacher Association must be made. This year the Parent Teacher Association purchased a television receiver to augment the school's two other sets. The first grade children are participating in television series on phonics and science. The Parent Teacher Association also provided the school with an excellent program that was both entertaining and educational which was attended by parents, teachers, and children. Finally, the Parent Teacher Association provided South School with library aides so that the school library could function. This job was particularly important this year since the Huckleberry and South libraries had to be completely torn apart and reorganized because of the school reorganization. All the books received from Huckleberry were catalogued and shelved by Parent Teacher Association Volunteers.

The effectiveness of our staff was increased this year by the addition of two school aides to the staff. They provide supervision of the lunch room so that the teachers may eat privately, prepare lesson, or talk with parents. They also assist the office and teaching staff with clerical work. They aid the teachers in making instructional materials and run off teacher-made masters on the school copy machine. In short, they give the teachers more time for teaching.

In the area of elementary science, which is now my responsibility, we again participated in the science camp program at the fifth grade level. Also this year we began investigation of the "process approach" to elementary science education. The emphasis of this approach is upon the children learning concepts about science rather than specific facts. The program evolved from recommendations of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. We have also begun to improve the articulation between the junior and senior high science departments and the elementary schools. As part of this program we are looking for ways in which to make use of science resources in the junior and senior high schools in elementary school science instruction.

SUMMER STREET SCHOOL

George E. Caswell, Principal

The Summer Street School again this year functioned as a twelve-classroom intermediate grade school which housed children from the Center area of town in grades four, five, and six. Serving the needs of the children attending the school were the school principal, classroom teachers, specialists in art, music, physical education, reading, and speech therapy, secretary, nurse, custodian, and kitchen personnel. Added to the forenamed people this year were an extra teacher to help offset the impact of high fourth grade enrollment, two school aides who supervise the children during lunch and subsequent recess, and a guidance counselor who is providing a composite of special services to all the elementary schools.

Construction started in May on the addition to the school which includes six classrooms, an instructional materials center, a gymnasium, an enlargement of our present kitchen facilities. When these new facilities are opened the children in grades three and in one of the grade six rooms who are presently housed in the Junior High School will be transferred to this newer section of the school.

Summer School sessions were held for the elementary school children this past summer. Four teachers assisted over one hundred children as they attempted to strengthen their skills in the reading and mathematics areas.

Running concurrently with the summer school sessions was a teacher-workshop formed to investigate learning aids in mathematics. These mathematical learning aids were the materials, equipment, and devices which could contribute to the teaching or learning of mathematics. Included in this group of aids were models, commercial or teacher-constructed devices, films, filmstrips, records, and transparencies. A major consideration of the six teachers participating in the workshop was the mechanics of communicating the information gleaned to other staff members. During the early weeks of the fall term a demonstration center was used to allow teachers an opportunity to examine many of the learning aids available. A workshop member was also available to demonstrate the proper use of the learning aids as one facet of realizing the objectives of mathematics.

Also instituted this fall was a pilot program in Language in one classroom in grades four, five, and six. An outgrowth of a prior workshop in Language Arts and a course given to the elementary school teachers in linguistics, the pilot program is using new materials which emphasize the structure of our language. An emphasis on linguistics is a logical procedure in the teaching of language that makes use of the scientific investigations conducted in the last several decades concerning the nature of language and its uses.

Once again this year we received active and enthusiastic support from our PTA groups which, incidentally, included many fathers. Regular meetings were planned to help parents gain insight into children's behavioral and learning patterns as well as to interpret the school's program in the major learning areas. Service has been the by-word as the PTA has provided the school library volunteers, sponsored Cub Scout Pack 52, furnished direction for twelve weeks of art classes, supported the Lynnfield PTA scholarship Fund and the American Field Service, managed a Book Fair, and assumed responsibility for bringing into Lynnfield live entertainment for children through the productions of the Emerson Players.

During the past year we have involved teachers, students parents, and friends in varied ways because we believe that education is an interdependent function of us all. We continue to try to bring that extra spark which ignites us all with the excitement and adventure of the miracle we call learning.

GUIDANCE

William J. Coughlin, Guidance Director

Guidance services are aimed at helping the individual student towards appropriate educational goals by means of the services of counseling, information, and aptitude testing. A graduating class should be regarded as being comprised of a number of individuals rather than as a group. To this end the guidance staff is committed.

Each Lynnfield student should be held as being worthy of the best that education can offer both at the high school level and beyond. Not every student will attend college and we know this, thereby the average student as well as the gifted student must be constantly in our minds so that we may continue to offer a quality education to all.

Follow-up studies have shown that the Lynnfield graduates have performed exceedingly well at the numerous schools and colleges. Lest we diminish in our pursuit of excellence we must always be alert to the needs and aims of every student. With the full cooperation of all concerned, then this goal will be achieved each year.

ELEMENTARY GUIDANCE

Ronald G. Nutter, Elementary Guidance Counselor

The role of the Elementary Guidance Service is to aid the child in making a positive adjustment to school and to have the opportunity to develop a fuller understanding of self. An orientation program for school personnel was held during the early part of September. The goal of this program was to provide an explanation of the cooperative roles of teachers, principals and the guidance counselor.

The greater part of the counselor's time is devoted to individual counseling and testing (both academic and psychological). Providing children with additional help in the form of tutoring supported by periodic counseling and meetings with parents comprises another aspect of the elementary service. The counselor must maintain liaison between home, school and very often outside agencies to which children are referred for many different types of evaluation.

CURRICULUM

Gilbert F. Bullwy, Director

It is my pleasure to write the first report as Director of Curriculum for the Lynnfield school system. The position is new to the system since July 1968 and to date my contacts with all curriculum areas from grades 1 through 12 have been most exciting. In visiting classes throughout the system and in all buildings, I have been highly impressed with what I have seen and heard. Having been with the system for over ten years my recent observations have convinced me that we truly have a solid school system. Many people ask, "What is it you look for in a good school system?" and my answer has always been, "Highly effective and sincere teachers who are dedicated to helping students in a professional manner". This is the type of person who is teaching Lynnfield students and it is my task to continue to make improvements in this vital area of teacher-student-curriculum innovations.

It has been most rewarding, as the school coordinator, to work with the METCO (Metropolitan Council for Educational Opportunity) students at the Junior High School. The host students and families were organized early in the school year under the leadership of Community Chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. George Levey. The fifteen students have adjusted very nicely to our school system and we believe that the community, especially the Junior High School students, have shown warm hospitality to our friends from Dorchester and Roxbury. It is our hope that many of you in the town will find the opportunity to meet these wonderful youngsters.

Since September a number of in-service credit workshops have been offered to the teachers on the following subject areas: Earth Science, Understanding the Child In School, Audio Visual, First Grade Mathematics Workshop, and a Workshop in Planning School Media Center Activities. It is interesting to note that three of the courses are being taught by our own teachers; Mrs. Ethel Nygren, 6th grade teacher at the Huckleberry Hill School; Mr. Joseph Curran, Junior High School science teacher and Mr. Robert Cox, Visual Aids Coordinator. To date, these workshops have proved to be most worthwhile and strong support, directly and indirectly, has been given to various phases of the curriculum.

During the summer months over twenty teachers and administrators worked a varied number of weeks on curriculum improvements. The following areas made up the summer workshops: Elementary Mathematics, Elementary Art, Junior High School Reading, Science and Industrial Arts, High School Mathematics, Social Studies, Science, Biology, Language and Data Processing, and Audio Visual Aids for all of the above workshops. It is with great pride that we point to these workshops throughout the school year as the curriculum strengthens because of these devoted teachers to a task "well done".

Following this report you will read about some of the special areas within our ever expanding curriculum. It is my sincere hope that not only will Lynnfield's curriculum continue to offer the very best in education today to your youngsters, but that we in the educational profession will strive to make this world in which we all live a much better place to educate future generations of young people.

DRIVER EDUCATION

Roy E. Harbour, Coordinator

As predicted in previous reports, it was necessary to work a full time road work program during this last summer. Mr. Huntress was able to take care of our overload thus making it possible to open in September with a minimum number of students left without road work.

It appears that we will be registering 225-250 students each school year for some time. Mrs. Ganley can take care of 130-160 during her work hours thus making it necessary to assist her with part time help and a summer road work program.

Dodgetown Family Motors provided us with a car as they have for several years past. They will again provide us with a new car for the first part of this year. We expect to use a dealer on the North Shore for the second part of our program this year. Reason for changing is the proximinity of service for the car will be more reasonable by using a North Shore dealer.

The spring term of our present program is now underway. Plans are being developed for the classroom phase at this time.

ATHLETICS

Allan R. Perry, Coordinator

There were few changes in the athletic program for 1968. No new sports were introduced, although a junior varsity team was added to the soccer program. Mr. Peter Oakes was named junior varsity soccer coach. The only other coaching changes resulted from the resignations of Mr. Robert MacLeod as junior varsity baseball coach and Mr. Daniel Hall as varsity hockey coach. Mr. Harry Jameson, formerly freshman baseball coach was appointed junior varsity baseball coach and Mr. Arthur McManus was made freshman baseball coach. Mr. William Tryder, a student at Salem State College, was named to succeed Mr. Hall.

Because there are no facilities at the High School for baseball, track, tennis or softball, all spring teams must practice at the Junior High. This leads to the overcrowding of the Junior High facilities. In the fall the football and soccer teams practice at theHigh School, but the fields will require considerable upgrading to serve us in thhe fture. There is no field at the High School which could be used for field hockey, so the team practices at the Junior High.

The number of boys and girls participating in the various sports did not change appreciably in 1968 since most teams have reached a saturation point, which is dictated by the facilities and/or number of coaches available. Between one third and one fourth of the student body at the High School participates in at least one sport.

In 1968 many of the teams lost more games than they won. The only teams to really distinguish themselves were the hockey team, which lost in the quarter finals of the Eastern Massachusetts Hockey Tournament; the girls' basketball team which won eight and lost only one; the golf team which lost in the first round of the State Golf Tournament; and the soccer team which lost in the semi-final round of the Eastern Massachusetts Soccer Tournament; and the freshman football team which was undefeated through nine games.

The winning teams and their records are: golf (12-1), girls' basketball (8-1), Varsity hockey (13-4), Junior varsity basketball (9-8), spring track (4-3), junior varsity baseball (10-3), frosh baseball (6-4), frosh football (9-0), junior varsity football (5-2), junior varsity soccer (3-2).

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL READING

Mrs. Frances H. Carpenter,
Elementary Reading Consultant

Reading is probably the most important academic skill we learn. In Lynnfield schools it takes top priority. Every effort is made from first grade on to assure success for every child. Individual needs are considered as closely as possible and, through grouping and carefully selected materials, these needs are met. Economy of time and effort is achieved through techniques such as partner and small group work which allows all pupils to respond often. Programs which offer a great variety of approaches to the teaching of skills keep interest high. Great effort is made to prevent serious reading difficulties by careful diagnosis and corrective teaching in the early primary grades.

A developmental reading course for eighth grade students was begun this year with an additional teacher added to the staff. Reading at this level is closely integrated with reading needs in all the subject areas so that skills are directly applied. A summer workshop for planning this program proved very valuable in allowing the careful preparations required. Lynnfield is also able to continue to take advantage of a Title I Elementary and Secondary Education Act grant which is used for instruction in remedial and developmental reading in grade seven.

Summer school classes in reading were held again with 60 children taking part at the elementary level and 35 pupils at the junior high level. Pupils who have reading weaknesses were encouraged to attend. This often gives the help needed to consolidate skills and prevent a loss during the long vacation period. The summer program stresses reading for enjoyment in small groups in a relaxed situation.

The Public Library staff works in close cooperation with teachers and school librarians in offering special courses in library orientation and skills and give services to both teachers and pupils which are mutually helpful. They offer a very stimulating summer program which encourages large numbers of children to enjoy reading. Continuing plans are carried on through the Library Laison Committee which is made up of library and school personnel.

AUDIO VISUAL EDUCATION

Robert A. Cox, Coordinator

This past year the Audio Visual Department continued to provide service to the Lynnfield teaching staff, supplying them with films, filmstrips, records, recording tapes and a graphic arts production center.

This summer, as a workshop activity, we met with the other groups and from these meetings came the production of visuals specifically geared to the needs and desires of these groups. Among the types of materials produced were photocopies, transparencies and 8mm films.

The ability to photocopy was introduced for the first time. This now gives us the capability of copying pictures as small as a dime into colored projection slides.

During the past spring, time was spent in planning for the equipment to be used in the two Instructional Marerials Centers at Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill Schools. Federal projects were prepared for partial reimbursement, filed and approved. By early summer all equipment had been ordered for delivery in mid-December. All audio visual equipment and materials will be on hand, ready for immediate use, when the two additions are completed and occupied.

Our long range plan to provide modified Instructional Materials Centers in each school will have reached the point of two-thirds completion when the additions at Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill Schools are finished. A very small center was established at the Junior High School this fall as a part of the library.

MUSIC

Michael E. Cooney, Jr., Director

The year of 1968 has been a significant one for the Music Department. Not only in the field of educational endeavour but for many varied reasons (not the least of which was Lynnfield's first International Cultural Exchange), the past year has proved a fruitful one in the area of music.

At the junior high level new interest has been sparked by the implementation of a basic humanities program (music and art orientated) in place of the regularly scheduled general music in the seventh grade. The material for this course has been built around the audio-visual resources in the "Music 100 Series" published by the American Book Company. Through the initiation of this course at this particular level we have provided that every twelve year student of the school system is assured of at least one year of the humanities approach to cultural exposure. It is hoped that this can be expanded to a two or three year course on an elective basis in the near future.

The Junior High performing organizations have also grown, both in size and in musical stature. The band, under the baton of Mr. Edward D'Amico, now numbers 85 players, and the chorus 152 voices under the direction of Mrs. Gloria Maifeld. New groups at this level include Junior High Brass Choir and the wood-wind group, both of which have performed in concert during the year. The entire Junior High Vocal and Instrumental Ensemble participated in an exchange concert with Rochester, New Hampshire in June, with a concert in each town.

The Junior High also undertook a monumental musical project in the production of its first full scale musical. "Rough 'n' Ready", by Leyden and Benjamin, consisting of 12 scenes in Two Acts, provided a great challenge not only musically and dramatically, but also in the varied arts of set building, costume and make-up. Altogether this production provided a never-to-be-forgotten experience for the students.

The elementary grades 2-6 are now completely provided with the American Book Company's "Music for Young America". This makes it possible for the first time to orient the elementary grades music curriculum around a single book series. The Elementary Band, now under the direction of Mr. H. Robert Ayasse, has continued its growth through the years to such proportions that it is now necessary to have two groups, one, a Beginners Band, from which training the student qualifies for the Elementary Band.

The High School Band and Chorus was greatly honored to take part, this last year, in what must have been Lynnfield's first International Group Cultural Exchange. In April the Band and Orchestra of Wager High School of Cote St. Luc, Montreal, Quebec, visited the U. S. A. for a concert at Lynnfield along with a day in school, a trip to Boston to see the musical "Charlie Brown", and many varied historical tours. In May the visit was returned when the Lynnfield students (123 in all) toured to Canada for a three day visit into which was scheduled a full day with three concerts at the Canadian Exposition "Man and His Lynnfield students boarded buses for the ride back to the "States", a gratifying experience and the fulfillment of a wish of many band members whose older brothers and sisters performed with the Lynnfield High School Band at the New York World's Fair in 1965. This last year also saw the reinstitution of the evening Christmas Concert, open to the public, after a lapse of some five years.

Ten years ago a group of parents met after a concert and formed the Lynnfield Band Boosters Association. In the ensuing years they have provided immeasurable assistance to the High School Band and were in no small way responsible for the appearance of the Band at the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, New York World's Fair, and the Canadian Exposition. This year, their tenth anniversary, the organization has rededicated itself to the advancement of music but with a much broader scope, in that they will now support all of the musical organizations, instrumental and vocal, at any level. In order to properly label this worthy endeavor, the name of the organization has been changed from Band Boosters to the Lynnfield Pro-Musica Association.

A new faculty member has been added to the department this year in the person of Mr. Carl Lerario. Mr. Lerario, a native of Peekskill, New York, comes to us from Boston University where he is currently pursuing a Master's degree in Music Education.

Lynnfield was well represented in District, All State, and New England musical events, with students chosen for each of these groups. A total of thirty-four red and blue ribbons was awarded to our students at the New England Solo and Ensemble Festival for individual and group performance. Seven students were chosen to play in the 1968 season of the Greater Boston Youth Symphony's Junior and Senior Orchestras.

SPEECH THERAPY

Mrs. Susan M. Wallace, Speech Therapist

At the present time there are 101 students enrolled in Speech Therapy classes: 66 males and 35 females. Of the 101 children, 81 are seen twice a week for an half hour each time; 20 children are seen once a week for an half hour. Two-thirds of the children enrolled are in the first three primary grades. The majority of problems fall into the category of articulatory defects.

The number of children, sex ratios, grade distribution and types of problems coincide with the nationwide averages as published by the American Speech and Hearing Association.

The Kiwanis Pre-School Diagnostic Speech Clinic was well received again this year by the adjoining communities of Lynnfield and Wakefield. A total of 436 preschoolers have been tested during the two year history of the clinic; 242 of these children were found to have speech disorders ranging in degree from mild to severe. A total of 237 hearing evaluations were given with 52 problems discovered.

In an analysis of last year's pre-school clinic and this year's first grade enrollment it is apparent that the community of Lynnfield has already reaped some of the benefits of this program. 41% of the children who had been tested last year who entered first grade this year showed improvement; 45% of this same group of children had no problem, leaving only 14% showing no improvement. Although some of the improvement shown was due to maturational factors, much of it can be attributed to increased awareness of speech handicaps and how to deal with them on the part of the families involved.

Oil Painting, one of courses offered in the Adult Education program

SCHOOL HEALTH PROGRAM

Mrs. Priscilla Burnham, R.N. Coordinator

Lynnfield's School Health Program is under the direction of the school physician, Dr. Charles A. Worthen. The school health staff now numbers three full-time nurses and one part-time nurse. This provides good health service coverage to each level of the student body with one nurse serving at the senior high, one at the junior high, and one covering the four elementary schools. The part-time nurse provides services one day a week assisting the other nurses wherever she is needed. The elementary school nurse also serves as a coordinator for school health programs. With the opening of the new wings at Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill schools, it is anticipated that the services of the part-time nurse will need to be increased.

The main objective of a school health program is appraising each pupil's health and identifying his needs as they relate to his education. This is accomplished through the various screening programs such as vision and hearing tests, checking physical growth, physical examinations and doing skin tests for possible tuberculosis reactors. During these programs defects are discovered and made known to parents so that correction and treatment may be obtained. It is interesting to note that Lynnfield falls within the same average percentage of failures as other communities within the state. For example, about 3% of the students will fail the hearing test and approximately 8% will fail the vision test. Of these failures, over 70% have received treatment this past year.

During this past school year one second grade student with a vision handicap was helped through the use of a magnifying machine, purchased by the School Department several years ago, and large-type textbooks provided by the State Department of Special Education. In September, a Maico auditory trainer or desk hearing-aid was purchased for use by a first grader who has a severe hearing loss. This youngster's eyes now light up as she is able to hear what goes on about her.

School health services are associated with other school programs in the nature of continuing health evaluation. Physical examinations are given by Dr. Worthen to each student participating in a sports program in addition to the regular physical examinations given in grades 1 - 4 - 7 and 10. Each pupil in the fifth grade is given a health check by the school nurse before he boards the bus for the Otter Lake Conservation School in New Hampshire.

The school nurses spend many hours each school year acting as resource persons to the classroom teachers. They are often called upon to spend time in the classroom presenting material which reinforces the unit being studied. The elementary school nurse teaches a unit in personal hygiene to all sixth grade girls. In conjunction with guidance, the nurse at the senior high school has been instrumental in sponsoring field trips to Lynn Hospital for a group of high school girls interested in the nursing field. This fall the Director of Nurses and a senior student from Lynn Hospital came to Lynnfield High to speak to this group. In February, directors of the Nursing Programs at Northeastern University will bring information on their programs to our students.

The efficiency of any department within a shcool system depends, in part, upon the availability of needed equipment. The vision testing program was greatly expedited this fall with the addition of another Titmus Vision Tester. This was a gift from the Lynnfield Lion's Club and is the third tester this organization has donated to the school system. Since school opened in September, all 2800 of Lynnfield's students have had their eyes tested, a record this early in the school year which can be attributed t adequate equipment.

The school nurses would like to express their thanks to Mrs. Jean Taylor, R.N., Lynnfield's Public Health Nurse, for her assistance in the tuberculosis testing program, and to Mrs. Jeanette Wing, R.N. and Mrs. Marilyn Bommer, R.N., for the volunteer service they have given to the elementary schools.

WIRE INSPECTOR & FIRE ALARM SUPERVISOR

During 1968 a total of 263 wiring permits were issued which involved approximately 500 inspections. As some of these inspections did not comply with the Mass. Electrical Code Standards, it meant re-inspecting in some cases. Several inspections were made on homes which had been damaged by fire thus necessitating wire replacement.

This past year 260 fire alarm boxes were checked and tested. This was the equivalent of 5 boxes per week, and adjustments and repairs were taken care of. Numerous crossarms required replacement due to rotting; this is normal maintenance procedure.

We were fortunate in that we had no current outage until the end of the year caused by a severe ice storm. This storm caused a falling tree branch to break a fire alarm circuit on Pillings Pond Road near Bourque Road. Due to rain, snow, and freeze conditions the line could not be replaced immediately but this was accomplished the following morning. Your inspector stood by during the night at Fire Alarm Headquarters making provisions to actuate the audible signal in the event a box was pulled on this loop; this insured protection to this section of town.

New crossarms have been replaced also on Main Street in order to add an additional circuit. This work will be completed this year.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT

Dr. Robert Card
Library Trustee

Our first full year in new and expanded facilities has proven to be both challenging and satisfying from many different points of view. Our particular aim this year was to make the Lynnfield Public Library a vital and exciting civic center of knowledge and information, serving every age group and every special-interest group in the community. We Trustees feel that the enthusiastic leadership of our professional staff has achieved great progress toward that goal, and the response from library users would seem to verify it.

The enlarged building, and the increased number of hours open, have enabled many more persons to spend more time, whether it be browsing or serious reading and studying, within the several attractive areas of the library. The increased number and quality of the services now offered have enhanced its usefulness.

A record collection has been started, completely financed by gifts. Our present collection of 425 records had a circulation of approximately 4500 during 1968, and has been greatly appreciated by the townspeople. With the aid and cooperation of the Lynnfield Historical Society, we have begun a depository of Lynnfield historical materials which will be available to library users. The Spotlighters have deposited their collection of over 350 play books, and have generously agreed that they circulate. The Art Guild continues to enhance the beauty of the Library with their monthly exhibits.

The Lecture Series was particularly successful in 1968, with author John Updike and local artist Philip Perkins speaking before large gatherings. Family Film Nights were begun once a month and show increasing popularity. The Golden Age Club has been entertained with movies and luncheon at the library, and a door-to-door service of book deliveries for these senior citizens has begun.

The Businessmen's Section and the Photocopying Service are enjoying wide usage and provide still further examples of how the Library is broadening its services to all segments of the Community.

For School Students, the service of supplying materials for reading lists and special assignments was maintained. Nineteen school classes visited the Library in 1968 for orientation and "reference" sessions. The Library Council for Junior High students was formed under the guidance of Miss O'Brien, Assistant Librarian. They held weekly meetings, established a "constitution", had film programs and some money-raising activities. Story Hours at the Main Library were increased from twice a month to every week, with Mrs. Malcolm and Mrs. Lengyel serving as volunteer story-tellers. Children's films have added a new dimension to the story-hour program.

An Essay Contest for grades 4-6 held in March, and an Art Contest in May proved both popular andrewarding for all who participated. The Summer Reading Program was so popular this year that, on the very first day, 1000 books were checked out of the Library. Over 800 child ren registered, with 600 completing the required reading and attending the Zoomobile Party in August. These activites as well as the Lecture Series are sponsored and financed by the Friends of the Lynnfield Library, who continue to set an example of excellence in this field.

Mr. John Leonard
Library Trustee

Evidence of interest and support among townspeople for their new Main Library was manifested by the number of generous gifts received during the year. A fund in memory of Lt. Allan Jordan provided a beautiful display case for the foyer, an index table for large volumes, and complete sets of the Cambridge Ancient and Medieval Histories. The Friends of the Library contributed the carpeting in the adult browsing area and six new reading chairs. Some fine landscaping in the front of the new building was done by the Lynnfield Center Garden Club, a record browser stand was given as a memorial to Mrs. Walter Kuestenmacher, paintings were presented by Mrs. Barbara Barton and Mr. Philip Perkins, and Mr. George Koniares contributed 100 lecture chairs and a vacuum cleaner. The collection of records has come from many different sources too numerous to mention, as have many gift books and gift subscriptions of periodicals.

The past year has proven the wisdom of the citizens of Lynnfield in supporting with their tax dollars the growth and development of their Library Department, and gives a good indication of what they may expect in the future. The Trustees, together with the library staff, the patrons, and all the townspeople who make use of the Library, may look to that future with great confidence.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

The following is a break down of Fire Alarms received during the year 1968 along with the types of fires which they represent:

Box 333	268	(Telephone Report of Fire)
Street Box	128
Box 8	8	(Request by neighboring Town for aid)
Total Alarms Struck	404
Brush Fires	225
Building Fires	13
Vehicle Fires	28
False Alarms	62
Needless Alarms	45	(Fire Department summoned not needed)
Inside Fires	2
Miscellaneous	21	(Oil burners, investigation etc.
Mutual Aid	8
Total Fires	404

This years Annual Fire Report reflects a sharp increase in the number of fires over the 1968 Report. It would seem worthwhile to consider the reasons for this increase which has set an all-time high record in our history.

The most prevelant increase appears in the number of brush and woods fires. Many of these fires covered large areas and entailed as much as twelve hours of fire fighting by fifteen to thirty firefighters.

Our Fire Wages soared during this brush fire season and it was necessary to acquire a transfer of funds to meet payroll demands.

There is little doubt that extreme dry woods conditions played a large part in this brush fire season. However, in most cases the actual origin of these fires can be pir pointed to carelessness and vandalism.

Our rate of false alarms continue to show an upward trend. These are costly to the Town and dangerous to the Firemen.

The third factor which has pushed our total activity and cost of operation upward is the building fires. We are reporting thirteen such fires.

This Department has been plagued by building fires in vacant or abandoned structures. There is little doubt that their origin is anything but highly suspicious. This Department has called upon the State Fire Marshall's office on several occasions to assist us in the investigation of this problem.

The Fire Prevention Section of this Department has carried on with their work of inspecting all public buildings within the Town to uncover and eliminate fire hazards. This section also conducts fire drills in the schools and supervises the installation of oil burners in the Town.

Attendance and participation by members of this Department in all activities has been excellent. Each member of this organization deserves the highest praise for their devotion to duty in a most difficult year.

EXCERPTS FROM HISTORICAL SOURCES

The year is 1814. Andrew Mansfield is walking slowly across the Common toward the "Town House" which was built in 1714, just a hundred years before. The building is also known as the "Meeting House", and in the years to follow will be known as the "Chemical House." It will also be used as a School House. This building, the third oldest meeting house still standing in the Commonwealth was erected on land owned by John and Nathan Going (Gowing), was used first as a church, but when enlarged in 1782 it was used as a Town Hall down stairs, and religious services were held in the upper part.

Andrew Mansfield, in this year 1814, was among the best dressed men in the town, and this was a special occasion--his appearance was good indeed--his hair cut in the style worn by the Chief Justice of the United States, John Marshall, just reached his shoulders, and his sideburns extended well below his ears, his Sunday suit, well fitting.

He is soon met by two other men, all three are Selectmen. They are coming to the Town House to read the document just received from the General Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts which states that the North Parish of Lynn has been incorporated as the Town of Lynnfield.

After the voters gather, the Town Clerk, John Upton, Jr. reads the notice received from the General Court

"On the 28th day of February in the present year an act passed the Legislature of the Commonwealth incorporating the district of Lynnfield into a town by the name of Lynnfield".

"A copy of this act was received on the 30th day of March following.

"Attest: John Upton, Jr., Town Clerk."

After the reading, Wright Newhall, the third selectman, asked when Lynn End, the name by which the North Parish had often been called was changed to Lynnfield. Turning to the old records John Upton read a part of the report of a meeting held June 19, 1782 with two committees, one for the Town of Lynn and one for the Parish:

"We the committee of the Town of Lynn and the Committee of the North Parish in said Town, chosen by the Town and the Parish to agree on some terms to set off the Parish from said Town as a separate District, have met and do agree to set off said Parish in the following manner; viz: they, the said Parish, to pay all their proportion of the Town's debt due at this time and all town charges till they, the said Parish, are set off by the General Court as a separate district from said Town". It was at this time that the name "Lynnfield" began to be used.

Thirty years later the Town of Lynnfield was incorporated and separated from the mother town of Lynn. In the 1800 decade there was a movement for the incorporation of "daughter towns"; South Reading, now Wakefield was incorporated in 1812, and Saugus in 1813.

Fifty years after the incorporation of the Town of Lynnfield, the Selectmen in the "Financial Report of the Town of Lynnfield for the year ending, March 1, 1814, had a special cover design, and inside an interesting article signed by the three selectmen of that year; John Danforth, Jr., Andrew Mansfield, and William Skinner, which reads:

"On the 28th day of February, in the year 1814, an act passed the Legislature of this Commonwealth incorporating the District of Lynnfield into a town by the name of Lynnfield.

"In that year there were less than one hundred voters in the town, of that number ten are now living in the town. That year the whole amount of money assessed for State, County and Town taxes was only $1,105.56. Of this sum $104.00 was the State Tax, $102.33 the County Tax, the balance expended for town purposes, including the support of Schools for that year. The past year as will be seen by the preceeding report, the sum assessed for the same purpose was $5,600.12--the State Tax alone being $1,536.00--several hundred dollars more than all the taxes of the former period. The largest tax then paid by one person or estate was $28.75. This tax was paid on the "Orne" estate, and one person then occuping a part of said estate as tenant, and paying that year a tax of only $4.00, is still living in town and in the past year paid a tax of $962.08, being nearly as much as the whole sum assessed in town fifty years ago.

"Thus it will be seen that while the growth of the town has been small, yearly, and hardly perceptible at times, yet, in the course of half a century, it has stadily increased in population, wealth and general prosperity.

"It has always been the policy of the people, in their corporate capacity, to be free from debt. But at the breaking out of the present great Rebellion the people of the town,-actuated by a spirit of the purest loyality and ever ready to uphold the good government inherited from the fathers--manifested their readiness to crush traitorous power by furnishing their quota of men under all calls upon them by the Government. To our Volunteers the Town has paid the sum of $4,350 in addition to the Bounties paid by the State and General Government, thereby causing the small debt that exists at the present time."

Fifty years later, 1914, the incorporated town had its 100th Anniversary--the 200th of the erection of the Meeting House. In these fifty years there had been a slow growth improvement in roads, new school buildings, and the small agricultural town of Lynnfield, with its several industries, was keeping pace with other New England towns in the same area.

The census report for this decade gives the number of polls assessed as 383, and the property value as $1,976,-018, the population, 1,155. In an Essex County History of this period there are some very quotable sentences: "There is a truly remarkable story of Lynnfield, formerly Lynn End. Keeping its village characteristics of the best type, it is yet a sharer in, and a contributor to, the life of the larger towns and cities which surround it."

The celebration for 1914 was planned and given on a scale much larger than possible at any previous time. In the Town Report of that year a compresensive report was given by the committee in charge and among the selectmen was Albert P. Mansfield. In its 100-year history there had never been a time when a "Mansfield" was not serving the Town.

The committee report reads in part:

"The religious ceremonies were held on Sunday, the 13th of June, and the civic portion on the 17th. Former pastors of both Centre Church and the Second Congregational Church at South Lynnfield and pastors from Lynn and Wakefield assisted the Rev. Gaius J. Slosser at the Centre and the Rev. Robert Haskins at the South Church conduct services at the morning, afternoon and evening services.

"Perfect weather made the 17th such a day as Lynnfield had never seen before. All the public buildings and many private residences were beautifully decorated with flags and bunting, and at sunrise bells were rung to usher in the great day."

The committee report continued: "In the forenoon a military and civic parade of nearly a mile in length passed through the principal streets, headed by a flag bearer dressed as an Indian, followed by members of the Grand Army of the Republic, Wakefield and Saugus Camps of Sons of Veterans, Wakefield High Cadets, and many historical, and educational, and civic floats.

"During the day a splendid display of antiques and relics was exhibited in the Public Library. (Several years prior to 1914, the Library had been moved from its one room in the "New" Town Hall to the school building which had been vacated when the school house on Main Street was built) It was indeed a surprise to find such a large and valuable collection within the Town and it is hoped that a permanent historical society will soon be organized in order that these interesting and valuable antiques and relics may be preserved for future use.

"As the Town Hall building was not large enough to accommodate those desiring to attend the banquet, your committee arranged to have a large tent pitched in the rear of the Town Hall, and at 6 p.m. nearly four hundred persons sat down to dinner, among them many prominent guests, as well as former residents of Lynnfield.

"Following the dinner there were addresses by Mayor George C. Newhall of Lynn, Congressman Michael Phelan, Hon. Nathan Mortimer Hawkes, Henry P. Emerson, Superintendent of Schools, Buffalo, New York, and Eugene Putnam, who spoke for Hon. David Hewes of Orange, California. Mr. Hawkes, Mr. Emerson and Mr. Hewes were born in Lynnfield."

The committee: Rutherford E. Smith, Chairman
J. Winslow Perkins, Secretary
Dr. Franklin W. Freeman, Treasurer
Mrs. George M. Roundy
Miss E. Jennie Gerry
Mrs. Charles J. Bolton
Mrs. Edward Q. Moulton
Henry W. Pelton
Albert P. Mansfield

The fifty years between 1964 and 1914 were marked by changes never dreamed possible by folks living in the latter part of the 19th Century. Gas for heating and lighting was brought in from Lynn, and electricity from Reading. Automobiles no longer frightened horses. There was telephone service in private residences, and there was an exchange at the Centre, while families at South Lynnfield were connected with the Lynn exchange. Special teachers for Music and Drawing were employed in the schools on a part time basis. A superintendent of Schools was shared with several other communities.

A town Seal was designed in 1912 by George E. Lambert, a young artist. Since that time the Seal has become a symbol of the Town and as such its use grows with each passing year. Because the "Old Meeting House" has been the dominant feature of the Lynnfield Common, it was naturally the center of the design. The Seal bears the words, "A District 1782--A Town 1814" Below the building the words, "Meeting House Build 1714." Above the circle is the word "Lynnfield, and below, "Massachusetts". This design was cast in metal for souvenirs for the 1914 Anniversary. Now the Seal is imprinted on all official documents of the Town, used on its stationery, and painted on the vehicles of the Highway and the Park Departments. It is used most fittingly on the official stationery of the Historical Society which has been given the Custodianship of the Old Meeting House and is working for its restoration.

In 1891 a new Town Hall was built, great was the pride of the town's people in this modern building. As the town grew in population, it had to be enlarged, and in 1964 it gave way to the needs and demands for workable office space. It was torn down. The new Town Building is a part of the complex of municipal buildings which houses the Fire Station and the Police Station. Over the door of this new section is the Town Seal--in its design and execution it is truly a symbol of our fine New England town.

Across the street is the United States Post Office, a building of good Colonial design. From it go daily carriers with the mail to each house in the town. The growth of the mail system here has kept pace with the growth in population. When the census recorded less than eight hundred persons living in the two sections of the town, mail was brought to and sent from two small post offices that were housed sometimes in a railroad station, and sometimes in a store. When Rural Delivery was inaugurated one delivery came from Wakefield, the second from Peabody, but the offices in town were kept for those who lived near by. Now there are thirty one persons employed in our Post Office Department--A Postmaster, Assistant Postmaster, Superintendent, Carriers, and Clerks. One custodian cares for the buildings and grounds and four mail trucks are in constant use.

The 150th Anniversary of the Incorporation of the Town and the 250th of the Old Meeting House marked conspicuously the rapid changes which had taken place during the preceding fifty years. The three outstanding ones might be noted as changes in methods of transportation, increase in population with the resulting demands for services and additional schools, and different ways of earning the livlihoods. In 1950 the census listed 3,925 residents; in 1964 there were 9,600.

During these last fifty years the means of livelihood for the inhabitants has changed--almost completely. In 1914 a few of the folks went into Boston or the nearby towns by train--there was good train service. Many earned their living by farming; dairying was a big business with large herds of cows in many parts of the town. There were large apple orchards; Gerry's Cider Mill did a thriving business. One of the larger businesses was that of Roundy Brothers who sold wood and hay--the trees cut in Lynnfield and the grass grown in its fields. Vegetables and fruits were harvested and sold in Wakefield, Lynn, Salem and Boston. Blacksmith and wheelwright shops employed numbers of men. In the South part of the town there were three shoe factories, each employing about one hundred workers.

There were many windmills in the town; their popularity may have been due to the fact that Leonard Wheeler, inventor and manufacturer of the "Eclipse" windmill was a resident of Lynnfield. George and Will Roundy did teaming for Mr. Wheeler and delivered windmills "all over the State".

The 1964 Anniversary will take its place in the history of the town. Two Lynnfield marathon runners helped to start off the town's week-end by bringing a proclamation from Governor Endicott Peabody at the State House in Boston to the steps of the Old Meeting House. Robert Dolbeare received the proclamation and ran with it half way to Lynnfield. He gave it to Richard Weeks, who ran to Salem Street and Broadway. The pair then ran through South Lynnfield to the corner of the Common. Waiting for them was Francis Piatti, Town Crier for the Anniversary. The proclamation was read on the steps of the Meeting House.

Activities varied each day, every organization making an outstanding contribution. The Historical Society members, dressed in costumes of the 1700 period, greeted visitors to the Meeting House where there was an exhibit of antiques and pictures of early times. The Lions Club sponsored a lobster-chicken barbecue, and 28 attractive contestants competed for the title of "Miss Anniversary". The Junior High School Band played entertaining music. The Art Guild held an exhibit, and prizes were awarded. "The Spotlighters" presented a pageant with seven scenes, each depicting a portion of the town's history.

Saturday was the day of the big parade. And in the afternoon the new Town Office building was dedicated. On the steps stood County Commissioner C. F. Nelson Pratt; State Representative Belden C. Bly, Selectmen's Association Charles MacPherson, Architect John Guarino, Rev. Merrill Kluhsman. Rev. Douglas Elliott, and Chairman John B. Rodgers of the Building Committee. Town Clerk Harry W. Higgins introduced Secretary of State Kevin White for the dedication speech. A time capsule, to be reopened in the year 2014, prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Osberg, and containing current items, was displayed and sealed. Miss Anniversary, Cathy Monroe, cut the blue ribbon which officially opened the new Town Hall. At six o'clock a New England Saturday night supper, prepared by the Rotary Club, assisted by members of the School Cafeteria, was served to about a thousand diners. The highlight of the evening was the arrival of the Governor of the Commonwealth, Endicott Peabody, by helicopter. The Centre Couples' Club dance was held in the High School gym, and the South Lynnfield Couples' Club's Hootenanny was in the tent behind the High School.

Sunday morning each church had its own service with special welcomes for former members. In the afternoon residents and guests gathered on the Common to await the arrival of a horse drawn carriage bringing Dr. Russell Schofield in 18th Century clerical costume to the 1714 Meeting House, where there was a service which reproduced the Puritan simplicity of 250 years ago.
The next service was in the church across the street, built in 1832. Here Rev. Douglas Elliott of the Trinity Baptist outlined the religious thinking of the 19th Century.

A still larger group was able to attend the last service of the day, held in the new Centre Congregational Church built in 1960. At this service Rev. Garvey MacLean, Assistant Pastor of the Centre Church, and the Right Rev. Monseigneur Lally, Editor of "The Pilot" spoke on the Ecumenical Influence in the 20th Century. Each churc in town was represented by its pastor, and Rev. James C. Marshall, Pastor of the Lynnfield Community Church was the co-ordinator, introducing each speaker. "History was made that afternoon in our town when people of all faiths met together and reviewed their common religious heritage."

Now the Incorporated Town of Lynnfield is working for the year 2014, when the settlement (Lynn End) will mark its 375th year; the Meeting House, its 300th year, and the Town, its 200th.

BY LAW COMMITTEE

The Committee's work during 1968 was directed primarily toward the completion of a proposed Personnel By-Law, and it is now felt that the By-Law will probably be ready for the consideration of the Wage Study Committee, Finance Committee, Board of Selectmen and the Town Meeting during 1969.

The Summer Program employed three (3) law students and the Chairman together with Attorneys Theodore Regnante and John Brodbine supervised their work during their ten (10) weeks employment. They reviewed prior work, then criticized and redrafted it; in addition, they worked on other subjects which the Committee will consider in the future.

MAPPING COMMITTEE

SUBJECT: REPORT OF SELECTMEN'S MAPPING COMMITTEE.

In recent years, various Town bodies have been frustrated by ambiguities in property ownership. Instances were frequent in discovery of erroneous or inadequate assessments or assumptions, - usually at some loss of revenue to the Town. A need was recognized for some organized identification of all real estate in town, linking each parcel with a definite owner; identifying each deed with an owner and a parcel,-quickly, accurately and cheaply. This would be two dimentional, and called Assessors Maps.

Similarly problems arose pertaining to the surface irregularities; to flooding, groundwater elevations, drainage, and sewage disposal: past, present and future. A general drainage study of 1963 had to conclude with approximations rather than to entail intolerable expense for survey parties. The Town needed maps that would reveal topographic features. This,is three dimentional, and called topographic mapping.

The Selectmen were advised on several occasions by the Drainage Committee, of the need for the topographic mapping. The Assessors, in July of 1967 advised independently of their need for th assessors maps, and requested a study be made for feasibility.

In response to these recommendations, the selectmen appointed a committee in August, 1967, consisting of the chairmen of: Board of Assessors (and pro-tem chairman of the committee), Planning Board, Board of Health, Conservation, Capital Outlay, Finance Committee, Lynnfield and Lynnfield Center Water Districts, the Town Counsel, the Road Commissioner, and the Administrative Assistant to the Board of Selectmen.

The committee held 13 formal meetings, conducted interviews, employed a graphological consultant, recommended a proposal to the Selectmen, who prepared a referendum. We presented the findings and recommendations orally t a civic group and the 1968 Town meeting; obtained appropriation; advertised and received bids and recommended award of contract.

As of this writing, completion of the contract is expected immediately. This will give you maps of the town and other data as follows: Assessors Maps 1 inch = 100 feet and showing every parcel of real estate and every building of significant size;

Card file, linking every parcel and every transaction; Real estate deeds,-every transaction on microfilm, and with devices for reading and filing;

Topography: contour lines at every 2 feet in elevation over the entire town, showing all important natural and artificial physical features.

It is anticipated that most surrounding towns will follow our example.

Freeman W. Towers, R.P.E.
Chairman.

The proposed amendment of the Constitution authorizes the Legislature to impose an income tax graduated according to total income, and authorizes the granting of reasonable exemptions, deductions and abatements, as an alternative to the exercise of the Legislature's existing power to tax income under Article 44 of the Amendments to the Constitution. Without limiting the foregoing authorization, the proposed amendment permits any such tax to be imposed at a uniform percentage of an individual's federal income tax liability or at graduated rates applied to his total income taxable federally, and it permits reasonable variations of any federal provision. It requires that the graduated rates, exemptions, and deductions be set without regard to the kind of income being taxed.

The proposed amendment of the Constitution defines the circumstances in which a Governor's inability to perform his functions shall cause his office to become vacant, and it establishes a procedure for making the necessary determinations. The office will become vacant following a declaration of disability by the Governor himself or by the Chief Justice and a majority of the Associate Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court, or such other body as the Legislature may provide. The vacancy will terminate four days after the Governor declares that no disability exists, unless (1) within that period the Chief Justice and majority of the Associate Justices, or such other body provoded by the Lesislature, should make a contrary declaration and (2) within another stated period the Legislature, by two-thirds of each branch present and voting, then determines the issue contrary to the Governor's declaration.

The same procedure will also apply to a Lieutenant Governor who in the case of a vacancy is performing the Governor's duties.

The proposed amendment also requires the election of a Governor for the unexpired balance of the four-year term if a vacancy in the office of Governor as described in the proposed amendment continues for a six-month period expiring more than five months prior to a biennial state election other than an election for Governor.

The proposed law provides that the official ballot in the biennial State election for the year 1970 shall contain a question asking the voters whether there shall be a convention in 1971 to (1) revise, alter or amend the Constitution of the Commonwealth on the following subjects, insofar as they relate to the structure of government, and no other; the Executive Branch; the General Court; the Executive Council; the government of cities, town and counties and their relationship to each other and to the government of the Commonwealth; (2) simplify and rearrange the constitution, and (3) provide methods of amendment thereof. The question will state that the convention shall not consider or propose any measure which relates to the Massachusetts Declaration of Rights, the provisions of the Massachusetts Constitution concerning the "Judiciary Power" (other than provisions respecting the Executive Council), or any of the excluded matters enumerated in Article XLVIII, II, Section 2 of the Massachusetts constitution. The question will fix the number of delegates to the convention at 150, of whom 20 members shall be members of the General Court; the remaining 130 members shall be elected by the voters in the manner summarized below. The question will also state that the convention shall conclude its business not later than 120 days from its first session.

The proposed law provides that if a majority of the votes on the foregoing question is in the affirmative, the convention shall be held in July, 1971 to revise, alter or amend the constitution on the matters enumerated above only. The House of Representatives and the Senate shall each elect as delegates 10 of its members, not more than 6 from each branch coming from the same political party. Of the remaining 130 delegates, 10 shall be elected at large and 120 shall be elected from the 40 senatorial districts, 3 from each. Provision is made for the manner of nominating and electing these 130 delegates, without party or political designation, for filling vacancies occurring in the position of any delegate, from whatever source chosen, and for the conduct of the convention's business.

Any revision, alterations and amendments of the Massachusetts Constitution adopted by the convention shall be submitted to the people at the State election in 1972 for their ratification and adoption in such manner as the convention may direct. If a majority of the people voting thereon ratify and adopt such revision, alteration or amendment, the constitution shall be deemed to be changed accordingly.

The proposed law also provides that if the vote on the question to be submitted at the biennial State election in 1970 is in the affirmative, the Governor shall appoint a preparatory commission of 5 members to compile data to aid the convention in the discharge of its duties. Each member of the commission shall receive compensation of $10,000 and the commission may expend a sum not in excess of $200,000, as the Governor may approve, for its expenses.

SCHOOL PLANT NEEDS COMMITTEE

With completion of the new additions at Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill scheduled for early 1969, overcrowding in the school system will soon be ended. Unfortunately however, this condition will not last indefinitely. Enrollments are still rising in the Senior High School as large classes move up from the lower grades; and in turn, the classes at the lower levels are being swelled by the continuing influx of new families into town. By the early 1970's, the growth in enrollments combined with the introduction of a public kindergarten in accordance with State requirements will call for further building activity.

It is probable that the next facility needed will be a brand new elementary school, although a change in the rate of town growth or in the organization of the school system could dictate otherwise. In any event, all long range projections indicate that in addition to expansion at existing locations one or more entirely new schools will eventually be needed. To permit sound planning for this inevitable growth, the School Plant Needs Committee recommends that the town obtain another school building site as soon as practicable while suitable land is available.

For the benefit of those citizens interested in the basis for the committee conclusions, a detailed report has been placed on file in the main library. A complete summary of the report will not be attempted here but an excerpt is given which shows the unusual pattern of population growth and indicates why there has been such an impact on the school system. "During the past twelve years while the number of dwellings in town has increased by 40%, the preschool population has remained essentially constant, total enrollment in grades one through six has risen by 60%, junior high enrollment has doubled, and senior high enrollment has tripled."

INVENTORY COMMITTEE

This committee was established by the Board of Selectmen on August 26, 1968 for the purpose of taking a physical inventory of the capital assets of the Town excluding real and school property with a completion date of December 1, 1968 which was accomplished. A similar inventory was prepared by the Capital Outlay Commission in 1963 and 1964 which was updated at this time. It was recommended to the Selectmen that the town maintain a perpetual inventory of these assets to be updated at least annually. Methods of accomplishing this were discussed with representatives of the Finance Committee and Board of Selectmen. We thank Richard Hoffman, Robert Sperry and H. Joseph Maney for their assistance. We also thank Town Department Heads and committee chairman for their cooperation.

CIVIL DEFENSE REPORT

Lynnfield Civil Defense once again proved its effectiveness during the year 1968. The Auxiliary Fire Department spent over 1500 hours fighting brush and wood fires. In addition the regular drill sessions were held and regular alarms were answered. From answering regular alarms and the regular training sessions, the experience gained leads to eventual promotion to a substitute call fireman and than on to the regular call department.

The Auxiliary Police sponsored a course instruction in Red Cross First Aid. This course proved beneficial to many new members of both the Auxiliary Police and Fire Departments who had not received prior training. Each member who completed the course received an Advanced Red Cross certification card.

The Auxiliary Police also took part in the Memorial Day Parade, furnished the necessary assistance at the 4th of July celebration and performed traffic duty at the Town Meetings. The monthly training meetings started again in September with an intensified training program supplemented by various C. D. sponsored educational speakers.

The communications group have held meetings on an average of twice a week. One night is devoted to teaching morse code. The second night is training in advanced radio theory. In addition the monthly test exercises with the state and area Civil Defense Headquarters have been well attented. In the event of a natural disaster, communications has proved to be one of the most vital links. Communications has proved its effectiveness in the Worcester tornado, the Alaskan earthquake and many other disasters where normal means of communications failed.

During the year 1969, emphasis will be placed on stocking current shelter spaces, obtaining and training shelter managers and radiological monitors.

I would like to express the Town of Lynnfield and my personal appreciation to the citizens who gave so freely of their time in assisting in promoting and maintaining an alert and active Civil Defense organization in the Town of Lynnfield. It is only through the efforts of citizens such as these that any Civil Defense organization can remain effective for any emergency during which they may be called upon.

Lawrence E. Austin
Civil Defense Director

INSURANCE COMMITTEE

The Insurance Committee serves as an impartial source of advice to the Selectmen on matters related to the Town's insurance program. The committee has responsibility for assisting the Selectmen with matters related to insurance coverages protecting the Town's property, liability suits against the Town, and personal insurance benefits for Town employees.

The principle of competitive bidding on the Town's insurance program instituted by the Selectmen with the advice and counsel of the committee has resulted in savings to the Town during the past five years. However, as time goes on, the Town's insurance budget can only increase as the Town owns more property and payrolls increase.

BOARD OF SELECTMEN

A. DAVID RODHAM

H. JOSEPH MANEY
Chairman

MYLES T. BURKE

In the year 1969 Lynnfield had the youngest Board of Selectmen in its modern history. This new Board could not have served effectively however without the direct support of over 100 unpaid board and committee members, both young and older alike, who worked unselfishly to make significant contributions in many areas. To these dedicated people we offer our heartfelt thanks. In addition, the efforts of all other town officers and regular employees contributed heavily in keeping Lynnfield the very attractive place it is to live. We would cite specially the services of Mr. Harry C. Wendt, who did not seek re-election to the Board of Selectmen after giving many years to the Town.

As another decade closes in the twentieth century we find our country beset with great social and economic problems. The solution to these problems is hindered by the war in Vietnam and monetary inflation which, in turn, puts a financial squeeze on all levels of government. The Federal government cannot help the states, the states cannot help the cities and towns, and the cities and towns cannot help themselves. The major source of revenue for municipalities is the property tax and in Lynnfield, as well as many other communities, the increase in expenses continues to exceed the increase in growth of the tax base. The only way to ease this burden, assuming you cannot appreciably increase the tax base or cut expenses, is to have some higher level of government, through some other source of taxes, help pay the bill. While we must always try to become more efficient, we must work toward getting new revenue.

We are becoming increasingly aware that new regional governmental units may be with us in the near future. It does seem that many services and programs can possibly be best performed by several cities and towns joining together, however, the dangers to such a system are clear and bothersome. Three recent events in our history; the state sales tax, the state takeover of Welfare and the expansion of the MBTA have been to the financial detriment of Lynnfield, and mostly for the benefit of the larger cities. Similar situations may be forced upon us in the future and perhaps society demands that we pay a bigger share but somewhere a line has to be drawn. As regionalization continues to grow as an idea your selectmen will keep the dangers in mind and do the best we can to protect all of us against these dangers.

There were several significant events in Lynnfield during the year 1969. The Board took an initial step in modernizing the governmental structure by combining the office of Town Accountant and Administrative Assistant into a full time position and appointing Mr. Roger Gerry to that post. We appointed a Town

Charter Study Committee and their recommendation and action resulted in the question of a Charter Commission being placed on the ballot for the 1970 election. While we feel strongly that our basic form of government is a good one, we do feel that improvements can and should be made by the Town and in doing so, take full advantage of Home Rule. We also appointed a committe to study the need for a Town Engineer and as they reported, the desirability is very clear but the feasibility and cost seems to make it unwise for the immediate future. The Fire Department Study Committee, which we appointed, recommended that we appoint a full time chief. We believe we will accept their recommendation and attempt to make this improvement in the most cost effective way.

This year also brought the completion of negotiations with the Municipal Employees Union which is the first labor contract we have had in Lynnfield, other than the School Department. This was accomplished in close cooperation with the newly established Personnel Board. The Police Association also requested certain changes in conditions of employment which we were close to settling as the year closed.

We worked closely with the School Committee, the School Plant Needs Committee, and the School Site Selection Committee and received Town Meeting authorization to purchase a new elementary school site. We saw the completion and occupancy of our two elementary school additions and were informed that we would have to initiate action to plan for the expansion of the high school in the near future. Our education system is vital but becoming more and more costly so we must work intelligently as we expand. We offered the use of the "Pearson" house, next to the Town Hall, to the teenagers and, while the extensive work of remodeling delayed the opening, we hope they will find some constructive enjoyment from it in 1970.

We implemented a new master plan of street lighting, as programmed by the Street Lighting Committee. We increased the light output of almost all lamps which should be an improvement in public safety and also provided lighting for all unaccepted streets. We saw the completion of a new set of town property and topographic maps which resulted largely from the initiative of the Assessors. These maps should bring many dividends to the town in better planning and engineering and more accurate assessing. We took a first step in getting to know more about the town drainage system. We would like to try to finish the drainage study in 1970 so that we can take action to avoid the many small flooding problems which are caused partially from a lack of information as well as from the water table and soil problems inherent in the town. We rekindled a look at the refuse disposal problem and will have to more aggressively pursue this area in 1970. There are several alternatives we can choose but all of them cost more money. We must search for the best approach and find it before the problem runs away from us.

We appointed a committee to study the use of Pillings Pond as a recreational area and since the cost of implementing such a task is considered prohibitive for the present, we are moving slowly. We do hope, however that we can acquire some land and clear some titles in the near future which are conditions precedent to its use by the Town. We have a committee studying the desirability, ways and means of constructing low cost housing for the elderly. We expect their report soon and will evaluate their recommendations at that time. Most recently we appointed an Historic District Study Committee which is currently holding hearings and studying the desirability of an historic district in the center.

We have also encouraged the Planning Board to initiate action to establish a By-Law which would require underground wiring in all new developments. The State Legislature has authorized all municipalities to eventually put all utility distribution lines underground and, while we would want to see this for Lynnfield some day, we feel an immediate plan for all new lines to be underground is the best course of action.

Finally, the State Legislature also passed a new fiscal year bill which, if it is not changed, will provide for an eighteen month year, starting in January 1971 calling for two tax bills in that year. In subsequent twelve month years we will also have two tax payments which will ease the burden somewhat on borrowing. Taxes is where we started in this report and it seems as if taxes is always our most pressing concern. We pledge our efforts to work toward adequate services, good planning, effective leadership, and all with the burden of the taxpayer in mind.

The Board of Selectmen appreciates the efforts of all citizens whose help has made our job of serving you a little easier and a lot more personally rewarding.

I have requested funds for the new Teleprocessing System which will go into effect in 1970. This will take the place of the antiquated Teletype System and will directly connect us with the National Crime Center in Washington, D.C. as well as all State agencies. This system is the most modern tool that Law Enforcement agencies have acquired since the inception of the two-way radio.

May I express my thanks to the citizens of the community for their sincere co-operation during the past year.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Box Alarms transmitted during 1969 totaled 273, as compared with 404 in 1968, 170 in 1967, and 366 in 1966.

Weather extremes, rainfall distribution, and snow cover all play an important part in the total activity of our "ALL-CALL FIRE DEPARTMENT", especially in the area of grass and brush fires.

False alarms continue to present real problems, with a total of 53 in 1969-62 in 1968-28 in 1967 and 47 in 1966. These are not only costly but present added dangers when sounded in rapid succession splitting our manpower and equipment throughout the Town.

The analysis of 1969 Box Alarms indicates there were:

133	Brush/Grass alarm
12	Building alarms
53	False alarms
19	Needless Alarms
29	Vehicle alarm
10	Electrical alarms
9	Out Of Town alarms
7	Miscellaneous alarms
1	Drowning alarm
273	Total Box Alarms struck.

Our Fire Prevention Bureau, Alarm Maintenance Division, and Civil Defense Auxiliary Fire Unit, all continue to do a good job for the Department.

We wish to thank all other Town Departments for their cooperation and assistance, and also thank the Citizens of Lynnfield and their guests for their efforts toward FIRE SAFETY.

MEMORIAL DAY PARADE COMMITTEE

This is to report that the "Memorial Day Parade Committee" was appointed by the Selectmen, to releive some of the burden from the same faithful few who have carried on through the years. With their guidance, we hope to have parades at both ends of town on May 25, 1970. We hope to see a large turnout of townspeople and their friends to show, at least once a year, that we have not forgotten those who have tried to make this country a decent place to live.

Sincerely The Memorial Day Parade Committee

VETERAN'S SERVICES

As of January 15, 1969 there were two permanent cases of Veterans Benefits and these were terminated before the end of the year due to a death and result of suspension.

Four emergency cases caused by illness and unemployment were processed and benefits provided during the year 1969.

The Town of Lynnfield was very fortunate in not being pressed badly for Veterans Benefits due to a local strike of electrical workers in late October, and aid that has been provided was far less than anticipated.

Vietnam Veterans were advised and given applications regarding their entitled Vietnam bonus and much credit should be given to Mr. Harry Higgins, Town Clerk for his untiring efforts and work in certifying the applications.

All veterans graves in the town's five cemeteries were inspected and found to be in good condition, and all graves were decorated in the usual fashion on Memorial Day by American Legion Post #131, a job well done as in the past years.

At this time I would like to thank all town officers and departments for their fine co-operation throughout the year 1969.

Respectfully submitted,

Burton B. Cogswell,
Veterans Service Director

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

The year 1969 marked the greatest expenditure ever for the Snow and Ice Account of the Highway Department. Mother Nature left a good supply of the white stuff for us to clean up on Sunday, the ninth of February. When we had completed that chore, she did the same thing over again on February 24. The February 9th storm caused many motorists to abandon their cars on Routes 1 and 128. With the help of many people, they were able to put up at the hall in the South Fire Station and the Junior High School. The last of our visitors didn't leave until Wednesday, February 12th. Ken Worthen opened his store and told me that Monday, February 10th was the busiest day he ever had at the store since he opened it.

Chapter 90 funds were spent on the completion of Summer Street from the Summer Street School to the Post Office. 1970 Chapter 90 funds will be allocated to Main Street.

Merrow Road, Priscilla Road, Phillips Road, Trickett Road, Thomas Road and Douglas Road were rebuilt and a bituminous surface installed.

By direction of the Town Meeting, the bad curve on Chestnut Street was modified, making for a safer street.

Projects for 1970 include Monroe Street, Homestead Road, Oxbow Road, Elmwood Road, Rockwood Road, Temple Road, Herrick Lane and Lakeview Avenue. Also Birchwood Road, Cedarwood Road and a portion of Apple Hill Lane, provided they are accepted by the Town at the Annual Meeting.

Looking further ahead for the seventies, the bad curve at the Ramsdell property on Salem Street needs to be taken care of. More accidents take place there, than any other spot in town, whether the streets are slippery or dry. Also traffic control signals at Salem and Walnut Street, which is another accident area.

The Road Commissioner and the personnel of the Highway Department, wish to again thank the citizens and administrative officials of the Town for their help and cooperation throughout the year. Also, many thanks to my wife for taking the complaint calls at all times of the night and day when citizens have problems.

JAMES C. FLETCHER
Road Commissioner

PERSONNEL BOARD

As the Town Government of Lynnfield meets the needs of the residents, there is a constant requirement to insure that the employees of the Town are treated properly. In the past, a wage study committee worked at insuring that the employees of the Town were properly paid and that job descriptions were accurate. But today looking at compensation practices is not enough. The role of the Personnel Board is to design, implement and control projects and programs which enhance the position of the Town employees, and the paid and elected officials. It is important to build a personnel system that retains the informalness of a small town atmosphere with efficiency and consistency of a large scale system. The two are not incompatible as long as the people designing the system, and the people affected by the system are flexible.

In 1969 the Board involved itself in several projects which form a framework from which they can build in 1970. A personnel file was established so that accurate records could be maintained on every employee, paid and elected Town officials. An organization study was conducted of report responsibility of the various units within the Town Government. A recommendation for 1970 wages was completed based on comparative figures on neighboring and similar size towns. A study of municipal labor contracts was conducted to make recommendations to the Board of Selectmen concerning the negotiations of the 1970 labor contract, and finally a grievance form was designed but held in abeyance pending the outcome of the contract negotiations.

As the Personnel Board becomes an integral part of the Town's operation, it will become apparent that the Town has much work cut out to become employee conscious.

STREET LIGHTING COMMITTEE

This committe was established in 1962 to study and make recommendations concerning municipal acquisition and operation of the electric distribution systems in the Town. Following submission of its report in March, 1963, the Commiteee was placed on Standby status, a situation which continues. The Committee has held no meetings nor has it conducted any business during the year 1969.

Oscar S. Bray, Chairman

CIVIL DEFENSE

Civil Defense started an active year 1969 with the snowstorm the weekend of February 8, 1969. Lynnfield was responsible for the housing and feeding of over 1200 transit motorists from buses and automobiles stranded on routes 1 and 128. With the able assistance of Mr. Leonard Nihan, Prinicpal of the Jr. High School we were able to open the school and adequately feed and accommodate 95% of the stranded people in the Jr. High School. The response of the stranded people in helping each other and working together to provide for themselves made the requirements of Mr. Nihan and the C.D. organization much easier. Ken and Ireta Worthern will always be remembered for their many trips in the police cruiser to open the store during the night to make available food for the various town departments working and the stranded people.

The Auxiliary Police & the Auxiliary Fire Departments fulfilled their usual busy schedule during the year with their weekly training schedules and performing as required in emergencies. I wish to express my appreciation to Gerald Cook for his many long hours spent as administrator and in training the Auxiliary Fire Dept. as their Chief.

On behalf of the Town of Lynnfield an expression of gratitude and deep appreciation is extended to all of the Citizens of the town who have given of their time so freely in emergencies and performing other duties in which Civil Defense has an active part. With out this assistance Civil Defense would not be able to functon properly and provide the necessary assistance required in natural disasters and emergency situations.

Lawrence Edward Austin,
Civil Defense Director

DEPARTMENT OF WEIGHTS & MEASURES

The old adage "a pint's a pound" has never had standing as an accurate measure of solids versus liquid measures. Many sources which were full measure when packaged shrink in volume when frozen. Pre-packaged produce must be checked constantly to be sure proper weights are given.

Two gasoline pumps were condemned (both delivering over) and not being adjustable, and one scale that was purchased and condemned by me before putting into use. Errors in weights were corrected as found.

Gustav H. Koch
Sealer of Weights and Measures

MAPPING COMMITTEE

The work of this committee, begun in early 1967, is completed by the final payment on the contract effected in 1968. This contract work consisted of complete surficial mapping of the Town. Two sets of maps resulted: both as scales of one in 1200 or 100 feet to the inch.

One set is the Assessors Maps, showing each known parcel of land in Town, coordinated to the assessors' file cards, to real estate deeds, and to the State geodedic coordinating system. The other set is the topography at two-foot contour intervals; carefully and accurately plotted, showing physical features, buildings, streams, ways, utilities, elevations and other details. It is coordinated to the Assessors Maps, to Mean Sea Level datum, to Town bounds and other controls, — vertical and horizontal throughout the Town, to a set of stereoptical photographic plates from which the maps were made, and to a mosaic photographic map of the Town.

These map facilities are available in entirety or in part at small cost for purchase, or free for viewing at the Town Hall for study or personal use. Exact distribution details are being arranged.

Final Report of the Mapping Committee

In accordance with the note on Article 29 of the 1968 Annual Town Meeting, namely the purchase of a complete set of both topographic and tax maps, the Committee wishes to report that both maps and all miscellaneous detail connected with the Town's contract with the Air Survey Corporation of Reston, Virginia have been completed in a most satisfactory manner.

The technical work done by the Air Survey Corp. oration was excellent including the drafting of the Cronaflex map masters for the topographic and tax maps.

Final acceptance of the maps was delayed several months due to minor office procedures which were not completed until the Fall of 1969.

The Committee wishes to thank all who assisted in this major project and particularly Mr. Jack Schall, Project Engineer, Air Survey Corporation, and Mr. Howard Bennett, Engineer and Consultant to the Lynnfield Mapping Committee.

We feel that the use of these maps by the various Town Departments and Committees will result in many benefits to the Town and substantial saving in surveying costs. It is contemplated by demand already expressed that at least part of the expenditure will be recovered directly through the sale of sets of maps (60 sheets) and individual sheets.

With the satisfactory completion of our assignment the Committee considers itself henceforth dissolved unless otherwise specifically requested by your Board.

TOWN ENGINEER STUDY COMMITTEE

After long-time and often-repeated off-record discussion of the Town's need for a permanent Town Engineer, the Selectmen appointed a committee of three in August to study the feasibility of employing a Town Engineer on a permanent basis.

We investigated each Town agency's tangible and potential need for engineering services including surveying. We examined present procedures and adequacies in this Town and in general municipal practice throughout New England. We investigated carefully and objectively the potential costs of practical improvement to our present system.

We found some phases functioning adequately, some bodies working independently and well; some with potential probelms. We found no provision for inevitable expensive studies.

It was concluded that funding should be provided for both ordinary and special future engineering services, and that these could be covered adequately with less than would be required for permanent help. A detailed study and report, with recommendations, was presented in October for consideration by the Board of Selectmen; and our assignment was thus completed.

1. Assignment:

TOWN ENGINEER STUDY COMMITTEE

The above captioned Committee was appointed by the Board of Selectmen under letter of August 15, 1969 and as otherwise specifically defined in conference. It consists of three men to report on the advisability of employing:

1.-A Town Engineer on a permanent basis
2-Consulting Personnel on fee basis
3-A Town Engineer with supplementary Consulting Personnel
4-The System now in use, namely: Volunteer and Consultant Committees and Organizations.

2. Procedure:

Under the guidance of the temporarily appointed Chairman, we elected a permanent Chairman. We met regularly for 4 meetings; made personal research among outlying Towns and by personal and written questionnaires to Lynnfield's several Town bodies and Committees.

3. Findings:

A. Maps and Records Heretofore, the Town has worked with totally inadequate mapping. We relied upon Builders or Developers to submit proposed layouts and trusted to their judgement in design and performance. Now we do have accurate mapping of Topography and of Lots and Streets, suitable for Assessors and related purposes.

Problems arise in maintenance of these Records: new Streets added, Topography changes by reason of developments or area improvements, new buildings are erected and old ones removed.

Single lots are sub-divided, land is exchanged so that lots change in shape and may not agree with Assessors data. Land acquisitions must be made after great study, for School sites and other public buildings. To make use of our investment in maps, such updating must be performed by persons knowledgeable in surveying and mapping.

B. Drainage:

In 1963, a preliminary Drainage study was made using crude data. In 1969, $2000.00 is being invested in locating and plotting some of our drainage facilities, more of this is needed. Presently drainage problems are resolved or otherwise treated, using volunteer advice and correction. With increase in building and many minor changes in surface drainage, our natural and artificial channels will be affected adversely, floods will be more frequent and more severe, soils will no longer function to absorb sewage in affected areas.

To protect owners against these adversities, and, the Town from embarrassment, ultimately existing planning must be utilized, new problems met and future problems prevented from arising. This requires assistance from persons trained in Hydrology and Drainage.

C. Sewerage:

Presently Sewage is disposed of in individual basis, usually by underground facilities designed presumably to dispose of waste without affecting streams, ponds or land surface by effulent odors, vegetation or unsightly or objectionable appearance. There is some indication this is not always the case.

Care must be taken to preclude such failures in future construction, to correct them where they exist, and to prepare for situations where land may not be receptive to such correction.

As more of such difficult cases arise, plans must be made for Neighborhood, Community and possibly Municipal disposal. All this will require Personnel trained in Sewerage. The earlier stages will require less expertise than later developments.

D. Household Waste:

The present System of prohibiting burning, and requiring pick-up and removal to distant disposal is fast becoming unfeasible. Some other methods will have to be investigated. This will require Personnel trained in waste disposal, land valuation and Municipal intracies.

E. Water, Gas Electricity:

These services are by private enterprise. They involve facilities concealed underground, and on structures above ground. These become items of consideration in most Municipal work of Public Works nature, they should be plotted on existing new maps and kept up to date. This requires services of persons trained in mapping and maintenance of records.

F. Police and Fire Protection:

Their services requir little from Personnel outside of their own departments or contracts. They do have underground and overhead facilities of which location information should be available in the event of excavations on public lands. This service should be performed by persons skilled in mapping.

G. Planning:

The Town has engaged Consultants on several occasions and has adopted a workable plan not requiring much engineering attention. The Planning Board reviews proposed sub-divisions and Street layouts. Occasionally Engineering assistance is helpful. They rely upon others to assure conformance to specifications.

H. Highways:

Seldom is any work involved in which the Highway Commissioner can not lay out and control his work without engaging assistance from engineering personnel. On these infrequent occasions Consultants are engaged.

I. General

Whether or not a permanent Engineer were engaged, some Agencies could prefer and engage other Consulting Engineers.

Other Municipalities: We have found that in New England:

1 Over 90% of comparable Towns ,have no Town Engineer

2 Towns use Consultants on "as necessary" basis, but with bugdets typically less than $5000.00

3 Bristol, R.I. employs a combined Town Engineer and Building Inspector working out successfully.

4 All Cities in Southern New England have a permanent Civil Engineer.

5 Among the Towns employing permanent Engineers, turnover is high and embarrassing.

6 Town of Holden Planning Board Study find a permanent Engineer not feasible, Town of Needham cannot entice an Engineer at a salary of 12,147.00 - 14,223.00 per year.

Conclusions:

1 Employment of a Town Engineer on a permanent basis is not practicable for Lynnfield at this time.

2 There is a need for Engineering services on a limited basis. The various Boards have curtailed fulfillment of the need for reasons of Budget; otherwise Consultants have been employed as needed. Reasonable fulfillment of the need for services could be obtained at a cost approximating (salary only) of a permanent Engineer.

3 A Town Engineer would have to supplement his services by use of Consultants and an office Assistant. This type of service would be impracticable and costly.

4 The System now in use, namely: Volunteer and Consultant Committees is an arrangement not perfect but practiced, its effectiveness is weakened by Complete segregation of authority, agencies and by lack of finding.

Efficiency could be enhanced by reasonable appropriation under control of the Board of Selectmen.

In Summary and Conclusion:

1 Salaried Engineer is not practicable and would be costly.

2 Time costs for Consultants would equal the salary of a permanent Engineer.

3 Funding for Consultants equal to salaried Engineer, total costs exceeds forseeable Town needs.

Recommendations:

1 Continue on Committee basis

2 A—Appropriate $5,000.00 for ordinary Engineering services, plus

2 B—Appropriate $10,000.00 for special future Engineering services, as outlined in findings.

2 C—Total budget $15,000.00 for all Engineering contingencies, including Reserves, and would be adaptable for current and forseeable needs.

Below is an estimate of the time and money needed annually, including reasonable apportionment of sporadic and future heavy expenditures.

DRAINAGE COMMITTEE

The Drainage Committee has functioned continuously since its formation in March of 1966.

There have been no formal meetings in 1969. Problems have been considereed expediently as they arose. All have been resolved through professionally prepared reports to the Board of Selectmen, except that two were directed to the Planning Board at that board's request.

Eleven formal reports were submitted on the following 7 cases: 15 Chatham Way. Local flooding and soils. 332-334 Main St., Beaver Brook. Feasibility of proposed pipe. Report to Planning Bd. re spot zoning related to surface and subsurface drainage. Report to Planning Board re Pocahontas subdivision 174 Salem Street. Local flooding. 753 Summer Street. Sidehill flooding. Report to Planning Bd., Ivanhoe Drive subdivision.

The Committee is advisory only. It does not design or perform construction work. It works without compensation, without budget and without funds. It is dependent upon a few basic "tools" for its effectiveness. Among these are maps and dependable records. The recently procured topography of the entire town is already effective.

Of next importance chronologically and physically is the posting of underground facilities on that topography. On an experimental basis, about one fifth of the Town has been surveyed and posted, with completion date of that part due about January 15th. Cost was by contract at $2000 appropriated through Town Meeting. With this knowledge, the remaining four-fifths of the Town could be completed at less than a proportional amount. This completion is recommended.

This past year, not any large-area problems have been before us. Typical of growing New England communities, growth is accompanied by problems of soils and drainage, and by pressure to use marginal or restricted lands for building purposes. Lynnfield is better equipped now to understand and meet these problems. This Committee is better equipped to help.

However, as the problems become larger and more urgent to solve, more time and skill will be needed to solve them. For those involving property damage but small expenditures, it is usually advisable to deal with them quickly. For this reason, the Selectmen should be authorized, and provided with a small fund annually, to obtain professional studies and provide correction as the Board finds necessary, and when not in conflict with prerogatives of any other Town agency.

FIRE DEPARTMENT STUDY COMMITTEE

The Town Fire Department Study Committee came into being by action of the Board of Selectmen in May, 1969. Open meetings were held in the Town Hall on Wednesday evenings from May until the end of November. The Committee completed it's study on Dec. 1, 1969 and a final report was submitted to the Board of Selectmen.

The Committee was charged by the Board of Selectmen as follows: "Review the make-up of the present Town Fire Department, its cost to the tax-payers and the degree of fire protection it provides to the Town. Study the impact of a full-time Fire Chief regarding cost to the Town, the improved efficiency if any and the increase in protection. Also, project alternative fire department organizations including at least one which would retain only the Chief on a full-time basis and one which would be totally full time with a cost projection for each alternative."

In satisfaction of this charge, the committee studied the following organizational alternatives:

1. The present All "Call" Department.
2. An All "Call" Department with a Full-Time Chief —the Chief would be a full time paid town employee responsible for all fire department administrative and fire fighting activities and also be available for any serious fires after his normal working hours.
3. A "Call" Department with Full Time Chief, and three Full Time Firefighters — in addition to a Full Time Chief, three full time paid firefighters would work a single shift, 5 days a week at the two fire stations thereby providing daytime protection.
4. A "Call" Department, Full Time Chief, three Full Time Firefighters, and a Full Time Mechanic/Firefighter - this plan is basically the same as the previous one with the addition of a firefighter/mechanic who would be responsible for maitenance, and be available for answering alarms and the training of personnel in the proper use of equipment.
5. A Fire Department consisting of a Full Time Chief, and some full time Firefighters on a 24 hour basis-and 6 full time paid officers and twelve paid firefighters would rotate shifts so that there would be crews on full standby duty 24-hours a day, 7 days a week. "Call" men would make up a back-up force if and when necessary.
6. A Full Time Paid Department — a Chief, six Officers, eighteen Firefighters all paid full time would rotate shifts for coverage 24-hours a day, 7 days a week. There would be no "Call" men but a back-up auxiliary Fire Department operating out of Civil Defense would assist in major emergencies.

At the conclusion of the study, the committee was unanimous in its opinion that the present Town Fire Department is inadequate for the needs of our growing community. A similar view has been expressed by the New England Insurance Rating Association in ts recent Fire Protection Report. Included in this committee's report is a detailed study concerning the degree of protection offered by the various organizational alternatives and the costs thereof.

The following recommendations were made by this committee:

1. A new position of full-time Fire Chief should be created immediately.
2. The duties of the full-time Fire Chief should include a consolidation of the present "call" Fire Chief's responsibilities, superintendence of the alarm system and direction of fire preventon.
3. Qualifications for a full-time Fire Chief should be established so that he not only must be technically competent, but also must have the ability to plan, organize, direct, cordinate, report, and budget departmental activities, and must have exceptional qualities of leadership.
4. The full-time Fire Chief should be appointed as soon as legally possible.
5. The full-time Fire Chief should immediately formulate a master plan and establish a priority schedule to implement all recommendations relative to the Fire Department which are contained in the New England Insurance Rating Association report.
6. Write or revise the Town Charter and Town By-Laws to reflect new Fire Department organization.
7. The full-time Fire Chief should develop workable interdepartmental fire protection programs with the Water Department and the Building Department.

8. The Town building and electrical codes should be reviewed and updated to conform to modern fire protection standards.

9. Future Town planning, especially that which concerns mercantile, commercial or industrial occupancy should be considered with full cognizance of the Fire Department limitations.

10. A continuing review of the fullltime Fire Chief's master plan and priority schedule based on recommendations contained in the New England Insurance Rating Asssociation's and this committee's reports, should be performed to insure that the Town of Lynnfield maintains adequate fire protection.

This Study Committee was formed by the Board of Selectmen in May of 1969.

The Comittee consisted of the following members, Mrs. Thomas Devaney, Miss Katherine Ross. Dr. Burnett Q. Pixley, O. Albion Smith, John Koniares and Bernard E. Nugent.

Several committee meetings were held at which we were fortunate to have Mr. Christopher McCarthy of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Community Affairs to explain the workings of the State setup and John McCarthy the Director of the Malden Housing Authority.

Two questionnaires were sent through the local news media, The Lynnfield Shoppers News. A substantial and informative return was received by the Committee thru the Secretary, Miss Katherine Ross.

The Committee is deeply grateful to the Board of Selectmen, Mr. Roger Gerry and other interested townspeople for their help.

WIRE INSPECTOR & FIRE ALARM SUPERVISOR

During 1969, 263 Wiring Permits were issued involving 500 inspections. Of this number, only six violations were found. These were corrected and reinspected. We had 3 house fires necessitating total re-wiring and partial rewiring in order to comply with the State and National Electrical Code.

Several times this year the Wire Inspector was called out on house fires to remove meters on houses so the Fire Department could combat the fires without the danger of hitting live wires or causing severe damage to the homes involved.

During 1969, five fire alarm boxes were tested weekly to ensure the boxes were operable. All boxes were received and recorded in the fire alarm switch room with none hanging up. We did have one box this year which hung up upon being pulled for an alarm apparently caused by the box being wound too tight.

New crossarms and line wire have been installed on Main St. and a new line run up to Norris Rd. and Lowell St. Completion of this run of wire this year will allow us to do some re-tying of Circuit 5 which has been a so-called "balloon loop" and is not good practice. This loop on Circuit 5 has been installed for a number of years and we have just been able to receive monies from the Town to improve the circuit.

This summer your Supervisor met with the Insurance Rating Bureau representative and a check was run on the fire alarm system. A number of recommendations was then received from the Bureau to further improve our system. If monies are received at the Town Meeting to carry out these recommendations the work will be done some time this year.

Daily switchboard inspections and recordings have been carried out. All boxes pulled from the street have been checked and rewound.

James V. Thompson

ANIMAL INSPECTOR

Complaints about dogs have decreased greatly since the enactment of the Leash Law. Mr. Charles Cavallero, Dog Officer has through his efforts reduced the number of animals on the loose dramatically and as a result we have fewer dog bites. Heads of a dog, a cat and a squirrel were taken to Boston as rabies suspects, thankfully proving negative.

Animal Inspector

MUNICIPAL LAND ACQUISITION COMMITTEE

This committee was formed by the Selectmen in July, 1965, to investigate and recommend to the Selectmen possible land acquisition for the future needs of the town. Investigation has been made of the possible acquisition of that part of Camp Curtis Guild within the borders of Lynnfield, about 350 acres. This would be very valuable land for conservation purposes or for park land. It is now controlled by the Massachusetts National Guard and used mainly as a rifle range. At the moment they require the entire area. We have recommended that the Town take action now to have first refusal if and when the National Guard gives it up.

The Highway Department now located behind the Town Hall should, in our opinion, be moved to a more remote area at some future date. Investigation of several areas has been made and recommendations have been passed on to the Selectmen. We strongly advise that land for this purpose be acquired now before building in the area is started. The actual moving of the Highway Department can be delayed for 5, 10, and even 15 years.

A recommendation to the Board of Health and the Regional Incinerator Committee has been made of an area for a town incinerator when the need arises.

In conjunction with the Pillings Pond Acquisition Study Committee we have made recommendations to the Selectmen to take the necessary steps for the Town to control this pond which now covers privately owned land.

The area in the vicinity of the Town Hall and the Common consisting of 43½ acres situated between the dwellings on Parsons Avenue, continuing along Summer and Main Streets to include the Junior High School is owned mostly by the Town. This committee has recommended that the Haskell property of 7 acres be reserved as such for its historical value. There remains 3¾ acres privately owned and it has been recommended that this be acquired for future use of the Town.

A survey made by town planners, Shurcliff and Merrill, in 1965 reported a possible population of 21,000 under the present zoning laws. It would seem therefore that land should be acquired before actual need arises. While land is expensive now it is certainly less expensive than it will be in the future.

BOARD OF REGISTRARS

A continuing population increase and turnover of residents during 1969 kept the Board of Registrars busy updating voting lists and registering new voters. The current registration figures are:

Precinct	Democrat	Republican	Independent
1	390	1229	1191
2	710	969	1015
	1100	2198	2206

Total: 5504

The town population as of December 31, 1969 was 10,549.

All men and women who have reached the age of 21 and have been residents of Lynnfield for 6 months and the Commonwealth for 1 year are urged to stop in at the town clerks office any day to register.

The board wishes to especially thank the women street listers for the exceptionally fine job they did in 1969 by going house to house during the worst winter we have experienced in many years. Those that were not at home when the listers called this year, please return the census cards to the town clerks office promptly. This information is urgently needed in order to compile the new 1970 Street Listing. Before the September Primary, we suggest that voters check with the Clerks Office as to their party designation, shown on the current voting list, namely Republican, Democrat or Independent.

TOWN COUNSEL

As a natural consequence of the Town's growth the ordinary legal affairs of the Town increase in volume each year. Yet the continued cooperation of the Town's officials and employees enables the Law Department to properly discharge its duties.

Town Counsel attended Selectmen's meetings and met with all Town Boards requesting his presence; in addition, contracts were drawn, rulings were given, warrant articles and motions were prepared and the litigation of the Town was attended to as in the past.

It is expected that several matters of unusual general interest will require some of the Law Department's attention during 1970, including a possible Town Charter (depending on the Town's vote) and a proposed amendment to the Town's Zoning By-Laws creating an Historic District; these should be of great interest to every citizen since each proposal represents a substantial change in the Town's structure. I hope that most of the Townspeople will participate in these decisions.

Town Counsel

DOG OFFICER 1969

CHARLES CAVALLARO
Dog Officer

This report covers the year 1969. A year in which there was never a dull moment. My services had been extended in many directions. And I have found my relation as Dog Officer for the Townspeople of Lynnfield to be rewarding and successful.

Together we have seen the initiation of a Dog Control Law, that has seen a moderate amount of success. I do feel there is still room for improvement. Thus in 1970 may efforts will be concentrated on a stricter enforcement of this law.

I would like at this time to thank the many hundreds of Dog Owners in Lynnfield who have cooperated with me this past year, and also my thanks go out to the Police Department and Town Hall Personel, both have been very helpful.

In closing as a safety precaution I would like to strongly suggest to parents of school age children, please make an honest effort to restrain your dog, thus keeping them from following the children to school and causing a safety hazard around schools.

Charles Cavallaro
Dog Officer:

PLANNING BOARD 1969

During 1969 the Lynnfield Planning Board held 22 regular meetings and 7 special meetings. There were 5 subdivisions approved with a total number of house lots of 94. These figures compare as follows with those of the previous three years:

Year	Number of Subdivision Approved	Number of House Lots	Aggregate Length of New Streets
1966	4	35	4430 ft.
1967	4	57	7735 ft.
1968	5	52	5303 ft.
1969	5	94	9178 ft.

The continued rate of growth in Lynnfield similar to that experienced in the past few years seems assured for at least the next few years as there are still substantial tracts of land being purchased by developers for future residential sub-divisions.

An engineering survey of the northeast side of Pillings Pond was ocmpleted during the year and proposals for layout of major streets in this area will be presented at the Annual Town Meeting. Special studies in several areas of town planning have been conducted by individual members of the Planning Board, reviewed by the entire Board, and will be presented to the Annual Town Meeting for appropriate action.

Re-elected to the Planning Board in 1969 for a five-year term was Vaughn E. Young. Donald G. Harriss was appointed Chairman, with Parker B. Holloway, Jr. as Vice Chairman, and Vaughn E. Young as Clerk.

Mrs. Edith L. Anderson remains Assistant Clerk and can be contacted at the Planning Board office Tuesday and Thursday mornings each week.

Respectfully submitted,
Donald G. Harriss, Chairman

SCHOOL PLANT NEEDS COMMITTEE

1969 marked the opening of needed additions to the Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill Schools and acquisition by the Town of a new site for future school construction. For the moment, our facilities are adequate and we have ample land on which to expand.

To a citizenry which in recent years has taxed itself to build a modern senior high school, a junior high school, two elementary schools, and four additions, it would be nice to promise that we can now relax—but Lynnfield is still growing. Although no building boom such as occurred in the mid-fifties is anticipated, the number of housing subdivisions being developed indicates that a moderately high home construction rate will prevail for some time. A steady influx of new families and the introduction of public kindergarten in accordance with a ruling of the Massachusetts Board of Education will soon put new pressure on our school facilities. By 1973, if we take no action, the Senior High School will be full, the Junior High will be close to optimum capacity, and elementary classes above the kindergarten level will average greater than thirty pupils per room. In succeeding years the situation will worsen.

To maintain educational standards in the face of rising enrollments, further construction will be necessary and should provide for the long term as well as more immediate needs of the school system. At the start of 1969 there were 2940 assessed dwellings in town. This number constitutes only sixty per cent of the total eventually expected by the Municipal Land Acquisition Committee if existing zoning laws remain substantially unchanged. Projections of enrollments made by the School Plant Needs Committee on the basis of the expected total show that some day we will have to expand both of our secondary schools, replace the Center School, enlarge the South School, and build an 18 room structure on the newly purchased site.

A special "Study Committee on School Organization" recommended in its May 5 report that the organizational pattern of the school system be changed to groupings of kindergarten through grade five, grade six through grade eight, and grade nine through grade twelve. This recommendation has subsequently been endorsed by the School Committee. The principal reason for the proposed realignment is to enhance the quality of the educational program in Lynnfield, but a second benefit can be derived. If the Senior High School is enlarged sufficiently to allow for moving the ninth grade into it and providing some space for future growth, this one expansion will defer the need for construction at other locations. The sixth grade could be transferred into the Junior High building to form a "middle school" and, for a time, leave more than enough space for kindergarten in the elementary schools. The gain in space would come about because kindergarten classes are operated on a two session basis therefore require only half as many rooms for a given number of pupils. In an emergency, a few rooms at the High School could be used by lower grades.

In order to make reorganization possible and prevent future overcrowding, action should begin now. For this reason, the School Plant Needs Committee will sponsor an article in the warrant for the 1970 Annual Town Meeting calling for the appointment of a school building committee to obtain preliminary plans and cost estimates for the expansion of the Senior High School.

BOARD OF HEALTH

The Board of Health wishes to report to the Town various problems that it feels the Town should consider in the very near future. One large one is the disposal of rubbish; the problem is not just of our town, but nationwide. So far we have disposed of our rubbish out of town, but the dumps are being closed down rapidly and it will become more and more expensive as we are forced to transport to dumps further and further away. At the present time, our refuse is being dumped 40 miles from Lynnfield.

Another problem is drainage. As the good land is being used up rapidly, submerged land is going to be subdivided, creating a problem of sewerage disposal, and we feel that the Town should engage a full time engineer to make sure the systems are installed properly and to prevent surface drainage from flooding the systems. We feel that the money spent would save the Town further expense for corrective measures in the future.

The annual clinics were held in the Board of Health office in the Spring. Dr. Robinson was ably assisted in them by Mrs. Jean Taylor, our public Health nurse. They were better attended this year than in the immediate past. Immunizations were given against Diptheria, Tetanus, Whooping Cough, Measles and Mumps. The Sabin Oral Vaccine against Polio and Small Pox vaccinations were also given. These clinics will again be held in the Spring.

There has been a sharp reduction in the number of reportable diseases except for dog bites, which have been on the increase. This could reflect a failure of physicians to report all contagious diseases to the Board of Health.

All dogs in Town must be inocculated against rabies before a license will be issued. We will again have our clinic for inocculation of dogs in May.

The work of this Board will probably greatly increase this coming year.

A report is enclosed from Mr. Rimbach, our Sanitarian, outlining his activities for this year.

SANITARIAN INSPECTOR

Routine inspections were made of all food handling establishments and samples of dairy products taken at random from delivery trucks and retail oultets were examined for conformance of State Standards.

Water samples were taken as requested by the board and examined for drinking, swimming, and sewerage standards.

Much emphasis was placed on bringing the standards of procedure and equipment up to the requirements of the State Sanitary Code.

Your board insures the quality of water in all semi-public and public swimming areas and pools as it is required under the code to examine the water periodically. The board however has no control over the quality of water in private pools. I will attempt to explain briefly the dangers involved with an improperly maintained swimming pool.

Disease may be transmitted to bathers from waters which have been contaminated by sewerage or from one bather to another. The diseases which have been associated with bathing are the intestinal disorders such as typhoid and paratyphoid fevers, dysentery, and gastro-intestinal upsets, eye, ear, nose, and throat infections, including respiratory diseases, skin diseases such as ringworm, scabies, impetigo, and "swimmers itch." Since it has been discovered that the virus of poliomyelitis can be found in sewerage, there has been renewed fear that the disease may be contracted in swimming pools, but there is no epidemiological evidence to this effect.

Some of the dangerous bacteria, particularly those causing respiratory diseases, are frail and do not survive long in the unfavorable environment afforded by the water.

Hence the greatest danger of contracting such diseases should be during periods when the pool is crowded. The intestinal bacteria are able to survive for a much longer period, In the testing of water supplied for public use, the presence of the coliform group of organisms is ascertained in investigating the quality of the pool water. If the coliforms have been removed or killed by proper sanitation of the pool, it is considered good evidence that disease bacteria have been eliminated.

The bacteriological examination should only be made by a laboratory approved for examination of water.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you, the other members of the board, and other town officials for their assistance and co-operation extended to me in carrying out my duties.

Respectfully submitted,

Robert W. Rimbach, R.S.
Sanitarian

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS BUILDING COMMITTEE

The Huckleberry Hill School addition was completed in Febraury 1969 and two classrooms, together with the Resource Media Center, were utilized from this time until the end of the school year in June.

The Summer Street School addition, construction of which started later and was delayed because of slow steel deliveries, was not completed until late summer.

Both additions went into full operation with commencement of the fall term in September and have already proved their usefulness as much needed elementary school facilities.

As the year ends, a small amount of unfinished business remains to be completed before these projects can be closed out. It is expected that the Committee's work will end in the first half of 1970

DEPARTMENT OF TREES AND INSECT PEST CONTROL

The year 1969 was one of great contrasts starting and ending with icing and heavy wet snow, causing much tree damage especially White Pine. Spring and Fall rains were above average, July and August were again drought months. Pest Control was difficullt to carry out as proper timing is of utmost importance and with constant rains most programs were washed out.

The Oak Leaf Skeletonizer was an obnoxious pest in September. This pest calls for spray in mid-June and mid-August and as most trees are on private property they are not a responsibility of the Town. The incidence of Dutch Elm was about average, but I fear that will not be so in future years, as the substitute material for D.D.T. has not proven as effective and has more adverse side effects, required almost calm days to apply. Maple trees required spraying this year along with Birches, (3 applications). There was an increase of Spruce Gall noticed throughout the town. These trees should be sprayed spring and fall and again most trees are on private property and are the responsibility of the owner.

The planting at the Center or Main Library donated by the Garden Clubs suffered from the carelessness of both children and adults, bicycles and careless disposal of smoking material plus short cuts through the plantings required a number of replacements. The work done under the supervision of Randy Johnson assisted by members of the Conservation Commission, Garden Clubs and Scouts should be noted. This is only a start and more help would be appreciated. Living and working together for our mutual benefit has made Our Town Tops.

Cooperation of all departments has as usual been excellent.

PILLINGS POND ACQUISITION STUDY COMMITTEE

On August 29, 1969 this Committee was formed by the Board of Selectmen. This committee is an Advisory committee to the Selectmen and their findings and recommendations are to be given to the Selectmen for action. This committee's charges were to review ways and means and estimated costs of acquiring title to Pillings Pond and suggest alternative plans for Recreational use of the Pond. Plans should include at least the requirement for possible additional land purchase for access to the Pond.

Report submitted to the Selectmen on Sept. 30, 1969. This Committee asked on October 9, 1969, inasmuch as this is of interest to various Town Groups, to have the following meeting with them: Conservation Commission, Board of Health, Recreation Commission and Planning Board. This meeting was held November 3, 1969, charges and recommendations were discussed.

As a result, Board of Selectmen further recommended looking into the possible procurring of land, suggestions relative to Pollution of Pond.

This Committee being four months old, has worked hard and diligently and is in the process of getting the "Real facts on the history of Pillings Pond", as many have mistaken ideas about it and this committee would like to "once and for all" to "clear the records". Therefore the task is a tremendous one involving the number one emergency in our nation today — namely "Pollution", which we have in the center of our town, "Pillings Pond". The cleaning up of the Pond has to be taken in steps, which the Committee is now in the process of studying. Much information has been obtained concerning the legal problems of the Pond. Many other Massachusetts Towns have been consulted who have set up recreational facilities on small lakes. The Weed Control and Pollution problems have been discussed with a number of State Bureaus and private Aquatic Biologists.

The coming year we hope will see the beginning of the preservation of the most beautiful asset in our town, Pillings Pond.

James F. Fuller, Chairman

CAPITAL BUDGET

The Committee prepared graphic representation by department for Salaries, Expenses, and Capital Outlays for the years 1970 through 1973. Special concentration was focused on the "Capital Outlay" portion by requesting that each department head itemize future capital purchase requests. The purpose of this effort is to provide the necessary data to enable the committee to recommend how expenditures may be averaged-out over the next five years.

Utilizing data prepared by the Inventory Committee in November, 1968, the Capital Budget Committee also started preparing a commodity listing of all items in the Town inventory and an estimated replacement schedule for each item. The Committee plans to publish a digest of this information early in 1971.

The Capital Budget Committee is also investigating the possibility of applying systems analysis and management techniques, as used in the aerospace field, to develop a capital budget program based on financial modeling and simulation techniques. Recommendations in this area will be made to the Finance Committee when the investigation is completed.

The Committee revised its complete history of revenues and expenditures by department through 1969. This will be available to all Town department heads in making their future detailed projections.

INSURANCE COMMITTEE

The Insurance Committee serves as an impartial source of advice to the Selectmen on matters related to the Town's insurance program. The committee has responsibility for assisting the Selectmen with matters related to insurance coverages protecting the Town's property, liability suits, against the Town, and personal insurance benefits for Town employees.

The principle of competitive bidding on the Towns insurance program instituted by the Selectmen with the advice and counsel of the committee has resulted in savings to the Town during the past six years. However, as time passes on, the Town's insurance budget can only increase as the Town owns more property and payrolls increase.

At the present time addditional members for this commmittee are being researched. Your chairman respectfully requests resumes from interested persons.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Administrative procedures and meaningful communications between the various departments and your Finance Committee markedly improved during the past year.

Experience in analyzing annual town budgets has focused the need to consider the long term consequences on our tax rate. When considering this years proposed budget, we encourage all of our citzens to be guided to an orderly and stable long term tax base. An awareness of things to come such as addtional school facilities and staff, municipal buildings, land conservation, recreation facilities, sewerage, air and water pollution, and waste disposal should serve as guidelines for your decisions.

Your Finance Committee will continue to be sensitive to the financial circumstances of our elderly citizens, many of whom are on fixed retirement incomes. In addition, we must provide the necessary services and proper climate for our young pepole to grow and develop into healthy citizens for they will inherit the results of our decisions and planning.

We sincerely appreciate the cooperation and constructive suggestions provided to us throughout this past year by all town officials and citizens.

CONSERVATION COMMISSION

Reedy Meadow

The preservation of Reedy Meadow, the great flood plain marsh of the Saugus River, has been one of the chief objectives of the Conservation Commission. As in past years, much of the effort of your Commission during this year was directed toward that goal. This work resulted in the acquisition of some 23 additional acres added to the Town's holdings. Of particular significance is a parcel of 4½ acres at the foot of Wirthmore Lane, made available by a local resident and providing access from accepted streets. This will become important as the recreational and educational potential of Reedy Meadow begins to be realized by the Town. The remaining lands acquired resulted from tax taking by the Town; they were transeferred to your commission by action of the Board of Selectmen.

Development of the Beaver Dam Brook Conservation Area, adjacent to the Center Shopping Plaza, continues to progress. Trails have been cleared and extended, signs and labels put in place and substantial further planting done. Particularly gratifying is the increased support we are receiving from individual townspeople, young people, garden clubs, and other organizations. Equally gratifying to your commission is the growing use that is being made of conservation areas for camping, hiking, and nature study.

The attention of the nation is increasingly being focused on the problems of our environment, and environmental improvement has become a major national goal. We hear constantly about water and air pollution, pesticide control, water resource and open area preservation, endangered wildlife, and similar matters. Each of these represents a facet of conservation in which people can work for common benefit. Members of the commission have been active in each of these fields.

The Town has exeperienced rapid population growth and resultant extensive land utilization during the last decade. The supply of land suitable and available for conservation purposes is rapidly disappearing. Faced with these facts, your Conservation Commission believe that the purposes of conservation in Lynnfield can best be served by a vigorous policy of land acquisition now. With your continued cooperation we will pursue this policy to the stage where future generations in Lynnfield will enjoy the open areas that we are so fortunate to have today.

RECREATION COMMISSION

"Thrust
Cut at the arm
Cut right cheek
Cut to head
Cut at flank under arm"

The above saber attack might well be enacted in Lynnfields' Recreation program next year; a program which has been marked by innovation and excellence during the current year.

Lynnfields' Recreation Commission has developed a program which provided year round activity for the community. The summer program consists of a morning instructional-play, plus arts and crafts for children in grades one through six. The afternoon athletic program was conducted for teenagers, and an evening athletic program was held for adults. This year,1969, the morning program was expanded to include a fourth playground area at the High School, in addition to playgrounds at the Junior High School, Glen Meadow, and Newhall Park. An average of 235 children per day were supervised by eleven dedicated staff members, and their director, Mr. George W. Rodan, Senior High School teacher, and football coach. Special emphasis was placed on the arts and crafts program, which met three times a week at each playground, this part of the summer program was directed by Miss Janet Jordan. Weekly field trips were taken to such places as: Benson's Animal Farm, New England Aquarium, Canobie Lake, North Shore Music Theater, Paragon Park and George's Island. Average attendance per trip was 135, with all trips chaperoned by the program director, arts and crafts director, and the playground staff.

The Fall, Winter and Spring program was conducted by the newly appointed co-ordinator, Mr. Robert MacLeod, Senior High School teacher, and basketball coach. The program included Womens' physical fitness, Mens' physical fitness, high school gymnastics, Yoga, Karate, junior high gymnastics, and basketball for men, and junior high boys. A new addition this year is indoor golf lessons for beginners; while our Yoga course continues to grow in poularity as evidenced by the increase in attendance from 13 to 35. All successful programs will be carried forward to next year.

Tentative programs being discussed for the coming year include fencing in the fall, a special film program for teenagers during the summer; and similar film programs for young adults during the fall and winter.

Mr. Robert Kautz, former chairman, Mr. Maxwell French, former member, and Mrs. Marguerite Brennan former clerk, of the Recreation Commission have resigned in order to pursue other interests, and career opportunities. We are indebted to their devotion and interest towards our community.

Our new members are Mr. Donald Hunt and Mr. Macey Rosenthal, and our new clerk is Mrs. Dorothy Millen.

Where do we go from here? The recreation commission will continue to utilize existing personnel, materials, land, and facilities, in order to bring Lynnfield the finest programs possible.

Continued support from the community will insure the growth of our recreational programs and playgrounds.

BY LAW COMMITTEE

The Committee's work during 1969 resulted in the presentation to the Town Meeting of a Consolidated Personnel By-Law which, among other things, established a Personnel Board. The By-Law will have to be amended from time to time as the result of experience and of contracts negotiated with municipal employees; yet it appears to be working well so far and we hope it continues to improve.

The Committee also reviewed a new Street Opening By-Law passed by the Town, together with a By-Law requiring periodic reports from Town Committees and sponsored a By-Law regulating the connecting of private drain to Town drains.

Work planned for 1970 includes a By-Law imposing reasonable safety requirements upon swimming pools to protect the public, a review of Town Committees to determine whether or not consolidation is desirable and an investigation of the Town's need for a Charter. As always, the Committee will be pleased to entertain suggestions for By-Laws or revisions thereof.

LYNNFIELD, 1872

Ninety - eight years ago a carefully drawn map of Lynnfield was made, marking down the names of the owners of the houses then standing. Because of this map a most interesting story of the town and its people could be written, a story of Lynn End as it became a Precinct and then an incorporated town.

In 1872 there were within a radius of a half mile from the Meeting House on the Common, twenty dwellings and almost as many barns.

The School Administration building on Main Street, next to the "Plains" where the Junior High School is, was owned by David Wilkins. He bought it in 1856 from a man by the name of Louis Daigneau. The house was much smaller than it is today, for like all early houses it has grown and grown. David Wilkins and his wife had two daughters and one son - - all of whom during their lifetimes took active parts in the civic and religious life of the community. Miss S. Elsie Wilkins was one of the early graduates of Salem Normal School. She became a teacher and then the Principal of the Greenwood Grammar School, in Wakefield. As a Memorial to this sister, Miss Lillian Wilkins gave the carillon bells to the Centre Congregational Church. Miss Lillian was an inspectress in the Customs Department at Boston, ranking as one of the best in any Port, not only for her knowledge of many languages, but also because of her ability - - a real sixth sense - - in detecting lady smugglers. The son, Frederick, was Town Clerk for many years.

The next house was owned by Charles McCarthy - - this small house has been enlarged several times. In it grew up two daughters and three sons. Miss Theresa became a teacher in the Lynnfield Grammar School, later marrying, and Miss Margaret was a business women of great integrity and was much loved. Charles, who began his business career as a clerk in the Grocery Store, became a partner in the business Roundy & McCarthy, where he remained until he opened a business. in Wakefield. He was one of the Fire Chiefs in the Volunteer Fire Department. Dan McCarthy held several town positions and was the first Cemetery Commissioner. John, the youngest of the family, began studying for the priesthood, but died before he had finished the course at the Seminary.

The West Cemetery

The West Cemetery plot was chosen by a Town Committee appointed in 1813. The fine wall at the front is made of Lynnfield granite. Interesting stories are always found on tombstones — stories that tell of the involvements of the deceased during their life time, their home ties, family relationships, and local and national activities.

One monument reads:

"Sacred to the memory of John Orne Cox who died
Aug. 16, 1839
AEt 21 yrs
This stone is erected by the Boston Light Infantry as a token of respect for a brother member".

Another stone is that of one of the three Lynnfield men who started across the country during the Gold Rush of the '49, hoping to reach California.

In Memory of William Cox
Who died in Mexico
April 21st 1849
and whose remains were deposited here
July 2, 1850
Say shall the bosom of affection mourn
Or shall the tear of love bedue his urn?
Yes jesus wept."

Captain Henry Bancroft, who owned the house just beyond the cemetery, that house being the one in which his wife, Eliza Mottey, daughter of the minister who built the house, was born, died at the age of eighty-sx on August, 1872. Both Capt. and Mrs. Bancroft are buried here, also their two sons. One, George Mottey Bancroft, was drowned near San Francisco, California, Feb. 3, 1851 when he was 26 years old. Unusual is a double stone which marks a double grave.

it reads:

In memory of
Mr. Herbert Richardson, Jr. of Lynnfield, son of Mr. Herbert Richardson &
Mrs. Mary Richardson Aged 24 and Miss Charlotte Palmer
Daug'ht of Mr. & Mrs. Sarah
Palmer of Londerry Aged 20 who were both drowned in the Shawshen River in Andover March 3, 1818

Five Revolutionary soldiers are buried in this graveyard. Interesting stories about each are recorded in Sanderson's LYNN IN THE REVOLUTION: they are Captain Ebenezer Hart, Ebenezer Parson, Daniel Needham, Joseph L. Hart and George W. The inscription for this last named soldier does not give the family name, it has engraved this information: "George W. only son of Wm. W & Rebecca B. A volunteer soldier in the Lafayette Art'y Lyndsboro, N.H. AEt 20 yrs. 1 mo. 'Absent but not forgotten'".

Mottey-Haskell House

The large house beyond the cemetery is the one known today as the "Haskell House". The building has grown from the first structure erected by Rev. Joseph Mottey, fourth minister in the town, to its present size. Much has been recorded of the changes of the simple structure built by the minister whose salary was eighty pounds a year. One room was large enough to seat the members of the congregation when the Meeting House was too cold for a service— it was a hundred years before there was any means of heating the church building. In the kitchen below the large room there are still two brick ovens on each side of the fireplace.

All the families who have lived in this house have made outstanding contributions to the town. Meet the ladies who have lived within this house. Each dressed in the period in which she lived will impress you not only with her charm, but also by the great assistance she gives to her husband and children.

From York, Maine came the bride of Rev. Joseph Mottey. Their daughter, Eliza, married Captain Henry Bancroft, who after successful ventures at sea, returned to live in his native town. He became a "leading citizen", and for many years was the largest tax payer. Their daughter, Eliza Ann, married Cyrus Wakefield for whom in 1868 the Town of Wakefield tooks its name. Judge Stephen Gordon Nash and wife Mary were the next owners of the house and land. He was elected to the House of Representatives, was a Justice of Suffolk Superior Court. Mrs. Nash was the author of many poems and historical articles. Judge Nash owned one of the largest private libraries in the Commonwealth, having more than 14,000 volumes. He willed a Trust Fund to the Lynnfield Public Library, and established a library in his native town of North Hampton, N.H. in memory of his mother — it is known as the Gordon-Nash Library.

The next owner was Mr. Lyman B. Taylor, an able business man, who did much in modernizing the interior of the house, keeping the fine Colonial lines of the exterior. Mr. Henry A. Haskell, a business man from Lynn bought the estate after the death of Mr. Taylor.

Old Burying Ground

The history of any town would be most incomplete without the stories that can be found in its cemeteries. The largest stone in the burying ground opposite the Old Meeting House records a little of the story of Daniel Townsend, one of the four Lynn End men killed at the Battle of Lexington. A Junior Chapter of the D.A.R. was named the Daniel Townsend Chapter and the members erected the tablet. It reads:

"Sacred to the memory of Mr. Daniel Townsend, who was slain at the Battle of Lexington, April 19, 1775 — aged 36

Lie, valiant Townsend, in peaceful shades we trust
Immortal honors mingle with thy dust-
What though the body struggled in its gore
So did thy Saviour's long before
And as he raised his own by power divine
So that same power shall quicken thine
And in eternal glory may'st thou shine".

More than twenty-five other Revolutionary soldiers were buried in this graveyard. The stones of the Rev. Nathaniel Sparhawk family are on the slight rise of the low hill. Rev. Nathaniel Sparhawk was the first minister at the Meeting House. A young man, recently graduated from Harvard College, he was ordained here in August, 1720 — 250 years ago. He married Elizabeth Perkins, a Lynn End young woman, who outlived him by thirty-six years.

Another stone is that of Rev. Benjamin Adams, the third minister. He is said to have died in the pulpit, but one account states that his death did not occur during a service, but when he had gone to the Meeting House for meditation and prayer. He was thought to have been a Loyalist, and was much concerned about his son Benjamin, an active patriot, who when 16 years of age beat the drum to call the Minute Men of the settlement to assemble and march to the Battle of Lexington — and he marched with them. This young Benjamin became a physician and lived after his marriage in the house on Main Street, now owned by Barbara and Manton Spear.

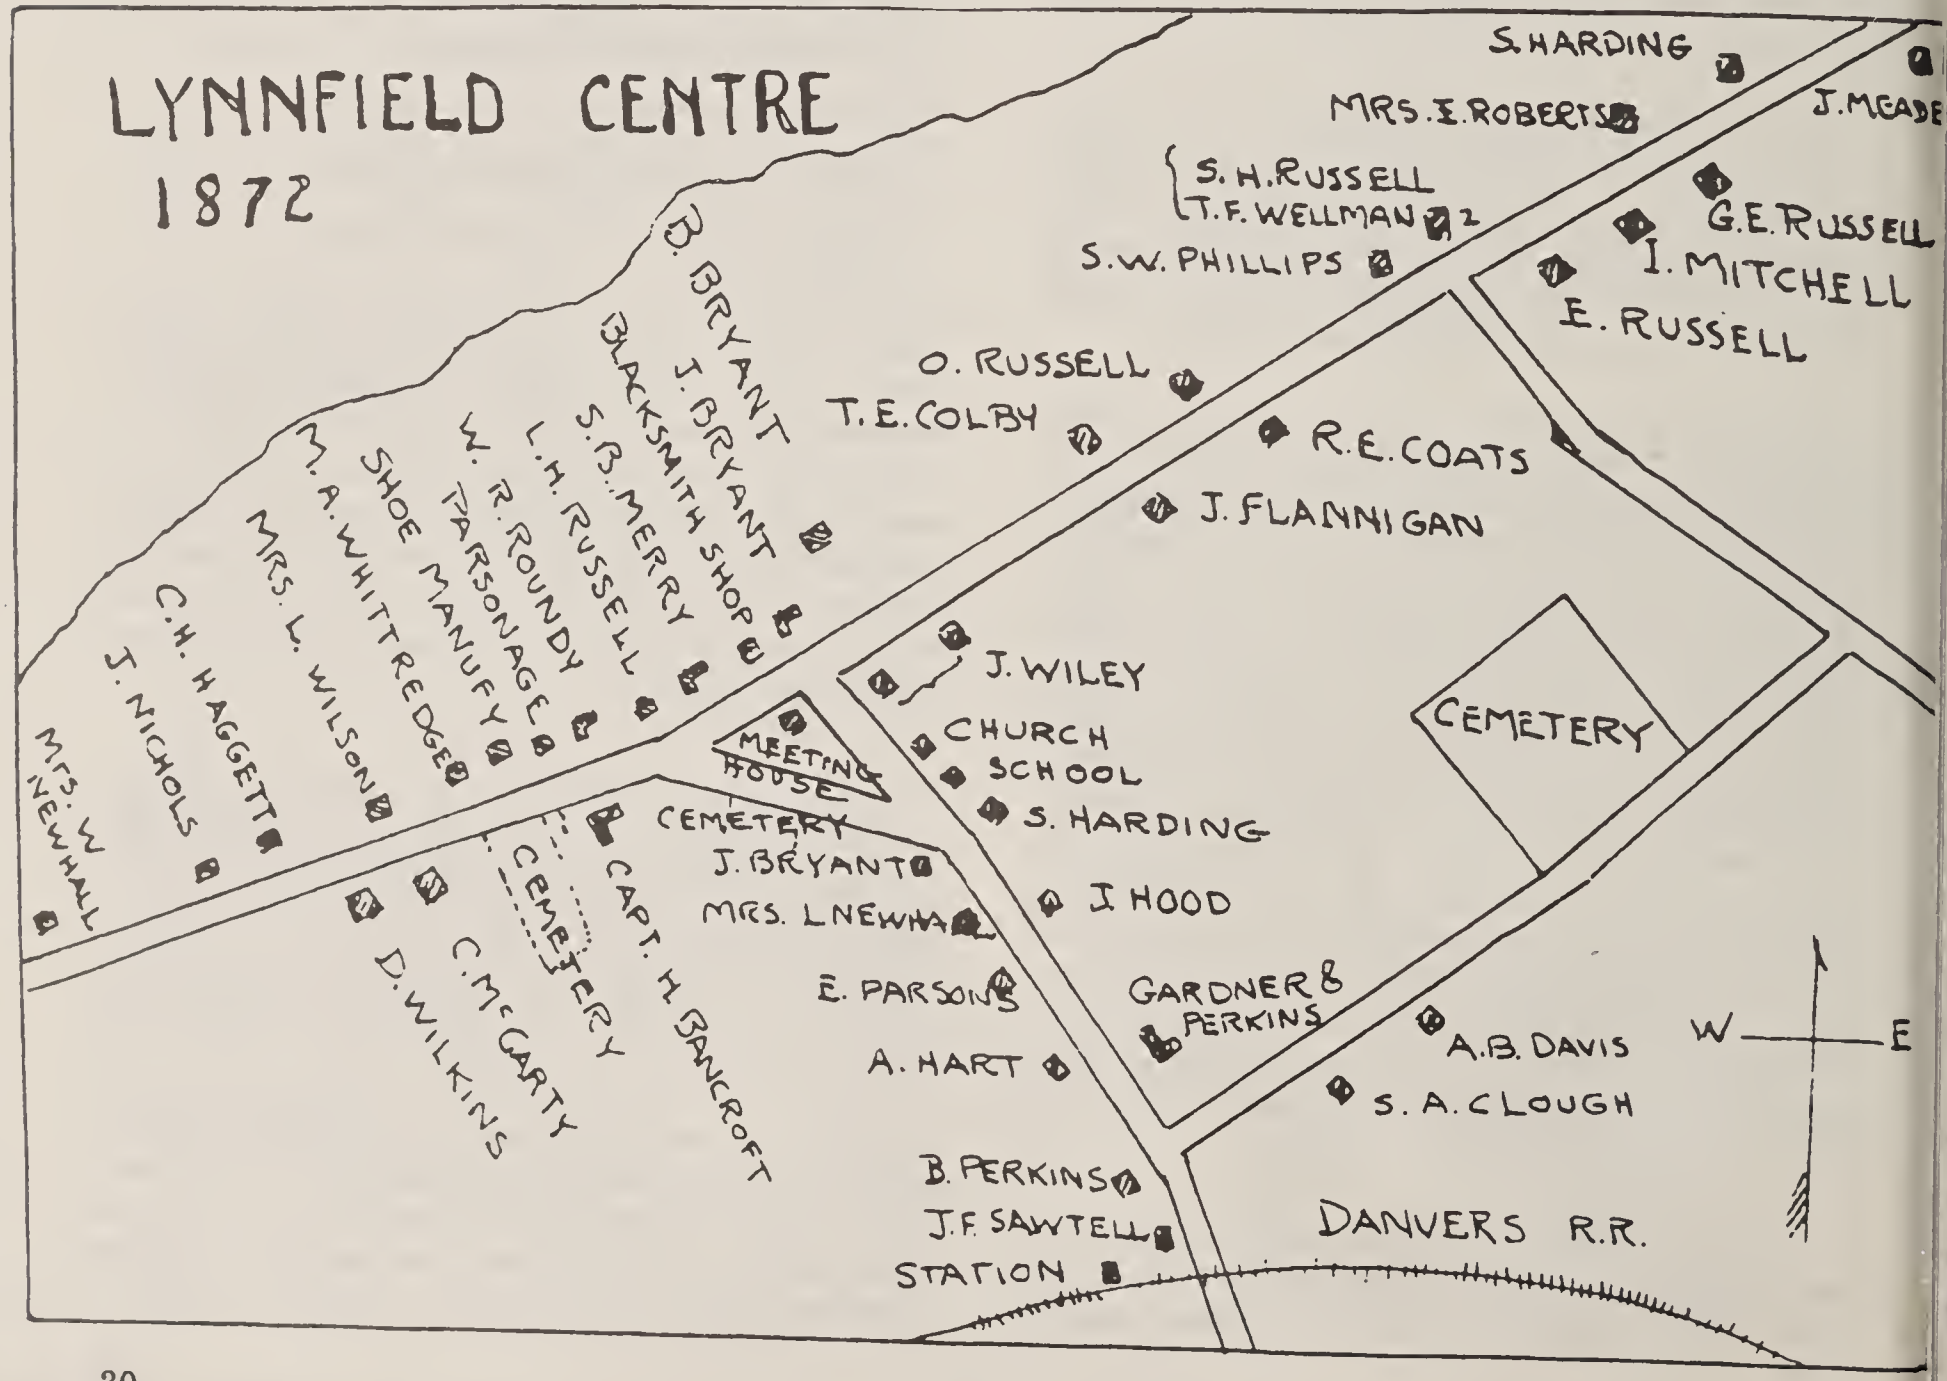
Back of the granite wall near the gate a stone marks the burial spot of Rev. Joseph Mottey, the minister. Its record is: "Sacred to the memory of Rev. Joseph Mottey, pastor of the Church of Christ in Lynnfield, who died July 9th 1821 in the 66th year of his age and the 38th of his ministry. He was distinguished by a powerful mind and was a learned faithful and exemplary minister". The next marker tells a sad story: "This humble stone is to perpetuate the memory of an amiable woman who in giving life, sacrificed her own. Mrs. Elizabeth Mottey, consort of the Rev. Joseph Mottey". In the same group is another tragic story: "Sacred to the memory of Mr. Charles E. Mottery, son of Rev. Joseph Mottey, who died at Salem, July 19, 1814 on the morning after his arrival from a voyage to India after an absence of 12 months, employed as clerk to the Captain of the ship "Henry" AEt 18".

Although eighty years had passed since the first families settled in Lynn End and the opening of the Burying Ground about 1720, the names found on the stones are those of the earliest settlers — direct descendants: Aborn, Bancroft, Brown, Danforth, Eaton, Gowing, Hawkes, Needham, Orne, Poole, Perkins, Pearson, Smith, Townsend, and Upton.

Before the wall of granite was erected or a road built along the south side of the Common, there was a goose pond next to the graveyard.

Not marked on the map was a building just beyond the brook which between 1816 and 1858 had been the Meeting House of the Methodist Society but in the 1872 period was being used as a paint shop.

Across the street is a finely constructed house of the type called "Federal". The overhanging eaves, the placement of the windows on each side of the front door, and inside the small entry with the stairs turning at three different angles before reaching the second floor are all typical of this type of architecture built near the beginning of the 1800's. Here in 1872, lived Rev. Jacob Hood whose wife Sophia was the daughter of Daniel Needham of Lynnfield. At the age of seventy he and his wife returned to the town of her birth, and became active in the church, civic and social life of the town. He served as a member of the School Committee, aided the pastors of the church and died when 95 years of age.



Map of 1872

Beyond this house and across the brook was the wheelwright shop of Samuel Harding, who was beloved by every school boy. Over the door of his shop, painted large, were the letters "W.H.S." — a challenge to all the scholars in the school building just a few rods away to continue their studies at the Wakefield High School.

The building erected in 1856 for the Centre School was used for that purpose until 1905 when a new school building was constructed on Main Street. Since that time, it has been the Public Library building.

In 1832 when differences between the more liberal thinkers on religion and the orthodox minded members of the Second Church of Lynn, now the First Congregational Church of Lynnfield since the incorporation of the town in 1814, made agreement impossible, the orthodox group bought land directly across the street and erected a church building. Pleasing in its simple style of the church architecture of the period, it has overlooked the Common and the Burying Ground for almost 140 years. As the town's population increased, additions were made to the building. By 1958 it became apparent that a larger edifice was needed, and when land became available the "new" sanctuary was built and dedicated in 1960.

Across the Main Street at a slight angle and slightly back from the road is a Bryant house. The story is told that when this "new" house was being discussed, Mrs. Benjamin Bryant said most emphatically that she would never live in it unless there was a brick oven — she didn't believe that those new-fangled stoves would ever bake well. So in the basement of the house there is a fine fireplace with a brick oven.

Turning south along Main Street is the house in which John and Alice Hewes lived — one of the eight houses in town built by families by the name of Hewes. John Hewes was a man whose fine influence in the town was much appreciated. He represented the district in the Legislature, was a member of the School Committee, and before his retirement was an official in the Custom's Department in Boston.

Beyond the Hewes house was the Blacksmith Shop, a very important part of an agricultural community where there were many horses. Beyond was a house owned in 1872 by S.B. Merry, later sold to William (Will) Roundy. It was moved to Essex Street to make room for the building that houses the Wakefield Co-operative Branch.

Next the STORE — for many years the only mercantile business in the Centre. There were three buildings — a barn, where the grain and feed for animals was stored, the central part for groceries — sometimes the boxes of the Post Office, and where in 1895 the first long-distance telephone was installed. Beyond, but a part of the complex was a dwelling house where the owner and his family lived.

Beyond was the residence of William E .Roundy, and back where the Shopping Center is located were a number of barns and sheds. Mr. Roundy came from Lampster, N.H. when he was twenty-one years of age, married Mary Ann Richardson, daughter of Herbert Richardson — one of the early families of Lynn End. In 1873 he represented the town in the Legislature, He held many offices in the town government.

Mr. and Mrs. George Roundy lived in the house for many years. George with his brother Will carried on a Coal and Wood business in the town, and George became the owner of the Grocery Store, buying it from Frank Russell, who owned it in 1872.

Just south of the Roundy residence was the Parsonage, built in 1839. A ministerial company was formed, bought land from Mr. John Bryant and built the house occupied first by Rev. Henry S. Green. The company sold shares at twenty-five dollars apiece (fifty-seven in all). A few years later the parsonage and land were deeded to the Orthodox Society.

Beyond the parsonage was a "Shoe Manufactory".

The large house across the street from the West Cemetery was bought about 1835 by two brothers, William A. and George F. Whittredge. Thomas B. Wellman in the HISTORY OF LYNNFIELD wrote: "We remember the door with the bell on it (bells are almost as scarce as cow bells now). Above the door was the sign "W.A. and G.F. Whittredge, W I Goods & Groceries" while a sign above in the form of an arch informed you that it was alslo a 'Shoe Manufactory' and at the lower part of the arch was 'Post Office'". The Post Office at Lynnfield Centre was established August 5, 1848, and George F. Whittredge was the first postmaster.

No description has been given in this article of the Old Meeting House on the Common. It was the center of the religious and civic life of the settlement. Built in 1714, we view it with great pride as it is the third oldest meeting house in the Commonwealth. Near it were built schools, a library, stores and dwellings.

At the southern point of the Common, where a watering trough was located for more than a century, the first school house was built, "nigh the meeting house". It was a small structure about twelve by eighteen feet.

"Without a past, there can be no future," Lynnfield has an interesting past with the promise of a progressive future.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

This year, as in others, the school system reflected the growth of an up and coming community as enrollment increased almost 4½%. The updating and additions to the Huckleberry Hill and Summer Street elementary schools relieved the situation in the lower grades, and allowed the Junior High School to get back to its normal 3 classes. It was heartening to hear comments from parents who visited the "Media Centers" of the two additions. Many had been told by their children to be sure and visit these Media Centers which allow the student to develop his own learning skills and at an individual pace. The enthusiasm of the children for this concept of study is the best endorsement given.

While we are comfortable at the present time the future always presents challenges that Lynnfield has met in the past. The exact day the town voted the money for additions in 1967 the State Board of Education mandated kindergartens by 1973. Several hundred residents of Lynnfield had already petitioned the School Committee in favor of kindergartens. Three fourths of our children already attend private kindergartens, leaving one fourth of our children at a disadvantage, needing to catch up.

During the past year one major policy decision was to change the grade structure to 1-5, 6-8, and make the high school a 9-12. This would create a 6-8 middle school, and means also that the first priority for building would be at the high school. The school and building committees showed foresight when they included core facilities in the present 800 pupil capacity high school that would allow it to expand by 50%.

On 1 December 1969 the School Site Selection Committee reported to the town in favor of a site for an elementary school. The townspeople showed foresight in voting to support the Site Selection Committee. Land that is suitable for a school site is getting rare in Lynnhigh schools and 35 elementary schools have already field.

Another situation that bears close watching is the status of parochial schools. As of November 1969, 18 closed in New England and, unless the legislature can provide funds, while at the same time adhering to the limitations in our state constitution, we must not overlook the possibility of taking in those students who could, overnight, become educational orphanns.

During the year the School Committee has had numerous meetings with other town agencies, including the Board of Selectmen, Finance Committee, Building Committee, Recreation Committee, Plant Needs Committee and the Fire Chief. These all point to greater cooperation between town officials in order to better serve the people of Lynnfield. The School Committee welcomes comments and questions and is happy to be of service. Meetings are held regularly on the 1st and 3rd Mondays of the month, and you are always welcome to attend.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

There are two major facets of the role of Superintendent of Schools, one being the operational head of the school system responsible for the integration of a host of individual efforts, and the making of basic decisions relating to the on-going progress of the school system. The other major aspect of the Superintendent's role relates to initiating and guiding those activities concerned with the long range improvement and necessary expansion of school services in order that the quality and extent of our program will keep pace with the changing educational needs of our young people and the community. This section of the school's report will try to highlight the significant aspects of these dual roles as they relate to the past calendar year, placing these developments in the broader perspective of the general progress of your Lynnfield schools. Your attention is directed to the individual reports which follow this section for more specific details on these programs as they relate to individual schools.

Instructional Program: The basic business of the schools is to provide instruction to children, and a concern for continued improvement in our teaching efforts must always be first and foremost in our minds and actions. Commencing in the summer of 1966, the Lynnleld schools embarked on an ambitious program of curriculum revision and improvement through special summer educational workshops and in in-service training activities during the school year. These efforts were further enhanced with the appointment of a full-time Director of Curriculum in September 1968 who is presently responsible for directing the on-going improvement of instruction in our schools. Seven workshops of varying lengths were held during the past summer, these covering such subjects as health education(with special emphasis on drug abuse), a team teaching project in biology, world cultures, French, English, library media skills, and improvement of the program for the non-college bound student. Additionally, special in-service training opportunities were extended in the areas of mathematics, audio-visual education, and the planning of school media center activities. When one considers that these activities collectively involved 143 participants from our teaching and administrative staff one begins to realize that this represents a staff effort at curriculum development of very considerable dimension, one which is aimed directly at the improvement of instruction for the students within our schools.

School Organization and Facilities Planning. As is generally known in the community, the 2½ year effort of the Elementary Schools Building Committee, with the assistance of the school administration, culminated in the opening of new additions at the Huckleberry Hill and Summer Street Schools during this past year. These additions include a total of twelve classrooms, two media centers, two gymnasiums, and additional small rooms for the use of our elementary specialists. These facilities did much to relieve the greatly overcrowded conditions at the Junior High School resulting from our having to house 7 elementary classrooms within that building. The reader is referred to the Principal's Report of both of these elementary schools for a detailed description of how these facilities are being utilized and, of major importance, of the significant effect they have had upon the expansion of learning opportunities within these two buildings. The community and its schools can indeed be proud of its accomplishments in adding these fine facilities.

In additiin to the provision of needed facilities for a growing school population, it is important that the community periodically review its existing grade organization in order to insure that (1) it is the best one for serving the educational needs of the students, and (2) that it reflects a concern for sound economic planning for the future construction and utilization of school facilities. Upon the recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools the School Committee appointed a special task force of professional and lay persons to carry out a comprehensive study of this whole subject. This group, chaired by the Superintendent, carried out its work during the December through May 1969 period, culminating its efforts in a comprehensive "Report of the Study Committee on School Organization," submitted to the School Committee on May 5, 1969. The major recommendations of this group, arrived at through detailed analysis as described in the report, included the establishment of a four year high school program, and the incorporation of grades six, seven, and eight in a middle school program. The elementary structure under this plan would consist of kindergarten through grade 5. The expansion of our present Senior High School to its full 1200 pupil capacity was viewed as the most logical first step in providing for the future facilities and program needs of our pupils. If the suggested target date of 1973 is realized, this construction could provide sufficient school space for the simultaneous opening of public kindergartens as mandated by the State Board of Education. Interested citizens who may wish to learn more on this subject may borrow copies of this significant school report from either the Town Library or the Superintendent's Office.

School Personnel: A total of 31 new teachers were hired during the past year, these being divided approximately evenly between the elementary and secondary school levels. We continue to be pleased with the returns of our intensive recruiting efforts and our newest teachers are already contributing a great deal to our program. A profile of these thirty-one new teachers revealed that over one-fourth already have earned an advanced degree, over one half were married, 40% were males, and, of particular interest, the group had an average teaching experience factor of over three years. The selection of new personnel is a major responsibility of the Superintendent, aided by the Director of Curriculum, Principals, and the Department Heads. Through personal interviews, review of college and experience records, and the perusal of professional references, we devote a major share of our annual administrative effort to obtaining well-qualified teachers for our Lynnfield schools. The value of this effort cannot be overestimated for it represents the greatest opportunity the Superintendent has for directly influencing the quality of our Lynnfield schools. As we all know, excellcnt facilities, a first rate program, and the provision of necessary teaching supplies and equipment are all important, but they pale in comparison to seeing that the right teacher is placed before our students. This emphasis will indeed continue.

Again, I encourage the reader to review the individual reports which follow for they provide a most interesting and informative review of this complex organization that is the Lynnfield Schools. No single public activity of the community surpasses the importance of providing the highest quality education possible for its youth. Similarly, no public activity calls for a greater share of the hard earned tax dollar of the community members. As Superintendent of Schools I can assure you of the continued effort on the part of all of our school personnel to see that we gain the maximum educational gain from the resources which the community has provided. It is hoped that through your review of this section of the Town Report you will have a full understanding of the many activities and accomplishments that represent our school record for the closing year of this decade. Through your continued support we look forward to the further progress of your Lynnfield schools in the seventies.

CURRICULUM

Gilbert F. Bulley, Director

The curriculum program within any given community is not only exciting, but forever changing with new ideas and improvements. During this past year the curriculum program in the town has produced some innovative ideas mainly from the highly qualified teaching staff. It has been said many times that the school system is only as strong as the professionalism of the teachers in the classroom. This I believe to be one hundred percent true and Lynnfield need not take a back step to any community in this regard. It is through interested and devoted teachers that the improvements in curriculum take place. I am proud of the way our teachers have responded to the various curriculum changes during the past year.

It would be difficult to report all the happenings within the curriculum program so I will restrict my remarks to some of the highlights. This past summer nearly thirty teachers worked to keep abreast of curriculum innovations to determine means of strengthening present course offerings, to consider course additions and to work for greater articulation between grade levels. Faculties of all schools were asked to submit suggestions for study and responses were received from more than seventy teachers. After careful screening, the following areas were selected for summer workshops:

1. Health Education (grades 1-12)
2. Library Media Skills (grades 1-8)
3. High School Biology (team teaching)
4. World Cultures (new course in 9th grade)
5. Junior High School French (curriculum change)
6. High School English (new course - Legends)
7. High School General Curriculum Innovations

The Health Education Committee has continued to meet throughout the school year with the main emphasis on Drug Education. This group worked very closely with the Interfaith Council's Drug Action Committee in helping to put together the special adult program on drug abuse. It is interesting to know that 29 teachers and administrators attended this six week course at the high school. The Health Education Committee is planning programs for teachers and students throughout this present school year.

At the start of the new school year in September thirty seven teachers were involved in three in-service courses. Sixteen teachers (grades 1-4) enrolled in a Primary Reading Workshop under the direction of Mrs. Frances Carpenter, Elementary Reading Consultant. This program has produced excellent results and the primary reading goals have been strengthened throughout the system. Also, sixteen teachers from various grade levels enrolled in a new course called "Introduction to Basics of Picture Taking," with Mr. George Manna, Lynnfield Junior High School Science Teacher, as the instructor. His extensive background in this medium proved to be highly valuable to various areas of the curriculum. The third course was given by Mrs. Susan Wallace, Speech Therapist, for primary teachers desiring to learn methods of helping pupils in the classroom. This direct help from teacher to pupil is most desirable for students with speech problems.

A newly formed Curriculum Council with over twenty staff members met recently to "think curriculum", grades 1-12. The present thinking is for this group to meet two or three times a year with the main purpose being to set curiculum priorities for future study and review. As areas of immediate attention unfold a small group of interested people will be asked to try and suggest various means to improve present conditions.

At the writing of this report over forty people within and outside the town have been listed as Community Resource People. These are persons who have expressed a desire to offer their talents and time to a given grade or classroom any time during the school year. The plan is to keep an up-to-date listing of all Community Resource People and any person interested in this program is requested to call 334-4305 for additional information. The school system is most grateful to these resources people and thanks them for their sincere efforts in behalf of the students in our school system.

As the coordinator for the fifteen junior high school students from METCO (Metropolitan Council for Educational Opportunity) it is pleasing to watch the successes made by most of these young people. The academic gains have been most noticeable and this accomplishment pleases everyone connected with the program. The students have taken an active part in many of the school programs and a few have taken major roles of responsibility. Next year about half of these students will be entering the high school and the school system looks forward to helping these youngsters make educational and social gains for their future success in life.

As a final part of my report I would like to recognize the sincere efforts of a large group of dedicated staff members that come under the category of specialists. Each one of these people serves many schools in our system and most of the time works alone with an individual student or with small groups. When a difficult educational problem presents itself usually one or more of these specialists becomes involved in trying to successfully work out a solution.

Helping youngsters to succeed in a given task is the real joy of a specialist at work. The next few paragraphs will give you a better understanding of what some of these people accomplish during the school year.

A full time teacher for the children with specific learning disabilities, sometimes called perceptually handicapped children, has been added to the specialist staff. This school program is designed to help such children have a successful school experience. These children have average to high intelligence, adequate hearing and vision, and adequate emotional adjustment, but they cannot learn in the usual manner. If these children do not get help to overcome their problems they develop poor self-concepts and may end up as dropouts. We are attempting to prevent this waste of human potential by providing an individualized tutorial program for these children before they become emotionally disabled.

The elementary guidance counselor's time is scheduled between the four elementary schools on a weekly basis. The greater part of the counselor's time is devoted to individual and small group counseling or play-therapy sessions. The program for each school may vary somewhat as it is designed to meet the individual child's needs at the present time in his or her developmental sequence. Evaluations of an academic and psychological emotional nature are also given and interpreted. Providing children with additional help in the form of: tutoring supported by periodic counseling, meetings with teachers, principals, student observation and interviews with parents comprise another aspect of the service. The counselor must maintain liaison between home, school and outside agencies such as: doctors, mental halth clinics, evaluative agencies, private practioners and hospitals to which children are referred for further study.

The ultimate aims of the elementary physical education program is that the student, when he leaves the school, will have a lasting interest in physical activity, that he should have a basic knowledge of as many activities as possible, and that he be given the opportunity to acquire a specialized knowledge in the activities for which he has particular aptitude and interest. Instruction is centered around the student and consists of a basic course that is common to all students, plus additional specialized sports and after school activities.

The gym show held April 2, 1969, sponsored by the Center School Parent Teachers Association highlighted the elementary physical education program for the academic year 1968-1969. The show opened with square and folk dancing by Grades 1 and 2. Tumbling and gymnastics beneath giant parachutes proved the most entertaining act of the show. Demonstrations of various skills learned in normal class periods were included. The finale was the entire complement of third grade classes carrying out synchronized calisthentics. A circus motif was carried out throughout the entire show with clowns (6th grade students) and circus music, the title of the show being "Under the Gym Top."

During this school year at Summer Street School, the physical education program included large group activities as well as team sports. The President's Physical Fitness Test was administered with good results. It is, of course, possible to offer a more challenging program with varying degrees of accomplishment to Grades 4 through 6 and the students mastered these with no difficulty.

The Art Program is on the move. Changes take place in all subjects with art joining the rest. New materials used are burlap, and yarn for modern stitchery. Felts for Christmas decorations, and wall hangings are popular in upper grades. Collages of "found or junk" materials by well known mdoern artists has set the scene with ideas for us to follow. The vivid colors of "payons", "crayons", tissue paper, and "Sketcho's" are all excellent for those who like to "draw a picture". This year the new Media Center with excellent art books, film strips and loops give the pupil an opportunity to broaden his knowledge and interest in Art.

One of the highlights from the art program at Huckleberry Hill School was the all-school Christmas show entitled "Christmas in Mosaic". The idea originated when a student commented that she associated the mosaic art work we were then studying with the Christmas theme. After discussion of the use of mosaics in cathedrals, and in mural work as modern as that at the University of Mexico, we explored the possibilities of expressing our own feelings in the mosaic art form, also. Cut paper was to represent the ceramic tiles, and a space of paper would represent the "grout" or adhesive that attaches the mosaic to its wall or floor surface. Many of the children wished to share their art work as a gift to the community, so an Open House was declared, and the members of the Town of Lynnfield, and in particular the student's parents were invited. We had a great many guests and their gracious comments made every child feel the worth of his contribution to art — and art's contribution to enhancing his sense of worth in return.

Speech and hearing services are centered in the elementary schools this year. In a caseload of 99 students, over half are in the first grade alone (52). Because of this heavy concentration of problems in the first grade, we have implemented two new programs and a third one is on its way.

1. Speech Education classes are held in the classrooms with the greatest need, focusing on listening skills, auditory discrimination and communication.
2. A Speech Workshop for teachers has begun with emphasis on language development.
3. In January we hope to start a Parent Workshop, the details of which have yet to be worked out.

During this past school year two full-time media specialists were hired for the elementary schools with each specialist responsible for two schools.

Prior to the opening of our new elementary school media centers at the Huckleberry Hill and Summer Street Schools, all teachers from grades 3-6 took part in a workshop under the direction of Miss Lavinia Murphy from Boston University. Teachers developed units of study for pupils, using the many materials available in our centers as well as learning new media production techniques.

Also in preparation for the fall opening of the Media Centers, a summer workshop was held for the purpose of developing a sequential program of library skills to be taught to the puipls. The effective utilization of the Media Center by pupils presupposes knowledge in certain fundamental library skills.

During the Media Center periods, in addition to taking out books, students have been given instruction, urged to look up references on topics they were studying, and introduced to new and old book collections through literature periods.

Audio-visual equipment has been demonstrated to the students and is competently used by them within the Center. The teachers also make wide use of equipment and materials which are available individually, or for special curriculum areas used by a grade level, in a central collection.

The library is kept open all day, with the help of volunteers. During this time, the students have been using the Center for independent work and research. Guidance is given when needed.

There is no 'date due" or "fine" system in the Media Center. Books are taken on a revolving basis. No one is restricted to his library period to return or choose a book. The Center is open at all times for this purpose, and the student may use it at any time. Students are certainly taking advantage of this privilege, as proved by the fact that, in the first two weeks of operation 1,007 books were circulated in the Summer Street School alone.

Reading is probably the most useful and enjoyable academic skill we acquire, and in Lynnfield every effort is made to teach each child to read as well as he can. Individual differences and needs are always considered and children are encouraged to progress at their own rates of development. Pupils are grouped for instruction, provided with appropriate and interesting materials and taught by methods suited to their immediate needs. Most pupils read at or above grade level. A few who have specific difficulties are given special help which is preventive in nature and involves a team effort on the part of pupil, teacher, consultant and principal.

With the growth in town library facilities, pupils are increasing their reading and enriching classroom activities appreciably. The public library summer reading program is very popular and definitely contributes in stimulating a continuing interest in reading for many children.

Pupils who could profit from special help in reading or want to prevent loss of skills during the summer months may attend classes held for six weeks during July and August. These reading classes are kept small in size in order to give as much individual help as possible.

It is hoped that the above Specialists' reports have given you a better understanding of the importance of these people to the school educational program. Our earnest desire is to help each individual student reach his potential in fulllling his goals in education.

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Stanley I. Robinson, Principal

Choral Group

The key word to describe Lynnfield High School for the year 1969 is growth. Growth in the student enrollment, the faculty, and the educational program have all been influential during the past year.

Student enrollment increased aproximately 9% and we found for the first time that certain areas of the building were becoming overtaxed. A third section was added to our cafeteria scheduled to facilitate serving. In isolated instances, science classes had to be scheduled in non-laboratory classrooms. In a few situations, students were not able to have the elective of their choice because of limits on class size. We can anticipate an increase in these problems as we await construction of an addition to accomodate added students. Our faculty was increased by two teachers, one in Technical Arts and one in Physical Education and Science. We also elected three other new teachers as replacements. A total of five new teachers, three of them being replacements, reflects a stable faculty situation. This in conjunction with the fact that excellent candidates were available for these openings reflects credit upon the community of Lynnfield and its school system.

Another fringe benefit of increased enrollment is the opportunity to expand curriculum. This year we added electives in Speech, Legends, Music, Art, and Dramatics. Our Science Department also initiated an ambitious new program for Biology. In addition to large group lectures, students have small group laboratory work and library research.

Throughout the year, a faculty committee has been evaluating our curriculum particularly in light of the needs of the terminal or non-college preparatory student. Recommendations from this study group may result in some changes in our present offerings as well as some new additions. However, limited space is now a major factor to be considered in curriculum development.

Another curriculum area coming under intense study in Health Education. Drug education received the emphasis this past year with a successful adult education program being featured. A faculty committee is continuing to study health education in all of its aspects. The future will undoubtedly see a formal program instituted at the high school.

The school staff and school committee are continuing to seek solutions to the deterioration of outdoor athletic fields and recreational areas at the High School. A major problem is the inability to water the fields during the summer months. As a result, the application of seed, fertilizer, and top soil is generally unproductive. Again, with increased enrollment at both the Junior and Senior high schools, field use is more and more in demand.

Student activism continued to be a national issue with a marked increase in incidents at the high school level. The best solution appears to be full and open communications between the institution and the students. At Lynnfield High, parent-student-teacher discussion groups have successfully been sponsored and a principal's advisory council has been organized comprised of representatives from the faculty and student body. Greater student involvement is apparent at the High School.

The Class of 1968 voted to hold graduation at the Junior High field where a capacity crowd filled the bleachers It was an impressive ceremony highlighted by granting of diplomas by School Committee Chairman, Dr. Thomas Devaney.

The Class of 1968 was the first to participate in grants from the Lynnfield Scholarship Foundation. With more than 80% of the class going on to further education, financial assistance from the Scholarship Foundation and other sposnors was greatly appreciated.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Leonard Nihan, Principal

This year marks the return of all classrooms to the Junior High School that have been "on loan" to elementary students for the past four years. With the additional classrooms we have been able to decrease the number of periods and increase the length of periods. The result has been an additional hour of class time each week in all major subjects as well as the reduction of study halls to a minimum. Class sizes have been reduced through additional staffing and utilizing the windfall of additional space.

Though a great deal of time and effort of the teaching staff have been spent on the improvement of curriculum, I shall mention these only briefly. These include:

(a) The adoption of an excellent Foundations of Algebra text that has made the course more meaningful by the strengthening of basic fundamentals and the introducing of algebraic abstractions at a slower pace.

(b) The expansion of the corrective and developmental reading program for all seventh grade students.

(c) Following a summer workshop by members of the Social Studies Department, the introduction of World Cultures to the Junior High as part of a two year Junior-Senior High sequential course.

(d) Expansion of the French program to include all eighth grade students who wish to elect a language.

(e) Offering Metal Technology to all ninth grade students.

I have mentioned added building space, course additions, and curriculum improvement rather quickly in order to discuss the importance of extra-curricular programs in the school program. Our responsibilities to the students at the Junior High include but extend beyond the academic preparation for the high school. Through the athletic programs, intramural and interscholastic, the drama club, school newspaper, band, chorus, math team, marshall board, student council, science fairs, and talent shows "with cast of thousands", we try to give every boy and girl an opportunity to get recognition, to "be someone" in the eyes of his parents and his classmates. Before the rigors of high school we attempt to provide something more than academics alone so that ten or twenty years hence when our former students have long forgotten the imperfect tense in French, the meaning of gerund, the theorems of geometry, they might look back reflectively and say, "I worked hard but I had some great times when I was in the Lynnfield Junior High School and I made a lot of friends."

HUCKLEBERRY HILL SCHOOL

Charles A. Wolski, Principal

A new spirit enlivens education at Huckleberry Hill School — a spirit of innovation ,experimentation, venturesomeness. Wth the completion of the new addition, the old educational molds are being broken. The new environment is designed to meet the diverse needs and capacities of the intermediate-aged children.

There are two wings set up with conventional classrooms, with six classrooms in each wing. In the new addition, operable partitions link the different teaching areas so that class activities can move easily. Even though the two old wings with their conventional classes do not have movable partitions ,these classes can use the multi-purpose room for large group instruction to attain flexibility.

The library-resource center called the Media Center is the heart of the building, physically and philosophically. It is centrally situated so that it is easily accessible to teachers and pupils. Readily available books, magazines, and audio-visual resources, visual displays - everything the library has to offer is presented out in the open, inviting students to partake at any time, all the time. It is an intellectual supermarket. "The Center" has diverse furnishings, including carrels which students can use as their independent study headquarters.

Another aspect of our new building shows several small rooms used to provide special services for youngsters: private instrumental lessons, guidance counseling, speech therapy, remedial reading and tutoring the perceptually handicapped.

The physical education program is enhanced by a full gym, equipped and used expressly for this purpose.

The new building offers numerous possibilities for improving the organization of instructon. It is now easier to deploy staff time, energy, and talents more effectively than was the case in the past. The end result striven for is competent instruction, cultivating in students a respect for knowledge, as well as teaching them the skills essential to obtaining and using the knowledge.

The Huckleberry Hill Faculty wishes to commend the people of Lynnfield for providing such modern facilities to meet our various educational objectives .

Media Center

SUMMER STREET SCHOOL

George E. Caswell, Prinicipal

Highlight of the year for the Summer Street School was the completion of the addition to the building started in May of 1968. Beyond providing more elementary school space, the expansion offered an excellent opportunity to modernize our plant. Added to the original twelve classrooms, multi-purpose room, kitchen, and administrative suites were six classrooms (two of them possible future kindergarten rooms), three specialist rooms, a Media Center, a new gymnasium, and an expanded kitchen area. Opening of these facilities enabled school officials to transfer third grade children living in the center of town from the Junior High School Annex to an elementary school environment. A slight reduction in class size was also possible with the completion of added space.

The Media Center is a large spacious area located in the center of the building and used to house books, filmstrips, filmloops, tapes, and a variety of audio-visual equipment. Available for study purposes are a number of tables and several electrified study carrels designed specifically for individualized instruction. A media specialist is in charge of the center and provides specific times for instruction on how to locate and use the various resources available. The media specialist works closely with the teaching staff to apprise them of the resources and services available, to suggest ways of using these resources, and to help determine new purchases which are directly related to our curriculum or to special student interests.

The three specialist rooms are small areas designed for: instruction in music, speech therapy, learning disabilities, reading, or guidance counseling and testing. Personnel in the specialist areas share the available rooms on a scheduled basis and are particularly grateful that they no longer must search out stage, basement, or closet areas to perform their important functions.

Two of the classrooms constructed in the new addition are slightly larger in area and may be readily converted to kindergarten use if needed in the future. Adjacent to the parking area, the rooms have common toilet, cloakroom, and storage areas as well as a small play area at the rear of the school. The two rooms are currently used as fourth grade classrooms.

Summer Street School now serves children in grades three though six. Staffing requirements have increased to accomodate the nearly five hundred pupils and include a principal, eighteen classroom teachers, a media specialist, a school secretary, two custodians, four kitchen personnel, and two part-time school aides. Specialists shared by the elementary schools and available at specific times are a reading specialist, four music teachers, an art teacher, a physical education teacher, a guidance counselor, a speech therapist, a learning disabilities teacher, and a school nurse.

Parents have continued to serve the school in a variety of ways. Many parents have served in our media center helping to check out materials and equipment. Others have been "Resource People" for specific areas of our curriculum. Through the Parent Teachers Association, many parents have been active in the sponsoring of Cub Scout Pack 52 by offering twelve weeks of art classes on Saturday afternoons, or by helping to recruit children interested in the Youth Symphony Concerts.

Our pilot program in Language has now been adopted for all classrooms, which means all children are approaching the study of language through a linguistic approach. We have made a start on providing learning aids in the mathematics area as a result of recommendations of a former workshop. Purchased for classroom use were such items as number lines, geometric models, fractional parts, filmstrips, and transparencies.

Several of the teaching staff participated in an in-service course in the spring dealing with the uses of a Media Center. The teachers were also concerned with the available and potential resources that could profitably be used in our curriculum. We are becoming more convinced that Marshall McLuhan is correct when he says the medium, or process, of our time-electric technology is reshaping and restructuring patterns of social interdependence and every aspect of our social life. We must make the new technology available and pertinent to our learning activities in school. Parental and student reaction to our Media Center and to the work possible through activities there has been highly favorable and encouraging.

We continue to be grateful for all the support given us by individuals and by the townspeople as a whole as we try to find the basis for effective learning. We need this support as we continue to have new aspirations and to formulate new goals and new ways to implement them.

CENTER SCHOOL

Dr. Nancy C. Santeusanio, Principal

If you were a resident of Lynnfield in 1913, you would have read the following description of the Centre School: "Among other attractions is our Centre School. It is situated on Main Street not far from the Common. The building contains two rooms on the ground floor and an unfinished room on the second story reserved for a laboratory for future generations. The rooms are well lighted, well heated and well furnshed. The chairs and desks are adjustable, thus allowing large-sized gigglers to occupy front seats and small-sized saints the back seats."

For a resident of Lynnfield in 1969, over half a century later, the number of classrooms has increased to ten. The building is well lighted and heated, and the adjustable chairs and desks have now become moveable furniture permitting a flexible room arrangement which varies from room to room.

In 1913 forty-two pupils were divided into nine grades varying from two to twelve in a grade. Today's class size and pupil enrollment has increased to 263 pupils divided into ten classrooms.

In 1913 people moving into town were requested to bring "Rooseveltian" families since more enthusiasm could be generated in large classes. The Rooseveltian families have arrived, and the 1913 teaching corps of two women "fast growing gray in the service" has been increased to ten teachers with two school aides, a school seceretary, full-time supervising principal and specialists in many areas.

The original school library was set up in 1962 with a collection of 488 volumes given in memory of Mildredth Parkhurst Rourke, a former teacher at Center School. The library has now been transformed into a Media Center with many innovations. The Media Center is staffed with volunteer workers, and children are free to go to the Media Center to browse, select books, to listen to stories on cassette tape recorders, and to view filmstrips and film loops. Over one hundred children spent some time in the Media Center each day.

Parents are involved in the school program on a daily basis. They serve in varying capacities ranging from collecting lunch money in first grade classrooms, working in the Media Center, and volunteering as aides in the preparation of materials for teachers to use in the classroom.

Pupils in grades one and two at Center School are using The Bookmark Reading Series, a new basal reading program with a strong Word Service or phonics program. Sound-letter relationships are learned through carefully developed sequence and applied immediately to reading. One of the major goals in teaching reading is to help children understand what reading is and to transfer their newly acquired reading skills into more opportunities for reading on their own. In addition to the Media Center, classrooms are equipped witha variety of supplementary readers and story "rugs" for children's reading pleasure. From the beginning, children learn that the purpose of reading can be for pure enjoyment as well as for getting information. They begin to understand the reading process and that learning to read leads to reading to learn.

Probably the most exciting day of the 1969 school year was April 17, the day of the Center School Pet Show. The Show was sponsored by the Center School P.T.A. under the presidency of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Plunkett and Pet Show Chairmen, Mr and Mrs. Bernard Caniff. Entries ranged from dogs, cats, and horses to turtles and chameleons, to a boa constrictor and an ant farm! This was a true "blue ribbon" day which will be long remembered as a highlight of the 1969 school year.

SOUTH SCHOOL

Richard W. Cogan, Principal

Perhaps the only constant in education is that it is always changing. Here at South School we have instituted several changes this past year which we believe have increased the quality of our service to the children.

There has been a big change in the school library program. As in past years many P.T.A. mothers have generously given their time to run the library three mornings each week so that each class at South School can have a weekly library period. This year we are allowing individual children or small groups to come to the library to return and take out books at any time during the week. We have found that even first graders can go to the library by themselves, pick out a book and return to class unaided. The use of the library has greatly increased and as the room is next to the office it can be easily supervised.

Another aspect of improvement in the library program is the addition of the services of Miss Janet Bishop, Huckleberry Hill Media Center Specialist, who gives South a few hours each week. She has taken the third grades to Huckleberry hill School on a regular basis to use the Media Center there, and has begun a story hour for the second graders. Her services have also included reorganizing the library card system and obtaining materials for teachers, and arranging to take the second graders to the town library to celebrate Children's Book Week.

Another important change at South has been the use of space. The art classes have been moved to the gymnasium where the youngsters work standing up at the lunch tables or even on the floor if they are preparing a large project. As there are nine specialists coming into the building each week to serve the children, including art, music, physical education, guidance, library, reading, and tutoring of children with learning disabilities, every inch of the school is used to capacity. Even the nurse's and principal's offices are used for tutoring and counseling; so are the halls and the stage; and children sometimes use the halls to practice their partner reading. Yes, the school space is well used.

Another important change this year has occurred in the area of speech instruction. Mrs. Wallace has changed her program in an attempt to meet the very large number of children with speech difficulties. She is teaching speech to each first grade class once a week and is giving instruction to five South School teachers after school each week to help them help their youngsters. We are also planning a future meeting with the parents of children with speech difficulties to show them how to help their boys and girls at home. The above innovations are attempts to adjust the program to the exact needs of the children. If the children's speech needs are different next year then the program will change accordingly.

The South School Science program also has been in a process of change. This year, with the financial backing of the P.T.A. we invited a naturalist from the Ipswich Wildlife Sanctuary to our school. One day she took teachers through the woods behind the school to explore the ecology of the area. On another day she and another naturalist took the second graders in groups of about twelve through the woods to learn as much about the environment as possible. We hope to make exploration and study of the space around the school a regular part of the school science program.

There have been several physical improvements at South School this year. The hall lighting was improved through the installation of fluorescent fixtures, making the hall light enough to display some art work and to use for limited instructional purposes. Also, the area in front of the asphalt parking lot was filled and seeded to prevent erosion. Finally, the retaining walls behind the school were completed protecting the playground and the walk to the upper field from erosion and covering many outcropping rocks which formerly were a hazard to the children.

The P.T.A. has again made a fine contribution to the improvement of the school. The carnival was a grand success and enabled the Association to give the school some needed audio-visual equipment. Again P.T.A. mothers have operated the library.

The P.T.A has also established a telephone chain to inform parents during snow emergencies if the youngsters must be dismissed before the normal closing time. This year the Association held an especially interesting program: Mrs. Freyda Seigel, a state P.T.A. official, gave a presentation which consisted of a series of short plays (in which the audience participated) each of which described a parent-child situation. After each performance Mrs. Seigel and the audience discussed the best way to resolve the apparent conflict.

We have had an interesting and challenging year at South School. We look forward to next year's opportunity of serving the children of Lynnfield as effectively as possible.

SECONDARY GUIDANCE

William J. Coughlin, Director

The adolescent perhaps as never before is being buffeted from all sides by the effect of mass media and by being integrated into a society which is rapidly undergoing a change in values. This transformation is having its effect upon the emerging student and adjustment is becoming an even more difficult transistion.

In addition students are no longer satisfied with many of the old thoughts concerning learning and education. Dress codes, teaching methods, and student freedom are common topics of conversation among our youth. Acceptance of the values of youth is being preached by many student activist groups and high schools will soon feel the blows which have struck the college scene.

What effect does student involvement have upon guidance in our schools? A prime function of guidance is to be familiar with student dialogue and to interpret these ideas to faculty and administration in order to help effect any necessary change in our curriculum and organization. Counselors must be constantly alert to the shifting trends in education and values of youth.

Guidance is directed to the needs and future growth of the student as the student perceives his role in a dynamic society. The role between counselor and student must be one of mutual repsect for the responsibilities of each.

The adult must exhibit great patience and understanding today to allow youth to develop their own image and to take their proper place in society. At Lynnfield we have a trust in our youth and feel that provided with the proper stimulation and encouragement they will become productive members of the community.

MUSIC

Michael E. Cooney, Jr., Director

The year 1969 was marked with many new directions not only in musical thought and sound but also in the areas of equipment and physical facilities.

In the High School the most apparent addition was noted early in the year by the arrival of the new uniforms for the Senior Band. They consist of a modified suit of tails in royal blue (furnished with skirts for the girls) complete with a cummerbund and bow tie which serves as a concert dress. The Marching Band, however, adds an overlay of metallic gold mylar that covers most of the jacket, slacks for the girls, and a ten inch white fur busby hat and blue plume to complete a very snappy military type outfit.

The area of classroom music was sparked this year by the renewal, after a lapse of four years, of "Music Theory" and a basic history and appreciation course entitled "Music of the Western Man". While "Music Theory" presupposes some basic musical knowledge and requires the approval of the music faculty before enrolling, the listening course is geared to the musically uninitiated and is presented with a musically oriented humanities approach.

Music teaching through the medium of large group instruction was initiated this year by the Music Department through the cooperation of the Social Studies Department of the High School. Two full hour lectures on music in America have been scheduled along with the regular lecture series in U.S. History. The first session entitled "The origins of American Folk Music" and the second "The Birth of the American Sound" have been prepared and presented with live music as an interesting addition to the U.S. History program.

Instrumentally speaking, the new direction at the High School was the establishment of a regularly scheduled percussion ensemble. This organization gives all percussionists a chance to perform something soloistic in nature, as well as generating a feeling for the importance and independence of their section as opposed to their traditional role of accompanists. This group made their debut at the New England Solo and Ensemble Festival for which performance they won a second place award.

The Marching Band, this year under the direction of Carl Lerario, used for the first time a combination of Junior High and High School youngsters selected on a voluntary basis and membership in the Concert Band did not carry a Marching Band requirement. While the effectiveness of this procedure cannot be evaluated in one short season some significant benefits have already been derived.

Music in the Junior High which has felt the squeeze from lack of classroom space found welcome relief this fall with the opening of the new elementary wings at Summer and Huckleberry. As the result of this, the Music Department has been assigned a classroom (formerly High School Technical Drawing) in order that Seventh Grade Music, a basic classroom course, can have a permanent home. Also this year the Junior High Band under the baton of Mr. Edward D'Amico combined forces with the Junior High Band at Concord, Massachusetts, for a day of musical and social exchange in each of the two towns. The Junior High Chorus, after two years of Mrs. Maifeld's tutelage, reversed the age old problem of interesting Junior High youngsters in singing by swelling their ranks to 163 members, thereby making it a problem to find a stage large enough to accomodate them - a unique and pleasurable problem to say the least.

As was mentioned before, the most welcome event of the year especially in the elementary schools was the opening of the additional wings at the Huckleberry Hill and the Summer Street Schools. Provision was made at both of these wings for "specialists" rooms or small cubicles for individuals and small group work. After years of instrumental teaching in paper supply closets, these rooms are used for all of our individual instruction, some small ensembles, and are most appreciated.

The elementary school musical was presented in April by the Summer Street School at the Junior High School Auditorium. The production was entitled "Vignettes of Musical Comedy" which traced very briefly the musical from the days of Gilbert and Sullivan through the more popular Broadway Productions and up to the current Bachrach and Webb.

Summer music in 1969 provided opporutnity for some 51 youngsters to study and play their instruments 5 days a week for 6 weeks as a part of the regular summer program.

Lynnfield was well represented in District, All-State and New England organizations with students chosen for each of these groups. Especially noteworthy is the December Solos and Ensemble Festival of the New England Association where Lynnfield students were awarded a total of 41 red and blue ribbons.

The activities of the Greater Bostn Youth Symphony have always been a source of great prid eto our community in that from its founding we have had excellent representation from Lynnfield. In the summer of 1969 a signal honor was bestowed on this group in the form of an invitation to perform in Switzerland at the International Festival of Youth Symphonies. Richard Kravetz of Lynnfield, percussionist with the orchestra, was chosen for and participated in this wonderful musiacl experience.

In conclusion I would be remiss in negelecting to mention our "resident composer" Mr. H. Robert Ayasse who has, since his arrival in Lynnfield, composed no less than seven works for different musical organizations within the school system. Christmas Concert 1969 premiered still another work by Mr. Ayasse, this one written for A Capella Choir and entitled "Joy, A Child!" This choral offering enjoyed a well received first performance and is presently in the hands of a publisher. It is indeed an honor to present this new music premiere performance.

AUDIO VISUAL EDUCATION

Robert A. Cox ,Coordinator

The activities of the Audiovisual Department this past year have not been of a spectacular nature, nor do we strive to make them so. Instead we have had a steady growth based on solid educational values. In line with this goal, much of our time has been involved in the everyday pursuits of providing maximum services to our administrative and teaching staff and to our students. We have continued to provide technology in the use of audiovisual equipment, to manufacture duplicate masters, transparencies, slides, to provide copy services, laminations, to provide films and to acquire new materials and equipment. We have also continued to provide services in gaining federal aid for Lynnfield.

Last spring and this fall much planning went into the selection of facilities and the purchase of equipment for the Media Centers at the Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill Schols. In addition to books, pamphlets, flat pictures and magazines, each center is equipped with filmloops, filmstrips, records, recorded tapes, cassettes and transparencies plus equipment to make effective use of these materials. As a result of complete cooperation of all the people involved, Lynnfield now has two Multimedia Centers as good as any in the state.

It is the purpose of each center to provide opportunities for individual study and reference using as many varied forms of communication as possible .To supplement this goal a Media Skills Curriculum was prepared this past summer designed to teach the proper use of media equipment starting in grade one. With this curriculum as a guide all students will be well versed in library skills and the use of media by the time they reach the 8th grade.

Mention should be made of the efforts at the other schools in the direction of gradually expanding their library collections to include multimedia materials. With Summer Street and Huckleberry Hill as models we are striving to make all school libraries better equipped as Media Centers.

During mid-November Lynnfield was selected as the site for the statewide Massachusetts Audiovisual Association Communications Conference. Our two completed centers were opened and played host to visitors from the conference.

SCHOOL HEALTH PROGRAM

Mrs. Priscilla Burnham, R.N., Coordinator

The main objective of the school health program continues to be that of appraising each student's personal health and identifying his needs as they relate to his education. Once a handicap in any area, be it physical, mental or emotional, is detected, treatment is begun to correct the situation and return the student to a state of well-being as soon as possible. This is often accomplished through the cooperation of the parents and treatment often reaches out to the private physician and community agencies and clinics. The various screening programs such as hearing and vision testing, physical examinations, skin testing, sensitive teacher observation and nurse-teacher conferences are all equally important in appraising the school child from a view point of good health.

The second objective of the school health program is that of health education and this encompasses a wide range of teaching; anywhere from teaching a child how to apply a simple bandaid to the formal classroom teaching of the physiology of menstruation. The school health staff is continuously promoting educational materials that will enrich the screening program experience. For example, films on tuberclosis are shown prior to the Tine Testing Program and another film orients the fourth grader to his physical examination, and so on in other programs. The school nurses spend many classroom hours throughout the school year bringing resource materials to the classroom teacher through models, lecture and practical demonstrations. There seems to be an increasing demand each year for the school nurse to share her knowledge in teaching children the healthy way of life.

Lynnfield's school nurses have recognized that this sharing of teaching with the classroom teachers can enrich the child's experience in knowing how to apply his textbook theories. Because of this sincere interest in health education, two of Lynnfield's school nurses are serving on the School Health Workshop Committee which was organized and worked during the summer to develop health educational programs. This committee is continuing to meet once a month throughout the school year. Mrs. Cole, the high school nurse, has contributed a great deal in the "Drug Abuse" phase of this workshop. She was also instrumental in interesting a large number of students from both the Junior and Senior High to attend the Health Careers Fair in Boston sponsored by the Women's Auxliary of the Mass. Medical Society.

With these two objectives of Health Appraisal and Health Education constantly working together, Lynnfield's School Health Program will continue to grow and strengthen health concepts for Lynnfield students.

On motion of Dr. Devaney, duly seconded, it was VOTED UNANIMOUSLY to authorize the School Committee, in accordance with General Laws Chapter 149, Section 1781 as amended by Chapter 633 of the Acts of 1968, to designate an attorney as a representative of the School Committee for the purpose of bargaining with employee organizations for school employees.

ARTICLE 36.

On motion of Mr. Maney, duly seconded, it was VOTED to authorize the Board of Selectmen to permit, on such terms as the Selectmen shall determine, the use of Town-owned real estate abutting the Town Hall, formerly known as the Pearson property, or a portion thereof, by such various civic organizations as the Selectmen shall determine.

ARTICLE 37.

On motion of Mr. Peter Gorshel, duly seconded, it was VOTED to amend the Town-by-laws by deleting section A of Chapter 5—Regulations Governing Streets and Ways thereof and by substituting therefor the following:

A. BREAKING, OBSTRUCTING, DIGGING UP OF STREETS

1. Permit Required

No person, firm, corporation, public utility or agency other than the Selectmen or the Road Commissioner in the lawful performance of their duties, or those acting under their orders, except such other persons as are or may be authorized by statute, shall break or excavate the ground in any street or public way in the Town, or dig below the surface thereof, or place any obstruction thereon, or construct a driveway entrance from any street, without first obtaining a written permit therefor from the Selectmen.

2. Application for Permit

No such permit shall be issued until after receipt by the Board of Selectmen of a written application therefor made in writing on forms provided by the Selectmen and signed by the applicant or his authorized representative.

3. Safety Requirements

All persons acting under such permit shall put up and maintain a suitable railing or fence around the part of the street affected so long as the same shall remain unsafe or inconvenient for travelers and such person shall keep one or more lighted lanterns fixed to such railing or fence, or in some other way exposed, every night from dusk through the entire night.

4. Surety Bond

No such permit shall be issued until after the applicant has deposited with the Selectmen a surety bond or security deposit, in form and amount acceptable to the Selectmen, guaranteeing that any road surface worked upon thereunder will be restored without cost to the Town.

5. No such permit shall be issued until after the applicant has filed with the Town a certificate of insurance in amounts acceptable to the Selectmen conditioned substantially that the applicant shall indemnify and save harmless the Town of Lynnfield and its officers from all suits and actions of every kind brought against said Town and its officers for or on account of any injuries or damages received or sustained by any person in consequence of, or resulting from any work performed by or negligence of said applicant, his servants, agents or employees.

6. Fee for Permit

The fee for permits issued under this Chapter shall be set from time to time by the Selectmen and may be waived by them in their discretion.

7. Issuance of Permit

Upon the filing of an application and security as aforesaid, and payment of any fee, the Selectmen shall cause to be issued, on forms provided by them, a permit specifying the nature and location of the work to be done; the terms and conditions of such work imposed to preserve public safety and convenience, and the time within which such work is to be completed, but such time shall not be longer than one (1) year from the date of said permit. Notwithstanding such other conditions as may be imposed, it shall be a condition of each permit issued under this bylaw that the applicant shall, for a period of one year from the date of issuance of such permit, save harmless the Town of Lynnfield from any and all claims for damages arising from or in consequence of any work performed by or any act or omission of the applicant under such permit or of the applicant's servants, agents or employees.

8. Expiration of Permit

Permits issued under the provisions of this bylaw shall expire as follows:

Upon completion of all work specified on the permit, including the restoration of any excavation and the removal of any obstruction, the applicant may present the permit to the Board of Selectmen who shall cause the Road Commissioner to inspect such work. If the work has been completed to their satisfaction, and in accordance with the terms and conditions of said permit, the Selectmen shall certify the same and the expiration of the permit thereon.

9. Inspection

The Selectmen and the Road Commissioner are authorized to inspect, or cause to have inspected, at any time any or all work performed under a permit issued hereunder. If, in the opinion of the Selectmen and/or the Road Commissioner the public safety and welfare so warrant, they or he may order the applicant to fill and resurface any excavation or remove any obstruction within 12 hours of such notice and if such order is not complied with within such time, he or they may cause such work to be done and the applicant shall be responsible for the cost thereof.

10. Exceptions

a. Section 4 of this bylaw shall not apply to public utilities or service companies which elect, in lieu of a bond, to enter into a legally binding agreement with the Town of Lynnfield securing said Town as provided therein.

b. Nothing in this bylaw shall be construed to prevent or unduly delay the making of any necessary excavation or the performance of any work related thereto by any public service company in the event of an emergency, and in such cases such public service company may proceed with such work without regard for the provision of this bylaw, provided that within a reasonable period of time after the cessation of such emergency, and not longer than 10 days, all provisions of this bylaw shall become effective with respect to such work.

11. Legal Obligations

Nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve any applicant from any obligations or liabilities to the Town of Lynnfield.

12. Penalty

Any person, firm or corporation violating any provisions of this Section A shall be punished by a fine of not less than Twenty Dollars ($20.00) nor more than Fifty Dollars ($50.00) for each provision hereof violated, and each day such a violation shall continue after notice to the offender shall constitute a separate offense.

13. Severability

In the event that any provisions of this Section A shall be held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect the validity of any other provision thereof.

ARTICLE 38.

On motion of Mr. Maney, duly seconded, it was VOTED that the Town amend its by-laws by adding to Chapter 5 thereof the following:

F. No person shall connect a drain from any property to a Town or common drain without first obtaining a written permit from the Board of Selectmen by following the procedure hereinafter set forth:

1. The applicant shall file a written application for said permit with the Selectmen which shall state in detail the proposed location, material, size, construction, depth and gradient of the drain and at the same time shall file copies thereof with the Board of Health and Road Commissioner; said Board of Health and Commissioner shall report in writing to the Selectmen their recommendations on said application within 14 days.

2. The Board of Selectmen shall act upon said application within thirty (30) days of its receipt unless the applicant shall extend said time in writing.

3. Upon approval of the application, the applicant shall submit a bond or security deposit, in form and amount acceptable to the Selectmen, to indemnify and hold harmless the Town from any and all loss, damage, cost and expense it may sustain by reason of the work permitted or the negligence or any act of the applicant, his servants, agents or employees in performing the same.

In addition, the applicant shall prepare and file an easement, in form satisfactory to the Selectmen, which shall enable Town to repair, clean, maintain and replace such drain.

Upon receipt of the foregoing, the Selectmen shall issue such permit with such terms and conditions as they may determine to be in the best interests of the Town.

Until such permit has been issued and delivered, no person shall cut into or in any way interfere with such Town or common drain or allow anything to be discharged therein.

The cleaning, maintaining, repairing and replacement of a drain permitted hereunder, and the cost thereof, shall be the responsibility of the owner of the land from and through which said drain runs. In the event of the said owner(s) failure to clean, maintain, repair and replace such drain, the Selectmen may in their discretion, cause the same to be done and recover the cost thereof in an action of contract. The provisions of this paragraph shall be included in every application and assented to by the applicant.

All persons acting under such permit shall comply with all other provisions of this Chapter as well as all other applicable regulations of the Town.

In the event any provision of this section shall be determined to be invalid, such invalidity shall not affect the validity of any other provision of this secton.

ARTICLE 39.

On motion of Mr. Glennon, duly seconded, it was VOTED to amend the by-laws of the Town by deleting those provisions of Chapter 11, Section 7 which read as follows:

The studs of all bearing partitions in the first story shall bear directlly upon the wood girder beam or to a shoe attached to a steel girder beam.

ARTICLE 40.

On motion of Mr. Brodbine, duly seconded, it was VOTED that action on this article be referred for further study with the Planning Board. Following is the article:

"To see if the Town will amend Zoning By-laws, Section 2(b), 11.c. by striking out 11.c and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

11.c. Tourist home, boarding or lodging house, apartment building or apartment complex (but not including overnight cabins, motels or hotels)."

ARTICLE 41.

The recommendation of the Planning Board relative to this article was read by Mr. Vaughan Young.

"Recommendation of the Lynnfield Planning Board relative to Article 41 of the Annual Town Warrant.

"In accordance with Chapter 40A of the General Laws, Section 6, a duly advertised Public Hearing was held by the Planning Board at the Town Hall on March 5, 1969 at 8:00 P.M. The Hearing had been postponed from February 24 to February 27, and continued to March 5.

"The Planning Board recommends favorable action on Article 41.

"While the result of the extension of the General Business zone will be an irregular rear line, the Residence area into which it extends will probably never be used for dwellings.

"The area in question is currently being used as a riding ring and rezoning is requested for the erection of a cover so that the ring can be used on a year-round basis. This Board is of the opinion that the use would not be detrimental to the area but that the erection of the cover in front of the existing stable could become a potential hazard due to its proximity to Route 1.

"We also recognize that the recreation values of the area is a benefit to the many youngsters who use the stable's facilities and agree that at this time the area is being put to good use."

On motion of Mr. Brodbine, duly seconded, it was VOTED 133 in favor, 20 opposed, to amend the zoning by-laws and zoning district map of the Town of Lynnfield by enlarging the present General Business District on the southeasterly side of the Newburyport Turnpike so as to include a parcel of land described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the southeasterly terminus line of the present General Business District 430 feet from the southwesterly corner of Lot A-2 as shown on "Plan of Land in Lynnfield, Mass. for Peter Romano dated July 29, 1959 drawn by Dana F. Perkins & Sons, Inc., Civil Engineers and Surveyors, Reading, Mass." recorded in Essex South District Deeds, Book 4642, Page 535, and running southeasterly 150 feet by Lot A-1 as shown on said plan; thence turning and running on a northeasterly line 138.36 feet; thence turning and running northwesterly 150 feet by land now or formerly of Aylemere Bennett to the terminus line of the General Business District; thence turning and running southwesterly 138.36 feet along the terminus line of said General Business District to the point of beginning.

All business of this Annual Town Meeting having been completed, on motion made and seconded, it was VOTED to adjourn.

Adjourned at 10:45 P.M.

RECORD OF ACTION TAKEN AT SPECIAL TOWN MEETING HELD OCTOBER 20, 1969 IN THE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Pursuant to the foregoing warrant, the legal voters of the Town of Lynnfield met in the Junior High School auditorium in the said Town of Lynnfield on Monday, October 20, 1969.

The meeting was called to order at 8:00 P.M. by John H. Kimball, Moderator.

With the consent of the voters, unregistered persons named by the Moderator were admitted to the meeting and they were seated on the stage.

The call for the meeting was read by Mr. Kimball, and that portion of the warrant preceding the articles. The Moderator then announced that unless there was any objection, the articles would not be read until taken up for action. There being none, Mr. Kimball read that part of the warrant following the articles including the signatures of the Selectmen and the constable's return of service.

On motion of Mr. H. Joseph Maney, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, it was voted unanimously to adjourn to Thursday, October 30, 1969 at 8:00 P.M. in the Junior High School Auditorium should the business of the meeting not be completed in this session.

ARTICLE 1.

Mr. Vaugh Young, Clerk, read the following recommendation of the Planning Board regarding this article.
"Recommendation of the Planning Board Relative to Article I of the Special Town Meeting Warrant:
" In accordance with Chapter 40A of the Massachusetts General Laws, Section 6 a duly advertised Public hearing was held on October 15th in the Lynnfield Junior High School Auditorium at which time three members of the Board were present and acted throughout on Article I as contained in the Warrant for the Special Town Meeting to be held on October 20th, 1969 at 8:00 p.m."
"The Planning Board has felt for some time that the property described in this article is land that should be acquired for future municipal and/or recreational use. Such use would not only benefit the Town but would also put protection of the aesthetic and historical values of the area in the hands of the Town.
"Much of the property in the area is presently used for municipal or public purposes, but all of this property has been used in strict accordance with the zoning laws, and we do not feel that anything has been done to detract from the value of the property under consideration in this article."
"We must also point out that no really urgent need has been demonstrated to us for the additional services that are permitted in a limited business zone. Further, the proponents of this article admit to having no plans for the area. And further it has not been shown that this proposed change is part of a general reevaluation or realignment of the zoning plan of the town."
"In view of the above we feel that to rezone this property at this time could very possibly result in construction of a type that would be permanently detrimental to the very special character of the area."
"The Planning Board recommends that this article be defeated."

On motion of Mr. Allen Rideout, duly seconded, this article (noted below) was defeated — 67 in favor, 263 opposed.

"To see if the Town will amend its Zoning By-Laws by voting to establish as a LIMITED BUSINESS DISTRICT land fronting on South Common Street owned by Allene L. Rideout, also known as Allene H. Rideout, said land being Parrcells "B" and "C", totaling 3.25 acres, shown on "Plan of Land in Lynnfield Centre, Mass. belonging to Susan B. Taylor" by S.C. Mitchell, Civil Engineer, dated Oct. 1, 1926 and filed in Essex Registry of Deeds as Plan #5, Book of Plans 49 at Salem, Mass."

A motion for reconsideration was defeated.

ARTICLE 2.

On motion of Mr. Theodore C. Regnante, duly seconded, it was voted to refer this article to the Planning Board and the Historical Commission for further study. (Article noted below)

"To see if the Town will amend its Zoning By-Laws by voting to establish as a LIMITED BUSINESS DISTRICT land fronting on Main Street, known as the "Haskell property", formerly owned by Henry A. Haskell, said land being parcels "A" and "D", totalling 6.98 acres, shown on "Plan of Land in Lynnfield Centre, Mass. belonging to Susan B. Taylor" by S.C. Mitchell, Civil Engineer, dated Oct. 1, 1926 and filed in Essex Registry of Deeds as Plan #5, Book of Plans 49 at Salem, Mass."

ARTICLE 3.

On motion of Mr. Roger Gerry, Town Accountant, duly seconded, it was VOTED UNANIMOUSLY to transfer the sum of $4,000. from Interest on Temporary Loans Account to the Group Insurance Account.

ARTICLE 4.

On motion of Dr. Thomas Devaney, duly seconded, it was VOTED to transfer the sum of $5,000. from Interest on Temporary Loans Account to the School Department account for other School Services Expense.

ARTICLE 5.

On motion of Mr. Carl Davis, duly seconded, it was VOTED UNANIMOUSLY to transfer the sum of $2,842. from the Interest on Temporary Loans Account to the Fire Department Expense Account.

ARTICLE 6.

On motion of Mr. Gorshel, duly seconded, it was VOTED to accept as a PUBLIC WAY, ALDERNEY WAY, as laid out by the Board of Selectmen and approved by the Planning Board, and as shown on a plan of land entitled "Windermere" and recorded in Essex South District Registry of Deeds in Plan Book 103, Plan 8, being bounded and described as follows:

Beginning on the Easterly side of Chestnut Street and continuing in an Easterly direction for a distance of approximately 887 feet more or less and having a width of 40 feet.

At this point, on motion of Mr. Maney, duly seconded it was VOTED to postpone action on Articles 7 and 8 to October 30, 1969 at 8:00 P.M. in the Junior High School Auditorium.

1970 ANNUAL REPORT

LYNNFIELD

We of Lynnfield mentally record our mutual experiences and achievements;
we of the Town Report Committee
objectively record them.
As no single effort has produced
this volumn,
so is no individual its subject;
our every achievement and happiness we show, neither laboring nor relaxing alone,
but always together.
As we have been able and willing to adapt ourselves to life with others, so have we been successful and contented.
The theme of a profitable and happy life is the theme of Lynnfield in this recorded year of 1970 - TOGETHER.

THE TOWN OF LYNNFIELD

HONORS

CAPT. LAUREN R. LENGYEL

PRISONER OF WAR SINCE AUGUST 9, 1967

IN MEMORIAM

CHARLES W. KESSLER
1916–1970

On June 29, 1970 Lynnfield lost one of its most outstanding civic leaders. Few men in our town have contributed as much to the community in as broad a variety of public services as Charles W. Kessler when he died at the age of 54.

His vigorous leadership in the affairs of the town and in the greater Lynn area was always conducted in a sincere, forthright, gentlemanly manner.

His leadership abilities were recognized early in his career when he won all-scholastic honors at Salem High School and later as captain of his Harvard College football team.

Charles Kessler devoted unsparingly of his time and effort in the assistance of young people. He was a member of the Lynnfield School Building Committees. His dedicated work spanned the decade when Lynnfield schools experienced its rapid growth. His foresight and judgment helped plan and carry out the orderly development from a two elementary school plant to its present highly regarded educational system.

He continued in his work for youth as president of the Lynn Y.M.C.A. and as chairman of its new building fund steering committee after many years of service on the Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors.

During World War II he was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for his service in Europe and continued his military career as a Colonel in the Army Reserve.

Mr. Kessler also contributed in other civic responsibilities as president of the Greater Lynn Chamber of Commerce, as president of Lynn Rotary Club and of Camp Rotary Inc. He was chairman of the Junior Achievement of Greater Lynn and a former president of Community Council and vice president of the Union Hospital.

Charlie Kessler's friends enjoyed his genuine smile, firm handshake and his clear rhetoric. Those who knew him well were endeared to him by his many acts of kindness and his willingness to advise, assist and give of himself.

Robert W. Davis

IN MEMORIAM

WALTER H. KUESTENMACHER
1903–1970

The Town of Lynnfield lost a good friend when Walter Kuestenmacher passed away on September 1, 1970.

Walter was a distinguished public servant, who gave freely of his time, had talent, which, with years of experience, added up to wisdom. These factors, along with Walter's total dedication to Lynnfield, made him a unique person. One resident in mourning his loss said of him, "Walter is Lynnfield."

During the course of his public service he participated in eight of the ten major building projects, seven of which were schools. Many times he was called upon to be chairman of these various building projects. He knew how to guide the committee tactfully while being its leader and spokesman. This was no easy task for Walter, who preferred to do the background work and shun the limelight.

There were times when hard decisions had to be made. If a project required additional funds the townspeople were informed that in order to do the job properly more financial help was needed. If the interests of the townspeople were being jeopardized by a contractor those interests would be defended, even if it required a court decision.

Those of us who were privileged to be his friends knew him to be a man of culture and good taste. He had a love of classical music, enjoyed playing the organ, owned a valuable model train collection, had a flair for fashion, and was a gourmet. He put his time to good use. His retirement was merely a transition to his next avocation, that of helping the townspeople of Lynnfield. He sought to continue this in his legacy, leaving his organ to the Episcopal Church and a substantial part of his estate to scholarship.

Since his passing many of us have suggested various ways to honor his memory. No matter what we propose we already have memorials to this fine man. Winston Churchill once said, "We shape our buildings, thereafter we are shaped by them . . ." The building accomplishments of Walter Kuestenmacher for Lynnfield will shape our people for a long time to come.

IN MEMORIAM

CHARLES E. HERLIHY
1912–1970

In December 1970, Lynnfield lost a beloved and honored friend in the passing of Charles Herlihy. Although he and his family lived in Reading for the past year, his roots were tied to Lynnfield, where for twenty years he took an active part in the growth of the community.

In the educational program, he served on Lynnfield School Planning and Building Committees, was a member of the former citizens advisory group of the school committee, and he and his wife, Muriel, were former presidents of the South School Parent-Teacher Association.

Always a civic minded person, he was a Trustee for seven years of the Lynnfield Public Library and contributed much to the high standards of our library system. He was a former chairman of this board. He was a member of the Capital Outlay Budget Committee and a past president of the South Lynnfield Couples Club. He was also a former president of the Lynnfield Chapter of the American Field Service.

A deeply religious person, he was an active member and assisted in the growth of Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church. A respected member of the Boston brokerage firm of F.L. Putnam and Company, a very close family man, and a person with many varied interests, Mr. Herlihy was a diligent contributor to everything in which he took part.

BOARD OF SELECTMEN

Myles T. Burke

H. Joseph Maney
Chairman

A. David Rodham

The year 1970 was one in which several significant actions took place including continuing progress on some important problems of the past.

The most significant actions accomplished are the completion by the Charter Commission of its task to write a charter for the town, the appointment of a full time Fire Chief, the opening and the use of the Teen Center, and the completion of acquisition of a new elementary school site.

The Charter, which will be voted on at the Annual Town Elections in March 1971, preserves the same basic form of government but makes some changes which are expected to improve the operation of the government by combining departments, strengthening lines of responsibility, and making other procedural changes in financial matters, administration, and town meetings.

The Board of Selectmen strongly urges every voter to read the new charter, compare it with the present, and make your own evaluation. If you agree with us, you will vote favorably on it and we will be making a great leap forward in Municipal Administration.

The appointment of a full time Fire Chief was made on September 19, 1970 when Chief Robert J. Desmond became the department head. In a short period of time he has improved the performance of the department immeasurably toward the goal of improved fire protection. As the year closed, the new chief recommended the addition of full time firefighters in 1971. While it is clear that the appointment of a full time Fire Chief was the first step in a program to develop a part full-time, part part-time department, it is not clear exactly when, and with how many full-time men, the total program should be implemented. At this writing, the Selectmen are reviewing this question.

During the year other action was taken regarding the persistent drainage problems facing much of the Town. The new drainage maps were completed on our recently acquired topographic maps. We expect these new maps to facilitate the study and solution to the scattered, but plentiful, problems that continue to plague some of our residents.

Action was taken by Special Town Meeting to correct two drainage problems in the Glen Meadow Park area and, when completed in the early spring of 1971, is expected to improve conditions considerably.

In preventative action, the town was forced to take court action to stop the building of three new homes in a flooded flood plain area of Chestnut Street. The courts upheld the Town and thus we have eliminated at least one new future problem.

In other activity, the Selectmen constructed a new 52 car parking lot adjacent to the original Town Hall lot and also installed attractive colonial-style lighting for both lots.

The Board, in 1970, perambulated the town boundaries with Middleton, Saugus, Peabody, and Lynn.

Several major problems requiring continual action at the end of the year including the cost and service of rubbish disposal; the acquisition, control, and use of Pillings Pond; the next school building program; and traffic problems on Salem Street, east of Route 1 and at the intersection of Walnut Street.

Rubbish collection and disposal is the most urgent of these problems which needs immediate solution in early 1971. Action by the State imposing the no-burning edict has compounded the problem. The cost of this service with an outside contractor will increase by almost 150% in 1971 and the service for the past several years has been unacceptable. We may find it to be in the best interest of the town to perform this service ourselves.

Other items, where action is continuing, is wage and salary negotiations with the Municipal Employees Union and the Police Association, pursuit of land for a future site of a department of public works facility, further study on Low Cost Housing for the Elderly, and a final report from the Historic District Study Committee.

The outlook for the future is a mixture of despair and hope. We despair at the increased cost of government but we hold out some hope that the State, through a master tax plan, and the Federal government, through direct revenue sharing, will shift some of the load off the property tax and strike a better balance on people's ability to pay. We also hope that some reorganization, which will happen in the State in 1971 and county government reform which is likely to occur sometime in the near future, will bring about more efficiency in government. We must do our share at the town level as well.

One important subject for future action by the town is that concerned with our youth, the voters will be asked to give financial support to our recreation programs, the teen center, and a drug action program—all of this, on top of our most expensive program in the town, the school system.

Another major subject which will be brought up for decision making from time to time in the future, is our zoning by law. Influences from within the Town and from without, some with self-interest motivation and some with bona-fide social concern, will ask the voters to change our basic zoning philosophy. The people will either change or reaffirm the basic character of the town and they should do so only after a thorough examination of just what they want the town to be in the years to come.

The Board of Selectmen operates during the year with the assistance of many men and women who serve on committees and with the assistance of dedicated, elected and appointed officials. To all of these people we say, in behalf of all the residents, a great big thank you. In particular we want to especially cite the contributions of Mr. Clifford Ham, who retired as Tax Collector after 32 years of service; Mr. Carl E. Davis, who completed 15 years service as Part Time Fire Chief; and note with sadness, the passing of Mr. Walter Kuestenmacher who gave almost twenty years service to the Town as a member and chairman of all recent School Building Committees.

The proposed amendment to the Constitution amends the existing constitutional provisions which direct the division of the Commonwealth into 240 representative districts and 40 senatorial districts. It provides for a census of the inhabitants of each city and town in the Commonwealth in the year 1971 and in every tenth year thereafter. The census in 1971 is to be the basis for determining the representative and senatorial districts for the ten-year period beginning January 1, 1975. Each subsequent census shall be the basis for determining the districts for each ten-year period beginning the fourth January following each census, so that the census in 1981 will determine the districts as of January, 1985, etc.

The amendment provides that the house of representatives shall consist of two hundred and forty members and the senate of forty members. In its first regular session following each census, the Legislature shall divide the Commonwealth into two hundred and forty representative districts of contiguous territory and forty senatorial districts also of contiguous territory. Each representative district shall contain, as nearly as may be, an equal number of inhabitants according to the census. Each senatorial district shall also contain as nearly as may be an equal number of inhabitants according to the census. A representative district shall not unite two or more counties, towns, or cities, or parts thereof, or a city and a town, or parts thereof, in one district unless the same is unavoidable. Further, no town of less than six thousand inhabitants shall be divided in forming representative districts. It is also provided that the County of Dukes County and Nantucket County shall each be a representative district, notwithstanding the foregoing. The senatorial districts, each of which shall elect one Senator, shall be formed without uniting two counties or parts of two or more counties unless the same is unavoidable.

Each representative shall be an inhabitant of the district for which he is chosen at least one year immediately preceding his election, and each senator shall be an inhabitant of the district for which he is chosen at the time of his election and shall have been an inhabitant of the Commonwealth for at least five years immediately preceding his election. Any representative or senator who ceases to be an inhabitant of the Commonwealth shall cease to represent his district.

The amendment also provides that the Legislature (1) may by law limit the time within which judicial proceedings may be instituted calling in question any such division and (2) shall prescribe by law the manner of calling and conducting elections for the choice of representatives and of ascertaining their election.

Finally, the amendment annuls the existing constitutional provisions with respect to apportionment of representative and senatorial districts, although those provisions will remain in effect until January 1, 1975.

ARTICLE 29.

On motion of Mr. Maney, duly seconded, it was VOTED UNANIMOUSLY to amend Chapter 22 of the by-laws as follows:

Section 5

A. Add the following sentence to the first paragraph: Any grievance must be presented in or within five (5) calendar days of the occurrence of the alleged grievance.

B. Delete Step I, Step II and Step III as presently written and substitute therefore the following:

Step I . . . Whenever an employee has a grievance relating to his employment he shall orally make it known to his immediate superior making it clear to his superior that he is presenting a grievance in accordance with this clause. His superior shall attempt to resolve the grievance and shall verbally respond to the employee within five (5) working days of being told of the grievance. If the grievance is not satisfactorily resolved the employee may then take Step II.

Step II . . . The employee shall put his grievance in writing on a form to be supplied by the Town Clerk and present it to his department head who may be the same person as in Step I. He shall also present a copy of the grievance to the Clerk of the Personnel Board. The department head shall attempt to resolve the grievance and shall submit an answer in writing on a form to be supplied by the Town Clerk to the employee with a copy to the Clerk of the Personnel Board within five (5) working days of the receipt of the grievances. If the grievance is not satisfactorily resolved hereunder the employee may then take Step III.

Step III . . . The employee shall file a written statement of his grievance with the Personnel Board and request an informal hearing before the same at its next regular meeting, or at a special meeting if the Board deems this advisable. The Board shall notify the appropriate department head and/or superior to be present at said hearing. All parties, including the Board, shall be entitled to be represented by a duly authorized representative. Within fifteen (15) days of the hearing, all parties shall be notified in writing of the decision of the Board, which decision shall be in writing. The decision of the Personnel Board shall be final and binding on all parties with regard to all grievances except as may be otherwise provided in contracts negotiated between the Town and a certified bargaining unit of employees.

Section 10

Add to first paragraph of subsection "e" the words "subject to the provisions of subsection "a" of this section."

Section 13

SICK LEAVE

Delete the provisions of Section 13 and substitute therefor the following:

a. Persons employed on a permanent full-time basis after 120 calendar days will be allowed sick leave with pay on the basis of one (1) working day for each month of service. Sick leave not used in any year may be accumulated, not to exceed ninety (90) working days in the aggregate.

Persons employed on a permanent part-time basis after eighty (80) days actually worked shall be allowed sick leave with pay on the basis of one (1) part-time day for each twenty (20) days actually worked. Sick leave not used in any year may be accumulated not to exceed sixty (60) part-time working days in the aggregate.

b. Accrued sick leave will be determined from attendance records since January 1, 1957. Upon termination of employment, employees shall not be entitled to any direct or indirect payment for unused sick leave.

c. Sick leave will be granted to employees only under the following conditions:

1. When incapacitated by sickness or injury.

2. When, because of exposure to contagious disease, the presence of the person at work would jeopardize the health of others.

3. In case of death in the immediate family (husband, wife, children, parents, brothers, sisters, mothers-in-law or fathers-in-law), employees may be granted sick leave with pay not to exceed three (3) calendar days in each instance.

d. Injury, illness or disability, self-imposed, or as a result of alcohol or drugs not taken as medically prescribed treatment will not be considered a proper claim for sick leave benefits.

e. With the department head's approval, vacation time may be converted to sick leave if no sick leave time is available.

f. A medical certificate may be required as proof of sickness, injury or exposure to contagious disease. Failure to report absence promptly or to obtain a required certificate within seven (7) calendar days after request will provide the department head sufficient reason for disapproving a sick leave request.

g. If any employee is injured while performing his duty, and such accident is covered by Workmen's Compensation, he shall receive sick leave up to the extent of his credits until payment under Workmen's Compensation Law begins. In addition, he may receive partial sick leave allowance payments which, when added to disability compensation, will result in full payment of regular salary. Any absence resulting from such injury that is in excess of available sick leave or vacation credits, shall be deemed leave of absence without pay.

h. Traffic supervisors shall be allowed one (1) working day of sick leave for each month of service not to exceed seven (7) working days per year.

i. No sick leave will be granted to temporary employees.

j. Unauthorized absence or abuse of sick leave shall be grounds for disciplinary action by the Town up to discharge of the employee.

Section 14

To be eligible for such holiday pay, an employee shall have worked or have satisfactorily presented himself for work, on the regularly scheduled work day before the holiday, and the first one (1) after it unless absence on either or both work days is approved by the department head.

b. If required to work on a holiday enumerated above, such employees shall receive time and one-half for the hours actually worked in addition to their regular pay.

c. Traffic supervisors will receive regular straight time pay for school holidays.

d. When a legal holiday under paragraph "a" falls on a Saturday, the Friday immediately preceding shall be observed and when it falls on a Sunday, the Monday immediately following shall be observed. Permanent full-time and part-time employees shall receive straight time pay for ten (10) legal holidays during each year.

Section 16

If the jury fees, exclusive of travel allowances, received by said employee for such jury duty shall be less than the regular pay received by him from the Town, the difference between said fees and regular pay shall be paid to such employee by the Town. However, as a condition to receiving such payment, the employee agrees that if during such jury duty he is discharged for the day or major portion thereof during regular work hours, he will report to his supervisor for such work as may be assigned. An employee performing such jury duty and who desires the benefit of this article shall be required to present weekly to his department head a certificate by the court or any duly authorized representative as to the time spent by the employee in such jury duty during such week.

ARTICLE 34.

The report of the Planning Board relative to this article was read by Mr. Vaughn Young.

"In accordance with Chapter 40A of the General Laws, Section 6, a duly advertised Public Hearing was held by the Planning Board at the Town Hall on March 4, 1970 at 8:00 p.m. at which time four members of the Board were present and acted through on Article 34 as contained in the Town Warrant for the Annual Town Meeting to be held March 9, 1970.

"The Planning Board recommends the adoption of Article 34 for the following reasons:

"The amendment to the Zoning By-Laws as proposed in this article will serve to eliminate gasoline service stations as a permitted use in Limited Business areas with Board of Appeals approval.

"At a Special Town Meeting held on June 26, 1967 the town saw fit to amend the section of the Zoning By-Laws that we are presently considering to permit such a use. The amendment voted at that Town Meeting resulted in the establishment of a gasoline service station at the corner of Salem and Summer Streets. One of the main arguments that was put forward by the proponents of the article permitting gasoline service stations in Limited Business areas with Board of Appeals approval was that there was really only one location presently existing in town that the Board of Appeals could approve for the establishment of a gasoline service station. Realistically, the amendment of June 26, 1967 has served its purpose and therefore the Planning Board feels that the best interests of the town would be served by a further amendment of Section 2 (c) 9 so as to eliminate this permitted use.

ARTICLE 45.

The report of the Planning Board relative to this article was read by Mr. Vaughn Young.

"In accordance with Chapter 40A of the General Laws, Section 6, a duly advertised Public Hearing was held by the Planning Board at the Town Hall on March 4, 1970 at 8:00 p.m. at which time four members of the Board were present and acted throughout on Article 45 as contained in the Town Warrant for the Annual Town Meeting to be held March 9, 1970.

"The Planning Board recommends disapproval of Article 45 as presently submitted to the Town in the Warrant for this Town Meeting. The Planning Board would, however, approve such an amendment to the Zoning By-Laws if the proponents of this article offer amendments which would in effect put in the hands of the Building Inspector very strong powers to revoke the permit for such a directory-type sign as herein proposed should the sign become detrimental by reason of its appearance or general maintenance.

"The Planning Board has traditionally maintained a strong restrictive stand on signs. By their very nature, signs must attract attention and there seems to be some unwritten rule that the more distasteful they are, the more attention they will attract. We are wary of extending the present permitted uses for signs. However, in the instance of directory-type signs generally as proposed in this article, we feel that should the proper amendments be accepted, there would be sufficient safeguard to insure that the signs will not become detrimental to the areas adjacent to the Limited Business Districts which they intend to serve."

Respectfully submitted,
Parker B. Holloway, Jr.

On motion of Mr. Simmons, duly seconded, this article was VOTED - 63 in favor, 19 opposed,

3. A directory-type sign for identification of the several tenants or occupants in the area may be placed in a prominent place for the benefit of foot vehicular traffic. Each tenant will be allotted for his identification on the sign an area not in excess of 24" horizontally and 6" vertically (144 square inches) and the total area of the sign shall not exceed 10 square feet. Other ornaments may not protrude from the sign more than 4 inches in any direction with the exception of hardware necessary to attach the sign to a post. Such a sign should be in good taste and may be white lighted indirectly, but may not be lighted by flashing or intermittent lights. Said sign shall be placed in a safe location at the normal entrance to the area in which the tenants or occupants are located and also be located so as not to obstruct the normal vision of traffic. Said sign shall not be suspended or placed so as to overhang a public or private way and will be no higher at its lower extremity than 3 feet above the ground. Permission for the installation of any directory sign not attached to a building will be in writing from the fee holder of title and accompany any request for a permit or variance. Said request to include a scale drawing of the proposed sign and said permit, when issued shall indicate that the permit for said sign may be revoked by the Building Inspector if it is not properly maintained.

TREE DEPARTMENT AND PEST CONTROL

Each year seems to bring a new problem to the care and health of our shade trees. This year, the increase in the Oak Leaf Skeletonizer was tremendous. It is a pest that has been present in cycles but never has it been so prevalent in New England as in the past season. One factor contributing to the increase of this pest has been the ban on burning outside which destroyed countless millions of the larvae. Spraying in the spring (June) was ineffective. The materials recommended by the University Field Station did not do the job. A crash program is now going on to find an effective safe Pesticide, and hopefully, we will have something by spring. I have in my budget funds to implement if it develops.

Dutch Elm continues to take its annual toll here again. Several promising materials are being tested, but until time tells us that the materials are both safe and effective, there will be no use made of them.

Maples are continuing to decline. This, in part, is caused by the increasing use of salt; more is the environmental change caused by road construction, roads with curbing and sidewalks cause fast run off of rain and reduces the uncovered root area about two thirds, so there is a moisture and food deficiency. All trees removed have been replaced or will be in the spring.

New equipment obtained this year is a chipper. This should have been purchased years ago and now with restricted burning was a must. The chips are available at the rear of the Town Hall for the citizens, at no charge, and much of this has been used at the Conservation Area. The new truck authorized at the Town Meeting finally was delivered in October and is performing well.

As this will be my final Annual Report, I wish to thank the many members of the official Town Family, present and past, for their cooperation and help and especially Delbert Porter and Salvatore LoGrasso, of my staff.

Thank you for many pleasant years.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

As 1970 draws to a close and we are reminded to once again submit our Annual Report and our 1971 Budgets, there are many things taking place that will greatly affect our Town in the future. Environment is the thing that is discussed at all of our association meetings. To date the scientist and ecologist tells us they do not have the research on which to base much worthwhile input for the environmental design process. The designers need help in putting values on the consequences of changing the environment, and it will be costly.

Residents of Temple Road, Gerry Road and Herrick Lane might rightfully ask why work was not done on their streets, as money was appropriated for them in Item 107 of the Annual Town Meeting. This is a line item and is prepared at least six months prior to the construction season. In late February or early March, we advertise for materials for the Town until March of the following year. On bid opening the prices all reflected an increase from the previous year, and in 1971, and with the oil import tariffs, they will be greater. Also some money was spent on Main Street to complete it to a point. Lockwood Road was added to the list and constructed.

Chapter 90 funds were used to rebuild Main Street for a distance of 2,200 feet. Oxbow Road, Homestead Road, Elmwood Road, Lakeview Avenue and Munroe Street were rebuilt. Under Articles 33 - 36 - 38 and 39, Beechwood Road, Cedarwood Road, a portion of Edgemere Road and a portion of Chestnut and Lowell Streets were rebuilt. Sidewalks were constructed on Walnut Street from Salem Street to Bluejay Road. A storm drain was built on Lowell Street and the brooks were cleaned periodically. An additional culvert was constructed under the Boston Maine tracks at Beaver Brook.

By direction of the Annual Town Meeting, funds were made available for one new front end loader, one new truck chassis and one new snow plow.

The Department's leaf vacuum was kept busy for about six weeks, cleaning the leaves that accumulated in the fall.

Looking forward to 1971, Main Street will be rebuilt from Rombult's to Summer Street. Gerry Road, Temple Road, Herrick Lane and Lakewood Road will be repaired and a new surface installed. Also, a seal will be applied to a portion of Essex Street, Lowell Street and the section of Chestnut Street between Aldernay Way and Tophet Road. This will hold these roads together until funds become available to rebuild them.

The Road Commissioner and the personnel of the Highway Department wish to again thank the citizens and administrative officials of the Town for their cooperation throughout the year, and a special thanks goes to Mrs. Watts for bringing hot apple pies to the Highway barn when the men work late on snow removal.

LIBRARY TRUSTEES

John Leonard, Dr. Robert Card,
A. Edward Paltry, Mrs. Priscilla Hahn,
Russell Knower, Chairman, and Mrs. Natalie Brooks

During 1970, the use of library facilities, resources, and services continued at a pace consistent with the experience of recent years. New records were set in materials circulated, and additional new services were brought to fruition. The staff, under the able direction of Mrs. Marcia Wiswall, maintained a high level of effort, handling an ever increasing workload with commendable efficiency and elan, while simultaneously developing sound plans for bringing exciting new opportunities for cultural enjoyment to the community.

The main library experienced the biggest increase in materials circulated in its history; circulation rose by 20,000 (or 17 percent) over 1969. The very popular record collection was responsible for a large part of the above increase; the collection of 791 records showed an activity of 6,714 or 8 per record.

Patronage at the branch library has experienced a rebirth since last year's decision to maintain full operation at that location; there has been a consistent, month -by-month increase in circulation activity.

Mrs. Ruth Wiley, branch librarian for over ten years, retired at the end of the year and was succeeded by Mrs. Jayne Fraser, former assistant at the Branch. The friendly and excellent personal service given by Mrs. Wiley, year in and year out, to the patrons of the Branch will long be remembered.

Several new services were added this year: a Child Study Group sponsored by the Child Study Association of Massachusetts; an 8-week Thursday night Film Festival (with intermission refreshments served by the Friends), and a Book Discussion Group. Also, a new collection of paperbacks entitled "Where It's At" geared to the high school/college student was established and is proving very popular.

Story hours were increased to twice a week at the Main Library and twice a month at the Branch.

Twenty-four school classes visited the library for orientation and the teachers and principals from all six schools were invited to the library for coffee, a tour of the facilities and an explanation of materials and services available. The school-library liaison committee met three times and compiled a Union List of all school and library periodical holdings; reciprocal borrowing privileges were set up.

Bright new orange colored metal stacks replaced the old narrow wall shelves in the Children's Room; in conjunction with new curtains and bright orange carpeting, (gift of the Friends), the room now presents a most pleasant and cheerful background for the original exhibits and displays arranged by Mrs. Sally Welsh.

The Friends Lecture Series in 1970 was a great success both culturally and financially, as was their annual Used Book Sale, and the Summer Reading Program for children. Once again, the Senior Citizens were entertained with box lunches and movies.

There are 140 titles of current best-sellers in the rental book collection sponsored by the Friends of the Library. A net profit of $200 for the year was realized from this collection; it is from such activities that the Friends are able to provide special programs and gifts to the library.

On September 1st, a re-registration of library patrons was initiated. Also, at that time, and as a continuing policy, out of town residents are charged $5.00 per year per family. As of December 31, there were 3,878 Lynnfield patrons registered and 580 from out of town.

In 1971, the library staff, in a coordinating role, will begin work on an exciting and innovative program in which a multi-media Art Center will be established as a cooperative venture between the Library, the Art Department of the Schools, and the Lynnfield Art Guild. Made possible through a Federal Grant of $13,000, awarded to Lynnfield as a result of a proposal submitted by Mrs. Wiswall and Mrs. Reba Luke, the Center will be housed in a new room (on the balcony) and will contain framed art prints for circulation, sculpture, colored slides, filmstrips and loops, as well as arts and craft materials. The project will be ready for use by the end of June.

Finally, we wish to express our appreciation to the Friends of the Library for their many services and programs, as well as for gifts of carpeting and stacking chairs. Thanks also to the many individuals who have loaned valuable collections for exhibit and who have donated books and subscriptions; and to the town as a whole for appropriating the funds which have made it possible for an enthusiastic and dedicated staff to provide Lynnfield with a library in which it can take pride.

PARK AND CEMETERY

Following is a breakdown of the receipts turned in to the Town for 1970:

Cemetery Lots Sold	$1,500.00
Perpetual Care	1,500.00
29 Internments (to date)	1,560.00
Foundations	336.00
Liners	540.00
	$5,436.00

(plus interest on Perpetual Care funds not yet determined)

1970 saw the Park and Cemetery Budgets under two separate sections in the Town Budget due to dividing the Cemetery revenue from the Park and Cemetery Commission's overall budget as in past years in order to meet a State Ruling submitted by the State Auditors.

One extra man was added to the work force for year round work along with an extra man for a period of 20 weeks to take care of our summer work load.

Development was completed at the lower end of Forest Hills Cemetery thus allowing us extra developed land for additional cemetery lots. Our Department has received numerous complimentary comments during 1970 on the overall appearance of the cemeteries and if one is riding through surrounding towns the comparison is readily noted.

PARKS: This past year saw the installation of a backstop for Little League baseball at St. Maria Gorretti's church property.

Glen Meadow field was overhauled and maintained. The baseball field at Newhall Park was redesigned for use by the Little League baseballers. In 1971 this field will again be redesigned to make the field a still larger playing area.

The Commission would like to thank the Little League management and the Recreation Committee for the cooperation and assistance they have provided us on our programs this past year.

In conjunction with the Recreation Committee we have installed a plastic skating rink at the rear of the Youth Center on Summer St. Weather conditions permitting this year will provide good skating for everyone.

Glen Meadow Park also has been flooded and maintained as an additional skating area.

At Newhall Park it was found the tennis courts could not contain water making it impossible to flood for a skating area. However, the two rinks we have now will provide plenty of skating facilities.

The Commission intends to submit an article at the Town Meeting permitting the temporary use of our property on Essex St. to be utilized for recreation purposes until such time as it becomes necessary to develop the property for future Cemetery lots with off-street parking rights provided.

PLANNING BOARD

The Planning Board held 32 meetings in 1970, including 26 regular meetings, 3 special meetings and 3 working sessions, in addition to 13 field inspection visits. Board member attendance at meetings during the year averaged 74%. Three new subdivisions involving 31 house lots and 2,405 lineal feet of new street were approved and 19 plans involving properties in the Town were endorsed as not requiring approval. Statistically, the year compares with previous years as follows:

Year	Subdivisions Approved	New House Lots	Length of New Streets
1966	4	35	4,430 ft.
1967	4	57	7,135 ft.
1968	5	52	5,303 ft.
1969	5	94	9,178 ft.
1970	3	31	2,405 ft.

Reduced development activity in 1970 is believed to reflect general business conditions, prevailing high mortgage interest rates and, to some degree, the shrinking number of large blocks of desirable land available for development. Whether or not the 1970 results indicate the beginning of a downturn in the growth rate of the town cannot yet be determined. Statistics similar to those given afore should be closely watched as a guide to future planning for our school system, our town services and our capital expenditures budget, keeping in mind that these data provide a reliable forecast of the rate of growth of our tax base and concomitantly our potential municipal income.

Acting on a Planning Board recommendation, the 1970 Town Meeting approved an appropriation for review of the Town Master Plan and study of various items relating to development of our community. The Planning Board retained Charles E. Downe, Planning Consultant, to carry out the review and study and to report his findings and recommendations. The Downe report has been completed and is currently under study by the Board members. It is expected to provide valuable guidance in our planning over the next decade. Mr. Downe's conclusion is of interest. He says, in part:

> "The basic land use policies and recommendations of the 1954 Master Plan are generally sound and valid despite changes in the growth pattern of the Town which have occurred since that date. The Planning Board has revised the Plan from time to time to meet these changing conditions while still following the Plan's major policies. This procedure is, in essence, the planning process. . . . The Planning Board's adherence to this co-ordinated planning process will continue the orderly and beneficial development of Lynnfield. . . ."

Oscar S. Bray, Chairman

TOWN COUNSEL

The past year was unusually active for the Law Department. A zoning enforcement case was successfully terminated in the Supreme Judical Court, an Arbitration Award was enforced in behalf of the Elementary School Building Committee and an in-depth study of a proposed multiple-family condominium development was made for the Planning Board with a view to putting before the Town Meeting a zoning by-law amendment. A land taking by Eminent Domain for a school site and the subsequent settlement by negotiation and preparing of easements and deeds of the claim arising from the taking were all accomplished satisfactorily.

In addition, Town Counsel drew the Town's contracts, attended Board of Selectmen's meetings and the meetings of all other Town Boards upon request and furnished rulings to appropriate Officials and Boards. As has been my practice, I prepared the Articles for the Warrants for all Town Meetings and the Motions pertaining to each, exclusive of those prepared by Petitioners.

It has again been a rewarding and satisfying experience to serve the Town.

S. Peter Gorshel, Town Counsel

RECREATION COMMISSION

Throughout the year of 1970, the RECREATION COMMISSION has strived to give the community of Lynnfield a somewhat complete and diversified program of recreation.

The Committee is headed by chairman, Mr. Donald Hunt, and ably assisted by George Levey and new members Lawrence Pardo, Leonard Wescott, and Marie Harrington.

A special vote of thanks should be given to our clerk, Mrs. Dorothy Millen, who did an outstanding job throughout the entire year.

The Recreation Committee divides its programs into the Summer, Fall, Winter, and Spring Programs. The Summer Program consists of a morning instructional, play, and arts & crafts for children in Grades 1 thru 6, plus educational trips. Mr. William Rodan, Senior High School teacher and football coach, is director of the Summer program and supervises approximately 250 children per day along with eleven dedicated staff members. Weekly trips were taken to Benson's Animal Farm, New England Aquarium, Canobie Lake, North Shore Music Theater, Paragon Park, and George's Island. Each trip was chaperoned by the director of the Spring Program, the playground staff, and the arts and crafts director. The afternoon arts & crafts program was under the supervision of Miss Janet Jordan and met three times a week at each playground. The commission is very proud of Mr. Rodan for giving us an outstanding Summer Program.

The Fall, Winter, and Spring Program was directed by Mr. Robert MacLeod, Senior High School teacher. The program included Womens' physical fitness, Mens' physical fitness, high school gymnastics, Yoga, junior high gymnastics, and basketball for men and junior high school boys.

Two new programs were started this year, which we hope prove successful and enjoyable. They are tennis lessons for beginners and badminton for men.

A special Ski Clinic was presented to the community and sponsored by the Boston Globe Ski Club. A very comprehensive program of instruction for beginners was presented, including equipment definitions, movies, prizes, and professional advice on all aspects of the sport.

In September of this year, a very complete survey was put out in the Shopper's News to find out exactly what new programs the community of Lynnfield would enjoy and desire. The most startling conclusion from the survey is that most people in town are not even aware of the recreation committee or the services it makes available for the people.

We hope in this new year to be able to reach most of the people in town by active publicity and to expand the programs, now acceptable by the Town. Also, we plan to indoctrinate new programs for each and everyone that is interested.

In the meantime, the entire commission wishes everyone "Healthy Recreation Times".

Donald Hunt, Chairman
George Levey
Lawrence Pardo
Leonard Wescott
Marie Harrington
Dorothy Millen, Clerk

SEALER OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

The purpose of this department is to insure the delivery of stated weights on pre-packaged goods properly marked and priced. All weighing devices and Liquid Pumps have been checked for accuracy and corrected where necessary.

Any question of proper delivery of Bulk Fuels, cord wood, fill or loam, should be referred to this department for investigation immediately on delivery for a check.

DOG OFFICER

It was a busy year for the Dog Officer, mostly due to the number one problem of trying to create a better system of dog control in certain neighborhoods.

I have found the problems lessening to some degree, but sad to say not fast enough for my satisfaction and others concerned.

One good point is that more and more people are realizing that as nice as their pets can be they can sometimes be a nuisance to others by getting into rubbish barrels, excessive barking at inconvenient hours, ruining expensive shrubs and flowers, chasing cars (can cause acci - dents), and anything else that goes along with being a four legged sniffer.

One man's definition of a good dog is "any dog that is making his owner happy and isn't making someone else unhappy". All other facets of the Dog Officer's duties have been handled efficiently and with success.

I would like at this time to extend my thanks to the many hundreds of dog owners in Lynnfield who have cooperated with me this past year. And a very special thank you to my associates at the Town Hall who have helped measurably. And while I'm on the subject of thank yous, thank you Mrs. Cavallaro.

In closing as a safety precaution, I would like to strongly suggest to parents of school age children, please make an honest effort to restrain your dog; thus keeping them from following the children to school and causing a safety hazard around schools.

VETERANS SERVICES

Burton Cogswell
Veterans Administrator

In the past year due to a labor dispute and the general business recession in the electronics industry it was necessary for this department to ask for additional funds from the Reserve Account to carry out the program for the year ending December 31, 1970.

The veterans or dependents of veterans requests for assistance are as follows:

Permanent Cases	1
Temporary Cases (1 to 4 months)	4
Advised for V. A. applications	19
Vietnam Bonus applications	27
Others (miscellaneous)	12

All veterans graves were inspected and found to be in good condition and as usual were decorated with an American Flag and a flowered geranium for Memorial Day; as in the past years this custom was carried out by Post 131 American Legion, Lynnfield.

At this time I would like to thank all persons and town departments who so generously contributed their time and efforts throughout the year to make this program the success that it is.

Burton B. Cogswell,
Veterans Service Director

CIVIL DEFENSE

Fortunately Civil Defense was not required to react to any emergency natural disaster situation in Lynnfield during the year 1970. However, normal training sessions and routine activity kept all phases of the Civil Defense groups active. Under the direction of Fire Chief Bob Desmond the Auxiliary Fire Department was re-organized and a new training officer appointed. Many long hours are given to the town by the Auxiliary Fire Department men, on an unpaid basis, in assisting the regular Call men.

The Auxiliary Police were unfortunate in that Chief Frank Pagano, after eleven years as Chief, tendered his resignation effective January 1, 1971. Frank has served in the Auxiliary Police unit for over 16 years in various capacities. His many years of voluntary service to the Town of Lynnfield are commendable and will not be forgotten.

The Communications Unit each month held their regular training sessions and completed the monthly communication messages sent between State, Area, Sector and the local C.D. organization. In a natural disaster communications by radio is the most effective means of survival when all other communication has failed.

An expression of appreciation on behalf of the Town of Lynnfield is extended to all of the citizens who participated in the various Civil Defense units to complete a well trained and effective organization in an emergency situation.

Lawrence E. Austin,
Civil Defense Director

CONSERVATION COMMISSION

"Lynn Fieldes"—or Reedy Meadow, as we now call the broad marsh that gave our town its name—absorbed much of your Conservation Commission's attention in 1970. The conservation plan for Lynnfield, based on the Town's Master Plan, focuses our attention on three areas; Bow Ridge, off Route 1; the Beaverdam Brook watershed, north of Main Street; and Reedy Meadow. The town already owns important conservation lands—roughly 35 to 50 acres in each of these areas—but there is much more to be done.

Maintenance and improvement programs on town conservation lands have been carried forward through the year. The most visible of these programs was in the Beaverdam Brook Conservation Area. Trails were improved, a well was driven and additional plantings were made.

In addition to the work on conservation land the Town now owns, your Commission also carried forward its long-term program of land acquisition in all three of these important areas. Reedy Meadow, however, with over 400 acres, is presently the area which promises to yield the best likelihood of success.

Our most exciting achievement was the result of many years' work. Through the long-term cooperative efforts of Cabot, Cabot & Forbes, the Massachusetts Audubon Society, the Town of Wakefield, and the Lynnfield Conservation Commission, approximately 75 acres of Reedy Meadow has been donated for conservation purposes. Approximately 50 acres lying in Wakefield has been given to the Audubon Society, and the 25 acres lying in Lynnfield has been given to the Town. The gift is doubly significant. It includes the portion of Reedy Meadow that is used most intensively: the catwalk by the power line, and the old sandpit where the pond is. Equally important, the land forms a border around most of the industrial park and the Wakefield area now zoned for apartments (formerly Pleasure Island), effectively ending any consideration that the industrial area might spread into Reedy Meadow. We consider this gift an impressive demonstration of public spirit by Cabot, Cabot & Forbes.

Our major activity in 1970 also concerned Reedy Meadow. We have negotiated an agreement for purchase of a tract of approximately forty acres off Main Street. Four or five acres of this are high ground including a fifty-foot wide access strip from Main Street, and a high knoll—a fine example of glacial drumlin. The parcel also includes a white cedar swamp at the edge of the marsh, and Partridge Island, known to old-time Lynnfield residents as the best place to find Indian artifacts. Most of the land is marsh, part of the floor plain of Beaverdam Brook and the Saugus River.

The agreement calls for purchase of the forty-acre tract for $30,000. The Conservation Commission has applied for 50% reimbursement from the Commonwealth under the "Self-Help Act." We have previously obtained these self-help funds every time we have applied; we are hopeful of success this time as well.

This matter will appear on the Warrant for the March 1971 Town Meeting. The Conservation Commission earnestly solicits your support for the acquisition of these lands, important as they are to the maintenance of the ecological balance of the Town.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Rubbish collection has increased about 400% in the past few months due to the no-burning law. To offset this expected increase a Special Town Meeting was held in May to petition the Town to vote additional funds for a weekly pick-up for the remainder of the year. However, the petition was turned down by the Town. This year the contract will call for every week pick-up.

We wish to bring to the attention of the people that dogs are still running loose and creating havoc with the rubbish, and that they should respect the dog-restraint law. Also, if no garbage or particles of food were in the rubbish containers, the chances of being molested by dogs would be very slight.

Rubbish should be on the street by 7 a.m. of the scheduled day for collection; if it is not out on time, the contractor cannot return to pick it up. Any complaints should be made to the Board of Health office between 9 a.m. and noon Monday through Friday.

The annual clinics were held in the Spring by Dr. Robinson with the assistance of Mrs. Jean Taylor, our Public Health nurse. The response to these clinics was much larger than in recent years.

A rabies clinic will be held in the Spring. Residents are reminded that all dogs must be licensed and that the dogs must be inoculated against rabies before a license can be issued.

GAS INSPECTOR

In the year 1970 there were 96 applications for gas permits. 36 permits were issued for new homes, 31 permits were issued for alteration of existing gas appliances, 15 permits were issued for new gas installations of existing homes, 12 permits were issued for L.P. gas installations, 2 permits for restaurants, and 1 permit for commercial building.

BOARD OF REGISTRARS

The Registrars had one of their busiest years with 585 registrations for both the State and Local elections. New voting lists for Precinct 1 and 2 were prepared and printed for use at the elections and town meetings. The 1970 Street Listing Books were printed and made available June 1. This year's street listings should be ready for distrubtion on or about May 1 at the Town Clerk's office.

The 1970 registration figures and Town population as of 1 January 1970 are:

Precinct	Democrat	Republican	Independent
1	392	1240	1310
2	670	1015	1153

Total - 5,780

Population - July 1, 1970 11,305.

There have been two major changes in the voter registration laws during 1970 which affect the voters of Lynnfield.

1. Voting Age For Federal elections the voting age has been lowered to 18, by the Federal Voting Rights Acts Amendments of 1970. For State and Local elections, the voting age has been lowered to 19.
2. Residency The one year state residency law has been changed to six months, which is now the same as the Town Residency law.

It is suggested that all persons who have reached the age of 18 and meet the six months residency requirements register at the Town Clerk's office.

PERSONNEL BOARD

1970 was a year of considerable activity for your Personnel Board. The Board concerned itself with wage and salary administration and recommendations for the Town and acted as representatives of the Town in negotiating the Union contract with the County and Municipal Employees Union, Local # 262.

The Board also designed a system for consolidation and centralization of personnel records. This system is still in the preliminary stages of development but such a system is necessary today in the best interests of the Town and its employees. The Board will request assistance in this project from Department Heads and hopes to have all Department Heads participate in the establishment of a permenent personnel records system and procedure.

In 1971, the Board will continue to develop this record system and will also consider a new dual wage and salary structure, so that hourly, clerical, technical, and supervisory positions will be classified into a wage structure that considers the different job factors inherent in all positions. This dual system would require a review of all current job descriptions and positions in the Town. This task may be undertaken on a piecemeal basis.

This represents a small glimpse of the Personnel Board's activities in 1970 and some of its goals for 1971. The Board will continue to be responsive to the needs of the Town and its employees, and welcomes any comments or recommendations concerning personnel activities from the Town's citizenry.

DRAINAGE COMMITTEE

HISTORY AND FUNCTION. Formed by the Selectmen in March of 1966, the Drainage Committee continues to function on the basis of individual specific assignments from the Board. This function is informal, sporadic, and without power of enforcement. It is advisory, usually through reports to the Board of Selectmen.

The committee works without compensation, budget, or funds. Surveys are minimal; greatly facilitated by the Town's 1968 topographic maps. Henceforth, and already effective, the November 1970 drainage maps of the entire town will be beneficial in expediting more reliable data in report findings.

Usually the chairman works unilaterally but harmoniously, for reasons of expediency as explained in the May 1 report to the Board.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONTROL ADVISORY COMMITTEE

This new committee is believed to be the first of its kind in Massachusetts. It was set up to advise the selectmen on any and all areas in the town environment capable of being controlled to promote the general health or welfare of the citizens of the town. The problems facing this committee are complex and can be solved only with the co-operation of all other town government boards and committees. The Board of Selectmen empower the committee to act on those recommended programs it feels may be desirable.

The committee recently submitted recommendations to the Board of Selectmen on the immediate problems of leaf collection and disposal caused by the statewide ban on burning. The committee is currently working on proposed additions to the town By-Laws and other means to control pollution and degradation or destruction of our local environment. We have spent much effort investigating the problems connected with non-returnable bottles and other containers and hope to propose a viable solution to this pressing problem.

This committee recommended the inclusion of two students of Lynnfield High among its members in order to help elicit suggestions and help from the young people of our town.

The co-operation of all citizens is essential for the accomplishment of objectives in the pioneering efforts of this committee.

CAPITAL BUDGET COMMITTEE

The Captial Budget Committee studies capital outlay expenditures needs, especially those over a three to five year period. Recommendations concerning such are made to the Board of Selectmen.

Last year's departments were surveyed for their projected capital expenditures over a five year period. The committee made recommendations for the 1970 capital expenditures based on responses to this survey request, present inventory, and our judgement of departments need and ability to utilize equipment. The survey will again be updated early in 1971 prior to the Town Meeting for use by the Finance Committee and Selectmen.

The committee has recommended this year a capital outlay expenditure for a traffic light system at Walnut and Salem Streets. The system we suggested was somewhat less complex than the original state recommended system.

We completed in 1970 a capital outlay study for weekly refuse pickup by the town and a study of capital outlay for refuse disposal. Both have been submitted to the Board of Selectmen.

The committee hopes to update our inventory accounts in 1971 and possibly place such on magnetic storage tapes. We will consult with the Computer Committee concerning this.

Memorial Day at Willow Cemetery

This year the Memorial Day Parade was formed at the South end of town. After services at Willow Cemetery, the marchers returned to the South Hall, where they disbanded. From there everyone went to the Junior High School where services were continued because of rain. We wish to thank the many Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownies, Camp Fire Girls, Blue Birds, their leaders, the Servicemen, former Servicemen, Police, Town Officials, and the Lynnfield High School Band for making the Parade a success. We also wish to thank Mr. Robert Peabody, Mr. William Bratten, Mr. Richard Weeks and Mr. John Duggan for their continued help.

STREET LIGHTING COMMITTEE

Colonial Lighting on Cooks Farm Lane

Colonial Lighting at Town Hall Parking Lot

Twenty-three complaints relative to street lighting were investigated, and recommendations made to the Selectmen.

Plans were drawn for lighting the Town Hall parking lot with Colonial-type mercury vapor luminaires, and a portion of it was implemented in 1970.

Similar lighting is now in operation on Cooks Farm Lane and Cortland Lane. The bases and underground wires for these units were installed by the developer during road construction at a considerable saving to the Town. Compared to rented lighting, each of these Colonial luminaires will return a yearly dividend to the Town of about $25 for many years.

INSURANCE COMMITTEE

The Insurance Committee serves as an impartial source of advice to the Selectmen on matters related to the Town's insurance program. The committee has responsibility for assisting the Selectmen with matters related to insurance coverages protecting the Town's property, liability suits, against the Town, and personal insurance benefits for Town employees.

The principle of competitive bidding on the Towns insurance program instituted by the Selectmen with the advice and counsel of the committee has resulted in savings to the Town during the past six years. However, as time passes on, the Town's insurance budget can only increase as the Town owns more property and payrolls increase.

SCHOOL PLANT NEEDS COMMITTEE

The Committee sponsored an Article in the Warrant for the 1970 Town Meeting calling for the appointment of a Secondary School Building Committee, and for funds for use of the Committee to obtain preliminary plans, sketches and cost estimates for construction of additions to the Senior High School. The Article was approved and funds were allocated for the task. The work of the Secondary School Building Committee is in process.

As has been previously reported by the School Plant Needs Committee, the school enrollment continues to grow due to new home construction and the influx of new families to Lynnfield. While this growth alone will eventually overload existing facilities, the requirement by the State Board of Education to establish a public kindergarten by the Fall of 1973 make the provision of additional classrooms a necessity.

The activity of the Committee during 1970 has been limited to analysis of population and school enrollment data. Projections of class room needs have been made for the present system, and for the proposed elementary, middle and four-year high school organization. The activities of the Secondary School Building Committee have been monitored.

It is hoped that the Town will react favorably to the proposed High School addition plan, which is a keystone to the orderly expansion of the School plant to meet anticipated growth. In the event plans change, the School Plant Needs Committee must react to provide alternate proposals to meet the needs of the School Department.

FIRE DEPARTMENT STUDY COMMITTEE

The Fire Department Study Committee which was appointed by the Board of Selectmen in May, 1969 to study various Fire Department organizational alternatives in respect to cost and degree of protection, made its recommendations at the Town Meeting in March, 1970. Following favorable Town Meeting action to appoint a full-time Fire Chief and at the request of the Board of Selectmen, the committee drew up gross requirements for a full-time Fire Chief. Additionally the committee was requested to find a competent authority to make up an examination for the position of a full-time Fire Chief and to administer the same. The committee recommended Mr. Joseph A. O'Keefe, Coordinator of Fire Science Programs, Massachusetts Board of Regional Community Colleges. The Selectmen adopted our recommendation. Subsequently Mr. Robert J. Desmond was appointed Lynnfield Fire Chief by the Selectmen, effective September 20, 1970.

The committee has met several times with Chief Desmond to discuss our report, department affairs, and to confer with him on plans for the future. Members of the committee note with satisfaction the general improvement in the Lynnfield Fire Department. It is the hope of this committee that the Town will support Chief Desmond in his efforts to upgrade the Fire Department of the Town of Lynnfield.

Having fulfilled our charge the committee has been dissolved by action of the Board of Selectmen.

MUNICIPAL LAND ACQUISITION COMMITTEE

This committee was appointed by the Board of Selectmen in July 1965 to investigate and recommend to the Selectmen possible land acquisition for the future needs of the town.

Investigation has been made of certain lands suitable for disposal of waste and two possible locations have been found. These were reported to the Selectmen with the suggestion that the Board of Health look them over to see if they would serve their purpose.

The Highway Department, located behind the Town Hall and adjacent to the residential property on Parsons Avenue, is occupying land that will be needed for other purposes as the town grows. One possibility is the erection of a series of well designed homes for the aged utilizing the Pearson property now owned by the town as well as adjoining property now under negotiation. A convenient area of nearly 16 acres has been found in an undeveloped location that is considered to be suitable for the Highway Department and this committee has strongly recommended to the Selectmen that this be purchased now for future use with the possibility of including the Tree and Parks & Cemetery Departments in this area as well. This committee is currently obtaining a professional appraisal of this tract of land so that an article can be inserted in the next Annual Town Meeting Warrant recommending its purchase.

This committee also serves on the Pillings Pond Acquisition Study Committee under the chairmanship of Mr. James Fuller. The pond presents problems that we hope can be surmounted so that the town can enjoy a clean recreation area in the future.

The area along Summer and Main Streets from the Town Hall to the Junior High School consisting of 43 ½ acres is mostly town property. The Haskel property of 7 acres is of historic value and it is recommended that it be preserved as such. The remaining 3 ¾ acres of privately owned land has been recommended for eventual acquisition by the town.

Property in Lynnfield continues to be in demand and costs continue to increase. This committee is of the opinion that land for future town needs should be acquired now for economic reasons.

DATA PROCESSING COMMITTEE

The Data Processing Committee was formed in July, 1970 and consists of four regular and four ex-officio members. The intent for the first six months was for the committee to organize, talk with each of the ex-officio members, and begin discussions with data processing organizations.

A series of meetings were held in the six month period. The format of the first four meetings consisted of a discussion with one of the ex-officio members who represented one of the administrative segments of town government. In carrying out these meetings, the committee gained insight into the data processing procedures of the tax collection, assessing, town accounting, payroll, census taking, and street listings. It was obvious from these discussions that the data processing needs of the above areas varied widely. Some of the above areas need electronic data processing, others mechanical data processing, and still others should remain in the manual data processing mode.

Having discussed each area in committee, the next step was to decide the means of an in-depth analysis in each area. In order to carry out such an analysis, a person or group of persons must study the daily activities of each area as they are happening. This type of analysis could not be accomplished by the committee itself, however, the committee can direct and analyze the results of such a study. Therefore, the committee began discussions with data processing consultant groups.

These groups vary widely in their knowledge of municipal data processing. For instance, some of them specialize in town payroll, in census taking, and still others in tax billing. Almost any bank in the Lynnfield area will process a town payroll. However, it is the feeling of your data processing committee that segmenting each data processing function to a different source would be costly, inefficient, and inflexible. Likewise the outright purchase of a computer for the town does not appear to be the answer. The committee is, therefore, attempting to hold discussions with data processing consultants who can assess the entire data processing needs of the town. It is hoped that such a study, after evaluation by the committee, will result in cost effective data processing in the near future and a data processing plan for the next five years.

The data processing committee has spent no town monies in its first six months of operation.

PILLINGS POND ACQUISITION STUDY COMMITTEE

Here you see the beginning of the end, unless you, the people of Lynnfield care enough!! What you see in these pictures, are not stones, rocks, or etc. It is Pollution!!

This committee was formed on August 29, 1969. Much research took place by various members who came to the conclusion professional help was needed. In March, 1970 at the Town Meeting, the Tax Payers voted $1500.00 for the professional help. This vote showed, without a doubt, that the Townspeople, as a whole, were concerned with this serious problem of Polluted Water, that it was not just the abutters to the Pond. The Townspeople realized it is affecting the whole town.

Upon receiving the $1500.00, we acquired the services of S.E.A. Consultants Inc., 90 Canal St., Boston, who in our estimation, did an excellent job.

On Friday, May 16th, S.E.A. started with Depth Findings. They found the water reached a maximum of 72 inches at or near the dam on Summer St. The main body of the Pond depth varies from between 55 to 65 inches.

On June 15th, test borings began to determine the type of soil beneath the Pond. They found decomposing vegetable matter and a layer of peat which are influencing the decline of the Pond's water. The ability of fish to survive in such a medium is almost impossible. This being one of the reasons for many dead fish that were found floating on the top of the water, which had to be retrieved and buried to deter the obnoxious odors.

On June 22nd, bacteria tests were taken. We found that pollutants and sewage are being absorbed by the Pond. Pollutants from a stream coming from West Peabody are entering the Pond. Boards of Health of the State, Town of Lynnfield, and Peabody were notified of the existing conditions.

In essence, what the S.E.A. Consultants found was that the pond is dying due largely to lack of depth and pollutants from streams and cesspools.

The Committee has reported all findings to date to the Board of Selectmen. It hopes by town meeting time, to have a solution to abate the unhealthy condition that exists in the Pond. The Committee will continue to work on this serious situation and will remain a Committee dedicated to the preservation of a clean, healthy, and useful Pond.

I, as Chairman of this Committee, would at this time like to thank each and everyone of them who gave of their valuable time and assistance. The Town is indeed fortunate to have such staunch citizens working in their behalf. It has been a pleasure to serve with them.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

For decades Americans have become conditioned to pay more Town, County, State and Federal taxes each year. It is commonly known that in Massachusetts the property owner carries a disproportionate share of the total tax burden, and this is particularly true in Lynnfield where approximately 94% of our tax revenue is paid by the private home owner.

Our 1970 tax rate is $41.60 compared to $28.00 in 1967, a 48.5% increase. As we approach 1971, the phrase "belt tightening" is replacing other household words and becoming a beacon for government spending at all levels.

Your Finance Committee will continue to be concerned for the elderly on fixed incomes, the young on new incomes, and the large middle citizenry, all of whom are caught up in inflation, higher taxes, and the desire for necessary services. Our objective is to maintain a stable tax rate and in order to do so, we urge each of you to become involved in deciding how you want your tax money spent and how much.

We are deeply grateful to all Town officials and citizens for their continued cooperation and constructive suggestions throughout this past year.

The Committee has remained relatively inactive during 1970 because of its desire to avoid duplication of effort with the Town Charter Commission. Hence, the Committee has met with the Charter Commission but has not prepared any by-laws for presentation to the Town. At that time, the Committee will meet, plan and commence its work.

LOW COST HOUSING FOR THE ELDERLY STUDY COMMITTEE

Senior Citizens Housing at Manchester

The following is the report of the Low Cost Housing for the Elderly Study Committee as required for the town report.

This committee presented its findings at a special town meeting, held on May 11, 1970, and it did not meet with favor from the assembled voters being defeated by six votes. The conclusion was drawn that further study should be made and another article submitted at the annual town meeting in March of 1971.

Five committee meetings were held in 1970 and three meetings with the Board of Selectmen. The committee was represented on two occasions with the Finance Committee. Arrangements are being made with the committees of two comparable towns in the Commonwealth; one of these towns have had, approved by the voters of that town, housing for the elderly and the other town is to act on an article for housing for the elderly at their annual meeting in March, 1971.

It is the findings of the Lynnfield Committee that housing for the elderly is needed and should be accepted by the town at the next annual meeting.

It is with that thought in mind that this committee hopes to present a more comprehensive report for the town's approval in March, 1971.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS BUILDING COMMITTEE

The additions at both the Huckleberry Hill School and the Summer Street School have been in full operation this past year and have functioned well.

As this year ends, some work on the site development remains to be done at both schools. It is planned to complete this work in the spring.

The Committee was deeply saddened in September by the loss of its Chairman, Walter Kuestenmacher. Mr. Kuestenmacher devoted countless hours of dedicated service on many school projects over the past 20 years. His passing is a great loss to the Town as well as to this Committee.

HISTORICAL COMMISSION and the HISTORIC DISTRICT STUDY COMMITTEE

The Historical Commission is an on-going Town commission appointed by the Selectmen with five members, with broad objectives concerning the history of the Town. It is also charged with surveying and designating sites and structures which are of historical and/or architectural significance to the Town. It is also empowered to protect and preserve these sites and structures when it appears that their existence is threatened or that it is otherwise desireable to protect them. It was with these ideas in mind that, in 1969, the Commission recommended to the Selectmen that they consider the creation of an Historic District for the area in the center around the Old Meeting House. At that time the disposition of the Haskell House and its adjoining property was in doubt. In fact, shortly thereafter, two parcels of land were included in a rezoning article brought to town meeting vote. The Selectmen agreed that some form of protection for this area should be looked into and in June, 1969 appointed under chapter 40c of the Massachusetts General Laws, an Historic District Study Committee. At that time it was noted that some twenty cities and towns in the Commonwealth had Districts and several others were under consideration. Several members of the Historical Commission were appointed to the Study Committee to facilitate communication between the two Committees.

In January, 1970, the Study Committee filed its preliminary report with the Planning Board and the Selectmen, as well as various state agencies as required under the law. A copy was also made available to the public library. The report described the location, history, and significance of the area around the Meeting House and short segments of Main Street, Summer Street, and all of South Common Street. It pointed out that Lynnfield's population is increasing and with it so are pressures to change and modify one of the most beautiful and Historic areas in this area. One has only to drive to neighboring towns to see what apathy and the worst forms of commercialism have done to what were once charming town squares. In fact, some spokesman for towns adjoining Lynnfield, said they envied us, that it was perhaps too late for them but not for us. Unfortunately, the pressures to develop commercial and non -residential uses exist in Lynnfield as elsewhere. It can not be emphasized too much that existing zoning laws do not protect the appearance of an area, only that they control the uses for which buildings are employed.

There has been much support for the Historic District Concept among the townspeople as well as some concerted opposition. The discussion prior to the special town meeting in May, 1970 was often marked by more heat than light. Because of a defective hearing notice the Article establishing a District never came to a vote. Furthermore, the Study Committee feels that the Town still requires the opportunity to learn and discuss rationally the merits of a District, before the subject is brought to a vote. The work that has been done can form the basis for future work, and indeed the proposal is subject to modification. Since the original report, some property has or is in the process of changing hands, and the interests of these new owners will be considered.

The Historical Commission, while relatively dormant during the work of the Study Committee, now feels that the Town should be preparing for some activities and recognition of the two-hundreth anniversary of the Revolutionary War and the founding of this Country. It should be noted that Lynnfield, or Lynn End as it was known at that time played not an insignificant role and sent several of its sons to Lexington and Concord.

The Commissions would like to thank all those who have encouraged us and aided us with their support.

WIRE INSPECTOR & SUPERVISOR OF FIRE ALARM

1970 was a busy year for your Wire Inspector & Supervisor of Fire Alarm. 241 permits were issued which required over 500 inspections. This included some call-backs on defective work.

Three large electrical inspections were made this year. The Golf-O-Mat, Johnny Carson's Restaurant, and the new automobile agency, all on Route 1.

Checks were made on several fires from electrical causes and instructions given to property owners concerning the necessary repairs.

Fire Alarm maintenance continued all through the year. Lines were installed in several developments by the developers and then tied into the Town's fire alarm system by our line crew.

A fire alarm box was destroyed in the King James Grant area caused by vandalism. Another box was damaged by a snow blower which accidentally hit the box, putting the box out of service for a short period of time. In both cases the boxes were back in service in a minimum amount of time.

New crossarms and one run of line wire has been installed on Main Street, up Lowell Street to Chestnut and Lowell. This coming spring and summer we hope to split up Circuit 5 making it of a more practical nature.

Material has been purchased for installation of red lights over fire alarm boxes. Some lights have already been installed and are ready to be connected by the Utilities. Additional lights will be installed this winter and spring. The purpose of the red lights is to show there is a fire alarm box at the specific location.

To date this year we have had only one break in the fire alarm circuit. On December 17, due to a severe snow and rain storm, a wire snapped in the Apple Hill area. Service was restored promptly.

During 1970 daily inspections were made of the fire alarm switchboard and results logged. Weekly inspection of 5 fire alarm boxes was made and results also logged.

Your Supervisor of Fire Alarm continually requests the use of a truck driver and 2 linemen in addition to himself for maintenance of the fire alarm system. From a safety standpoint, it is essential that 2 linemen be utilized plus the truck driver when installing or maintaining fire alarm equipment.

Again, I would like to request the townspeople report any lines down for any reason to the Police who in turn will contact the proper authorities. Don't forget, any wire lying on the ground can be lethal!

ANIMAL INSPECTOR

Gustav H. Koch

The past year has seen an improvement in dog control observation, but some owners still do not try to comply. The number of animals purchased for protection from intruders has increased greatly and some of these have caused problems.

The number of small animals has increased and the nocturnal visitors to the garbage cans are annoying and the useful digging of lawns by skunks for grubs does not please the owner of a good lawn.

After a long absence of Red Foxes, they now are becoming numerous again in our woods. A word to parents to explain to their children that any wild animal that they can approach and pick up are sick and potentially dangerous. Three incidents were reported in 1970. The heads were taken to the laboratories for tests. All were negative but the waiting period for the results of the test caused much anxiety.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

School Committee: Barbara Tufts, William J. Schultz, Chairman, Robert F. Weiss, Thomas E. Devaney, Bernard A. Huntley, Superintendent of Schools, Arthur E. Foulds

In the succeeding pages of this portion of the Annual Report are presented the individual reports of the Superintendent of Schools, Director of Curriculum, Principals and Specialists of our Lynnfield Schools. We believe their reports are worthy of your careful attention for they reflect the goals, aims, aspirations and accomplishments of the professional staff as well as presenting many of the problems confronting our educational system. It is the intent of this School Committee Report to touch only on the highlights of the past year.

Each year there is one salient aspect of our school operations that overshadows all others. This year, it is again the need for increased school plant due to continued growth of the Town. This need was recognized by vote of the 1970 March Town Meeting, and a committee established to prepare preliminary plans and estimates for an addition to the Senior High School. To assist this committee in its work, the School Committee engaged the firm of Hill, Miller, Friedlaender, Hollander, Incorporated, architects and educational planners, to prepare the educational specifications and design criteria for the proposed addition. The results of this work are contained in the report "Planning for Change," available at the Town Library.

This report would not be complete without recognizing the long and invaluable service rendered by the late Walter Kuestenmacher whose leadership and perseverance have resulted in many well planned and constructed school buildings.

The Town continues to have just cause to be proud of the interest, support and effort of its citizens in educational matters. This is manifested not only by the Town's outstanding monetary support, but also by the countless parents and other citizens who devote many hours to bettering our schools. The Committee is grateful for these efforts.

As a measure of the success of our school system, Lynnfield students continue to achieve distinction when in competition with other students, or when compared with other standards. This is true in science fairs, athletic contests or achievement testing. In this year's graduating class, approximately twice the national average planned to continue their education, with 45% going on to four year degree granting colleges. In addition, thirty three members of the senior class were elected to the National Honor Society and ten were commended by the National Merit Scholarship Board.

The School Committee's most difficult task is to establish a budget which provides adequately for continuing the excellent school system demanded by the townspeople and yet keep costs within bounds. Many hours are spent negotiating with representatives of the Lynnfield Teachers' Association and the State Council for State, County and Municipal Employees to establish wages and working conditions. Careful consideration is given to all budget requests so that the budget will reflect a proper balance of salaries, expenses and capital investment. The cooperation and assistance of the Finance Committee and the Personnel Board are most appreciated.

School Committee meetings are held regularly on the first and third Mondays of each month and townspeople are cordially invited to attend.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

Dr. Bernard A. Huntley
Superintendent of Schools

As your Superintendent of Schools, it is my pleasure once again to provide this report on the progress of your Lynnfield schools during the past year. I shall, in this portion of our report, try to comment on several matters of interest and importance to the citizens and taxpayers of our community, leaving the elaborative detail on specific programs and school activities to be covered in the individual reports which follow. It is hoped that through a review of the total school report the reader will gain a greater understanding of the many complex factors which contribute to our overall goal of providing optimum educational opportunity for each pupil in our charge.

School Costs: In these days of continued inflation accompanied by a major slow-down in the economy, I would like to discuss the cost of education as a first consideration in this report for, as is appreciated by all, the support of our schools represents the major public expenditure within every community. Specifically, I would like to address myself to the question of what the school administration is doing to keep school expenditures at a minimum consistent with the kind of quality educational program expected by the citizens of Lynnfield.

As an initial response to this question I would state that there is much that the school administration can do and is doing to keep school costs from galloping ahead and, further, that there is concrete evidence that these efforts are bearing results. It may come as a surprise to some, but in actuality only 20% of the total school budget is subject to administrative economies, for a full 80% of the total school costs are reflected in the salary decisions made by the town citizens elected to serve on the School Committee. They must annually attempt to make salary decisions of a most complex sort, reflecting a concern for impact on the tax dollar, fairness to individuals facing continued increases in the cost of living, and, also, they must ensure that Lynnfield maintain its ability to attract and maintain qualified professional personnel in competition with other communities in the area. The process by which this is accomplished is greatly affected, of course, by the provisions of State statutes which authorize and govern collective bargaining by public employees. The negotiations between the School Committee and the Lynnfield Teachers Association alone, for example, extended from October 1969 through September 1970 before an agreement was reached and, due to a stalemate, required the services of both a fact finder and, subsequently, a State appointed mediator in resolving the salary dispute. In addition to the teachers, the School Committee must establish salaries for a great many other personnel including school administrators, nurses, clerical help, custodians, cafeteria employees, school aides, coaches of athletics and other extra-curricular activities, supervisors, department heads, etc., all of which collectively equal over 80% of our operational budget. Increases granted in these salary areas, plus the addition of new personnel, accounted for a cost increase of $264,128 or 11.4% over the previous year. When one considers that the total 1970 budget increase amounted to 16.6% over 1969, it can be seen that most of the added expenses of school operation are attributable to personnel costs.

The remaining 20% of the budget which covers all non-salary areas represents those items most amenable to careful economies in preparation and review by the school administration and subsequent decision by the School Committee. In this respect I believe that it is somewhat of an achievement to report that in those segments of the budget which we might term as instructional costs (school supplies and materials, library services, curriculum development, acquisition of equipment, athletics, custodial supplies) our budget increased only 2.2%, despite a continued pupil enrollment increase and higher costs of materials.

When one adds to this,other increases represented by higher utilities costs, increased transportation charges, a replacement bus, and more money for a labor consultant for collective bargaining, and new costs associated with the first full year of operation for additions to both the Huckleberry Hill and Summer Street Schools, the total increase for this non-salary area of the school budget was 5.2% over the costs of the previous years. It is submitted that an increase of 5.2% does represent careful economy by your school system, particularly so when our costs for instructional materials continue to rise and, most importantly, more pupils (4.5% in 1969) continue to be added to our system each succeeding year. Further efforts at prudent reduction of operational costs have similarly permeated our preparation of the coming 1971 school budget.

Before leaving the subject of school costs, I would like to mention that in April 1970 the Lynnfield schools participated in the special task force study on school expenditures authorized by the Massachusetts Advisory Council on Education. Mr. Albert J. McNulty, Comptroller of the Boston Edison Company, and Mr. Charles Bogart of the Prudential Life Insurance Company represented the Task Force in visiting Lynnfield and reviewed in detail such aspects of school operation as accounting practices, purchasing, data processing, general administrative procedures, school transportation, insurance, lunch program, building operation and maintenance, space utilization, facilities planning, and attendance services. While many helpful suggestions were shared during the visit, we were pleased to see that our overall management practices were reflective of the approaches being advocated by the Task Force. The summary report of this study group, Report of the Massachusetts Business Task Force for School Management, was published in September, 1970.

School Enrollment: Our September opening enrollment was 2975 pupils, which represented a gain of approximately 2% over the previous year. If this increase could have been distributed evenly over the entire twelve grades it would have had far less impact on our operation as well as instructional costs, but such was not the case. Our Senior High School, for example, experienced a sharp increase of 6.5% over the year before, while the Junior High School increased approximately 2%. For the first time in many years there was no increase on the elementary level. In applying this data to a consideration of school space, we find that both of our secondary schools are close to the maximum design capacity of their buildings, while eleven of the twelve new elementary classrooms added in 1969 are presently being fully utilized.

School Facilities Planning: This report will not attempt to provide a full review of the background information leading up to the present proposal for an addition to the Senior High School, for this has been outlined in detail in earlier publications. Reference is made briefly, however, to the 1969 Study on Organization of the Lynnfield Schools which concluded that, from both an educational as well as an economic point of view, it made the most sense to add sufficient space to the High School to permit it to accommodate its increased enrollment while at the same time changing to a full four year high school. Linked in with this planning was the conversion of the present Junior High School to a middle school composed of pupils in grades 6, 7 and 8, without major changes to the present building, thereby also freeing sufficient space in our present elementary schools to provide for the addition of kindergartens by 1973 as required by State mandate. Copies of this study are available from the Town Library for those who may wish to review the rationale for this planning in greater detail.

In following through with the implementation of this plan, a Senior High School Addition Building Committee was authorized at the last annual Town Meeting, charged with assembling preliminary plans and cost estimates for subsequent consideration by the Town. This process is currently underway and a progress report is contained elsewhere in this publication. Our school department has been extensively involved during the past year in developing tentative educational specifications and attendant space needs to be considered in this planning. In furthering this effort we utilized the consultant services of Hill, Miller, Friedlaender, Hollander, Incorporated, Architects and Educational Planners, of Cambridge, Massachusetts, and the summary data resulting from this effort is contained in a special report "Planning for Change: Educational Specifications and Design Criteria for a Proposed Addition to the Lynnfield High School," issued in November 1970, copies of which are also available from the Town Library. Through these extensive efforts we hope to provide a solid base of knowledge by which the citizens of Lynnfield will be able to make sound judgments in providing for our growing needs for additional school space.

School Personnel: One of the most important ways in which a superintendent may make a positive contribution to the quality of an educational program is through the selection of qualified and effective teachers. The major activity carried on by this office in the spring months stems from this effort, with from 20 to 30 teachers having to be selected for the coming September. Most of those chosen replace teachers lost through normal attrition due to marriage, family reasons, husbands being transferred, teachers returning to school for a graduate degree, or through retirement. This year 31 new teachers were hired from a field of approximately 1,000 candidates. With such a large pool from which to choose one would expect those selected to be better qualified than the usual beginning teacher, and such is the case. One fourth of this group already possessed an advanced graduate degree upon coming to Lynnfield, and the average teaching experience factor was 2½ years. Slightly over one-half of the new teachers were graduates of private institutions, with the rest graduating from state universities and teacher training colleges. (Of incidental interest: 40% are married, 60% are females, and the average age is 28). Beyond basic professional qualifications, we place a high degree of emphasis upon obtaining individuals who have an understanding and liking for young people and, also, who have demonstrated teaching ability. We have every reason to believe that Lynnfield is continuing to select an above-average teaching staff.

School Programs: Education, as in any endeavor, must strive to move forward always in the light of changing needs and new knowledge. This process must be on-going if we are not to stagnate, and your Lynnfield schools advanced on several important fronts during the past year, both in the improvement of the present instructional program and in the addition of needed new programs. While these are all described in greater detail in other sections of this report, particularly in the Curriculum Director's summary, I wish to cite a few important advances. Our developing health curriculum is important in this respect, for we have placed a great deal of emphasis on re-vitalizing our total health program, including a concern for sequential instruction in drug-abuse education. One substantial gain was the provision of a full-time health teacher on the senior high school level and the establishment of a comprehensive required health course for all students entering the 10th grade.

This year also saw the addition of a reading teacher in the Senior High School, thus accomplishing the goal of full developmental and remedial reading services throughout all grade levels. As many parents know, some of our pupils continue to need instruction in reading beyond the elementary level, and there is nothing which bears a closer relationship to success in other subject areas than the ability to read efficiently and with comprehension.

We were pleased to be able to offer a Title I pre-school program during the 1970 summer, thus helping many students get off to a better start in the first grade. This popular new program was entirely supported by a $12,000 grant from the Federal government, and we are in hopes of repeating it for the coming year.

Our membership in Project SEEM (Special Education of Education Mutual) continues to benefit those Lynnfield pupils in need of special education. In this project the special educational services of the seven member communities (Lynnfield, Reading, North Reading, Wilmington, Woburn, Stoneham, and Winchester) are made jointly available, thus providing a significant expansion of specialized services beyond what any one community might be able to establish.

In conclusion, may I again encourage the reader to review the comprehensive material contained in the subsequent sections of this school report, for it does provide a broad overview of the present concerns and activities of your Lynnfield schools. While the education of a child is a total process involving all of his waking hours, his formal schooling plays an extremely important role in developing the knowledge, skills, and habits of behavior necessary to fulfill his role in future life. This charge is both awesome and demanding of the best we can provide. I pledge nothing less from all who work in furthering the education of our Lynnfield youth.

Dr. Bernard A. Huntley,
Superintendent of Schools

CURRICULUM

Gilbert F. Bulley, Director

Curriculum is on the move in Lynnfield with noticeable changes in various areas. This past year many significant changes have taken place both during the school year and the summer months.

In order to assure that genuine educational needs are identified for study and action, all staff members are asked to submit suggestions for improving the quality of instruction provided to our pupils. The Curriculum Council (approximately thirty members of the staff) evaluates these suggestions and decides what are the critical needs concerning the improvement of curriculum, and then there is further review by the administration. Some thirty-three staff members spent from two to six weeks, depending on the scope of the task, working in the following subject areas:

1) Health Education — Grades 1-12
   Special Emphasis: (a) Upper elementary grades (b) New Grade 10 Health Education Course
2) Media Center Modules (elementary grades) — Japan; Man's Basic Needs; Ecology
3) New Latin I Program — (IPI - Individually Prescribed Instruction) (Junior & Senior High Schools)
4) High School Biology — Team Teaching
5) Junior High School Metal Technology Projects
6) New Reading Program — Grades 10-12
7) Development of World Cultures I & II Programs (Junior and Senior High Schools)
8) Audio Visual — Development of materials for all workshops
9) Preparation of original materials for Junior High French Program
10) High School United States History — Team Teaching
11) Development of course on Environmental Science for the general students at the Junior High School
12) Two workshops for the High School Evaluation Program were completed: (a) Philosophy and Objectives (b) School and Community

In-service workshops have been very popular with the teachers during the past school year. Most of the workshops carry two (2) in-service credits and run for a period of ten sessions. The instructors or directors of the various programs come from within our own school system. The programs listed below were given during 1970:

1) Audio Visual Course —Instructor, Mr. Robert Cox - 10 teachers
2) Differential Calculus — Instructor, Mr. Robert Chalmers - 12 teachers
3) Reading Workshop (grades 4-6) — Instructor, Mrs. Frances Carpenter - 12 teachers
4) Introduction to Film Making and Video Tape Recording — Director, Mr. George Caswell - 20 teachers (all grade levels)

Another area of high interest that has been developed with great enthusiasm these past few months is the Lynnfield High School Student Aides for elementary pupils. To date, twelve high school students have agreed to work a half hour each week at the end of the school day at one of the elementary schools. The Latin Club (Advisor, Mr. John O'Rourke) was the first group to show interest in this project and now the LFTA (Lynnfield Future Teachers of America — Advisor, Mr. Stanley Robinson) are also involved. Mrs. Evelyn Knowlson, Learning Disabilities Specialist, is in charge of the program and works closely with the principals and teachers. Beginning in January 1971, thirty high school students have signed up to work with elementary pupils in various ways in the classroom, media center, specialist rooms, gym, outdoors, or anywhere that is convenient within the building. The main idea of the program is to have students show interest in helping other students, and all of us who are concerned with this program are very pleased to see this inter-action and feel that this is a most positive step in humanizing the school.

At the present time a Report Card Committee is trying to put together final material that will change some of the reporting procedures in the elementary grades. The Committee (12 teachers and 2 administrators) has talked to students, teachers, administrators, and a group of parents in order to get a complete picture of the present day understanding of reporting pupil progress. It is hoped that a one week summer workshop will pull together the complete results for a final report.

It was interesting to receive so many favorable and complimentary remarks on the booklet, Recreational and Cultural Facilities Near Lynnfield, which was sent home to parents before school closed in June. The main purpose behind this thirty-five page booklet was to direct families to educational facilities within easy reach of the North Shore. It is my firm conviction that the family which travels to places together (by foot, car, boat, airplane, ski-mobile, trailer, horseback, train, or you-name-it) has a better chance of enjoying the rich rewards of life experiences which can never be achieved in any other way. Educational opportunities are all around us and school experiences are only a small part of everyday living that students should enjoy. Please feel free to call my office (334-4305) to discuss any curriculum opportunities that you feel the students of Lynnfield would find useful in preparing for the exciting life that is ahead for them.

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Stanley I. Robinson, Principal

The year 1970 marks the tenth anniversary of the first class to graduate from Lynnfield High School. The Class of 1960 had 119 graduates and the Class of 1970 numbered 204. These two factors have been very influential in determining the character of Lynnfield High. In brief, we have an institution which has had to accommodate rapid growth while dealing with all those problems that accompany a new enterprise.

Coincidentally, 1970 also marks the initiation of Lynnfield High School's second evaluation, a process each member of the New England Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges must undergo every ten years. The evaluation determines whether or not an institution maintains its accreditation.

This tenth anniversary and the impending evaluation have caused us to look at Lynnfield High for the purpose of identifying its unique characteristics, its present educational program, and its future role.

Being only ten years old, Lynnfield High has not yet generated an influential alumni. Its oldest graduates are not yet 30. Old grads who return to the Thanksgiving football game are cheering younger brothers or former teammates, not sons and grandsons.

Traditions are shallow rooted at best, subject to change with little justification, and any innovation may become the custom for generations of students.

In ten years, Lynnfield High has had six principals. Each brought inevitable changes to the school. To say the least, frequent changes of leadership have prevented establishment of dull routine or static programs. On the other hand, the positive contributions of stability and organization have been lacking.

As the new high school wavered under diverse leadership, a double session, and a change of buildings, its enrollment was constantly on the increase as were its faculty, course offerings, and student activities.

Lynnfield's geography plus the planning of its town officials early set a pattern for the development of the community as an attractive residential suburb. The transition from a rural town at the major crossroads of northeastern Massachusetts to a thoughtfully zoned community of private homes continued to be significant during the past decade. The community, as the High School, gained maturity and that sense of security which passing years provide.

Lynnfield has attracted residents who for the most part have been successful in their endeavors. They appreciate and expect quality services from their institutions. Few citizens of Lynnfield can claim to be old-timers and typically the new-comers have apprehensions about establishing a home and raising a family in unfamiliar surroundings.

When the school as well as the student are both "new to the town" anxiety about education is bound to characterize the parent.

Now, in 1970, there are many indications that Lynnfield High School students and their families are beginning to feel at home with their school. Traditions are developing. Many activities are becoming routine. Policies need less interpretation. Fewer concerns are expressed about the capability of our relatively young faculty, the quality of our program, and the success of our graduates.

This does not mean that complacency has replaced concern. In fact, time has contributed to more cooperation and better understanding between townspeople and the High School. Residents of Lynnfield continue to expect and support an educational program marked by excellence. The High School continues to review, revise and build its program.

In 1970, the curriculum was expanded by inclusion of new courses in Health, Education, Reading and Crafts. Several new features were incorporated in the program design as a computer was utilized for the first time for scheduling. Emphasis was placed on general improvement of communications among parents, students, faculty, and administration. Students became more involved in a contributory way in developing school programs. A major factor in bringing about a number of these changes was the opportunity for the High School to focus more attention on the instructional program and less on the operational problems.

Lynnfield High School does not recognize its first ten years as the culmination of development. In fact, 1970 marked the adoption of a new Statement of Philosophy which reads in part:

> "Lynnfield High School recognizes the importance of a dynamic school environment. A static program cannot meet the needs of a changing society. Lynnfield High School places premium value on adaptability, experimentation, initiative, and innovation, acknowledging these characteristics to be essential to a developing educational program."

As we look forward to 1971, we anticipate the excitement of planning a building addition with a corresponding reorganization of grades. This eventuality involves consideration of such contemporary educational concepts as "open campus," performance contracts, flexible-modular scheduling, mini-courses, work-study programs, and all of those educational techniques being made possible through technical advances in computers and audio-visual equipment.

Lynnfield High School's next decade can only be promising if the experience of its first ten years is any indication of the dedication of its citizens and teachers to provide the best possible education for Lynnfield's young people.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Leonard Nihan, Principal

The Junior High School ended the year 1970 with its most successful football season. My yardstick for success doesn't measure wins and losses; it does measure the large number of boys who went out for the sport, stayed the entire season, and had a number of opportunities to perform with their peers and before their families and friends. This marked increase in student participation can be attributed to Head Coach Rudy Morin and Assistant Coach Garland Johnson who scheduled six additional "B" games for the second, third and fourth teams. If we add soccer to our offerings next year, as we hope to, I expect an even higher percentage of participation on the part of the student body. The oft-leveled criticism of athletic programs as being a large expenditure of funds for a very few talented athletes is not the case at Lynnfield Junior High School.

One L.J.H.S. team that receives no publicity includes among its members Norma Brettell, David Dodwell, Toby Holmes, Barbara Bourque, Richard Jones, Laurie Knapp, Gardis Meergans, Tom Mees, Mary Ryan, Jay Sacks, Peter Santeusanio, Joyce Smith, and Alice Winn. All are members of the Math Team which competes with students from Marblehead, Swampscott, Wenham, Hamilton, and Danvers. These gladiators of the slide rule fight in the arenas of word problems, algebra, and geometry.

B. Another committee spent several weeks this summer preparing supplementary materials to reinforce and expand some of the concepts which include aural-oral, exploratory and visual methods. Among the materials developed are word puzzles for each chapter of a new book, Le Francais: Commencons, and pictures and words backed with felt to illustrate the vocabulary through use of felt boards. New film strips were reviewed and a complete set of tapes was studied for use in the language laboratory.

C. A final workshop was the development of an entirely new course, "Environmental Science," for the ninth grade students who are not planning to "go on" after graduation from high school. This course is designed to provide stimulation for these students and bring to them a knowledge that science is important and does touch their everyday life. Biology, chemistry, physical science, and physics are presented in a way that is easy to digest and fun to experience. The aim of the course is to provide the student with a certain amount of useful factual material and enjoyment and, equally important, a place where the general student will experience success.

We continue to have a very minor problem with "stealing" and a relatively major problem with a "credibility gap." Both girls and boys have learned that Mother or Father can be quite critical when informed that a book, a gym suit, or a sweater has been lost or carelessly misplaced but are often sympathetic or at least understanding when told that someone has stolen the book or sweater. As a consequence, we have several hundred "stolen" books found about the building by custodians each year, and the gym teachers have so many "stolen" sneakers, towels, and gym suits that even after special "lost and found days" the storage closets are packed. A parental suggestion to progeny to visit "lost and found" could save a few dollars.

Summer workshops continue to be the principal vehicle for up-dating and improving curriculum at Lynnfield Junior High School. Among these:

A. A committee worked on a program that is presenting Latin grammar through an analysis of the similarities and differences between English and Latin with the purpose of improving the student's knowledge of his native language.

SOUTH SCHOOL

Richard C. Cogan, Principal

As in past years, there have been new programs and activities at South School which we believe have enabled us to improve our service to the children. Last summer, South School was the center for a federally funded Title I program for kindergarten and primary age children. The program included youngsters who had never attended school, children from private kindergartens, and boys and girls from the public and parochial schools.

One aim of the program was to provide a kindergarten experience for educationally deprived children, and others if room permitted. We did not have to turn down any applicants. We were able to provide a varied program which included instruction in the skills for readiness in reading and mathematics. At the primary level the Title I program helped children with histories of difficulties in school; they received individualized instruction in mathematics, and reading.

The primary and kindergarten children shared experiences in art, language arts, reading and wood working. Both groups took at least one field trip a week to places as varied as Crane's Beach and the Museum of Fine Arts. Both groups reported their activities in art and writing.

A final aspect of the program was to help all the youngsters become more confident and more self-reliant. All the boys and girls were given many choices as to how they would spend their time. Older children helped younger children with their work. Some of the primary children acted as teacher aides in the kindergarten. We found that both groups responded to the trust we placed in them and that after about one week of the program most of the children couldn't wait to come to school because they were so eager to get to work on tasks they had helped plan themselves. At the end of the summer the staff and the boys and girls all felt that the six weeks had been well spent and that both teachers and children had learned much.

An important change at South School this year was the introduction of the "Process Approach" science materials which were developed under a grant from the National Science Foundation. The program is an effort to teach youngsters to think and act as scientists rather than to learn subject matter. Each activity involves all the children in the class in a physical activity. Each activity forces the children to observe and discuss their observations. The teacher doesn't tell the children answers; instead she structures the activity so that they can decide answers for themselves. We find that the children are learning to think scientifically and that all of them do become involved in the lesson.

One of the more interesting changes at South School has been the introduction of technology into primary education. On entering a classroom one might find the teacher working with one group of children on a reading lesson; another group might be listening through earphones to a taped phonics lesson and writing answers to questions asked by a taped voice. One or two children might be reading a story on a film strip. Still another child might be working with cards made by his teacher, putting them into a machine that shows a word written on the card and saying the word aloud as he looks at it. Finally, children in another group might be listening to a recorded story while they read the book to themselves. The rest of the class would be working on reading workbook pages or playing phonics or mathematics games which the teacher had designed. Later the class might watch a television program in the areas of music, language arts, or social studies. The above activities require real responsibility on the part of the children and careful planning by the teacher. While the new technology has enabled the teacher to individualize learning and eliminate wasted time, it also requires the teacher to know the content of many kinds of materials and to constantly evaluate the way the children use them.

The Parent Teachers Association has again made a valuable contribution to the education of the children of South School. With the guidance of Miss Bishop, our media specialist, the Parent Teachers Association mothers have opened the library for five mornings a week (last year it was open three mornings). The children may come to the library whenever they have finished a book, even in the afternoon when the mothers have left. A recent count showed that over five hundred books a week are circulating; this is more than two books per child.

The South School carnival was a great success last June in spite of the rain. The second graders presented original puppet shows with taped scripts. The Parent Teachers Association has used the profits to purchase a book cart for the library.

We feel that the changes made this year have significantly improved our service to the children and look forward to next year as one in which we will continuously re-evaluate and reform our programs to better meet the needs of the children.

SUMMER STREET SCHOOL

George E. Caswell, Principal

The Summer Street School continued as an intermediate grade school this past year, housing third, fourth, fifth, and sixth grade children from the Center, with the exception of children living in the Pillings Pond and King James Grants areas (children in grades four through six in these areas are transported to Huckleberry Hill School to help equalize classroom enrollments). Staff changes were minimal as we replaced but one third grade teacher and one sixth grade teacher. In addition to the individual classroom teachers, staff requirements include the principal, media specialist, secretary, two custodians, four kitchen workers, and two school aides. Shared with other schools are a nurse, guidance counselor, and specialists in reading, language disabilities, speech therapy, music, physical education, and art.

We have had a full year using our new facilities provided by the townspeople when they authorized an addition of six classrooms, a media center, and a gymnasium. This building expansion modernized our plant and stimulated teachers and students to work in new ways in the various curriculum areas. Exposure to films, filmstrips, records, tapes, slides, television, school trips, lectures, resource people and to multiple books has helped many children learn the most mature and exciting ideas they are capable of understanding. At a time when some critics of the public schools are calling the schools "oppressive" and "grim," when the curriculum is described as "banal" and "trivial," and when teachers and students are supposedly "victimized by the system," it is refreshing to view the many kinds of independent and group work children are doing in the media center and in the classrooms. The media specialist continues in her supportive role, working closely with teachers and pupils to help them locate materials and resources, to suggest better ways of using resources, and to help in obtaining needed new materials that cater to curriculum guides or to special student interests.

Many parents have continued to help our school in a variety of ways. We value the service provided by those working in our media center and the inspiration engendered by resource persons who have helped in a number of classroom units of work. The Parent Teacher Association serves as our prime vehicle for communication with the public on educational objectives, while continuing to serve youth by sponsoring Cub Scout Pack 52, to offer twelve weeks of art classes in the winter months, and to help recruit children interested in the Youth Symphony Concerts.

Several of our teachers are enrolled in a workshop which is introducing the elements of film-making, slide-tape presentation, and video-recording; techniques which are important today as we attempt to make better use of educational technology. Other members of our staff are participating in a reading workshop conducted by Mrs. Frances Carpenter, reading consultant for Lynnfield. Still another group of our teachers is investigating ways to report pupil progress to parents, ways which truly reflect the concern about children as individuals with differing patterns of growth.

As we attempt to improve our school environment and our school offerings on a broad scale, we continually remind ourselves that the individual child is our starting and our end point. Encouragement from parents and pupils, coupled with continued financial and other support from public-minded citizens of our town, will enable us to meet these important human and educational objectives.

CENTER SCHOOL

Dr. Nancy C. Santeusanio, Principal

The Center School currently operates in a 1-2 grade configuration, housing five first grade classrooms and five second grade classrooms. However, the rooms themselves reflect only part of the area where pupils work and live. As school philosophy changes, more and more children work independently or in small groups outside of the classroom. If you were to walk through the building, you would see pupils working in the halls, in the media center, or in the all-purpose room.

The theme is involvement—people learning through active participation. Teachers plan each learning situation so that children are responding actively, because then, and only then, is a message sent to the brain which demands a response on the part of the learner as opposed to the passive learner who sits, listens, and raises his hand, hopefully to be called upon to answer a question. However, in a traditional classroom of twenty-five pupils which utilizes much "take your turn" reciting rather than every-pupil response techniques, his chances of responding are only one out of twenty-five!

At Center School the primary concern is to increase the amount and quality of learning—in other words, to obtain more and better learning per hour of instruction. The school climate permits much interaction and acknowledges the desire of pupils to work together and to move about the building freely. Often the question is asked, "But what about noise?" Working noise pervades the building. But working noise seldom bothers pupils or teachers. Teachers and student teachers move among groups giving individual assistance and very often providing direct instruction to small groups of children at the point when it is needed.

The program is reinforced by a strong back-up team consisting of school aides and a number of outstanding volunteers who work behind the scenes in the preparation of materials. The volunteer teacher aide program was initiated at Center School in 1967 under the direction of Mrs. William Mosher and still continues to function as an integral part of the school.

In a technological age more and more emphasis is being placed on media in the classroom. Individual filmstrip previewers, tape recorders, and record players have become part of the classroom. It is not unusual to see a group of children equipped with headsets sitting at the tape recorder. They might be listening to a prerecorded teaching tape, following directions on the tape, and completing a study guide. Once again this is an active learning experience stimulating the children to participate as they listen.

Another group might be improving their oral reading as they listen to a play on the record player and, line by line, "echo" the voice on the record. After listening to the play, recorded on a 12-inch longplay record, the children hear the lines of the play read separately as they follow in the printed text; and then echo the dramatic expression.

The second grade social studies program does an in-depth study of three different types of communities—rural, suburban and urban. Under a grant from the U.S. Office of Education, the Boston Children's Museum developed a self-contained multi-media kit entitled "The City." Recently the Center School purchased this kit so that it operates on a rotating basis among the second grade classrooms. The MATCH Box (Materials and Activities for Teachers and Children) primarily consists of real objects combined with films, pictures, recordings, models, maps, and books. This material, accompanied by teacher-planned activities, provides for in-depth study and involvement in order that children will learn that the city, any city, is a product of many forces. The MATCH Unit is not planned to teach specific facts about cities, but rather is planned to emphasize characteristics about cities.

One of the most popular places in the building continues to be the school's media center. Children are free to go down to the center, browse through hundreds and hundreds of books, use a wide range of cassettes and view an increasing number of filmloops. This very inviting center has been enhanced by newly intalled carpeting and draperies. The operation of the center is under the direction of Miss Patricia Banks with Mrs. Henry Flickinger serving as coordinator of volunteer services.

But the key to the success of the entire program at Center School is the teacher; the teacher with a team of people cooperating and working with her to provide a climate for helping children to learn how to learn, and, as a counterpart, a school system which offers the opportunity to purchase worthwhile materials for good teachers to use in developing a total school program.

HUCKLEBERRY HILL SCHOOL

Charles A. Wolski, Principal

What's new at Huckleberry Hill School? Modern Math is permanently entrenched; the linguistic approach to language is three years old; a new science program begun in grade one has not yet reached our lowest grade level; Social Studies is being considered for revision. A new basal and enrichment program has been launched this year as a result of faculty study and recommendation. Much of what is new at our school is not in curriculum change but in our approach to teaching and learning.

There has been some change in school organization. As the staff sees it, the ideal organizational pattern should comprise at least these components:

Our reading emphasizes the continuous progress plan. By continuous progress, we mean that a child will have those curriculum experiences for which he is ready—experiences or lessons which flow naturally and comfortably in sequence. This is done very well in the areas of reading and spelling; it needs to be done in the area of mathematics.

In the intermediate grades the completely self-contained classroom has been abandoned. Here at Huckleberry we change classes for reading and mathematics; specialists teach art, gym, and music. In addition, library techniques, motivation, and inspiration for reading, as well as research skills, are taught by the media specialists. The remainder of the subjects are taught in the homeroom.

This we feel is a good arrangement. We give the child an opportunity to change his environment during the course of a school day. Such an arrangement makes it possible for a series of interactions within the school. If children are to make sense out of life, they must associate with each other; they need to interact with various adult personalities. Adults are models for children and the more models the better. On the other hand, it is much better for a child to be viewed by a team of professionals than just one teacher. Sharing of insights by a group of teachers enables a more complete and valid picture of the child to emerge in the minds of the staff.

The next component of our organizational pattern has to do with the kinds of pupil membership that we arrange within the classroom or groups. Research and experience have found that homogeneous, or ability, grouping can sometimes become a detriment to certain pupils if implemented too rigidly or permanently. Yet, we do know that children sometimes need to be in association with children who are tuned in on a similar wave length and with whom they can compete. We hopefully fulfill these needs of children by having ability grouping in reading and mathematics, and heterogeneous grouping in science and social studies. In two skill subjects children work according to ability, whereas in other subject areas which are social in nature the bright stimulate and learn to lead while the weaker students have a model or a standard to follow.

The next component does not deal with children but with teachers. We attempt to achieve some kind of staff collaboration or co-operative teaching. Teachers need to have the opportunity to communicate with adults who are of their profession. They need to share their talents. They need to learn from one another. This sharing we call co-operative teaching. Why should five teachers at a given grade level develop the same unit in science? Wouldn't it be better if each teacher developed a different unit of study and shared it with his colleagues?

Another change which is gradually occurring can be attributed to our Media Center. The Center has greatly modified the approach to teaching and learning. The library skills program is emphasized in grades three and four. Students at the third grade level receive formal skills instruction introducing them to the media facilities. Our purpose is to emphasize books and materials, and to motivate for reading through story hours, films on favorite stories, introduction of classic stories and famous authors.

The third grade program is continued in grade four with introduction to simple research techniques toward the end of the school year.

In grade five, formal research techniques are developed and stressed whereas in grade six, these research skills are refined.

Certainly, the excellent collection of audio-visual materials is improving and enriching instruction.

Here in the elementary school, the bases for present and future learning are established. Here the elementary child forms his attitude toward learning and toward himself as a learner—attitudes that will deeply affect his present studies and future development.

SECONDARY GUIDANCE

William J. Coughlin, Director

Guidance personnel must be concerned with the educational and economic changes in our society, so swiftly do these variables affect the students in high school. Rapid media communication causes the thought of yesterday to become the reality of today. Never before in education has there been so much change in so short a time.

What has happened in the past year that affects our students in Lynnfield? Primarily, there is an input to our educational process which seems to be directing that it is not the number of years we study in a school building but rather what skills and value we derive from our experience. For a long time in high school we have been concerned with generally preparing students for education beyond high school, and thus delaying many of the saleable skills that our economy requires.

Emphasis has been on how many years we could spend in education and what degrees could be amassed so that our worth when entering the job market would be impressive. Now business seems to be saying what can you produce rather than how many years have you stayed in school. Or, in another sense, it is your total experience level that counts not your educational level of competence measured solely by years in school.

General education has long been a forte of secondary educational strength but technical, commercial, and practical job skills are now being stressed as being desirable products of a high school education. Perhaps we can interpret this as being a change in thought away from the tradition of twelve years of education to an education that consists of quality, content, and meaning, no matter the length.

Relating these changes to students is the function of the guidance counselor so that our students may be ready to meet the future with a good understanding of their role in society. Besides their duties in counseling, placement, follow-up, occupational information, and testing, counselors must be aware of change so that our high school graduates will be better prepared for entrance into the job market. Change not only is inevitable but also nearer than we might like to think.

AUDIO VISUAL EDUCATION

Robert A. Cox, Coordinator

This year our emphasis has been to continue to provide quality service to our staff. Probably the greatest accomplishment of this department is the increased use and awareness of audio and visual materials and the roles that they can play in assisting the teacher in developing concepts.

Our long range plans call for the establishment of multimedia centers at each school. Huckleberry Hill and Summer Street Schools are complete; South and Center and Junior High are in transition, partially supplied with the necessary equipment and materials; and plans are formed to include a similar complex as part of the Senior High School addition. Such creation of centers can be costly and, recognizing this, we are phasing into them slowly.

Joint planning has been underway with the Senior High School librarian for the General Learning Center and Audiovisual Production Center for the proposed new addition. To correct a weakness in the program, we are both concentrating on providing more effective service to the student as well as to the teaching staff.

The newest innovation introduced this year is videotape recording for later playback and live programming. Interest has sharply increased at all levels but mostly at the secondary level. Programs of value are off-air videotaped and later played back whenever needed as part of the classroom instruction. Live programs are planned, rehearsed, and videotaped. They are then available for later use in the classroom. As this part of the program, video, proves itself further expansion will be considered.

SCHOOL HEALTH PROGRAM

Mrs. Priscilla Burnham, R.N., Coordinator

The school Health Program has two primary objectives; health appraisal of each student and health education. Health appraisal includes all the screening programs conducted by the school nurses and the school physician such as hearing and vision tests, skin test for tuberculosis, and physical examinations, to mention a few. The school nurses bring health education into the classroom in the form of resource material such as models, lectures, films, demonstrations, etc. These serve to reinforce the health unit the classroom teacher is presenting.

In addition to providing appraisal and educational programs, the school nurses have had a busy year in the first-aid rooms. This past year over 7600 first-aid and illness cases have been treated; over 900 of those treated were from our teaching staff.

Two new programs were added to the school health services this past year, a Dental Educational Program and a Rubella Clinic for German Measles.

In February, Dr. Michael Rowan, a dentist in Marblehead interested in dental education, sponsored and organized dental health lectures involving the local dentists in many North Shore Communities. In Lynnfield, all third graders enjoyed a dental health talk and demonstration by Dr. Devaney, Dr. Gerard, Dr. Skreslet and Dr. Mahoney. The awareness of good dental hygiene has been manifested by the increasing percentage of dental certificates returned to the school nurses.

In April, a clinic for the administration of the German Measles Vaccine was conducted by Dr. Charles Worthen, the school physician and Dr. George Robinson, director of Public Health. This vaccine was offered by the State, free of charge, to all students in grades one through three. A total of 567 students received the vaccine out of a potential of 700.

In January 1971, the eleventh grade will be added to the skin testing program for tuberculosis. At present this program is offered to grades 1-4-9 and the special classes. The school system wishes to thank Mrs. Jean Taylor, public health nurse, for her interest and help in obtaining these vaccines from the State.

This fall representatives from Malden Hospital School of Nursing, New England Deaconess Hospital, Salem Hospital School of Nursing and the Health Careers Mobile Unit have met with students at the High School who were interested in nursing or one of its many allied fields. Mrs. Cole, the High School nurse, expresses disappointment in finding so few young people interested in medical careers.
